Richard Lundy of East Jordan recently received a $1,000 scholarship from the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge, #282. Five hundred dollars of the scholarship was derived from interest from a fund set up by the East Jordan Masons prior to their merger with the Charlevoix Masons. The remaining $500 came from a matching fund of the Grand Lodge of Michigan Masons. Presenting the scholarship were Richard Foster, master of the Charlevoix Lodge, Keith Annear and Don Bowers. Lundy plans to attend Western Michigan University.

Jeffrey J. DeVries graduated from Chapman University in Irvine, California on May 29, 1994 with a Bachelor of Science degree. He has accepted a position with First Interstate Bank of California working in the investment division. DeVries is a 1984 graduate of Charlevoix High School. He is the son of Bernice and Toni DeVries. He and his wife, Eden, reside in Redondo Beach, California.

...teaching the skills needed for taking the MEAP test

gardi, is that schools have been forced to throw out excessive math exercises. They no longer belabor long division or huge multiplication problems. "It's more important to be able to estimate. The new school of thought deals with more of the abstract reasoning in math," Stargardt said. Students will solve story problems and estimate answers on the MEAP. Those skills are more closely related to the math skills they'll need in everyday life.

On the other hand, the MEAP might not test math skills that are still taught in Charlevoix. Stargardt gave the example of teaching coin values and making change. "If we only taught the MEAP objectives, it would be a very sterile environment," he said.

VanGuilder has concerns about schools teaching only MEAP objectives. "Are we being forced to go back to the basics, just reading, writing, and arithmetic? What's needed is a well rounded curriculum, with music, fine arts, and life management classes. It's becoming a question of how are we going to spend our resources," Van Guilder said.

Over in the fourth grade, Chew takes it all in stride and keeps moving forward. She reviews MEAP objectives with her students, but not to any great length. "We feel that if the kids are getting good curriculum in the early grades, it should cover what they need to know," she said. Fourth graders have traditionally fared better on the MEAP than seventh and tenth graders. Chew does put class work in the MEAP test format so her students are familiar with the test style. Beyond that, Chew said, "We're trying to move ahead with fourth grade curriculum. We can't take a whole month and focus on the MEAP test. There just isn't time with the way curriculum is moving onward and upward."

Introducing the SureGrowth CD

We call it the SureGrowth CD, because it has one feature the others don't: guaranteed growth. That means the longer you stick with it, the higher the interest rate we pay ... and the more your earnings grow. And not only that ... you can enjoy your earnings when you want.

It works like this: Every six months during the two year term, your interest rate goes up. Guaranteed. Leave your money in a SureGrowth CD* for six months, and you'll have earned a good rate. Leave your money in for a year, and you'll have earned an even better one. Hang on for the whole two years, and ... well, look at the way your interest rate grows!

4.55%	5.06%	5.57%	7.12%
APY	APY	APY	APY
1st six months	2nd six months	3rd six months	4th six months

Give us a call or drop by any CB office and open your SureGrowth CD today. Because, after all, what's the main thing you want out of a CD? Sure, growth.

*ANNUAL PERCENTAGE YIELD (APY) FOR THE TERM OF THE SUREGROWTH CD IS 5.5% AND IS GOOD THROUGH SEPTEMBER 30, 1994. AT EACH SIX MONTH ANNUAL RENEWAL OF THE DATE YOU OPEN YOUR SUREGROWTH CD, YOU HAVE 10 DAYS TO WITHDRAW WITHOUT PENALTY WITHDRAWAL OF FUNDS AT OTHER TIMES MAY BE PENALIZED. $500 MINIMUM BALANCE REQUIRED. vided by Christine Dillon and Lori Maue, who sang a medley of songs. Steve Stargardt accompanied them on piano.

The maid of honor was Lena M. Risteau of Central Lake. June Izzo of Houghton Lake Hts. was the bridesmaid. They wore white scoop neck suits with gold knot buttons and white hats with pink bows. Their flowers were long stemmed pink roses with trailing ribbons and ivy.

The flower girl was Katherine Dillon-Gambill, daughter of the bride.

Ring bearer was Paul Williams of Central Lake.

Groomsman was Doug Gregory of Charlevoix. Ushers were Dan Skzechkoski of Charlevoix, and Henry Gambill III of Pacific Palisades, CA.

A reception was held in the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix, given by the bride and groom. The band, "True Blue," of Traverse City provided music.

Jean Milligan of Charlevoix and Stafford, Texas, cut the cake.

The groom is a self employed engineer and the bride is employed at Ward Brothers Marina in Charlevoix.

Patricia Ann Dillon of Charlevoix and Charles Hudson Butcher, Jr., of Charlevoix, were married in an afternoon garden wedding on August 13.

The bride is the daughter of Alice Sherwood of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of the late Alice McDonald of Charlevoix.

The bride was given in marriage and escorted down the aisle by her daughters Katherine Dillon-Gambill and Christine Dillon, both of California.

A single ring service was performed by Janet Potter, Justice of the Peace.

A brass arch decorated with pink and white roses and ivy brass flower stands on either side of the arch with baskets of roses decorated the home.

The bride wore a pale pink brocade suit trimmed with pearls, sequins, and white lace edging. She wore a white renaissance hat with a veil.

The bride carried white and pink roses with baby's breath and trailing ivy.

Oct. 1 walk will raise funds for breast cancer research

The Michigan Division of the American Cancer Society and communities across the state are teaming up in the fight against breast cancer. Saturday Oct. 1, the American Cancer Society will host America's Challenge: Uniting Against Breast Cancer in the form of runs, walks, relays and rallies statewide.

The Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk will take place Saturday Oct. 1, at 10 a.m. with registration at 9 a.m. This is a three-mile walk sponsored by the American Cancer Society to benefit breast cancer research. Sue DeYoung was a young mother of four and Charlevoix resident who died of breast cancer in 1992. It will begin at Michigan Beach in Charlevoix and travel out to the Medusa turn-around and back. Preregister by mail or register the day of the walk. The registration fee is $3. Registration forms and sponsor sheets are available at your local Chamber of Commerce or your local Glen's Market Store. Those collecting donations of $50 or more will receive a free T-Shirt. A Boyne USA Gold pass will be awarded to the top fundraiser. Immediately following the walk a reception will be held at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Refreshments will be provided by Stafford's Weathervane.

In 1994 an estimated 182,000 women will hear the diagnosis, "You have breast cancer," and 46,000 will die from it. Get a group together to raise donations and walk. If you can't participate in the walk, make a donation in memory of a special someone you may have lost to this terrible disease. The American Cancer Society is the nationwide community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education and service.

For further information call Julie Whitley at 547-2556.

Walk will honor the memory of Sue DeYoung

Sue DeYoung of Charlevoix was diagnosed as having breast cancer in September of 1990. She died in January of 1992, leaving her husband, and four children ranging in age from four to 22.

The Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk to raise money to fight breast cancer will take place Oct. 1 in Charlevoix. (See accompanying story.) Sandra Novotny, DeYoung's daughter, says her mother would be honored to know that the community is having the walk.

The walk is the latest act of kindness and concern shown by a community which has been supportive throughout the ordeal.

Between the time the cancer was detected and the time of her death, DeYoung had her breast removed and underwent chemotherapy for about a year. That treatment allowed her a six to nine-month period of time during which she resumed many of her normal activities.

Novotny said that during the time her mother had cancer the Charlevoix community was extremely supportive. She said that many people, and particularly members of the Community Reformed Church, were just unbelievable, helping in countless ways.

Novotny said members of DeYoung's family will be at the walk. "Anything to raise money for research would be real important to her and to people in general," Novotny said. "It's important to prevent it (breast cancer) or do something to prevent a family from having that kind of loss."

Gertrude I. Wagner

Gertrude I. Wagner, 71, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 14, 1994, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Her funeral was Saturday, Sept. 17, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Wagner was born May 15, 1923, in Adena, Ohio, the daughter of Anthony and Stella (Wojan) Kosewicz. She was raised in Cleveland, Ohio.

On June 10, 1942, she married Charles M. Wagner in Cleveland, and he survives. The couple made their home in Garfield Heights, Ohio, moving to Charlevoix in 1966.

Mrs. Wagner was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and the American Legion Auxiliary Leslie T. Shapton Unit No. 226, both in Charlevoix.

She enjoyed fishing, playing bingo and pinochle.

She is survived by her husband, Charles M., of Charlevoix; one daughter, Debra Ann Baker and her husband, Rick, of Charlevoix; two grandsons, Jaime and Matthew Baker, of Charlevoix; two brothers, Norman Kosewicz and his wife, Adelaide, and Alex Kosewicz and his wife, Doris, all of Garfield Heights, Ohio; two sisters, Alice Celaschi of Avon, Ohio, and Wanda Engler of Parma, Ohio; her mother, Stella Kosewicz of Parma, Ohio; and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Alzheimer's Disease Foundation Support Group, 453 E. Lake St., Petoskey, Mich. 49770.

Elvira Claire Supernaw

Elvira Claire Supernaw, 73, wife of Henry P. Supernaw, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 16, 1994, at her home in Charlevoix.

Funeral Mass was Sept. 19, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Supernaw was born Feb. 3, 1921, on Beaver Island, the daughter of Francis and Mary Ann (Boyle) Gillespie. She was salutatorian of Beaver Island High School Class of 1937, and moved to Charlevoix later that year.

She married Henry P. "Supie" Supernaw on Jan. 6, 1940, in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Supernaw was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and St. Mary's Altar Society.

She worked at the Argonne Supper Club and Grey Gables Inn in Charlevoix as a waitress for many years.

Survivors include her husband; four daughters, Mary Janice O'Brien and her husband, Don, Arlene Grace Blissett and her husband, Terry, and Julie Supernaw, all of Charlevoix, and Linda Ann Warner and her husband, Dennis, of Swartz Creek; one son, William J. Supernaw of Charlevoix; eight grandchildren, Don O'Brien and his wife, Heather, and John O'Brien and his wife, Jennifer, Tricia, Travis and Becky Blissett, Christopher and Lindsey Warner, and Jennifer Supernaw; two brothers, Norman "Speck" Gillespie of Gaylord, and Jewell Gillespie of Beaver Island; two sisters, Grace Cole of Beaver Island, and Lucille Osborne of Williamsburg, Iowa. Mrs. Supernaw was preceded in death by a son, Robert Allen, in 1945; by two sisters, Consuelia Left and Dolores Pischner; and by two brothers, John and Gerard Gillespie.

Memorial contributions may be made to The Family of Kathy Gillespie Maudrie, in care of Marilyn Joy, Charlevoix State Bank, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720; or to Respiratory Therapy at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

It was so pretty over the weekend that we decided to have a Sunday night campfire. As we were sitting in the woods enjoying the changing colors of a gorgeous sunset, we heard them coming. It was almost as if they were talking to each other as they honked our way. A huge flock of geese skimmed the tree tops just barely over our heads. They were so close. You could almost reach out and touch their white bellies.

You wonder what they do honk about.
"Close up the formation. You're making it hard on the rest of us."
"Hey boss, haven't we been flapping long enough? That pond looks like a great place to stop."

"I sure am glad it ain't hunting season yet!"
Anyone who has a problem knowing or seeing God ought to really open their eyes at this time of year. The geese just seem to know when it's time to pull together and head south. The trees begin a subtle change from summer green to autumnal red and gold. The squirrels get serious about stashing away all the acorns they can find. Even the deer are getting more and more restless.

A classic hymn of the church says, "This is my Father's world. The birds, their carols raise. From morning's bright to evening's light, declare their Maker's praise." We ought to take our cues from the world around us. Nature does know that God is at work and it bows in obedience to His loving care.

The sun is going down earlier and earlier. Sweaters are becoming the early morning order of the day. Walkers know that this is the sweetest time of year to really absorb the beauty that surrounds them. What about you?

We watched the flock cruise by our fire. The burning wood snapped and crackled. The brilliant orange sky gave way to the deep purples of the fast descending dusk. Soon the fire was more than a decoration. It was giving out warmth we needed and enjoyed. The first star made its debut in an ever deepening sky. I found myself wondering if this wasn't the kind of evening that stirred another writer's heart long ago.

"When I consider your heavens, the work of your fingers, the moon and the stars which you have set in place, what is man that you are mindful of him and the son of man that you care for him? You made him a little lower than the heavenly beings and crowned him with glory and honor."

About the moment that Psalm finished passing through my mind, another flock of geese came by almost as if creation itself was adding its own al-leluia to the joy I was feeling. "O Lord, our Lord, how majestic is your name in all the earth." Listen to your Father's world and enjoy.

Cantata rehearsals begin Sunday

The annual Community Christmas Cantata rehearsals begin Sunday, Sept. 25, 7 p.m., at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix at the corner of Oak and Meech Streets. This is a special invitation to community members who enjoy singing. There are no auditions. The only requirement is an approximate 12-week commitment- beginning Sunday, Sept. 25, and each Sunday evening until its presentation, scheduled Saturday Dec. 17, and Sunday, Dec. 18 at Community Reformed Church.

Directed by Cindy Mansen, this year's music is entitled "Heaven's Child" by Joseph Linn. The four sections celebrate Christ's coming, proclaim His arrival, rejoice in His salvation, and exalt Him as King. The full selections, 24 songs; a beautiful blend of the traditional, current favorites; and new songs; both powerful and practical. Sample titles: "While Shepherds Watched"; "For Unto Us"; "The First Noel"; "Who Is This Child?"; "His Name Is Life"; "Hallelujah Chorus"; "Gloria"; "Lift Up Your Eyes"; "Angles from the Realm of Glory"; "See That Baby"; "Emmanuel, Emmanuel."

If you would like additional information, or have any questions please call, after 5 p.m., 547-6862.

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of .292 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1994.

The hearing will be held on Wednesday, September 28, 1994 at 7:30 p.m. at Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, Commissioner's Room, 203 Antrim Street. Following the hearing the Board will take action on the proposed additional millage and establish the tax levies for 1994.

If adopted the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 5.19% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. If the proposed additional millage rate is not approved, the operating revenue will increase by 2.40% over the preceding year's operating revenue.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate of 5.9191.

BUSINESS

New tile business offers creativity with tiles

By Laurie Lounsbury

Tile is more than just a flooring surface to Richard Grosberg. "It's an art form, one of the older trades that still exists," Grosberg said. Grosberg and his wife Jo Ann recently opened a new business, Creative Tile, on Bridge Street. The business is a full sales and service operation for hard floor surfaces. Rick is able to offer tile at prices competitive to downstate businesses and offer installation at competitive prices too. Grosberg has been installing tile for years, so he won't need to subcontract the installation work. He plans to be involved with all installation jobs, regardless of the size of the job.

Since Grosberg considers tile an art form, he is particularly pleased when customers come in wanting to do something creative and unusual. "I like the challenge when people come up with really elaborate, complicated ideas," Grosberg said.

But that doesn't mean Grosberg thumbs his nose at smaller jobs. He's more than willing to re-grout a kitchen sink or replace a few bathroom tiles. "We're right up there with the big cities as far as technology and design styles, but we're small town as far as helping people who need two cups of grout to finish a tile job," Grosberg said.

Grosberg and his wife don't turn away do-it-yourselfers either. They're happy to do as much or as little as the customer wants. For customers or builders that want to do their own tile installation, Grosberg will make the tricky cuts for the customer. All the customer has to do is mark the tile and bring it in.

Along with free estimates, Grosberg dispenses free creative advice. As he shows a customer different tile samples, he suggests ways of cutting tiles on the diagonal to make triangle shapes for a different look.

The Grosbergs moved to Charlevoix four years ago with their four children. Rick took a job as a floor installer with Puff's in Petoskey. "We were looking for a reason to come up, it's so pretty here," Jo Ann said. After working a few years for other businesses, Grosberg decided the only way to really survive up north was to go into business for himself. So far, customer feedback has been positive. "People have said this is long overdue in the town," Jo Ann said.

Creative Tile is open Tuesday through Saturday, and will also make appointments with people at other times. For an appointment, call 547-1933.

Richard Grosberg stands in front of the new display racks at his business, Creative Tile. The business is located at 1207 Bridge Street, Charlevoix.

Police sharpen shooting skills

Sharp shooters ruled the day Saturday at the annual "Turkey Shoot" hosted by Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant, Burns International Security Services and the Charlevoix Police Department.

Winning the 1994 team title was the Big Rock Point/Burns International security force. The team was comprised of Duane Donaldson, Don Kleinschrodt, Mike Piper and Jeff Riley. Capturing second place was the Petoskey Post of the Michigan State Police (MSP). The Petoskey Police Department (PPD) came in third.

Doug Keiser of the PPD earned top individual honors by shooting a perfect score of 285. Brad Meyer of the MSP shot 284 for second place while Duane Donaldson of Burns captured third place with a score of 283.

Agencies participating in the Turkey Shoot fielded four-person teams equipped with department-issue sidearms. The competition tested shooting accuracy from different distances and positions while moving at various speeds. Awards were presented to the top three teams and the top individual score.

Rayder girls dominate Boyne City

With five seconds left in the first quarter and trailing 18-2, Boyne City prepared to take the ball inbounds from beneath the Charlevoix basket.

Throughout the quarter they'd had problems getting the ball over halfcourt within 10 seconds, if at all. Now they were supposed to get the ball clear down to the other end of the court and score within five seconds. What were the chances of that happening? Slim. Very slim.

Charlevoix's varsity girls' basketball team opened their conference schedule by pouncing Boyne City 76-40 Sept. 13. Charlevoix's press overwhelmed the Ramblers and the Rayders gave up only two points in the first quarter and only 11 in the first half. Offensively, junior Kris Blanchard led the Rayders with 20 points while Liz Grunch had 14 and Angela Buday had 11. All 12 players on the Rayder team scored.

Charlevoix's press completely shut down Boyne City in the first quarter. Liz Kelly, Jill Dreyer, Grunch and Buday picked off pass after pass and quickly converted the steals into points. Buday was anticipating the moves of the player she was guarding so well that the player found it nearly impossible even to get open enough to receive an inbounds pass. Frustrated at not being able to get around Buday, the player tried simply bulling through her, but found that didn't work very well either. Kelly got into early foul trouble so Rayder coach Joe Powers moved Blanchard to the top of the press. It was an interesting exchange in that it sacrificed some foot-speed, but gained some height. When Blanchard picked them up in the back court, the Boyne City guards found her long arms to be difficult to throw over, through or around. The errant passes were picked off by the Rayders' smaller, quicker players who often fed the ball back to Blanchard for quick baskets. Blanchard scored in streaks. She had six points in the final 1:30 of the first quarter and 10 points in the final 4:30 of the third quarter.

Grunch, who normally leads the Rayders in scoring, had a quiet 14 points and made two beautiful passes. Midway through the second quarter, Sheri Gels inbounded the ball which quickly ended up in Grunch's hands near the top of the key. Nobody picked up Gels when she stepped in bounds beneath the basket and Grunch hit her with a bullet for an easy two. In the third quarter Grunch drove from the high post on the left side. When two defenders collapsed on her, she deftly slipped the ball between them to Kelly who was sliding toward the basket.

Three other juniors played quite well off the bench. Jenny Swenor had seven points. Christie Kacyzynski had only two points, but particularly in the first half, played aggressively on defense and in the paint. Beth Norton's rebounding continues to be a pleasant surprise. The Rayders are at a height disadvantage against several of the teams they'll be playing this year. Consequently, rebounding is a concern. Norton isn't particularly tall, but in the Rayders' early games has been establishing and holding good rebounding position and then beating her opponents to the ball.

Sarah Riley and Mandy Belford led the Ramblers with 11 and 10 points.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 57-22. Freshman Lisa Parrish had 23 points and 14 rebounds while Amanda Eaton, also a freshman, had a dozen points.

Charlevoix won the freshman game 57-22 with Julie Gregory leading the Rayders with 10 points.

Jill Dreyer (14) looks for some room to operate during Charlevoix's 76-40 over Boyne City last week. Every Charlevoix player scored during the game while the Rayder defense held Boyne City to only two points in the first quarter. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Cross country teams win

The Charlevoix boys' cross country team can just keep their big ugly shadow to themselves. This year the Charlevoix girls' team is showing intentions of stepping out into the light.

For years the Rayder girls' team has labored in the shadow of a boys' program which has been a dominant force in Class C cross country. While the boys' team was winning numerous state titles, the girls' team was normally fielding one or two good runners, but lacking the depth to be among northern Michigan's top teams.

But early this season the girls' team is showing signs of stepping into the light. Saturday at the Ludington Invitational the Rayder boys took first overall and first in Class C while the Rayder girls took second overall and first in Class C.

The Rayder girls still have a strong front runner in senior Becca Chamberlain. But this year they also have several other runners who aren't running far behind number one. And three of them are underclassmen - sophomores Chelsea Gorkiewicz and Rachael Newcomb and freshman Candace Vandergriff. Lisa Hoadley has been rounding out the Rayder top five.

In Saturday's race at Ludington the Rayders placed first in Class C with a team total of 27 points while Shelby was second with 53 and Benzie Central third with 58. In the overall race, Charlevoix finished second with 116 points behind Fremont which had 63 points.

Individually, Chamberlain finished seventh overall and first in Class C with a time of 21:18. Gorkiewicz placed eighth overall and second in Class C with a time of 21:23. Other Rayders and their places in Class C and times were: Newcomb - 6, 22:42; Vandergriff - 8; Hoadley - 10, 23:21; Monica Browe - 17, 25:02; Kaylee Manker - 20, 25:24.

The Charlevoix boys' team won the overall title with 79 points followed by Fremont with 98, Benzie Central with 155 and East Jordan with 172. The Rayders won the Class C title with 32 points while Benzie Central was second with 62 points and East Jordan third with 63. Mike Bush led Charlevoix's effort, finishing first in Class C and second overall. Other Rayders and their Class C places and times were: Matt Dickinson - 4, 17:09; Chris LeButt - 6, 17:27; Justin Davis - 8, 17:36; James Conlan - 13, 18:00; Paul Henne - 20, 18:28; Brian Martinus - 22, 18:36.

Prognosticators fare better in week two

Lee Barta had one of the worst records of anyone submitting picks in the first week of the Courier football competition, but turned things around in week two and won the contest with a 9-1 mark.

Barta was one of four contestants to go 9-1. The others were Hugh Mayne, Tom Meggison and Corky Kavo. Barta guessed within five points on the tie-breaker game.

The Courier picks last week were 7-3. Wisconsin, UCLA and Philadelphia faltered, but the Lions' upset of Dallas was called here.

Here are the picks for this week: Charlevoix at Grayling. This one was close last year, but Charlevoix pulled it out. But last year the game was played at Charlevoix. This year it's at Grayling. Pick - Grayling.

East Jordan at Boyne City - East Jordan enters this game favored and should win, but it really wouldn't be that much of a surprise to see Boyne City win. Pick - East Jordan.

St. Ignace at Petoskey - Petoskey

Rayders lose 42-14

Charlevoix's varsity football team fell to 0-3 on the season with a 42-14 loss at Reed City Friday night. Reed City scored on its first play from the line of scrimmage and continued scoring on a fairly regular basis through the remainder of the game.

Charlevoix scored in the first quarter on an 11-yard pass from Jason Terryberry to Trevor Williams. The Rayders scored again in the fourth quarter, this time on a 5-yard pass from Mark Boss to Justin Gengle. Robbie Stradtner kicked both extra points.

Running back Jerry Duhart was a bright spot for the Rayder offense, picking up 143 yards on 10 carries. Two carries, one for 56 yards and the other for 63 yards, accounted for most of the 143 yards. Terryberry and Boss were a combined four of 10 in passing for a total of 50 yards.

For the Rayder defense, Travis Wood and Dan Harris each had seven tackles. Chuck Pop six, Stradtner and Casey Crain each had five tackles. Rory McKeown recovered a fumble.

Charlevoix is on the road again this Friday evening, traveling to Grayling for a non-league game.

has a good team this year. St. Ignace isn't bad, but they're young. Pick - Petoskey.

Colorado at Michigan - This should be a great game. Michigan has a brutal schedule, but fortunately is a good team. That receiver named Smith is quicker than lightning. He's going to have a good career. Pick - Michigan.

Miami of Ohio at Michigan State - In a random act of kindness the schedule makers have given Michigan State a week off after playing

Notre Dame. Pick - Michigan State.

University of Washington at Miami of Florida - Two weeks ago there were those who scoffed when the Courier picked the University of Washington over Ohio State. After Washington jumped out to a big lead early and held on to win, that scoffing died down. Yet, those same people would scoff again if the Courier picked Washington over Miami. Only this time it would be justified. Pick - Miami.

Denver at Buffalo - This may be the toughest game of the week to call. It would be easier if Bronco tight-end Shannon Sharp hadn't been injured a couple of weeks ago. Free agency has put some holes in Buffalo's offensive line. Pick - Denver.

New England at Detroit - The Lions may not always be among the best teams in football, but they're always among the most unpredictable. Pick - Detroit.

New Orleans at San Francisco -

If San Francisco hadn't been beaten by Kansas City two weeks ago, it would be tempting to pick an upset here. San Francisco has a banged-up offensive line and New Orleans still plays defense. Be that as it may, the Forty-Niners will still win. Pick - San Francisco.

Miami at Minnesota - As Detroit discovered, Minnesota has a great defensive line. But they won't make life too miserable for Marino. Soon we're going to start hearing talk about Shula and the Super Bowl. Pick - Miami.

ORDER TO ANSWER

On August 23, 1994, an action was filed by the above named Plaintiff, against the above named Defendants, in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to quiet title to real property situated in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, more specifically identified as follows:

In the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan; Beginning at an iron stake 16 rods East and 672.5 feet North of the Southwest corner of the Southeast Quarter of Section 27, T34N, R8W; thence East 99 feet to an iron stake; thence North 66 feet to an iron stake; thence West 99 feet to an iron stake; thence South 66 feet to the place of beginning; being a part of the Southwest Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 27, T34N, R8W.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the heirs of E.B. WARD (a/k/a EDWARD B. WARD), including ANNIE E. WARD and EDNA WARD, as above named, and any other heirs, successors, assigns, or others claiming thereunder, and any other parties claiming interest, shall answer or take such other action as may be permitted by law on or before:

October 19, 1994.

Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against Defendants for the relief demanded in the complaint.

PLEASE NOTE that a hearing will be held on:

at 2:15 p.m.

in the Circuit Courtroom of the Charlevoix County Building in Charlevoix, Michigan, in connection with this matter.

J.V. football team suffers first loss

Charlevoix's junior varsity football team got off to a slow start this past Thursday night and ended up taking its first loss of the season, 34-16 to Reed City at home.

Following an early first quarter Reed City touchdown, Charlevoix tied the score on a 35-yard scoring pass from T.J. Carey to David Manker. Mike Rautio ran in the two-point conversion.

Then, problems arose and Reed City scored three straight touchdowns and led 28-8 at halftime.

Charlevoix scored again in the third quarter on 15-yard pass from Carey to Manker. Manker ran in the extra point.

Turnovers proved to be the Raiders undoing as Charlevoix gave up the ball a total of six times in the game. This Thursday evening the Rayder j.v. team hosts Grayling.

embrace change in the school system. "If they can't change the first time I train them. If they can't do it the second time I get rid of them. This is a highly competitive market," he said, adding later, "If teachers are not willing to change, I would say to them, 'Your tenure in this school district may be limited.'"

Champlin's consulting work with the Charlevoix School System and the accompanying in-service time for teacher training will cost the Charlevoix district about $91,000 over the next two years.

Scrapbook photos bring responses

the few things she can still see. It is enough to keep Anna Belle inspired. "Raising butterflies is one keen interest I've had for years," Anna Belle said. Her interest in butterflies goes back to her days of teaching kindergarten. She always had cocoons for luna or seecopia moths in her classroom. "It's the most thrilling thing in the world to show to children the cycle of birth," Webb said. These days Webb and Johnston are perpetuating the cycle with monarch, black swallowtail, and painted lady butterflies. They feed and care for the caterpillars through the chrysalis stage, then once the butterflies emerge, they set them free in Webb's flower garden. "Unfortunately, after they hatch they take right off and fly south," Webb said with accepting cheerfulness. Webb doesn't begrudge their independence. It is a quality she fiercely maintains for herself. Even blind and unable to climb steps or walk without a walker, Webb prides herself on her independence. She navigates her curved driveway around the front yard with confidence and surprising speed. Johnston doesn't interfere, she simply gets out of Webb's way. On one stroll out of the house, Johnston's only path out of the way was straight off a side porch to the ground four feet below. Johnston made the leap with aplomb.

Johnston is still quite physically fit and able to do battle with the wily river trout. Her favorite place is the Au Sable River, where she lived until moving in with her sister. "She gave up all that peace and quiet to be with me," Webb said.

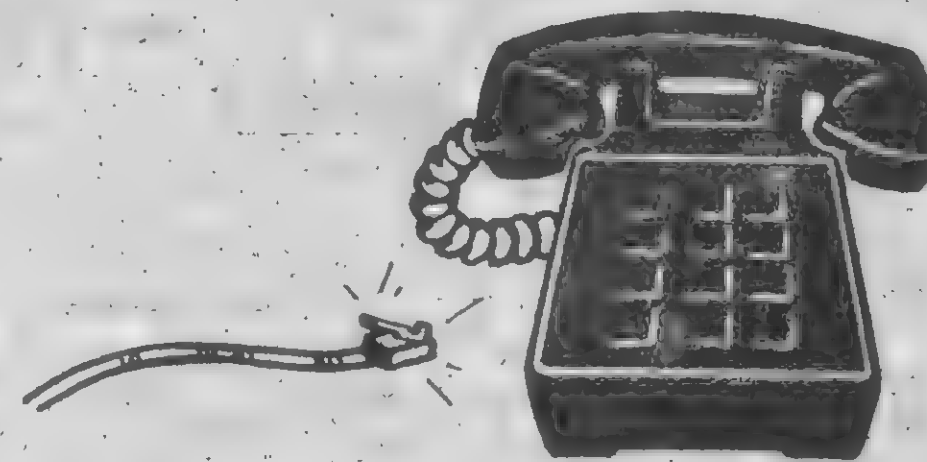

According to Johnston, Webb's home is a far cry from the riverside solitude. "This is Grand Central Station. People come here by the hundreds to see Anna Belle," Johnston said, feigning gruffness, yet it's obvious she genuinely admires her sister's popularity.

Webb's door is always open to her friends from the Hospital Guild, Garden Club acquaintances, and groups of school children. Visitors will promptly be given a hand knit pot holder from Webb. Knitting was her favorite hobby, even without sight, until her wrists gave out from carpal tunnel syndrome. Now her favorite activity is entertaining visitors and neighborhood children.

One group of children was so taken with Webb that they wanted to do something for her. When they asked, "What can we do to help you?" Webb floored them with her reply. "Collect worms for me," she said, already dreaming of her next crop of butterflies.

City voters to decide $3.5 million proposal

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix city voters will decide whether or not the city will be allowed to borrow up to $3.5 million to fund a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) project in Bridge Park. Voters will decide at a special election which will take place either Nov. 17 or Dec. 9.

At a special Aug. 10 city council meeting, the city council initiated a process which could lead to borrowing up to $3.5 million for DDA projects. The first step in that process was the publication of a notice, informing city voters of their right to call for a referendum election to decide the issue. Calling the election required collecting the names of at least 210 city voters within a 45-day period.

Last week, (Tuesday, Sept. 20), signed petitions were submitted calling for an election. City clerk Joanne Patrick verified the names of 333 voters who had signed the petitions.

A shy, quiet beagle looks warily at the feisty, energetic shepherd two feet away from him. But the beagle has nothing to worry about. The two dogs are separated by a sturdy chain link fence.

Unlike most animal shelters in northern Michigan, the Charlevoix Humane Society has six new outdoor dog runs; all separate enclosures for individual dogs. It is the twentieth year of operation for the Charlevoix County Humane Society, and they've come a long way in those 20 years. The new dog runs are a welcome feature. With dogs in separate runs, diseases are less likely to be spread among adoptive dogs. The animals can

The runs cost $10,000 to build, and were made possible largely by a generous gift from the late Bea Simmons of Boyne City. Simmons left $5,000 to the Humane Society in her will. Charlevoix County gave $2,500 to the Humane Society, and the balance was raised through other donations. Simmons was instrumental in founding the first animal shelter in Charlevoix County nearly 40 years ago. She donated the land for the first building in Boyne City. That first shelter failed after a few years from lack of funding. When the Humane Society started the new shelter in Charlevoix 20 years ago,

Castle Farm enters second phase of effort

By Laurie Lounsbury

Castle Farm Community Center has entered the second phase of fundraising after successfully raising $250,000 for a down payment in June. The project now needs to come up with $600,000 by the end of the year to receive $400,000 in grant money from the Frey Foundation.

"It's going to take a whole lot of people giving a lot of money," said Kathy Martinechek, chairperson for the Castle's communications committee.

Although the summer concert schedule at the castle was abandoned, the community center still logged 16,000 hours of children's activities. The 4-H camp drew more than 100 campers, and weekly story telling by Patty Clark was also well received.

Supporters of the community center are now gearing up for fall and winter activities. The former horse barn is undergoing renovation and winterization. The challenge is finding a way to insulate the large, old stone building and heat it effectively while maintaining the rustic charm. The building has been named the Great Room, and will be the central location for many of the community center's activities. Martinechek reported that Jim Mitchell is preparing to start youth gymnastic classes in the Great Room in the next few weeks.

A huge Halloween party will take place Oct. 22, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. All area youth are welcome to attend.

Oct. 20, the first annual meeting for the Castle Farm Community Center will take place at 7 p.m. in the great room. It will be an informational and organizational meeting, open to the public.

Health problems cause board president to resign

At a special meeting Sept. 26, the Castle Farm Board of Directors accepted with regret the resignation of board member and president, Chuck McDermott. In his letter of resignation, McDermott cited health considerations as his reason for resigning. McDermott continues to support the Castle Farm Community Center project and will continue to serve in an advisory capacity.

Christopher Fair, a chiropractor from Boyne City and current vice president, will act as president of the board until the annual meeting Oct. 20 when a new, reorganized board will be seated, and new officers elected.

Memorial walk to raise funds for cancer research

The Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk will take place Saturday Oct. 1, at 10 a.m. with registration at 9 a.m. This is a three-mile walk sponsored by the American Cancer Society to benefit breast cancer research. Sue DeYoung was a young mother of four and Charlevoix resident who died of breast cancer in 1992. It will begin at Michigan

Beach in Charlevoix and travel out to the Medusa turn-around and back. Preregister by mail or register the day of the walk. The registration fee is $3.

Introducing the SureGrowth CD

We call it the SureGrowth CD, because it has one feature the others don't: guaranteed growth. That means the longer you stick with it, the higher the interest rate we pay ... and the more your earnings grow. And not only that ... you can enjoy your earnings when you want.

It works like this. Every six months during the two year term, your interest rate goes up. Guaranteed. Leave your money in a SureGrowth CD* for six months, and you'll have earned a good rate. Leave your money in for a year, and you'll have earned an even better one. Hang on for the whole two years, and ... well, look at the way your interest rate grows!

School borrows money until taxes come in

By Laurie Lounsbury

For the second year in a row, the Charlevoix schools will be borrowing money until the property taxes are collected on the winter tax bill. Last year the schools borrowed money because the summer millage proposal failed the first time around, leaving the school district with insufficient funds to open school in September. This year the schools decided not to collect any millage on the summer tax bill because the cost of billing outweighed the cost of borrowing.

The schools are borrowing $900,000 from CB North at an interest rate of 3.79 percent. This will come to $18,476 in interest money.

School Business Manager Rich Kelly said that the district will have to reconsider how they're going to collect school millages in the future. In past years, the millage was split 50-50 on the summer and winter tax bills.

With a change in school financing, the schools are no longer collecting 24 mills from all property owners. Residents with homestead property will only pay six mills. The cost of preparing a summer tax collection in the townships for 50 percent of the millage was more than the amount of interest on borrowed money. For that reason, the school district decided to borrow money to start school in September and will bill 100 percent of the school millage in December.

Kelly plans to meet with area business owners and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to discuss the feasibility of collecting 100 percent of the school millage on the summer tax bill. For business owners and non-homestead property owners, this would mean paying 24 mills on the summer tax bill. Homestead property owners would pay six mills in the summer.

Kelly has informally spoken with individual business owners about the idea of collecting all of the school taxes in the summer, and said so far the people have been positive about it.

it was done as a joint venture with Charlevoix County. The county pays for a part-time animal control officer and helps with some other costs. But for the most part, it's the Humane Society that carries the financial burden of maintaining the animal shelter.

Donna Wojan has been on the Humane Society's board of directors since its inception. She's always hoping to enlighten people's way of thinking about the shelter. "People think that it's (the shelter) not a good place to get a dog, but that's not true. We have so many good dogs coming through here. They just need a little love and attention," Wojan said.

The Humane Society helps adoptive owners care for their pets properly. They pay a portion of the required spaying and neutering costs and pay for a full time manager to care for the animals before they're adopted. About half of the animals that come to the shelter are placed in new homes or restored to their original homes. About six dogs a year that don't get adopted are placed in the leader dog program for the blind.

An abundance of cats and kittens find their way to the shelter in the spring and summer. More recently, older folks moving to retirement homes bring in their older cats.

America should be a land of equal opportunity

The subject of casino gambling came up in the debate between gubernatorial candidates John Engler and Howard Wolpe Monday evening. A comment Engler made in regard to the subject should have perked up the ears of northern Michigan residents.

In discussing the issue, Engler noted that there are currently eight Native American-run casinos in Michigan and that since Congress recently recognized three additional tribes, he suspects that in the near future there will be three more. Given that the recently recognized tribes are in northwestern lower Michigan, what Engler was saying is that in a short time we can expect to see a new casino go up somewhere near here. It will be interesting to see if such a proposal generates any discussion or controversy. If that occurs, it will be interesting to see what course that discussion and controversy takes.

Readers of this paper should expect to see any proposed casino editorially opposed. It will be opposed on grounds of morality. Not the morality or immorality of gambling as an activity, but on the grounds that it is immoral and wrong to grant a monopoly of any industry or activity based on race, culture or religion. In a country with a Constitutional premise that all men are created equal, that is simply wrong.

What has occurred in the state of Michigan is that the federal government has for all practical intents and purposes forced the state to grant Native American reservations an exclusive franchise on casino gambling. This goes along with similar entitlements to Great Lakes commercial fishing. Both entitlements are inappropriate.

To grant any one particular race, culture or religion within American society special privileges is to deny all other groups within the society equal opportunity. Quite simply, to say that only one group can, is the equivalent of saying all other groups can't. It is the modern day version of sending people to the back of the bus. Only now, instead of sending people to the back of the bus, we say anybody can sit in back, but only one group can sit up front. The message and the end result are the same and should be objected to every bit as vehemently.

What if Congress passed laws restricting other industries to only certain races? How would they slice up the economic pie? To what race would they award the practice of law? To whom would they award the field of finance? How would they divvy up other segments of the economy? And what to do with people of mixed heritage? Could they only work part time? Not only is the practice of entitlement based upon race, culture and religion morally wrong, it is absurd.

Were Congress to declare that Native Americans or any other particular group were to be discriminated against, that group would be joined in its protests by the editorial page of this paper. Currently, Congress has declared that all, except a select group, will be discriminated against. Consider this a protest.

by EDITH GILBERT

What a pleasant surprise after chauffeuring my visiting sister, Margot, around Charlevoix to see so many attractive changes on both sides of town.

She hasn't been here for two years, so these numerous additions kind of sneaked up on me during this time.

The first place we visited was the new Charlevoix Country Club on the Petoskey Road. We cruised through the gate past lush green fairways, past sand and water traps up to the crisp white Club House. Here weekend dances and other events are already popular with the growing membership. Most people agree it's time that Charlevoix has its own Country Club for the pleasure of year round residents.

Then we drove by to check on the progress of the recent development on Oyster Point. Several of the huge homes were on the Home Tour that I attended this summer — the tour that was sponsored by the Kappa Sigma Sorority for the benefit of the hospital. Fortunately I could describe the lofty interiors with guest wings, game rooms, children's quarters and decks, with a magnificent view of twinkling Lake Charlevoix. It's quite a leap from the tiny, vacation log cabins we were used to seeing there during the '40s, to the state of the art landscaped summer homes that have been built on this lovely bay in the '90s.

Next I decided to show her the C & O development along Lake Charlevoix, since a friend of mine has just purchased a lot there. And of course, because we were so near, we cruised around the old railroad depot, which is being upgraded as an addition to the Historical Society, as most of you know.

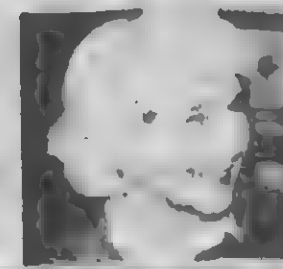

Then across the bridge, past the new railings, and through downtown where we admired the new Victorian street lights, and the posh shops on Bridge Street. We turned right and headed toward the Hospital and approved the stunning new addition overlooking Lake Michigan.

From here we proceeded south because I had to show her Castle Farms and the newly proposed Community Center. Margot agreed with me that this would be a marvelous site for a Renaissance Fair, such as they have every year in the Bay Area where she lives. There, people rent costumes if they wish, and mingle with jugglers and jesters; youngsters are enthralled by knights in shining suits of armor, who joust with each other on horseback with pointed lances; where hunks of food are eaten with God-given fingers; and where plays and musical performances are offered with ancient instruments to entertain the whole family. These popular fairs attract thousands of people as well as dollars to support worthwhile projects.

In the evening we dined at the San Francisco style Italian restaurant Monte Bianco, where everything is flavored with fresh herbs such as basil, shallots, thyme, mint and rosemary. After being closed for several weeks this summer, the new chef, Glenn Gerring, has mastered the same delightful menu, including the homemade desserts. I was relieved that my discriminating sister, Margot, gave the meal we had her whole hearted approval.

This brief tour around town pointed up to me how much has been achieved in the last couple of years. Compared to California which is still depressed, Northern Michigan is on a roll. Not only is tourism booming, but industry is prospering as well, as we may note with the LexaLite expansion to the Industrial Park. It will be fun to watch us grow and hopefully prosper even more in the years to come.

Letters to the editor

School improvement effort appreciated

Editor,

The Charlevoix Schools Ambassadors want to thank our Board of Education, our school administrators and our Charlevoix school staff for bringing Dr. John Champlin into our school system. Community members who attended his presentation last Tuesday night (Sept. 13) came away with a marvelous new enthusiasm and vision for improvement in our schools. We urge every parent and community member who cares about the quality of our children's education and the health of our school system to come and listen to his message as soon as you can. We also urge you to actively participate in the improvement process.

Anyone tuned in to the local climate is aware that Charlevoix schools have been suffering lately from turmoil within the system and the community. Our current condition is attributable to no single event, activity or individual. It is caused by several events including changes in state requirements, changes in taxation and school funding, and changing attitudes within the community.

The board of education has taken every positive action by introducing Dr. Champlin and his methods into our system. We are especially proud of our teaching staff who, by near unanimous vote, recommended this program to the board despite the new challenges they know they must face with its implementation.

Essentially, Dr. Champlin promises that we can achieve huge improvements in the quality of education for all students at every level. Sound too good to be true? It's not. His program is already effective in other communities like ours. It is not an experimental program. It does not utilize "new and improved" approaches to education. Instead, his program relies on the use of proven educational processes. It also relies on a commitment of participation by the staff and the community. When asked if the program will require additional taxpayer money, Dr. Champlin answered with an emphatic "NO!"

Parents, you are part of this program. For your children to succeed, you must participate. You must also exercise patience and understanding. We believe this program has terrific potential, but the improvements will not happen overnight. School staff members have already made a commitment to learning how the process works. One of our obligations is to allow them time to do that. So please be patient when you look for results, and please understand the importance of this program when our teachers spend "insert" time with Dr. Champlin and this team.

Assistance of many made golf benefit a success

Editor,

A short note of appreciation to the many participants and generous donors who helped make the 4th annual Vacation Properties Network Golf Benefit, held Sept. 8, an overwhelming success. Thanks to the efforts of everyone at Antrim Dells, the host course for the event, playing conditions were superb and all 92 golfers had a great time while generating $1,500 for this year's non-profit beneficiary, Castle Farm Community Center. This type of success is not possible without many donations of both time and prizes by many individuals and businesses. Our sincere gratitude to all as we look forward to next year's benefit. Thank you!

The Coast Guard Cutter Acacia (WLB-406), a 180-foot buoy tender homeported in Charlevoix, has departed from Miami heading for Haiti.

The Acacia and crew of 50 will support operation Able Manner, which is a portion of the multinational force for Operation Uphold Democracy. The mission of the Acacia is to ensure the safe passage of vessels in and out of the port of Miragoane, which is 60 miles west of Port Au Prince, by putting in buoys to the entrance of the harbor. The Acacia is one of three other

Mr. & Mrs. Robert Kelly in 1944 and in 1994

Dorothea and Robert Kelly of Charlevoix recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They were married Sept. 23, 1944 by candlelight in the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Rev. Leigh Hagle officiated. Elaine Taylor Martin, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Robert Ashton, who served with the groom at the U.S. Coast Guard Station in Charlevoix, was best man.

At the time they were married, the groom was in the Coast Guard and the bride was a beauty operator at Henry's Beauty Shop. After completing six years in the service, the couple moved to Bay City where Bob Kelly worked with the railroad for 33 years. Following his retirement, the family moved back to Charlevoix.

The Kellys have one son, Kim

Robert Kelly of Charlevoix, and three grandchildren, Justin, Melissa and Sean, who live in Bay City.

Wednesday, Sept. 24 the couple was honored with a decorated cake, ice cream and a gift at the meeting of Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star. Friday evening the couple were guests of honor at a family dinner at Terry's Place and Sunday participated in a luncheon at the United Methodist Church following the morning service with 110 church members and guests.

More information about the CROP Walk is available from local pastors or by calling coordinators Mary Helen Riddle at 547-9515 or Kay Smith at 547-2920.

CROP Walk in twelfth year

"We Walk Because They Walk" is the motto that inspires Charlevoix County CROP Walkers each year as they walk to raise money for local and world wide hunger needs. The motto refers to people of developing countries who must walk miles daily for water and work in the fields.

Saturday, Oct. 1 will mark the eleventh year for Charlevoix participants as they prepare to hoof it six miles to the church in Ironton where they will meet CROP Walkers from East Jordan and Boyne City.

The Charlevoix group starts from the high school. East Jordan walkers begin at Elm Pointe. Boyne City walkers leave from Whiting County Park. All three groups start at 9 a.m. and well before noon have completed their walk, been served a light lunch at Ironton and have been transported back to their starting points.

The only wheels permitted for this event are wagons when used to pull children, strollers and wheelchairs.

Funds raised by this Church World Service/Christian Rural Overseas Project provide services not only for times of disaster, but for on-going needs such as seeds, tools, farm animals, schools, clinics and wells for safe water. One-fourth of the money raised in Charlevoix County is returned here and used to supply the food pantries in the three cities.

Jennifer & John O'Brien

Jennifer Gregory of Charlevoix and John O'Brien of Charlevoix were married at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix on June 25.

The bride is the daughter of Ed Gregory and Penny Engstrom, both of Charlevoix.

The groom is the son of Mary and Don O'Brien of Charlevoix. Rev. Larry Grooters performed the double ring ceremony, with 110 guests witnessing the event.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ivory sequined lace and satin gown with a cathedral length train. She carried red roses with ferns, which matched the red roses decorating the church.

Pianist Becky Blissett, cousin of the groom, played "The Wedding Song" and accompanied the groom's aunts Julie Supernaw, Arlene Blissett, and Linda Warner, who sang, "The Rose."

Julie Gregory, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Angie George of Beaverton and Christy Empey of Charlevoix. They wore tea length, navy blue taffeta dresses with short sleeves. They carried red roses and ferns.

Flower girl was Morgan Henley of Rockford, the bride's cousin. She wore an ivory lace gown and carried a basket of rose petals.

The ring bearer was Alex Henley of Rockford, the bride's cousin.

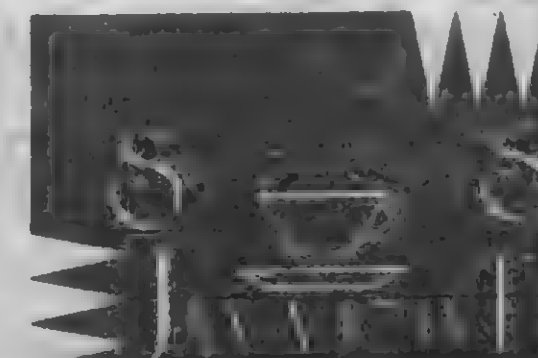

Best man was Terry Hayden of Taylor. Groomsmen were Travis Blissett, the groom's cousin, of Charlevoix, and Don O'Brien, the groom's brother, of Grand Rapids.

Ushers were Liberty Harrison of Boyne Falls, the bride's cousin, and Michael Smith of Grand Rapids.

A reception was given by the bride's mother at Alexander's of Charlevoix.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the groom's parents' home on June 24. The groom designed the waterfall wedding cake, which was baked by the groom's mother.

The couple is making their home in Grand Rapids, where the bride is studying elementary education at Grand Valley State University. The groom is the assistant facilities designer at Old Kent Financial Corporation in Grand Rapids. He is a graduate of Grand Valley State University.

Editor,

As I opened my weekly installment of the Charlevoix Courier, I noticed a picture of a football team that you had found in the office. You were correct in your guess that they played during the late 60s or early 70s. To be specific that was the Junior Varsity football team from the fall of 1968. Since the team was made up of freshmen and sophomores, they graduated in 1971 and 1972. The roster follows:

hami, Ron Bindi, Dave Gill, Dave Fitchman, Herb Schofield, Tom Bergmann, Bill Carey, Dave Swanson, Howard Otis.

Third Row: Charlie Borths, Greg Szymma, Alan Avery, Dan Tollas, Bill Moore, Randy DeYoung, John Ozga, Roger Crain, Mike Mol, Rick Donaldson.

Although my brother, Chuck, and I graduated in 1970, we had many good friends on that team. Thanks for printing a picture that brought back many great memories.

Sincerely yours,
Carl M. Novak

And ready to celebrate with you our first anniversary!

And celebrate we will October 3rd.

That's the day that marks the first anniversary of CB North, a new bank with new products and new services. And, Charlevoix roots that go back 110 years.

Please drop by any one of these locations:

• State Street • Bridge Street • M66

Say hello and enjoy the refreshments. And wish a happy birthday to Charlevoix's oldest one year old. We can't think of anyone we'd rather celebrate with than you!

McRae for Mayor

This is a quiet announcement, that I, Ralph McRae, am a serious candidate for the Mayor's position of the City of Charlevoix. At this time only myself and one other person are running on slips for this highly important office. Our names will not be on the November 8 ballot. Anyone can vote for us by writing in our names or attaching our printed slips. Our concern at this time is to have the absentee voters, before they leave town, understand how to vote for persons running on stickers. The city clerk will inform voters how to do it.

I am very proud of Charlevoix. No city so small has so much. Every year it becomes more beautiful. Should anyone want to contribute to my campaign - simply mail me a book of 20 stamps. ($5.80)

Thank you, Ralph McRae

obituaries

Clarence Himebauch

Clarence Himebauch, 72, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 24, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the Barnard United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Robert Bellairs officiating. Burial will take place in Barnard Cemetery.

Mr. Himebauch was born Aug. 26, 1922, in Marion Township, Charlevoix County, the son of Wilbur and Willema (Eastcott) Himebauch. He attended the Phelps School.

Mr. Himebauch was a lifelong resident of the area.

On Oct. 12, 1943, he married Lucille Potter in Charlevoix, and she survives.

Mr. Himebauch was a farmer his entire life. He also was a heavy equipment operator for H & D Construction in Petoskey for 30 years.

He was a member of the Barnard United Methodist Church, the Barnard Grange, and Operating Engineers Local 324. He enjoyed horse pulling with his Belgium draft horses, and was a member of the Michigan Boat Pullers Association.

Survivors include his wife, Lucille; five sons, Gordon L. and his wife, Marcia, Nathan C. and his wife, Neva, and Jerry L. and his wife, Donna, all of Charlevoix, and Daniel L. and his wife, Sara, and Dale and his wife, JoAnne, all of Fairbanks, Alaska; three daughters, Emily Stanek and her husband, Robert, of East Jordan, Susan M. Starr and her husband, Norm, of Charlevoix, and Sharon K. Coen and her husband, Tim, of Charlevoix; 20 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; three sisters, Florence Elliott and her husband, Albert, and Lucille Maxian and her husband, Joseph, all of Dallas, Texas, and Lucy LaCroix and her husband, Larry, of Grand Lodge; and several nieces and nephews. Mr. Himebauch was preceded in death by his brother, William H. Himebauch; his sister, Alice Himebauch; and an infant child in 1952.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Barnard United Methodist Church, or to the Nehemiah Project Hospitality House, 36 Bridge St., Petoskey, Mich. 49770.

Crystal V. Purdy

Crystal V. Purdy, 95, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 22, 1994, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Graveside service were held Monday, Sept. 26, at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton, of the Charlevoix Community Church of God officiated.

Mrs. Purdy was born Jan. 23, 1899, in Springtown, Ark., the daughter of Walter J. and Leona (King) Nelson. As a young woman, she moved with her family to Battle Creek.

On June 1, 1933, she married W. Karl Purdy in Angola, Ind. The couple made their home in Augusta, Mich., and moved to Charlevoix in 1952. Mr. Purdy preceded her in death on June 6, 1976.

She worked for W.L. Kellogg in Battle Creek for several years as a forewoman.

Mrs. Purdy was a member of the Charlevoix Community Church of God and the church's women's group. She was also a member of Charlevoix County Extension, and enjoyed gardening.

Survivors include one son, William K. Purdy and his wife, Linda L., of Charlevoix; one daughter, Anita Marie Pontius and her husband, Charles J., of Belle Vista, Ark.; three grandchildren, Denise McAllister of Derby, Kan., Christopher K. Purdy and Jonathan M. Purdy, both of Charlevoix; two great-grandchildren; and one sister, Olive Hayward and her husband, Ralph, of Vicksburg.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

I was talking to a businessman that I respect this week. His particular line of work has been in his family for several decades. We were discussing how times have changed and whether all that change is always good. He commented that when his father ran the business, all they had was a rotary dial telephone and a basic electric typewriter to run things with.

That sounded like a fair combination to me until I heard what is at the heart of his business today. You have to have a touch-tone phone these days or you will be frozen out when it comes to "talking" to the computerized voices most businesses he deals with use. A pocket pager means that he is always on call. Don't forget the cellular phone that lets him answer that call even if he is trying to sneak in a few brief moments of relaxation out on a lake or stream.

There's the fax machine that lets him send a letter without really sending a letter. The computer he's added lets him keep track of files, inventory and other related business matters. It's supposed to reduce the amount of paperwork he needs to keep, but his file cabinets look just as full to me. The funny thing was that he said his Dad made out just fine without all this extra equipment. He, however, couldn't see how he would ever do without it.

I could understand that. A legal pad and I were inseparable companions when I first began to regularly write sermons. My word processor is so much easier. I can write and rewrite without any scratching out or black blobs that leave me wondering what I meant when I came back to notes later. Sometimes, these technological advancements prove to be real blessings.

But, when it comes to matters of faith, there are no high tech substitutes for the basic tools that hearts have used for over 2,000 years. There is no short cut for simple honest prayer. Your heart can reach out and touch the heart of God. If you truly believe, you will be amazed at how quickly He will find a way to show you that He is there.

The fact that the Bible has been around these centuries in the same basic format ought to tell you something. Yes, there have been changes in its phrasing as scholars have sought to help make it easier for people to understand. But its spirit and its message have always remained the same: "For God so loved the world, He gave: and He gave and He gave..."

Yes, society is evolving. If you think it's getting more complicated today, just think what our children or grandchildren will face when they walk into our shoes. But one thing will never change. Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, and forever. Practicing the basics of your faith will always bring that truth to life in your heart.

(Rev. Bruce Hamilton is pastor of the Charlevoix Community Church of God. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Hamilton and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Gardner Stern, a long time summer resident of Charlevoix, popped up on television last week. Stern was interviewed by director Ken Burns for the PBS special, "History of Baseball." Stern showed his considerable knowledge of the Chicago Black Sox team and the World Series game they threw in 1919. "To a 15-year-old, which is what I was then, that was a heart-breaking experience," Stern said.

Stern said he's been watching the Burns' baseball series every night. Despite the scandal, he said he is still a White Sox fan. He notes that he's also a big fan of Charlevoix.

The outdoor magazine, Michigan Natural Resources, featured Charlevoix's Earl Young homes in their September issue. Young's love of boulders was the focus of the story, along with interviews of Charlevoix residents living in Earl Young homes and photos of some of his well known dwellings.

Haas to perform at Arts Center

Karl Haas, world renowned pianist, conductor, lecturer, host of the daily radio broadcast, "Adventures in Good Music", leads off the 1994-95 Crooked Tree Arts Council Concert Series on Thursday evening, Sept. 29 at 8 p.m. in the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey. Haas is a master of music wit, a piano virtuoso and historian who has shared over the years his acknowledged love affair with music through his Adventures radio broadcasts.

Tickets for Mr. Haas' concert are on sale through the CTAC office, 347-4337, as part of the 1994-1995 Concert Series package. No box office single tickets will be sold for this concert except as part of the entire Series - Student at $15; Basic at $30; Family at $60 and Patron at $50.

A collection of accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people

Edward Sumner has joined Seeley's Printing Service of Charlevoix as an officer and part owner of the business. Seeley's Printing was established by Gene and Gloria Seeley in East Jordan in 1961 and consolidated in Charlevoix with the purchase of the former Rathburn Printing business in 1968. The business is located near the center of the block bounded by State, Bridge, Park and Clinton Streets.

Sumner brings 18 years of printing experience to Seeley's and will allow the business to expand their customer base and still have a quick turn-around time to meet deadlines.

Sumner began his career in printing with the Petoskey News-Review in 1976 through a Petoskey High School co-op program. In 1978, he began work with Little Traverse Printing, which is now Mitchell Graphics, and worked there for 16 years. Sumner is a member of the Northwest Michigan Club of Printing House Craftsmen and is a Vice President on the board of directors. He is also a member of the Printing Industries of America (PIA) and Printing Industries of Michigan (PIM).

Big Rock Point Community Partnership Team member Linda Oostmeyer (left) recently presented contributions totaling $6,000 to representatives of four area organizations: Laurie Howell (second from left) of the American Cancer Society accepted $200 which will be used to support the Sue DeYoung Memorial Walk and breast cancer research. Ross Boucher (second from right) of the Department of Social Services' Volunteer Furniture Program received $300 for the program. Don Kelly (right) a Big Rock employee and Alano Club volunteer received $500 to assist with a building addition. Charles McDermott (not shown) received $5,000 to help with the purchase of the Castle Farms Community Center.

Community Foundation to award more grants to projects helping area's youth

Teens who make up the Youth Advisory Committee for the Charlevoix County Community Foundation are becoming experienced grantmakers. This June, the group handed out more than $7,000 to various charitable organizations — and now, the high school students are ready to fund additional projects that help Charlevoix County kids.

The Foundation's youth committee is inviting interested organizations to submit grant requests through Oct. 31. Applicants should be nonprofit groups, educational institutions, or municipalities that serve children and teens in Charlevoix County. Applications are available at the Community Foundation office in the Walker Building in East Jordan, or by calling 536-2440. Special consideration will be given to proposals that address high-priority teen concerns: Drunk driving, lack of recreational activities, alcohol and drug abuse, child abuse, juvenile crime, teen pregnancy, and the environment. Other programming areas eligible for funding include health, social services, the arts and culture, community development, education, and civic affairs. Projects chosen for funding earlier this year included Charlevoix County LOVE for Children, the Raven Hill Discovery Center, and the Castle Farm project.

Money for the youth grants comes from a special Community Foundation endowment called the Charlevoix County Youth Fund.

Now at $303,000, the youth fund is fed by a challenge grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, which matches local donations — fifty cents to every dollar. Over the next three years, the Community Foundation has an opportunity to receive up to $700,000 in additional Kellogg youth fund money by raising $1.4 million in local contributions.

The youth fund is set up as a permanent endowment earmarked for children and young adults, and only the interest income is used for grantmaking. Decisions about grants are made by members of the Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee — students who represent each of the six high schools in Charlevoix County. The committee meets monthly during the school year to discuss common concerns, develop community leadership skills, and seek solutions to community issues.

Making the future better for this area's young people is a big part of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's mission. Started in 1992 by a group of civic leaders, the Community Foundation received charitable donations, manages them in a permanent endowment, and re-distributes the income in the form of grants and scholarships to meet a variety of local needs. In the past year, the Foundation's assets have grown from $200,000 to more than $1.3 million. More information about the Community Foundation, and its special youth fund, is available by writing to the Foundation, c/o P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

County GOP hosts Ziegler

The Charlevoix County Republican Party will host a fundraising reception for congressional candidate Gil Ziegler, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 6 at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Ziegler is running for the congressional seat currently held by Bart Stupak, D-Menominee. The Yacht Club is located at 209 Ferry Avenue. Hors D'oeuvres by Terry Left will be served. Admission to the event is a minimum donation of $25.

Football team gets first win

Blocked punt leads to winning touchdown

A blocked punt in the final minutes of the game led to a game-winning touchdown which gave Charlevoix's varsity football team a 21-14 victory Friday evening at Grayling.

With Charlevoix trailing 14-13 with three minutes left in the game the Rayder defense held and Jason Mativa blocked a Grayling punt. Charlevoix took over on the Grayling 20 yard line. Casey Crain set up the touchdown with a 12 yard run and Jerry Duhart carried the ball in on the next play. Jason Terryberry passed to Duhart for the two-point conversion and the Rayder season record no longer had an ugly zero in the left column.

Charlevoix entered the game 0-3 after being blown out by Rogers City and Reed City and losing 14-6 to Boyne City. The Rayder defense, showed continued improvement Friday and the Rayder offense which has been lethargic remained inconsistent, but showed signs of life.

Grayling opened the scoring in the first quarter, scoring on a 24-yard run. Justin Gengle blocked the extra point to leave Charlevoix down 6-0.

Charlevoix responded with a touchdown of their own moments later as Duhart scored on a 16-yard run. Robbie Stradner kicked the extra point and Charlevoix found itself in the unfamiliar position of leading a game 7-6.

Later in the half, Gengle picked off a Grayling pass to set up Charlevoix's second touchdown. Opening up their offense more than in the season's previous three games, Charlevoix scored on a 26-yard pass from Terryberry to Charlie Pop. The extra point attempt failed and Charlevoix led at half-time 13-6.

Grayling regained the lead in the third quarter, scoring on a 5-yard run. The two-point extra point attempt was successful and Charlevoix trailed 14-13, setting up the come-from-behind win in the fourth quarter.

On offense nobody had big numbers individually, but a well-rounded effort and some big plays at the right time proved to be enough of offense to get the win. Duhart carried the ball 11 times for 56 yards and Crain five times for 33 yards. Terryberry completed three of 12 passes for a total of 57 yards. Two of those passes went to Pop for a total of 54 yards.

On the defensive side of the ball, Pop had 12 tackles, Dan Harris nine and Gary Leitner and Luther Kurtz seven apiece. Travis Woods recovered a fumble and had a quarterback sack. Josh Skeel recovered Mativa's blocked punt and played a strong game on the defensive line.

This Friday evening the Rayders will attempt to turn winning from the exception into the rule as they host Elk Rapids for Charlevoix's homecoming.

Rayder cross country team still rules in this area

Mike Bush tied a course record in leading the Charlevoix boys' cross country team to an impressive win at the Petoskey Cross Country Invitational Saturday.

Charlevoix won the Class C-D meet with a total of 39 points. Second place went to Benzie Central with 62 points and third place to Boyne Falls with 163 points.

Charlevoix's girls' team placed second behind Suttons Bay. Suttons Bay finished with 48 points, while the Rayders totaled 58. Charlevoix ran without their number two runner, sophomore Chelsea Gorkiewicz.

In the boys' race Bush finished the five kilometer course in a time of 16:30, tying a course record set by Casey Shay of Central Lake in 1992. Bush, a senior, finished five seconds ahead of the second place runner. Charlevoix placed five runners among the top 14 finishers in the race. Matt Dickinson placed fourth in 16:46. Justin Davis placed eighth at 17:25. Chris LeButt placed 12th in 17:46 and James Conlan placed 14th in 18:00.

Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times in the junior and senior race were: 18-Paul Henne, 18:19; 23-Eric Anderson, 18:54; 24-Jeff McCombs, 19:03; 29-Mark Schairbaum, 19:33; 30-Josh Love, 19:49; 33-Drew Laucher, 20:05; 34-Steve Crook, 20:10; 43-Patrick Butcher, 21:22.

Charlevoix's girls' team continued to show signs of becoming one of the area's best teams. Senior Becca Chamberlain placed second with a time of 21:13. Sophomore Rachael Newcomb finished sixth with a time of 21:51 while freshman Candice VanderGriff placed seventh with a time of 21:58. Those three runners, in conjunction with Gorkiewicz, have given the Rayder girls the most depth they've had in years. But since most races count the places of the team's top five runners toward the team score, the Rayders need one more runner to move up to make them even more competitive as a team.

Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times in the girls' race were: 19-Lisa Hoadley, 22:54; 24-Monica Browe, 23:45; 25-Candice Siwarga, 23:49; 30-Liz Andree, 24:28; 36-Kaylee Manker, 25:11; 38-Callie Siwarga, 25:28; 41-Sarah VanLoo, 25:41; 45-Katie Thorp, 25:46.

Places and times for the Charlevoix boys competing in the freshman and sophomore race were as follows: 5-Brian Martinus, 18:30; 7-Nate Martin, 18:37; 16-Marc Dohm, 19:18.

Golfers win again, record now 6-1

Charlevoix was an easy winner in a three-team golf match at the Bellaire Golf Club, Sept. 21. The Rayders finished with a team score of 173 which was 21 strokes better than Mancelona and 22 strokes better than Rogers City.

Scott Blechel, who had been in a slump, is now out of it. He was medalist for the day with a score of 39, four strokes better than anyone else at the meet. Other Rayder scores were: Robert Sineway, 43; Brad Eaton, 45; Scott Curtis, 46; Fritz Sommerfeld, 47; Scott Burns, 47; and Ryan Murdoch, 53.

Charlevoix now has a 6-1 record in league play. Coach Jim Glynn says the team is peaking nicely and is confident in their play.

New golf champ

Ye Nine Olde Holes golf course has a new club champion, after hosting the end of the season golf championship. Todd Buckmaster of Boyne City took back the title of Club Champion last Saturday with a score of 72. Buckmaster beat Lon Kowalski for the title by one stroke. Kowalski has been club champ nine times in the last 18 years.

Fowler wins in third week of football contest

The winner of the third week of the Charlevoix Courier football contest is Dave Fowler. Much like week one, generally speaking the prediction record of entrants wasn't that impressive. Fowler went 8-2. The next closest were a group of people at 6-4. Several games threw people this week. Nobody picked Charlevoix to win. Only one entrant, Kyle Borths, foresaw the University of Washington beating Miami. And most people viewed Colorado's last second win over Michigan as an unpleasant surprise. This week the Courier begins listing the records of the top 10 people who have entered the contest for at least three weeks.

The Courier Sports Guru was on vacation this past week. Nonetheless, he may try to pick winners for this week's contest, but be warned - his brains may have become addled with all that time off to play in the warm Indian Summer.

The remaining Courier staffers elected a stand-in sports Guruette, so here are the alternate picks.

Elk Rapids vs Charlevoix: Elk Rapids has lots of tree stumps in their lake - Charlevoix doesn't. That makes Charlevoix more desirable. Pick - Charlevoix.

Kalkaska vs Boyne City: Kalkaska has had soooooo much trouble getting any school millages passed - how can they possibly afford the big bucks for a good football team? Pick - Boyne City.

Gaylord vs Cheboygan: Cheboygan is home to the mighty Mackinac Coast Guard cutter. Gaylord is home to Alpine Swiss lace and men who wear short pants and yodel during Alpenfest. Need I say more? Pick - Cheboygan.

University of Michigan vs Iowa:

Are the corn crops in yet? It appears that Iowa players have been too busy in the corn fields to get much practice time on the playing field. Pick - U of M.

UCLA vs Washington: I hate the state of California. Too many flakes out there. Pick - Washington.

Wisconsin vs Michigan State University: Wisconsin has a pretty good women's synchronized swim team. Think what Alvarez could do for them if he'd lose the polyester sansabelt pants and switch to a Speedo and swim goggles. Pick - Wisconsin.

Washington State vs Tennessee: Washington grows great fruits. Tennessee grows big southern boys who know how to run fast if a wild boar is chasing them. Pick - Tennessee.

Giants vs Saints: How can anyone living in a town with a street called Bourbon and a streetcar named Desire take football seriously? Pick - Giants.

Detroit vs Tampa: I'll pick the Cleveland Browns. What? That's not a choice? Then I don't want to play. Oh, all right, I'll muster up a little home state loyalty and pick Detroit, even though they haven't been impressive since the days of Alex Karras. Pick - Detroit.

Seattle vs Indianapolis: This is a toughie. Aunt Hilda lives in Seattle. She says the weather this fall has been wrecking havoc with her lumbar, and she's never even had a football injury. Pick - Indianapolis. (Guru over-ride: The temporary profit is wrong here. The correct pick is Seattle.)

Rayders run wild in second half to beat Elk Rapids

By L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix started slowly, but in the second half of the Sept. 21 game the Rayders got things rolling and bugled the Elks off the court 89-66.

The first quarter was an ugly one for the Rayders. Early in the quarter they missed easy shots. Later in the quarter they made turnovers faster than a bakery. Coach Joe Powers jockeyed players in and out, looking for a forward who could put the ball in the basket. About all that could be said for the quarter was that the Rayder scoring attack was balanced. Liz Grunch, Angela Buday, Liz Kelly, Kris Blanchard and Jenny Swenor each had one basket. And that was it. The quarter ended with Charlevoix trailing 21-10.

Charlevoix outscored Elk Rapids 12-6 during the first three minutes of the second quarter to pull within five at 27-22. Grunch sandwiched six points between baskets by Beth Norton and Melissa Anderson.

Anderson entered the game in the second quarter and ended up with 10 points for the game. Beyond her scoring, her presence in the game gave the lane a whole new atmosphere. Anderson brings to mind former Detroit Piston Bill Laimbeer. For some unexplained reason, when she enters the game, players on the other team get testy. They start scowling, complaining, throwing elbows. Yes, for some unexplained reason, when Anderson is in the game, opponents who go into the lane to try to score or rebound just don't come out of the experience feeling warm and fuzzy. As Laimbeer used to say, it's not a matter of playing dirty, it's just being tough enough and willing to keep opponents from doing what they want to do. If that makes them unhappy, so be it. It's a basketball game, not a tea party. You're out there to rebound, block shots and score baskets, not polish your social graces. In post game interviews, you never hear a coach say - Yeah, my center had a great game. She blocked two shots, scored 10 points and grabbed eight rebounds. And best of all, I think she made three new friends.

Although Kelly isn't as big, or strong as Anderson, she's also aggressive. At least once, and normally two or three times, a game she collides or gets tangled up with a bigger player and ends up skidding across the floor on the seat of her shorts. She frowns briefly, pops back up to her feet and resumes play - full speed, take no prisoners. Kelly and Grunch each had eight points in the second quarter and by half time the Rayders were within two points of the Elks at 34-32.

In the third quarter the Rayder offense, set up by the defense, went wild scoring 29 points. Less than a minute into the quarter Grunch gave the Rayders their first lead since midway through the first quarter at 36-35. Ten seconds later, Jill Dreyer stole the ball near the top of the key and drove the length of the court to put Charlevoix up by three 38-35.

Elk Rapids then scored seven points to take a 42-38 lead. Buday stopped the run with two free throws. Elk Rapids took their final lead of the game 46-45 with 4:40 left in the third quarter. During the next three minutes and forty seconds Charlevoix outscored the Elks 16-2.

The pace of the game picked up dramatically and that favored the Rayders. For Elk Rapids, the hurried they good, the behinder they got. The third quarter ended with Charlevoix up 63-54.

In the fourth quarter, Charlevoix continued to run and dominate the boards. Juniors Christie Kaczynski and Norton both helped out rebounding. Norton, who is not particularly tall, has been working hard for good rebounding position all year. Kaczynski, one of the Rayders taller players, rebounded accordingly. Courtesy of her work underneath the basket, she was fouled and sent to the free throw line four times in the fourth quarter. With 3:11 left in the game a basket by Anderson gave Charlevoix an 80-60 lead. Blanchard scored six of the Rayders final nine points in the last three minutes of the game.

Individually for the Rayders, Grunch led the team with 29 points. Grunch recently surpassed 1,000 points for her high school career. Sometime within the next few weeks she will likely surpass Melinda Klooster to become Charlevoix's all-time leading scorer.

Three other Rayders also scored in double figures against Elk Rapids. Kelly had 14 points, Blanchard 11 and Anderson 10. Dreyer and Norton had one of their best offensive nights this season with eight and six points.

The regular meeting of the Eveline
Township Board was held on Sept.
13, 1994 at the township hall at 7:06
P.M.

The completed audit provided by Mason & Kammermann was brought before the board for inspection.

A proposed rezoning of the Sherman property from Ag to Residential was tabled until Oct. 11.

The November board meeting falls on election day and therefore was rescheduled to Nov. 15.

Approval was given to hire Roger Lisk to replace the fire hydrant on the east side of the terry at a price of $3,000.

The bills, amounting to $22,290.88 were approved for payment.

A check for hydrant materials and supplies (up to $2,000) was pre-approved for payment between meetings.

A treasurer's report and a zoning report were given.

The March 9, 1994 board minutes were amended to reflect a budget amendment.

Approval was given to go ahead with seal coating maintenance on specified roads at $5,000 per mile.

Adjournment was at 10:00 P.M.

Edith M. LaBrecque

Edith M. LaBrecque, 74, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 23, 1994, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Her funeral was Sept. 26, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Charlevoix Community Church of God officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mrs. LaBrecque was born Jan. 4, 1920, in Petoskey, the daughter of Fred and Margaret (Jodway) Grams. She was raised in Petoskey.

On April 27, 1946, she married William H. LaBrecque in Petoskey, and the couple made their home in Boyne City. Mr. LaBrecque died on May 10, 1979.

Mrs. LaBrecque had lived in Charlevoix for the past 31 years.

Survivors include one son, Jim LaBrecque and his wife, MaryLou, of Mancelona; four daughters and their spouses, Laura and Don Wells of Charlevoix, Veronica and Walt Olson Sr. of East Jordan, Nancy and Charles Mathers Sr. of Charlevoix, and Debra Iverson and friend, Jim, of East Jordan; 18 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Fred Grams and his wife, Ruth, of Petoskey, and Earl Grams of Boyne City. In addition to her husband, Mrs. LaBrecque was preceded in death by two sons, William J. in 1983, and an infant Fredrick.

Visitation was held Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Albert F. Webster

Albert F. Webster, 69, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 16, 1994, at home.

His funeral was Thursday, Sept.
22, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev.
Lowell Anderson of the Charlevoix Assembly of God officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery,
Charlevoix.

Mr. Webster was born Jan. 24, 1925, in Charlevoix; the son of

Harry and Grace (Shapton) Webster. He was raised in Norwood on the family farm, and attended the McGeagh School in Norwood
Township and Charlevoix High School.

He worked on the George Block farm and at Hookers Livery Stable in Charlevoix. He then moved to Detroit where he worked for the Ford Motor Co. from 1947-54.

Mr. Webster returned to Charlevoix and worked with the construction crew which built Medusa Cement Co. He was employed with Losalle and Denton Construction Co. in highway construction, and helped build highways in Charlevoix and in the Detroit, Flint, Saginaw and Bay City area.

Survivors include one stepson,
Randall Lanterman of Charlevoix;
a stepdaughter, Rochelle Kimball and her husband, Jerry, of Charlevoix; three grandchildren;
one brother, Richard J. Webster and his wife, Linda L., of Charlevoix; one sister, Janet M.
Louiselle and her husband,
Thomas, of Charlevoix; and several nieces and nephews. Mr. Webster was preceded in death by two brothers, Harry L. and Allan K.

...petition calls for special election

At the Aug. 10 meeting, second ward council member Butch Russell said he wanted to see city voters have an opportunity to vote on the issue. A short time later, he initiated the petition drive and received help from several other people in collecting the needed signatures.

Monday, Patrick said that she will submit a request to the county clerk later this week for a Nov. 17 special election. The clerk will call a meeting of the county election board to determine if that is a suitable date. The election board will meet by Oct. 5.

Patrick said there has been some question as to whether or not the city could schedule a special election within 30 days of the Nov. 3 general election. However, she said city attorneys have advised that it is possible.

If the Nov. 17 date doesn't pan out, then Dec. 9 is an alternate date. Patrick said city officials want the election as soon as possible so that if the bonding proposal is allowed to proceed, preliminary work can be completed by the end of the year. In looking at November dates, Patrick said she felt the week of Nov. 17 would be better than the following week which is the week of Thanksgiving.

Were the city to borrow the $3.5 million, money to pay back the bonds would be derived from local property tax dollars captured by the DDA and from state tax dollars. Estimates are that the state would contribute up to $159,386 per year toward the pay back while the city's portion of the pay back would be $135,265 per year. Extending that over a 20-year time period, the state would pay a total of $3,187,720 while the city would pay a total of $2,705,300 and the total pay back would be $5,893,020. All estimates are preliminary and subject to change according to interest rates and other variables which are not yet known.

Carriage rides to help local family

Horse-drawn carriage rides will be available for $1 from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 29 (weather permitting). The event is a benefit for the Crain Relief Trust Fund to benefit the family of Roger and Pam Crain. Earlier this year, Pam Crain was diagnosed with cancer and is undergoing treatment. The trust fund has been established by friends to help with medical costs and lost income.

Cedar Valley Farms, Inc. will be giving the carriage rides. The rides will begin at The Treasure Chest at 106 Park Avenue.

Father and son make their own bows

By L. Scott Swanson

When Dan Crowley and his son, Danny, took to the woods this past Saturday for the opening day of archery season, they weren't carrying the latest technological masterpiece from the world of bowhunting. No pulleys. No cams. No protruding pieces of metal or reels of string.

The Crowleys took to the woods, armed with traditional long bows, which they made themselves in the workshop out behind their house.

Dan Crowley has taken deer with the elaborate compound bows, but a few years ago decided he wanted more of a challenge. Initially, he decided to get into trophy hunting, only taking larger bucks. But that didn't pan out, so he went in a different direction. Rather than being more selective about the game, he became more selective about his hunting equipment.

At face value, traditional bows really aren't much more than a stick with notches in each end and a string between the notches. Non-traditional bows, also referred to as compound bows, have pulleys or cams at each end of the bow. The pulleys make the bow easier to draw and shoot the arrow faster and with a flatter trajectory. Among the other frills and gadgets which can be added to non-traditional bows are sights for aiming, string releases, tracking spools and stabilizers. Crowley still hunts with some people who use non-traditional bows and he's noticed that before they even get out the door to head to the woods, they spend a fair amount of time just gathering up equipment.

The Crowleys aren't alone in going back to traditional bows.

"There are more traditional bow hunters in Michigan than in any other state," Dan notes. Each year traditional bowhunters have a ren-

County approves higher taxes

By Laurie Lounsbury

At a Sept. 28 public hearing attended by almost nobody from the general public, Charlevoix County Commissioners voted to raise taxes on three of the four county millages. An increase for the transit millage was voted down by all commissioners except Don Smith. Smith has been vocal in his dislike for the transit department, saying in the past that it's more system than Charlevoix needs. "I guess it's kind of ironic that I'm the only one who voted for it," Smith said following the public hearing.

Courier wins three awards

The Charlevoix Courier won three awards in this year's Michigan Press Association Better Newspaper Contest.

The Courier took third place in the General Excellence category for papers with a circulation of 5,001 or less. First and second place went to the Morenci Observer and Grosse Ile Camera.

A Courier story by L. Scott Swanson regarding a DDA meeting with the school and county took first place in the Spot or Breaking News category. Electric plant fire photos by Swanson and Laurie Lounsbury took third place in the Picture Story category.

LexaLite breaks ground for new Scientific Center

By L. Scott Swanson
LexaLite International Corporation broke ground on its new Scientific Center, Sept. 30. The building, which ultimately will include 24,000 square feet of manufacturing space and 3,500 feet of office space, will be located on an 11.5 acre site in the Charlevoix Industrial Park, off of Taylor Road behind the Char-Em Intermediate School District complex.

Between 35 and 50 people attended the groundbreaking ceremony. LexaLite officials Dale Troppman and Tom Phillips talked about the role the facility will play in LexaLite's continued growth. LexaLite CEO Josh Barnes read a letter of encouragement for the project from Governor John Engler and also said the center will be named after the late E. Darrell Dinwiddie who served as an auditor, advisor and friend to the LexaLite Corporation for many years.

Troppman, Vice President of Corporate Facilities, explained that the building will provide a clean manufacturing environment for three new company projects. He said the building has been designed to be in harmony with the site and to be aesthetically pleasing. A row of trees between the plant and Taylor Road will remain in place. "We're probably going to be building the prettiest building we have to date...and you won't be able to see it from the road," Troppman said.

Phillips, President of LexaLite, said the Scientific Center project came together in a matter of weeks and required a great deal of cooperation from several people. He noted that the company is pleased to have Charlevoix as the setting for the center which represents a new and exciting chapter in the history of LexaLite.

Site work will begin yet this month with concrete work following soon after. Company officials want to have the building enclosed prior to the onset of winter and ready for production by May.

The center makes possible three new company projects. One involves two-color molding, the second involves a deep vacuum technology coating process and the third is being kept secret at the request of the company's customer.

Charlevoix's acting mayor Ted Felter along with Troppman and Phillips turned ceremonial first shovels of dirt. Felter thanked LexaLite for their continued role in providing jobs to the people of Charlevoix.

Three-year-old screening scheduled

The Char-Em Intermediate School District is sponsoring a developmental screening clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1996. The purpose of the clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development and an opportunity to interact with parents of other three-year-old children, and to have their child informally screened to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years. The service is free with appointments on a first-come, first-serve basis. The child's birth date must be between Dec. 1, 1990 and Dec. 1, devious. At the rendezvous, all of the bows are strictly traditional. Several different types of woods are suitable for traditional bows. Among the best woods are osage and yew. Dan and Danny even made one bow from a white ash tree they cut down in front of their house at Sugar Bush Knoll.

1991. The dates and places of the upcoming screening clinics are: Oct. 12, at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan; Nov. 9 at the Free Methodist Church in Boyne City/Boyne Falls.

Although the basic concept of a traditional bow is pretty simple, there are some secrets to properly building one. One of the keys is to get the tips of the bow even with the handle in the middle of the bow. To get the maximum performance from a bow, it must be carved along a single growth ring of the piece of wood it is made from. Knots in the wood or twists in the grain of the wood complicate the process or can make a piece of wood unusable.

While most traditional bows are made from a single piece of wood, bows can also be made from multiple pieces of wood spliced or laminated together.

The draw weight of the bow can be adjusted by the length and thickness of the bow. In making a bow, you choose your desired draw weight and work down to it. Some people have the mistaken impression that all traditional bows require brute force to draw and shoot. Not so. Crowley's wife, Lynn, has a traditional bow made just for her by Stillwater Archery in Brighton.

She says she enjoys shooting it. Even without the help of sights, it's possible to shoot a traditional bow with surprising accuracy. Crowley says he once saw a guy hit an aspirin thrown in the air. Granted, that guy was one of the world's finest archers and not your average Joe Hunter, but the possibility exists. Crowley compares the instinctive aiming of a traditional bow to learning to throw a baseball. "You don't use a sight when you throw a baseball, but if you do it enough, you get so you can hit what you're aiming at," Crowley said. That for hunting deer a long bow is quite accurate out to about 15 yards. He said he feels that you get a knack for shooting a traditional bow quicker than you would a compound bow.

To learn how to make bows, the Crowleys read books and watched video tapes along with attending a rendezvous. Of the two Crowleys, the son has made more bows. He says making a bow can take anywhere from 10 to 50 hours of work. "It depends on the wood too," he notes.

A variety of finishes can be used on the bows. Among them are Verithane, Spar Urethane and gun oil. Strings are a woven dacron.

As deer season approached and he picked up one of the bows he's made, Dan observed that hunting with a traditional bow is "not for everybody." But as he looked at the bow he said, "To take one with this is going to be a lot of fun."

...county board votes in favor of higher taxes

ed no on all the county mill increases, saying, "I just think taxes are enough right now. Let's cut a little bit."

For all but the transit department, the increase in millage represents about a 5.7 percent overall increase in funds. Even without raising the millages, the county would have received a 2.76 percent increase in revenue due to the higher State Equalized Value in the county. The transit will get the 2.76 percent increase in their budget. Last year's SEV was $794 million for the county. This year the total SEV is up to $847,090,366. Last year the county collected $4,740,936 in property taxes. This year they will collect $5,011,301, an increase of $270,365 or about 5.7 percent. The county will set next year's budget after learning how much revenue they will have.

Commissioner Richie Gillespie of Beaver Island said he expects a transit bus to be on the island by next spring or else he doesn't want transit money collected from the islanders. Beaver Island residents pay for transit millage yet currently have no access to the transit system. "That's taxation without representation," Gillespie said. The transit department looked into the possibility of putting a bus on the island last year, but found there were no qualified drivers on the island. Gillespie made the effort to seek out islanders who might want to take the test for a commercial driver's license, but had no success. Of the three islanders Gillespie thought might be suitable, only one took the test and failed. Gillespie maintains now that it is the transit department's responsibility to find a qualified driver. "If they don't get us a bus, then I don't want them taking our transit tax money," Gillespie said.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Board could have gone further in limiting transit

In refusing to grant a revenue increase larger than inflation to the county transit system, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners took an action which was a step in the right direction, but only a small step.

Last week at a county commissioners' meeting, the board approved tax revenue increases in excess of inflation for other county purposes, but rejected a similar increase for county transit. While the other increases might also bear objection, that's another issue. At least commissioners were willing to hold the taxation line in one area.

The only problem with the commissioners' decision is that it doesn't go far enough. The Charlevoix County transit system is simply a public agency which is larger than it needs to be. It's designed to meet the needs of an urban area with a large population, not the needs of a rural northern Michigan county with a population of approximately 20,000.

Currently, the transit system has a fleet of large buses driven by a fleet of drivers and operates out of a large garage in Boyne City. To say the buses seldom have more than a handful of passengers on them is being generous. Normally, when you see them they contain no more than a rider or two.

There are many arguments which can be made for having a public transportation system in Charlevoix County. It brings mobility to people who can't drive themselves either because of advanced age or other reasons. Public transportation also has environmental and traffic management benefits. But a public transportation system should be designed to meet, not exceed, the needs of the area it serves.

Rather than the bloated system it has, Charlevoix County could be served by a much smaller system. One small bus in each of the county's three major communities with one or two larger buses available for special occasions and perhaps some type of provision for Beaver Island should suffice. One or two dispatchers combined with an answering machine and perhaps a few cellular phones should be all that are needed as a support system. Mechanical repairs should be handled by private repair shops.

In the past, the argument has been made that much of the money to support the transit system comes from state and federal, rather than local, tax dollars. Be that as it may, an excessively large public system is still a waste of tax dollars. Be they state, federal or local dollars, they're still coming out of taxpayers' pockets.

Keeping a transit system which is already too large from further expanding is a nice step, but it falls short of what ultimately needs to be done. What needs to be done is to pare down the county transit system to meet, not exceed, the needs of Charlevoix County.

Drivers need to be wary of deer

Along with the beauty of falling leaves, Michigan roadsides are noted for deer at this time of year. That means an increased risk of vehicle-deer crashes now through the end of the year. Secretary of State Richard H. Austin reminds motorists.

Although the deer herd has declined 15 percent from a peak of 2 million in 1989, Michigan residents still reported more than 47,000 deer-related crashes in 1993, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and State Police. Statewide, five motorists died in deer-related crashes in 1993 and 1,472 were injured, the agencies reported.

A record number of deer-vehicle crashes occurred in Southern Michigan in 1993, with an even higher number of crashes anticipated this fall, according to the DNR.

"We know that more than half of all vehicle-deer crashes occur in three months: October, November and December. So we are reminding drivers to be alert for deer," said Secretary Austin, the state's chief motor vehicle administrator. "We advise motorists to remain in their lane and stay on the road if they spot a deer. Leaving the roadway makes rolling the vehicle or colliding with trees and other stationary objects much more likely."

Colliding head-on with a deer is generally less dangerous than swerving to avoid one, provided all vehicle occupants are using safety belts and child safety seats, Secretary Austin said. In a frontal collision, air bags offer supplemental protection to safety belts for front-seat passengers.

Secretary Austin provided these tips for safe autumn driving:

- If you see a deer crossing sign, be very cautious; perhaps due to woods, crops or water, deer are known to frequent this area.

- Statistics indicate vehicle-deer crashes are most frequent between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. During these dusk-to-twilight hours, turn on your headlights to better spot deer.

- Slow down where crops, woods or other tall vegetation grow close to the road.

- Slow down but do not leave your traffic lane of the roadway if you see a deer. Always look for a second or third deer following the first, as deer often travel in small groups.

- Scan the roadsides some distance ahead as you drive. You can often spot dark figures or glinting eyes and slow down early, to avoid a surprise encounter with deer.

- Although motorists may encounter deer any month, the risk will be greatly reduced when the deer breeding season ends in late December. If a vehicle-deer crash occurs, the motorist should report it to the nearest police agency. If damage appears to exceed $400, the crash must be reported to police under Michigan law. A police agency may issue a Highway Killed Deer Permit, allowing the driver to claim the carcass.

FAMILY

Svoboda - Ebert

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix was the setting for the marriage of Ellen Beth Svoboda and Joel Gregory Ebert, both of Charlevoix. The wedding took place August 6 with 150 guests in attendance.

The bride is the daughter of Diana and Ronald Svoboda of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Ethel Kaeson and Peter Ebert, both of Houghton.

The Reverend Phillip Schairbaum performed the double ring rites. The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

The altar was decorated with a unity candle in an arrangement of pink mini-carnations, white orchids, pink alstroemeria, accented with calceyria, astelbie, ivy, garden ferns and candelabras with matching flower arrangements. The pews and stair bannisters were decorated with white satin and lace bows with ivy and tulle swags.

The bride chose a white satin, off the shoulder gown with puffed sleeves and small rosettes. Crystal pleating formed the bodice with shiffl embroidery and was accented with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her gown also featured large pearl and sequin appliques and a Spanish ruffle border. Her head was adorned with a band of rosettes, lace and beadwork, with a double fingertip length veil and blusher of tulle and scattered seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and pink roses and white demodrobium orchids, with accents of calceyria, astelbie, and ivy.

Soloist Melissa Moore sang "Closer," "The Wedding Song," and "The Gift of Love," at the ceremony. She was accompanied by organist Elizabeth Humphrey.

Maid of Honor was Kathleen Foster. Bridesmaids were Jennifer Darga, Janee Turri, and Caitlin Knorr, junior bridesmaid. They wore tea length, watercolor floral print gowns in shades of dusty pink, blue and cream. Each gown featured a scalloped neckline and V back accented by double candy-box bows. The attendants carried flowers similar to the bride's bouquet.

The best man was Aaron Fynever, Groomsman were Allen Ebert and Eric Page. Geoffrey Ebert was the usher.

A reception was given at the Petoskey Holiday Inn by the bride's parents. The bride's aunt, Joyce Vivirsk, was hostess. The room was decorated in a garden theme which included a bridge, water lily pond and hanging floral arrangements. The wedding cake had a water fountain, and an antique porcelain bride and groom on the top. They were the same cake, ornate-ments used on the bride's grandparents' cake 56 years ago.

A rehearsal dinner was held the evening before the wedding at Nanny's, hosted by Ethel Isaacson.

The couple took a wedding trip through the Upper Peninsula, followed by a second reception in Houghton, given by the groom's mother and family.

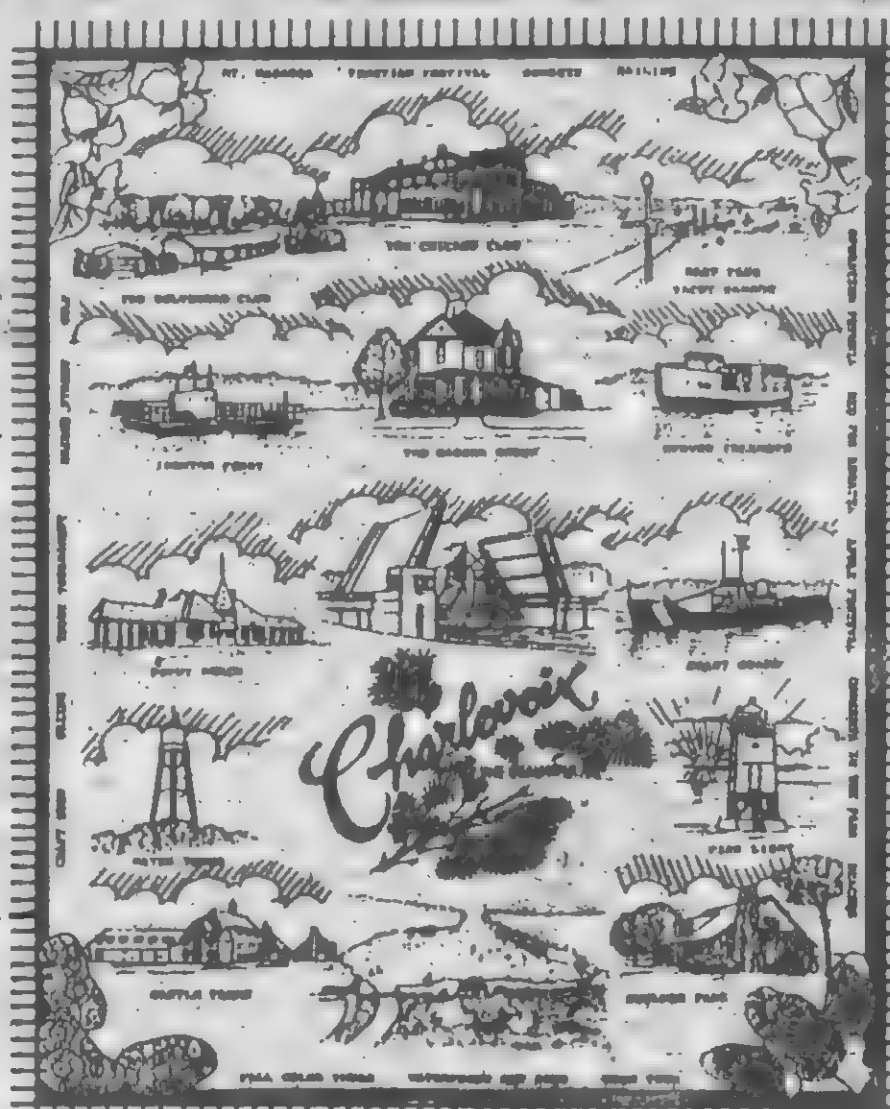

The groom is employed at the Grey Gables Restaurant and the bride is employed by the Weather-vane Terrace Hotel. Both will be attending North Central Michigan College in the fall. They will make their home in Charlevoix.

obituaries

Donald A. Campbell

Donald A. Campbell, 85, died Sept. 29, 1994, at Meadow Brook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire. His funeral was Sunday, Oct. 2, at the Randall Funeral Home in Jamestown, Pa.

Mr. Campbell was born July 16, 1909, in Crawford County, Pa., the son of Albert B. and Mary Jane (Harden) Campbell.

After graduation from North Shenango High School in Crawford County, he went to work for the Pennsylvania Department of Highways during the Great Depression, helping construct the causeway and spillway across Pymatuning Lake. He became an engineer, and eventually a supervisor of the district until his retirement in 1974.

Mr. Campbell studied chiropractic medicine at the Nashville College of Chiropractic, graduating in 1945. He obtained doctor of neuropathy degrees from the Nashville College of Neuropathy and the Metropolitan College in Cleveland in 1947.

In his early years, Mr. Campbell was involved with a number of organizations including: Crawford County Game Warden for many years, a member of the State Police of Crawford and Erie counties, and a member of the Pine Masonic Lodge No. 498 in Linesville, Pa.

Of great importance to Mr. Campbell was his successful membership in Alcoholics Anonymous since 1959, and a treasured milestone was the establishment of the Thursday Night AA Meeting in Jamestown, Pa., in 1978. He was active as a sponsor and a speaker in the region.

Mr. Campbell moved to Charlevoix in 1989, and then to Ellsworth in 1993.

Survivors include his sons, Robert Campbell of Salem, Ohio, and Donald A. Campbell Jr. of Wilmette, Ill.; daughters, Arlene Bady of Ellsworth, and Pamela Louzenhiser of Williamsburg, Va.; and five grandchildren. Mr. Campbell was preceded in death by his brother, Earl Campbell in 1970, and by his sister, Edna Meyer in 1989.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix County Humane Society in Charlevoix, or to the Crawford County Humane Society in Meadville, Pa.

Local arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Lillian M. O'Brien

Lillian M. O'Brien, 84, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 3, 1994, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be 10:30 a.m. Friday, Oct. 7, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis will officiate. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery in Charlevoix.

She was born May 24, 1910, in Quincy, Mass., the daughter of Joseph T. and Luma (Lorandau) Gosselin. She was raised in Quincy.

On June 25, 1939, she married John James O'Brien in Quincy, and they made their home in Charlevoix in 1972. He preceded her in death on Feb. 22, 1980.

Mrs. O'Brien was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, St. Mary's Altar Society and was active with the Charlevoix Senior Citizens. Bingo was her passion.

She is survived by a son, Russell O'Brien of Marquette; a daughter, Nancy Dixon and her husband, Ray, of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. O'Brien was preceded in death by a son, John Edward, on July 23, 1962, and also by nine brothers.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Mary's Catholic Church. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where friends may call 2-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 6. A rosary will be recited 7 p.m. Thursday.

Daniel G. "Buffalo" Webb

Daniel G. "Buffalo" Webb, 40, of Charlevoix, died Sept. 29, 1994, at home.

He was born Aug. 14, 1954, in Muskegon, the son of Lewis and Lois (Tassell) Webb. He moved to the Charlevoix area in 1968.

Mr. Webb was an avid outdoorsman and spent a great deal of time in the Upper Peninsula panning for gold and collecting minerals.

He was a member of the Boyne City Eagles and the Gold Prospector Association of America.

Survivors include his daughter, Renee Perron, of Charlevoix; his son, David, of Boyne City; his mother, Lois M. Webb, of Charlevoix; two sisters, Kathleen Payton and her husband, David, of Portage, and Sharon Jones and her husband, Bruce, of Rumney, N.H.; and five brothers: Burton of Big Rapids, Larry of Salt Lake City, Utah, William of Petoskey, Patrick of Bradenton, Fla., and Guy of Cedar. Mr. Webb was preceded in death by his father, Lewis, in April 1993. "Buffalo" is also survived by many good friends.

There will be no service. A scholarship fund is being set up for Mr. Webb's daughter. Contributions may be sent to Lois Webb, 7459 Old 31, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

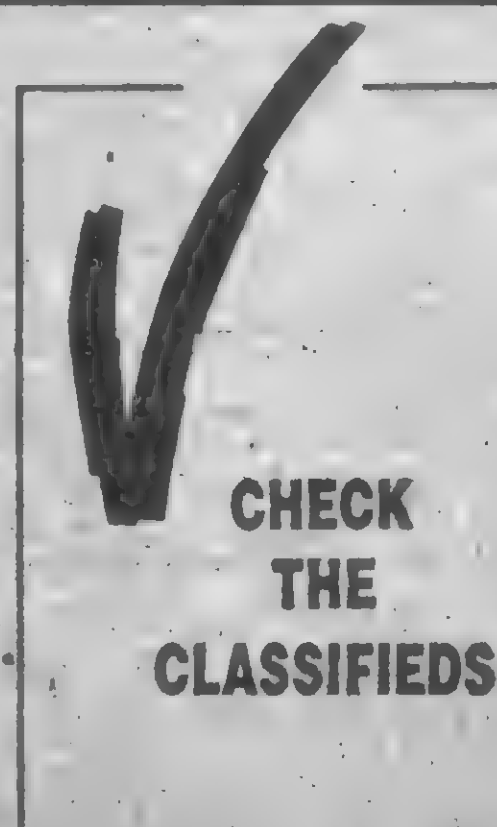

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Grief recovery program begins

A series of five weekly sessions for those coping with a loss will be held from Thursday, Oct. 20 to Nov. 17, from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Charlevoix Area Hospital in the new conference room. The Grief Recovery program is sponsored by Charlevoix County Hospice, Charlevoix Area Hospital, and District Health Department #3, to provide help for anyone who is recovering from a loss.

Recovery sessions. Anyone is invited who has suffered a loss, or who is helping a loved one deal with a loss, and who would benefit from the support of others. These informative discussions will provide assistance in dealing with grief. Class size is limited to 10. Those interested must pre-register and registration will be closed with no one admitted to the sessions after the first class.

Please call the Hospice office at 536-2842 to indicate your desire to participate in the free program.

For Kris Balasz, it's son Sam and his friend, Emily Morgridge.

Apple-Fest takes place this weekend

Charlevoix will host its annual Apple-Fest this weekend in East Park. Area apple growers will have apples and other fruits for sale Friday afternoon and all of Saturday and Sunday in East Park.

In addition to apples, a variety of other fruits and vegetables will be available. Several area clubs and organizations will also be selling a variety of items.

Approximately 40 different types of apples, including several antique varieties will be available at the Apple-Fest. Orchard owners from throughout Charlevoix and Antrim
Counties will be at the festival.

In conjunction with the Apple-Fest, there will be a craft show featuring hand-crafted items.

Like the potter's wheel, artist's life runs full circle

It's a homecoming of sorts for artist Bonnie Staffel. After eight years away from Charlevoix, Staffel has returned to northern Michigan, bringing with her the unique pottery that's become a nostalgic favorite for collectors. Staffel's work will be sold at Bier Pottery, owned by Ray and Tamir Bier.

Ray Bier is thrilled to have Staffel's work at his store. As a teenager, Bier became enamored with Staffel and her studio. He remembers walking in and seeing the combination of the studio, the storefront, and customers milling about. "When I walked into Bonnie's studio, it was magical. She put together the marketing with the pottery," Bier said.

To celebrate Staffel's return, Bier is hosting an open house at his store on U.S. 31, south of town, Oct. 8. Staffel will be there all day to greet old friends and customers. Bier decided it would be a good idea to have one day every month or so for Staffel to be in the store. "If I sent everyone who wants to see her to her house, she'd never get any work done," Bier said.

Staffel wasn't idle during her time away from Charlevoix. She attended the J.C. Campbell Folk School of art in North Carolina, where she was the resident potter and program director. After six years she was recruited by the Mis-issippi Bureau of Tourism to start a new art and craft school at Camp Mississippi. It was family that brought her back to Michigan. Staffel has a daughter, granddaughter, and great-granddaughter living in the area, with another great-granddaughter on the way. "I felt that I should get back to my family," Staffel said. She was also ready to get back to the potter's wheel. In her eight years away from home she was primarily involved with administrative duties, and was ready to come home and create art again.

Staffel is still making the gentle birds, bowls and vases with her distinctive painted flowers. But as an artist always looking for new challenges, she has also developed a new line of smoke-fired pottery adorned with beads and feathers. "I've tried everything," Staffel said. "I don't sit still with one way of doing things." Staffel said her new work is a complete departure from her former stoneware. Staffel said she needs to do new things in order to avoid burn-out. "I left Charlevoix because I was burned out," she said.

Before Staffel's departure, she and her former husband ran Staffel's Pottery for nearly 20 years. They worked in a converted chicken barn, located just down the road from Bier Pottery. "I feel like it's come full circle now, with Bonnie here," Bier said.

Football team wins again

Elk Rapids falls 14-8

By L. Scott Swanson

Big plays at the beginning and end of the game helped Charlevoix pick up a 14-8 homecoming win against Elk Rapids Friday evening.

Senior tight end and tackle Chuck Pop was involved in a big offensive play in the first quarter and a big defensive play at the end of the game. On Charlevoix's opening offensive series Pop took a short look-in pass from quarterback Jason Terryberry and broke free for an 84-yard touchdown. With less than two minutes left in the game, Charlevoix led 14-8, but Elk Rapids was driving toward the Rayder goal line. On a crucial third and seven play the Elk Rapids quarterback rolled right to pass, but Pop came through the line and squished him for a loss.

Pop also figured in Charlevoix's other touchdown. In the second quarter, Terryberry again found him with a short pass. After catching the pass, Pop had the ball stripped by an Elk Rapids defender. Fortunately, for the Rayders, the fumbled ball hit the ground and bounced up into the hands of Rayder running back Jerry Duhart. Duhart didn't need to wait for further instructions. As soon as the ball landed in his hands, he hit out for the end zone.

Duhart also took a ball more than 60 yards in the second half for an apparent touchdown, but the play was called back on a clipping penalty. Duhart broke a tackle on the play, something he's been doing with surprising frequency this year. At 143 pounds Duhart is still by no means a power back. Last season Duhart seldom dropped a shoulder at the conclusion of his runs. Even after becoming hemmed in, he was still standing straight up and trying to fake defenders. Consequently, he was getting drilled. This season his running has taken on an added dimension. He's still fast. He still fakes. But now he also runs lower and harder. At the end of runs, he's giving rather than receiving a hit and either getting an extra two yards or breaking tackles. Against Elk Rapids, Duhart carried the ball 10 times for 76 yards.

Rayder fullback Bryan Jarema also had one of his best games Friday evening. Unlike Duhart, Jarema is a power back. One of Jarema's best runs Friday evening came on a draw play in the third quarter. Terryberry dropped back and sold the defense into believing he was going to pass prior to handing the ball to Jarema. The offensive lineman sustained their blocks and Jarema had a big opening up the middle. Given enough space to build momentum, he didn't come down easily. On the night, Jarema had 13 carries for 76 yards.

On the defensive side of the ball, Charlevoix had one of their better games of the season. Elk Rapids' only touchdown required the assistance of two penalties and a strange play where Justin Gengle intercepted a pass, but then fumbled the ball upon being tackled. The change of possession gave Elk Rapids a first down despite the ball ending up three yards short of the first down marker.

Basketball team unbeaten in league

Charlevoix's girls' basketball team remained undefeated in league basketball play with a 74-47 thrashing of East Jordan last Thursday evening. The win left the Rayders at 4-0 in league play, a game ahead of Kalkaska and Traverse City St. Francis.

Although Charlevoix ended up winning by 27, the game was somewhat closer than that up until the fourth quarter when the Rayders outscored the Red Devils 25-8. A real bright spot for the Rayders was the balanced scoring they received. Liz Grunch, the league's leading scorer, picked up 22 points, but the Rayders also had three other players in double figures. Kris Blanchard had 16 points, Angela Buday 11 and Beth Norton 10. Grunch and Buday are senior guards while Blanchard and Norton are junior forwards. Charlevoix had their perimeter game working in the game as 18 of their points were on three-point baskets.

Amanda Pepin led East Jordan with 16 points and 12 rebounds while Kristina Ruhling had 13 points and 14 rebounds.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 33-28. Amanda Eaton led the Rayders with 19 points while Sara Malpass had 10 points for East Jordan.

Rayders run with state's best

Some of the top Class C cross country teams in the state participated in the Carson City-Crystal Invitational Saturday. The Charlevoix boys' team came away tied for second place with the host school at 54 points, six points behind meet winner Leslie.

Not to be outdone, Charlevoix's girls' team also placed second. The Rayder girls finished with a score of 107 points, 26 points behind meet winner Hemlock.

Mike Bush led the Rayders, placing third overall in the race for large Class C schools with a time of 16:21. Matt Dickinson was fifth in 16:37, Chris LeButt was ninth in 17:04 and James Conlan, who has been one of the Rayders' most pleasant surprises this season, finished 15th in 17:17. Rounding out the Rayder scoring were: 25 - Justin Davis, 17:47; 27 - Brian Martinus, 17:55; and 44 - Paul Henne, 18:22.

In the girls' race, Chelsea Gorkiewicz ran an exceptional race, placing ninth overall with a time of 20:19. Becca Chamberlain finished 11th with a time of 20:29. Other Rayder places and times were: 24 - Candace Vandergriff, 21:23; 28 - Rachael Newcomb, 21:39; 45 - Lisa Hoadley, 22:35; 49 - Monica Browe, 22:53; 62 - Candy Siwarga, 23:32.

Erin MacNamara-Wright, a 1994 graduate of Charlevoix High School, has won a spot on the Hillsdale College cheerleading squad.

Blechel leads golf team

Charlevoix's varsity golf team placed second among three teams Sept. 28 in a match at the Belvedere Golf Course. Traverse City St. Francis placed first with 183 strokes. Charlevoix finished second with 186 strokes while Grayling came in third with 195 strokes. Joe Sweeney of St. Francis was the match medalist with a round of 42.

Scott Blechel, who has been hot in recent meets, continued to play well and led the Rayders with a score of 45. Other Rayder varsity scores were: Scott Curtis, 46; Robert Sineway, 47; Brad Eaton, 48; Scott Burns, 48; and Fritz Sommerfeld, 55.

The match left the Rayders with a 7-2 dual match record in the Great Northern Conference. The conference finals will take place Oct. 5 at Boyne Highlands. The regional meet will take place Saturday, Oct. 8 at Hidden Valley in Gaylord. The state meet will be Oct. 15 at Byron.

Gengle had two interceptions on the evening and a fumble recovery. Gengle and Rory McKeown each had critical interceptions in the fourth quarter to kill Elk Rapids' attempts to score a tying touchdown. Linebacker Gary Leitner also had an interception in the first half and had his hands on another Elk Rapids' pass later in the game. On the interior defense, Jason Metiva was a biting machine picking up 13 tackles in the game. Dan Harris had eight tackles.

Charlevoix's next game will be this Friday evening at Harbor Springs.

Rory McKeown (31), Kurt DeGrow (79) and a third Rayder tackler got together for a brief meeting at the expense of an Elk Rapids' running back Friday evening. The Rayder defense held Elk Rapids to one touchdown in a 14-8 win. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Nunemaker wins contest on first attempt

Larry Nunemaker won this past week's Charlevoix Courier football contest with a record of 8-2. Nunemaker was a regular participant in last year's contest, but this was the first week he entered this season. Tom Meggison, Kyle Borths, Tony Warchol and Bill Dreyer finished at 7-3 followed by a slew of people at 6-4. Michigan State's win over Wisconsin threw a number of people as did all three of the pro games. Here are the games and insight from the Courier Guru for this week:

Charlevoix at Harbor Springs - Charlevoix's defense is improving. But for a couple penalties and a fumble following an interception, they could have held Elk Rapids scoreless. Offensively, the backs and receivers are improving, but they still need better and more consistent play from the offensive line. The Rayders should beat Harbor Springs. Pick - Charlevoix.

Petoskey at Gaylord - This should be an interesting game. Both schools have good teams this year. Give the edge to Gaylord due to the home field advantage. Pick - Gaylord.

Cheboygan at Escanaba - Following a big win against Gaylord, the Chiefs have to make the long haul to Escanaba. This is a tough one to call. Pick - Cheboygan.

Michigan State at Michigan - If Michigan beats Michigan State, does that indicate that Wisconsin is back to being a second tier team in the Big 10? Pick - Michigan.

Western Michigan at Central Michigan - One of college football's greatest rivalries in that the students from each school don't get too concerned one way or the other about which team wins as long as there's lots of fun to be had following the game. Pick - Western.

Florida State at Miami - Despite what Washington did, it's still tough to pick against the 'Canes at home. Pick - Miami.

Oklahoma at Texas - Colorado got lucky again last Saturday. Texas is a good team this year. Pick - Texas.

San Francisco at Detroit - San Francisco getting blown out by Philadelphia was a quirk. Detroit finding ways to lose against Tampa Bay was in line with tradition. Pick - San Francisco.

Miami at Buffalo - These are two great offensive teams. Buffalo has a bit better defense. Pick - Buffalo.

Minnesota at New York Giants - Both teams were surprise losers this past week. Pick - Minnesota.

Hayes residents asked which roads need repair

By L. Scott Swanson

The Hayes Township Board is inviting township residents to come to an Oct. 19 meeting and create a plan for building and repairing township roads. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

At the Nov. 8 election township voters will decide whether or not to raise township property taxes by one mill to pay for road building and repair. (See the accompanying box for the definition of a mill.) If the proposal passes, the township will have about $82,000 each year for the next five years to spend on roads. The purpose of the Oct. 19 meeting is to allow township residents to decide how they would like to see that money spent.

Hayes Township supervisor Paul Hoadley sees the Oct. 19 meeting as an interesting concept. He said the township residents who attend the meeting will be making the choices, not the township board. He said it would be possible for a small group of people to stack the meeting and come up with a plan that would benefit only themselves, but if that happens, then the proposal probably won't pass.

"Everybody has to realize they're going to have to rise above their own little back yard," Hoadley says.

Hayes Township contains approximately 43 miles of paved roads and 19 miles of gravel roads. Up to this time the township and the county road commission have been maintaining and repairing the roads.

Hoadley said that due to limited funding, the role of the county road commission has diminished in re-

Charlevoix Personified - The tall guy who cares for our pets

Dave Norton's stature in the veterinary community is a good match for his physical stature. The six foot, seven inch tall Charlevoix veterinarian is a member of the prestigious American Animal Hospital Association. The association demands that its members keep current on the latest treatments and surgical techniques for animals. Only 53 veterinarians in Michigan are members. "I became a member so I wouldn't become lazy," Norton said.

Norton is a born and raised Charlevoix native. After receiving his doctorate in veterinarian medicine from Michigan State University, Norton started to work his way back to his hometown. He worked for two and a half years as a vet in Traverse City before opening the first veterinary clinic in Charlevoix in 1973. Since then, Norton and his wife Mary Lu have raised three children, a son, Matt, 18, daughter Beth, 16, and a daughter Sarah, 12. "I treasure my extra time with my kids," Norton said. With three children going through

Josh Barnes

... for Mayor

Why I am a write-in candidate...

Dave Novotny's name is on the ballot as the only candidate for Mayor, but he is not running and is, instead, both supporting my campaign and working with me as part of the "Do it for Charlevoix" Team.

Best for Charlevoix

My position on current issues...

Bridge Park: I consider this to be the most important issue at hand today. The old sewage building is unsanitary, smelly and may even present a health hazard. The dockage areas for the Coast Guard and for the Beaver Islander need to be safe, attractive and efficiently usable. The direct benefits that just those two functions provide to the economy and the atmosphere of our community, even standing alone, more than offset the costs of the entire project. The ongoing costs of retiring the bond issue can be further offset through reduction in city operating cost. I plan to work toward a favorable vote on that referendum regardless of the results of this election but I can be more effective in that activity if I am elected Mayor.

Infrastructure: Just as I have for thirty years at LexaLite, I will support intelligent investment but fight for cost containment on operating budgets. Specifically, I will ask the council to review and take action to reduce consulting costs. Money spent to improve the infrastructure is investment and, if it is sound investment, deserves your and my support.

Beaver Island: During my terms as a Director of the Chamber, many years ago, we became partners with Beaver Island. If elected, I would use the Office of Mayor to encourage the City, the County and the Chamber to increase that support. I consider the Beaver Island Boat Company to be a major asset of our City, just as are other local businesses and industry.

Other issues: While I have only covered three issues in this ad, I'll be covering others over the next few weeks, as we count down to election day. The Courier has stated that it will be asking for, and will publish, my responses to their list of questions. If you would like to have me attend any meetings for a down-to-earth cross examination or would just like to discuss issues with me, please call me at 547-1400 during business hours, or 547-2000 during other hours.

Do it for Charlevoix

Quotes...

"If elected, I plan to run the meetings in an impartial manner and not to push for any particular policies, which is properly the domain of the elected council members. I hope to give opportunity for ample public input but only in an orderly, well-mannered mode."

"I favor the continuation of intelligent spending on parks, parking, area and street lighting and landscaping so Charlevoix is even more the Beautiful. There are, however, significant savings available in the costs of city government, that can make such improvements painless. Still, such decisions are up to the council members, my job would just be to see that those issues get a fair hearing."

"Charlevoix does have one problem, while it is normal to have differing opinions among its citizens, it is not acceptable to let those differences divide the city. I would propose to encourage intelligent discussion with mutual respect for one another, no acrimony, no personal attacks, just dignified debate leading to a decision acceptable to all."

A little rain never stops good people

Stepping back and taking a look at all of the people who came out and enjoyed this past weekend's Apple Festival despite the rainy weather, you really have to give northern Michigan people credit. Even though the weather isn't always the best, people who inhabit, and visit, this area are tough folks and make the best of it.

Saturday morning the weather was wet, with a misty rain falling much of the time. But if you stood on the Bridge Street sidewalk near the corner of Clinton Street and looked south, the picture you saw was far from gloomy. There were people, lots of people. Farmers were selling their crops. Craftsmen were selling their works. Service and civic group members were selling pasties, roasted almonds and baked goods to help fund projects to make Charlevoix a better place.

In many a town the streets would have been bare at the first sign of rain, but not in Charlevoix. People put on rain coats, grabbed umbrellas, did what had to be done, but they were out. They were out checking out the sights, talking to their friends and neighbors and enjoying the day.

This time of year the weather gets volatile. One minute there is sunshine, warmth and the beauty of the autumn leaves. The next minute there is sleet and driving wind that chills you to the bone. But for all the inconsistency of the weather, there is the consistent will of northern Michigan's people. It is the will to have little festivals, to get out and enjoy each other's company, to make the most of whatever the world throws at you and make a good life regardless of the whims of the climate.

Apples, apples and more apples, tons of them were brought to Bridge Street this weekend. Despite some rain, plenty of people turned out for the annual Apple Fest.

Letters to the editor

Business district shows its pride in community

Editor,

Before the snow falls and memory fades, I'd like to commend the business establishments on South Bridge Street in Charlevoix. Few communities have a business district that takes such pride in the landscaping and flower gardens. Even the petunias seem more abundant along that stretch of highway. It has truly made the daily trek to work more enjoyable this summer and fall. Thank you!

It's nice to get a pat on the back! That was the theme of the award luncheon given by Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. in Alpena last week. Charlevoix was honored twice by the handsome speaker, Pat Nowak, head of Michigan's Department of Transportation. First, he was particularly pleased to present yours truly with an Award of Merit "for persuading local, state and federal officials to replace the ugly and dangerous guard rails on the landmark Charlevoix drawbridge with the Victorian filigree-style design." I would have liked to give him an award as well for without his nod of approval and support, this project, which was dubbed "Edith's Railings" in Lansing, never would have come to fruition.

The second Charlevoix award he gave was to Robert Irving for the work that he and Bernard Cannon did for the Shade Tree Commission. Besides advising on tree management, they prepared a talk and visual aids program in conjunction with the Elm Tree Institute for local groups and schools. Seventy-five tiny, new American Liberty Elms are being carefully guarded in a secret nursery and are scheduled to appear along Charlevoix streets in a few years. This new variety of elm tree is making a comeback, and Charlevoix may be one of the first Northern Michigan towns to once again enjoy the tree's shade.

City bond election Dec. 8

The county election board turned down a Nov. 17 election date and decided that a Dec. 8 would be better for a special city election.

City voters will be asked whether or not the city should borrow up to $3.5 million to fund Downtown Development Authority (DDA) projects. The city would have preferred a Nov. 17 date, but the election board felt that date would be too close to the Nov. 8 general election.

Robert Irving also was my luncheon partner and I asked him what brought him and his wife to Charlevoix. He told me that the couple had lived all over the world and they decided nine years ago, because their daughter lives in Michigan, they would like to settle up north. Cruising around Traverse City, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs they found a just-the-right house on East Dixon, and are now doing their best to keep both Charlevoix and Michigan beautiful.

Speaking of beauty, driving home from Alpena to Gaylord, was like turning back the clock 50 years. Nothing but rolling hills of soft green fields, red barns, holes of hay dotting the landscape. The assorted trees were the color of a bowl of mixed fruit; red as an apple, yellow as a banana, pink as a peach, and green as a pear. Proud, dark pines framed the scene: A few modest cottages peaked through the woods. No billboards, no McDonald's, no condominiums, no developments. It gave one pause.

The several hundred people, representing both private and public agencies, who were present in Alpena to receive plaques for statewide recycling, environmental and beautification efforts by Keep Michigan Beautiful, left the Holiday Inn with renewed enthusiasm for this pat on the back for a job well done. They will spread across the state and the ripple effect of their volunteer efforts will be appreciated by all of us, whether we are favored Michigan residents or devoted tourists.

Edith Gilbert (center) jokes with Pat Nowak, head of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) at the Keep Michigan Beautiful awards ceremony in Alpena last Friday. Gilbert received an award for her work on the Charlevoix Memorial Bridge railing. Gilbert was able to coordinate the project with the help of MDOT and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority.

the Charlevoix school system, Norton devoted a considerable amount of time serving on different school committees. "Having come from Charlevoix, I have a special interest in education here," Norton said. His interest extends beyond the classroom. Norton and his kids have found a common bond in basketball. Norton was an all conference basketball player in his days at Charlevoix. His kids are involved with the sport now. His daughter Beth is playing on the girl's high school basketball team, and Sarah is holding her own on the middle school team. Norton coaches in the girl's recreational basketball program for fourth through eighth graders.

After 23 years in the veterinary business, Norton knows the rewards and difficulties of the field. New research and techniques for treating small animals make it possible for him to help more pets. The downside of the practice, according to Norton, is being tied down, putting in long hours, and round the clock emergency calls. "The best part is helping people do what's best for their animals, educating them and being able to say, 'Together we can solve this problem.'"

Jobs Commission grant to help retrain homemakers

The Michigan Jobs Commission announced the award of $27,998 to Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan to provide job readiness, placement assistance and related supported services to displaced homemakers.

"This program is designed to help individuals who have not been active in the labor market attain the skills, competencies and self-confidence necessary to compete in today's workplace," Doug Rothwell, CEO of the Jobs Commission said. "Our goal is to put in place the resources and support structures that will foster economic self-sufficiency for all Michigan residents."

Those eligible for services under the state-funded Displaced Homemaker Program are individuals who have worked as a homemaker for more than 10 years; have not been gainfully employed outside the home for an extended period of time; had, or would have, difficulty finding employment; and have been displaced due to divorce, separation, loss of government assistance, or the death or permanent disability of their spouse.

Services may include vocational needs assessment, counseling, training, job seeking skills, placement assistance, customized support and referral services.

Rothwell noted that the grant is one of 15 awarded to agencies throughout the state with a history of service to women and experience operating employment and training programs. In total, $442,000 was authorized under the Fitzgerald-Elliott Displaced Homemaker Act.

The grant will be administered by the Michigan Jobs Commission, Office of Workforce Development.

Sorority produces cookbook with a "Taste Of Charlevoix"

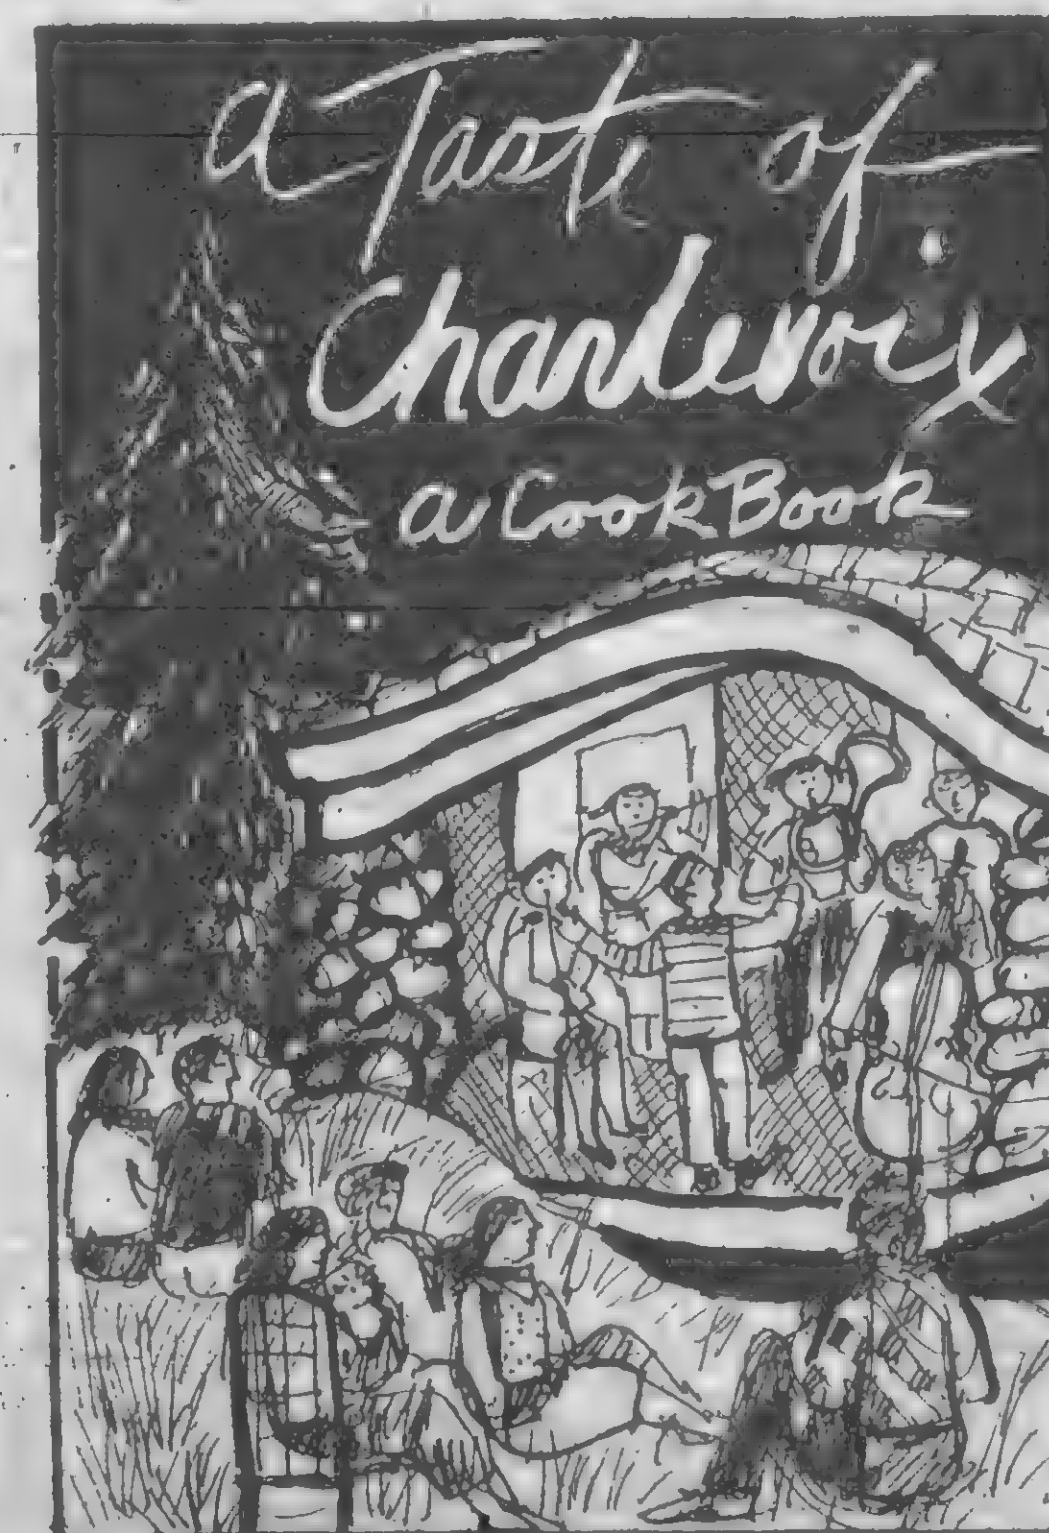

By Laurie Lounshury

You can get a taste of local art with a taste of local food in the second edition of the "Taste of Charlevoix" cookbook. The cookbook is produced by the Xi Epsilon Gamma Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority in Charlevoix. About ten years ago the sorority produced their first cookbook, a compilation of their favorite recipes, to raise money for area charities. The newest edition contains all new recipes, and proceeds will be donated to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, the Lake Charlevoix Exceptional Riders, Castle Farm Community Center, Friends of the Pool and other local charities.

Local artist Sue Bolt donated her time and artwork to the book. The first cookbook depicted her drawings of Charlevoix landmarks. The sorority asked Bolt to focus her work this time on scenes of community activities. The result is a collection of drawings depicting folks enjoying themselves at the Charlevoix band shell concerts, boaters going through the drawbridge, and new babies in their parents' arms at the new maternity wing of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Bolt's drawings are warm and homey renditions of many of the community activities.

This drawing is one of several Charlevoix scenes done by artist Sue Bolt for the "Taste of Charlevoix" cookbook.

BEACONS

by REV. PHILIP G. SCHAIRBAUM

OF BLESSINGS

On Sunday, Oct. 16, churches across America will be observing Children's Sabbath. In its third year, Children's Sabbath focuses on the urgent issue of violence against and by children. As the epidemic of violence takes an increasing toll on children and families in America, Children's Sabbath provides an opportunity for congregations to be involved in prayer, education, service, and advocacy to prevent the violence from stealing the hopes and lives of America's children.

The statistics are shocking. A child is killed by gunfire every two hours in the United States — a classroomful every two days. Another thirty children are wounded by guns each day, and countless others have their lives torn apart by violence. "We, as people of faith, can no longer shut our eyes to the crisis our children face every day, particularly the crisis of violence," says the Rev. Joan Brown Campbell of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Why should the church be concerned? Because at its root, the violence plaguing America's children is a spiritual issue. And the religious community must be the moral force behind the domestic war against our children. If we can't find a way to stop such violence, then we as a people of faith and as a nation are truly lost.

Jesus said, "Let the children come to me, for to such belongs the kingdom of God." (Mark 10:14) In the name of Christ, let us redouble our efforts in Charlevoix, in Michigan, and all across our country to reach out to children, especially those at risk, and encourage preventive investment in children before they get sick, drop out of school, suffer family breakdown, or get in trouble. The Children's Sabbath is a time when we can recommit ourselves to doing that.

(Rev. Philip G. Schairbaum is pastor of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Schairbaum and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Stephanie E. Graff

Former Charlevoix resident Stephanie E. Graff, 84, of Columbia, Tenn., died Oct. 3, 1994, at the Hill View Health Care Center in Columbia.

Graveside services were Friday, Oct. 7, at St. Mary's Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Rev. Thomas Neis officiated.

Mrs. Graff was born Jan. 9, 1910, in Port Jarvis, N.J., the daughter of Maximilian and Cathleen (Mann) Kozak.

She married Walter A. Graff on Aug. 9, 1930. They made their home in the Detroit area and then lived in Charlevoix from 1974 to 1993, when they went to live with their son in Columbia.

Mrs. Graff was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and St. Mary's Altar Society, and was also a Rainbow Shoppe volunteer.

She is survived by her husband, one son, William Graff and his wife, Vivian, of Columbia, Tenn.; two brothers, Michael Kozak and his wife, Kaye, of Farmington, and Peter Kozak of Ocala, Fla.; five grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Mary's Catholic Church. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix where arrangements were made.

Unitarians to discuss Haiti

"Understanding Haiti" will be one of two topics discussed at the Oct. 16 meeting of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Petoskey.

Services will start at 10 a.m. with the question, "How Do We Give Expression To Our Faith?" At 11 a.m., Mike and Frances Sosadeter will present information about the history and contemporary situation in Haiti.

The Sosadeters now live in St. Ignace, but resided in Haiti from 1986 to 1988 and have close ties with the country. Their teenage foster son is from Haiti. They will tell of their support for social justice and their work in Haiti.

The public is welcome to attend the service which will be in Temple B'nai Israel on the corner of Waukazoo and Michigan Streets in Petoskey.

Unitarian Universalist services are held on the first and third Sundays of each month. For more information call 536-7390.

Third candidate enters Charlevoix mayoral race

United Way begins 1994 campaign

The Charlevoix and East Jordan United Way kicked off its 1994 campaign with a volunteer training session and a reception at the Weatherlane Restaurant Sept. 27. The campaign will run through Nov. 3, with volunteers contacting local businesses and their employees.

During the kickoff, this year's goal of $50,000 was announced by campaign co-chairs, Tim Petrosky of Big Rock Point and Mark Fiegel of Edward D. Jones, Inc.

Petrosky and Fiegel announced United Way Business Week which ran from Oct. 3 to Oct. 7. Local businesses agreed to donate a portion of their profits for specified days during the week. Participating in the inaugural year of this event are: Don's IGA, The Flight Deck and Paul Bunyan Lanes, Townhouse, Whitneys, The Villager, The Clothing Company, Charlevoix Bookshop, Bridge Street Book Shop, Alexander's, Nanny's and Pete and Mickey's.

Ellen Ziener, president of the board of directors, honored the 1994 Pacesetter Company, Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, Kevin Shields, the plant's campaign co-chair, accepted the award for serving as the pacesetter. Big Rock Point employees donated a total of $19,082, of which more than $12,000 will go to the Charlevoix and East Jordan United Way. Big Rock's employees are the top donating employee group to this United Way.

Honored as the top corporate sponsor was Medusa Cement Company.

"This year's campaign is off to a good start with over $20,000 donated," said Ziener. Those wishing to contribute may do so by calling 547-0279 or sending a donation to the Charlevoix and East Jordan United Way, P.O. Box 532, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The race to be mayor of Charlevoix now includes a third write-in candidate. Josh Barnes has announced that he will join Ralph McRae and Bob Gill in seeking the city's mayoral post.

As Barnes announced that he is a candidate, former mayor Dave Novotny, the only person whose name will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot, has announced that he is not a candidate and that he is supporting Barnes. Novotny served as Charlevoix mayor for approximately three and a-half years. Earlier this year, after a nominating petition had been submitted for Novotny in the primary election, he decided he no longer wanted to be mayor and resigned.

There had been speculation as to whether or not Novotny would resume being mayor if he won the Nov. 8 election. Following a meeting with Barnes last week, Novotny phoned the Courier and said he had decided not to be a candidate, but instead to support Barnes. Novotny said he feels Barnes will carry forward the Bridge Park project and other projects he worked on during his years as mayor.

Barnes has been in Charlevoix for 31 years. His wife is Gloria Barnes. He is the founder and chief executive officer of LexaLite International Corporation. He is a member of the Illuminating Engineering Society of North America and the Society of Plastics Engineers.

Over the years he's been involved with a number of business and civic endeavors. Barnes is a former president and member of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. He helped initiate the Charlevoix Business and Industry Task Force which later became the Charlevoix Industrial Development Commission. He is a charter member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club and started the Lake Charlevoix Mariners, a sailing instruction program. Barnes and LexaLite also worked with the city to light the Mount McSaubia ski hill and put new lights on Bridge Street.

Barnes says the city has improved tremendously in recent years, really looks good and has been very hospitable toward business. He says the city is in good condition and he would like that to continue.

McDonald's new play area to open Saturday, Oct. 22

By Laurie Lounsbury

Bill Becker always wanted ten kids. Now, he's about to get hundreds of them. Becker is the new owner of the Charlevoix McDonald's Restaurant. Anyone who's driven by McDonald's lately couldn't help but notice the tremendous new indoor playland that's being added to the restaurant. Becker is hoping to draw lots of kids and parents to the new playland. "With the cold and the amount of snow we get up here, little kids can play outside only so long," Becker said. The playland will provide an indoor play area for toddlers and young children under four feet in height.

Becker is from Indianapolis, Indiana, where he owned three Mc-Donald's Restaurants. He and his wife Marilyn visited Charlevoix for seven summers before deciding to move up here. "One's dream is that you want to be able to earn a living where you go on vacation," Becker explained. He sold the Indianapolis and Petoskey McDonald's Restaurants. Becker didn't make the decision to move north by himself. Three of his four grown children operate the family businesses with their dad. They were all in favor of heading north to raise their families.

The family is one of the fortunate ones who earned a McDonald's franchise. Becker explained that 20,000 people a year apply for a McDonald's franchise, and only 100 will actually get one. The Mc-Donald's Corporation requires all franchisees to work 1,000 hours in a McDonald's franchise and attend Hamburger University in order to own a franchise. The corporation also looks for owners who are involved in the store and the community where the store is located. "I think I'll enjoy being a part of a smaller community where you can be an influence on the schools and the kids," Becker said.

Becker has tentatively planned a grand opening for the new playland to be Oct. 22. The theme, "Something Old, Something New," will appropriately cover the new addition and the renovation of the Charlevoix McDonald's. "We're looking forward to having fun that day," Becker said.

Hillegonds visits in support of Bodem

by L. Scott Swanson

You might say that House Republican Speaker Paul Hillegonds of Holland was in Charlevoix last week looking for steady work. Hillegonds was in town campaigning in support of incumbent State Representative Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena.

For the past two years the State House of Representatives has operated with a 55-55 split along republican and democratic party lines. Consequently, Hillegonds has shared the house leadership role with a representative of the democratic party. If republicans succeed in gaining a majority of members in the house of representatives, Hillegonds will become the fulltime speaker.

Two years ago Bodem defeated Democrat G.T. Long by less than 200 votes. Long and Bodem are again competing for the seat and again the race is expected to be close. Several other state house races across the state were also close two years ago and are expected to be close again.

Hillegonds was in northern

Michigan most of the day Wednesday, Oct. 5. Early in the day he was in Emmet County on behalf of Republican candidate Shannon Brower who is challenging State Representative Pat Gagliardi, D-St. Ignace. In the afternoon, he stopped by the Courier office for an interview prior to meeting with several Charlevoix County republicans at Judy's Restaurant.

Hillegonds said Bodem has remained in touch with her constituents and worked well with members of both parties to get legislation passed. "With 10 bills signed into law this session, she was among the top five members in the House," Hillegonds said. "Several of the Bodem laws were based on ideas by area residents. She gets plenty of good suggestions during her extensive schedule of weekly district office hours."

Even with the 55-55 split, Hillegonds said the past two years have been the state legislature's most productive in at least the past two decades. He said that prior to the

Tie-breaker decides Courier football contest

Dave Fowler won this past week's Courier football contest. Fowler with a record of 7-3 is the first contestant to win twice this year. He won on a tie-breaker over Kyle Borths, Bob Borths, Bill Dreyer, Norm Lawson, and Hugh Mayne who were also 7-3. You might note that the Courier was also 7-3, but the Guru can't win so he doesn't pick a tie-breaker.

The cumulative leader board has a different look this week. Bill Dreyer finally got enough picks to qualify and ended up at the top. In his first prediction of the week, the Guru predicts that Dreyer's stay at the top of the heap won't last for long.

David Fowler and Kyle Borths also remain among the leaders with Tom Meggison and the Courier Guru close behind. A cluster of people are picking at a .600 rate.

Petoskey at Charlevoix. Charlevoix is on a three-game winning streak, but it's about to come to an end. Petoskey has a good team this year. Pick - Petoskey.

Gaylord at Sault Ste. Marie.

Gaylord lost to Petoskey in the final seconds last week, but they're still fairly solid. Sault is historically a team with big players who don't play very well. Pick - Gaylord.

East Jordan at Elk Rapids. Elk Rapids doesn't run very well, but they pass even worse. Pick - East Jordan.

Penn State at Michigan. Penn State has run up some gaudy scores, but they really haven't played anybody this year. Unless you consider Rutgers a power house. Pick - Michigan.

Ohio State at Michigan State. This could be a great game to watch, especially for people who like power football. Pick - Michigan State.

Oklahoma at Colorado. This will be one of Colorado's easier games. Pick - Colorado.

Kansas State at Nebraska. Kansas State will beat a Nebraska team which is without its quarterback and was somewhat over-rated to begin with. Pick - Kansas State.

Aburn at Florida. Auburn has that much ballyhooed unbeaten streak, but it's about to come to an end. Pick - Florida.

Alabama at Tennessee. Tennessee has played well this year, but they've had some injuries and won't beat Alabama. Pick - Alabama.

Dallas at Philadelphia. Buddy's flown the Eagle coop, but they still play tough defense in Philly. That new running back brings to mind Barry Foster. Pick - Philadelphia.

Top 10 on the year (Minimum 30 picks)

1. Bill Dreyer 21-9 .700
2. David Fowler 33-17 .660
3. Kyle Borths 26-14 .650
4. Courier Guru 31-19 .620
4. Tom Meggison 31-19 .620
6. Bob Borths 30-20 .600
6. Ralph Doan Jr. 18-12 .600
6. Hugh Mayne 30-20 .600
6. Tom Sandison 30-20 .600
6. Brandon Webb 24-16 .600

J.V. football team wins 39-16

Charlevoix's junior varsity football team manhandled Harbor Springs 39-16 last Thursday evening. David Manker and Steve Speigl each took interceptions in four touchdowns. Manker also scored on a 50-yard punt return. The Rayders other three touchdowns came on a four-yard run by Bob Anzell, a pass from T.J. Carey to Scott Smith and a 13-yard run by Steve Felter. Joe Grundman kicked one extra point and passed to Marc Jacobs for a two-point conversion.

The win raised the Rayders' season record to 5-1. Charlevoix will be at Petoskey Thursday evening.

CARD OF THANKS 070

The Family of John Paul Widmayer would like to give a special thanks to all the outstanding young adults who came down to John's funeral. Words cannot express how deeply we were moved by your presence.

We would also like to thank several other citizens of Beaver Island for all the kind words and assistance you gave us: Buddy Martin, Deputy Mike Russell, Beaver Island Fire Department, Beaver Island E.M.S. and others who worked late into the evening on behalf of the three young men who were lost on your lovely island. Thanks to Tim McDonough and Family for lending us their vehicle and making our trip to Beaver Island less difficult. Thanks to the Petrak family for organizing and packing John Paul's possessions for removal off the island.

We also need to commend Sheriff George L. Lesater and the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department and Rev. Bruce Hamilton. The support, kindness and empathy offered to us went well beyond the line of duty. THANK YOU.

The U.S. Coast Guard also must be thanked for their participation in the search for the downed plane.

Thanks again,

John, Phyllis, Barbara and Christine Widmayer

CARD OF THANKS 070

The Family of John Paul Widmayer would like to give a special thanks to all the outstanding young adults who came down to John's funeral. Words cannot express how deeply we were moved by your presence.

We would also like to thank several other citizens of Beaver Island for all the kind words and assistance you gave us: Buddy Martin, Deputy Mike Russell, Beaver Island Fire Department, Beaver Island E.M.S. and others who worked late into the evening on behalf of the three young men who were lost on your lovely island. Thanks to Tim McDonough and Family for lending us their vehicle and making our trip to Beaver Island less difficult. Thanks to the Petrak family for organizing and packing John Paul's possessions for removal off the island.

We also need to commend Sheriff George L. Lesater and the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department and Rev. Bruce Hamilton. The support, kindness and empathy offered to us went well beyond the line of duty. THANK YOU.

The U.S. Coast Guard also must be thanked for their participation in the search for the downed plane.

Thanks again,

John, Phyllis, Barbara and Christine Widmayer

BOND AUTHORIZING RESOLUTION

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP HOSPITAL FINANCE AUTHORITY LIMITED OBLIGATION REVENUE BOND (CHARLEVOIX AREA HOSPITAL PROJECT)

ADOPTED AND APPROVED OCTOBER 3, 1994

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP HOSPITAL FINANCE AUTHORITY

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING $4,500,000 CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP HOSPITAL FINANCE AUTHORITY LIMITED OBLIGATION REVENUE BOND (CHARLEVOIX AREA HOSPITAL PROJECT) AND DETERMINING OTHER MATTERS RELATIVE THERETO

WHEREAS, the Charlevoix Township Hospital Finance Authority is authorized by Act 38, Michigan Public Act of 1969, as amended; (the "Act") to issue bonds for the purpose of making loans to hospitals (as defined in the Act); and

WHEREAS, Charlevoix Area Hospital (the "Obligor") is a hospital, as defined in and qualifying for financing under the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Obligor applied to the Authority for a loan in the amount of Four Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($4,500,000) to refinance the cost of construction of a 24,000 square foot addition to the Obligor's facilities located at 14700 Lakeshore Drive, Charlevoix, Michigan; and to retire indebtedness of the Obligor to the Community Program Loan Trust 1987A (the "Project"); and

WHEREAS, On March 24, 1994, the Charlevoix Township Hospital Finance Authority (the "Issuer"), adopted a resolution entitled "Resolution Authorizing Application for Order of Approval And Setting Public Hearing"; and

WHEREAS, On April 19, 1994, the Issuer conducted a public hearing with respect to the issuance by the Issuer of its Limited Obligation Revenue Bond (Charlevoix Area Hospital Project), (the "Bond"); and

WHEREAS, On August 8, 1994, the Board of Trustees of Charlevoix Township adopted a resolution entitled "Resolution Approving Issuance of Bonds by the Charlevoix Township Hospital Finance Authority for the Benefit of Charlevoix Area Hospital"; and

WHEREAS, the Issuer proposes to enter into a Loan Agreement, dated as of October 1, 1994, (the "Loan Agreement") with the Obligor, providing for a loan in the amount of the bond from the Issuer to the Obligor (the "Loan") to be used by the Obligor, together with other available funds of the Obligor, (i) to refinance the cost of construction of a 24,000 square foot addition to the Obligor's facilities; (ii) to retire indebtedness of the Obligor to the Community Program Loan Trust 1987A; and (iii) to pay a portion of the costs of issuing the Bond; and

WHEREAS, the Loan Agreement contains the terms and conditions of the Loan and the repayment thereof and provides for the execution and delivery by the Obligor of a Mortgage and Security Agreement dated as October 1, 1994, (the "Mortgage"), in order to secure the obligation of the Obligor to repay the Loan; and

WHEREAS, the Issuer desires to approve the Loan Agreement, the Mortgage and Indenture dated as of October 1, 1994, (the "Indenture") between the Issuer and CB North of Charlevoix, Michigan (the "Bondholder") providing for the terms and conditions under which the Bond is to be issued and will be outstanding;

and

WHEREAS, the Issuer is reasonably satisfied that the Obligor's hospital facilities and other revenues pledged will produce sufficient revenue to pay the principal of, premium, if any and interest on the Loan and the Bond, other costs, expenses and charges in connection with the Loan and the issuance of the Bond, and other charges or obligations of the Obligor which may be prior to or equal to the Loan and the Bond promptly as they become due, and that the Obligor is otherwise soundly financed.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP HOSPITAL FINANCE AUTHORITY, THAT:

1. Issuance of Bond: Compliance with Act. The Issuer does hereby authorize issuance of the Bond pursuant to the Act. The Bond shall be a limited obligation of the Issuer, payable solely from the sources provided by the Indenture, and shall not constitute a general obligation or debt of the Issuer, the Township of Charlevoix, the State of Michigan, or any political subdivision thereof within the meaning of any constitutional, charter or statutory provision or limitation. The Issuer does hereby determine that the Obligor constitutes a hospital under the Act and the Loan to the Obligor for the purposes described above in accordance with the terms of the Loan Agreement is in furtherance of the public purposes set forth in the Act and is necessary to realize the objectives and purposes of the Act. The Obligor has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Issuer and the Issuer does hereby determine that the Loan and other funds available to the Obligor will be sufficient to refinance the cost of construction of a 24,000 square foot addition to the Obligor's facilities and retire indebtedness of the Obligor to the Community Program Loan Trust 1987A. The Issuer further determines, based on information supplied by the Obligor, that the Issuer is reasonably satisfied that the Obligor's hospital facilities and other revenues pledged will produce sufficient revenue to meet the principal and interest on the Bond, other costs, expenses and charges in connection with the issuance of the Bond, and the charges or obligations of the Obligor which may be prior to or equal to the Bond promptly as they become due, and that the Obligor is otherwise soundly financed.

2. Term of Bond. The Bond shall bear an original issue date, be issued in the aggregate principal amount, have maturities and interest rates, and be subject to optional, mandatory and extraordinary redemption all as set forth in the Indenture approved by this Bond Authorizing Resolution.

3. Approval of Documents. The Issuer hereby approves the following agreements and instruments substantially in the form presented to the Issuer and on file with the Issuer and the Chairperson or the Secretary of the Issuer (each an "Authorized Officer") is hereby authorized and directed to execute and deliver and accept the agreements and instruments to which the Issuer is a party:

(a) Loan Agreement bearing a draft date of September 27, 1994.

(b) Indenture bearing a draft date of September 27, 1994.

(c) Mortgage bearing a draft date of September 27, 1994.

(d) Guaranty bearing a draft date of September 27, 1994.

4. Form, Sale and Delivery of Bond. The Bond shall be executed, be in the form, be subject to redemption and be secured as provided in the Indenture. The Bond shall be sold by the Issuer to the initial purchaser at a purchase price equal to 100 percent of the aggregate principal amount thereof. In accordance with the terms and conditions of the Loan Agreement and the Indenture, the Bond shall be executed and delivered as provided herein and in the Indenture upon receipt of payment therefor and the proceeds thereof shall be paid to the Depository and used by the Obligor in accordance with the Indenture and the Loan Agreement.

5. Authorized Corrections and Changes in Documents. Approval of each of the Loan Agreement; Bond, Indenture, Mortgage and Guaranty is subject to and includes approval of such completions, corrections, and other changes therein as are determined by an Authorized Officer of the Issuer to be necessary and not to materially or substantially adversely alter any essential provision thereof and as are approved by the Issuer's counsel and bond counsel.

6. Approval of Filings and Submissions With Other Governmental Agencies. Any Officer of the Issuer is authorized on behalf of the Issuer to apply for such rulings, orders and approvals and file or submit such elections or other documents to any governmental agency in order that the Bond may be validly issued and the interest thereon be excluded from gross income for federal income tax purposes.

7. Designation. The Issuer hereby designates the Bond as a "Qualified Tax-Exempt Obligation" within the meaning of Section 265(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and states its reasonable expectation that it will not issue more than Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000) of such obligations during calendar year 1994.

8. Authorization of Closing Certificates and Documents. Any Authorized Officer of the Issuer is hereby authorized and directed to execute and deliver such certificates and other documents and to take such other actions as may be necessary or convenient to effect the proper sale, execution and delivery of the Bond, subject to and as may be required by the Indenture, the Loan Agreement and this Bond Authorizing Resolution.

9. Publication of Bond Authorizing Resolution. The Secretary of the Issuer is hereby authorized and directed to publish a copy of this Bond Authorizing Resolution one time in a newspaper of general circulation within the Township of Charlevoix within ten (10) days of the date hereof.

10. Effective Date. This Bond Authorizing Resolution, as it relates to the authorization of the Bonds, shall be effective immediately upon publication as set forth in Paragraph 9 and shall otherwise be effective immediately upon adoption.

...Rayders hold onto league lead

double figures and two others close. Blanchard had 19 points, Grunch 11 and Liz Kelly 10. Jenny Swenor came off the bench to score nine points while Melissa Anderson had eight.

Jill Dreyer had six points despite missing much of the second half with a wrist injury. Dreyer's strong suit has never been scoring. She scores just enough to keep her opponents honest. Her strength is defense and against Kalkaska she was exceptional. Late in the first quarter Charlevoix missed a shot which Kalkaska rebounded. Dreyer, mentally and physically, made the transition from offense to defense before the Kalkaska player standing next to her made the transition from defense to offense. Dreyer figured out that the Kalkaska player was going to have an outlet pass thrown her way even before the player did. By the time the Kalkaska player caught on to what was up, Dreyer had stepped in, picked off the pass and fed the ball to Kelly for an easy basket.

While Charlevoix is getting balanced scoring, they're still looking for someone to step into the lane, declare ownership and make any opponent who dares pass through pay a price. By streaks, Anderson, Blanchard, Norton, Kelly and Christie Kaczynski have played well in the paint, but more consistency would help. Grunch, Dreyer and Angela Buday have tried to help on the glass from the guard position.

Against Harbor Springs, Charlevoix had another slow first half. While the Rayders had received contributions from several players two nights earlier, the Rams received contributions from several players in Harbor Springs.

Charlevoix trailed 16-8 after the first quarter and 34-19 at halftime. The Rayders rallied in the third quarter to cut the Rams' lead to 47-39, but faded in the fourth quarter.

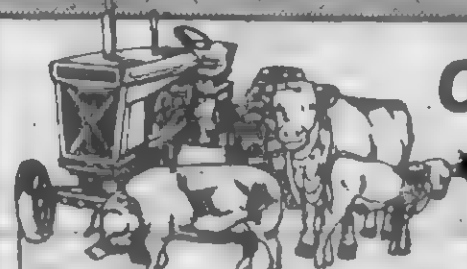

Grunch led Charlevoix with 13 points while Blanchard added 10.

Charlevoix's junior varsity team won against both Kalkaska and Harbor Springs.

Charlevoix residents received two beautification awards from the Keep Michigan Beautiful organization last week. But as this 1968 Courier photo shows, beautification efforts aren't something new to Charlevoix. The outline for this photo read, "Mrs. Jay Oliver, center, receives the Garden Club's best-garden award from Mrs. Isaac Moerland, right, and Mrs. Ralph Hamilton. Mrs. Hamilton pointed out that the effort Mr. and Mrs. Oliver have put into beautifying their 408 W. Lincoln property earned them the award."

55-55 split, he felt that on many issues republicans and moderate democrats held a philosophical majority, but couldn't get democratic leaders to allow the issues to come to a vote. Hillegonds said that getting to a 55-55 split allowed representatives such as Bodem to make much more of a difference by working with members of both parties.

Hillegonds says he expects this year's election to be good for republican candidates from top to bottom. "I'm fully confident that we can win at least 56 (seats)," he says. He adds that figure could go as high as 59 to 60.

But he also notes, "If we have close races around the state again, these races could be the difference between control of the agenda or a return to paralysis."

cent years. "If things continue as they are, road commissions will become a less and less viable organization in building and maintaining roads. They just do less and less," Hoadley said.

Hayes Township currently has a total annual budget of around $135,000 to $140,000. Although the amount spent on road work varies from year to year, Hoadley estimates that about half of the township budget currently is spent on roads.

Overall, Hayes Township doesn't have bad roads, Hoadley says, but there are places which need work and township residents have told board members they want good roads. With that in mind, the board decided to put the tax proposal on the ballot and let voters decide what they're willing to pay for township roads. Prior to that, at the Oct. 19 meeting, township residents will decide which roads need work.

Property tax definitions

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's state equalized value (SEV).

State Equalized Value or SEV is half of a property's theoretical market value.

Market value is the price a home and property would sell for.

Example - A home with a market value of $80,000 would have an SEV of $40,000. Every mill of property taxes would cost the homeowner $40.

DDA discusses Dec. 8 bonding election

The City of Charlevoix and the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) will be working on a tight time table if city voters approve borrowing up to $3.5 million through the sale of tax exempt municipal bonds.

At a Dec. 8 special election, city voters will vote on a proposal to borrow the money through bonding. The money would be used to fund DDA proposed projects, primarily the renovation of Bridge Park which is located east of Bridge Street, just to the south of the channel.

If voters approve the proposal Dec. 8, the city would work with the Michigan Municipal Bond Authority to price the bonds Dec. 13 and sell them Dec. 21. The city would be working under the pressure of a Dec. 31 state deadline. The city needs to meet the state line in order to be eligible for state funding assistance in paying off the bonds.

Through a complex set of circumstances involving state school finance reform, the state will pay up to $159,386 per year over the 20 year bond pay back if the bonds are sold by the end of the year. The city would pay about $135,265 per year. Extending that over the 20-year projected life of the bonds, the state would end up paying a total of $3,187,720 and the city would end up paying $2,705,300 for a total payback of $5,893,020. All of these figures are based on estimates which are subject to change based on the interest rate the bonds are sold at and other variable factors.

The money would primarily fund Bridge Park improvements including refurbishing the Beaver Island Boat Company dock area, removing the old sewage treatment building and constructing a building in the bank of the park to house the boat company office and storage space for the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acadia.

At the DDA's Oct. 10 meeting, city treasurer Rick Brandt brought DDA members up to date on the time table for selling the bonds should the proposal pass. The DDA also authorized the hiring of Joel Piell of the law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone to serve as the city's bond counsel and work with city staff on the sale of the bonds.

At the Oct. 10 meeting, DDA members said they feel the Dec. 8 election and the bond proposal are critical to the continuation of the DDA program and projects. The DDA has scheduled a special meeting for 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 19 to plan an informational campaign for the Dec. 8 election.

In other action at the Oct. 10 meeting, the DDA gave final authorization for the sale of the former Kusina Motors Building to Charlevoix Cinema Inc. for the construction of a new theater. The warranty deed was executed to former mayor Dave Novotny. In response to questions from the audience, Bill Supernaw of Charlevoix Charlevoix Cinema Inc. explained that Charlevoix Cinema Inc. will still be constructing the theater and that Novotny is only temporarily involved because it works out better for tax purposes.

by L. Scott Swanson

*New storage building out at the Char-Em Intermediate School District headquarters? No problem.

*Need to adjust the roof at the back of a building at 321 1/2 Bridge Street to remodel an upstairs apartment? The proposal's been approved by the planning commission. Well, sounds good. Charles Koucky can go ahead with that.

*The city has 275 trees that need limbs removed, 40 dead trees to be removed and 61 stumps which need to be either ground up or yanked out and hauled away. The city received three bids on the project. Lake Charlevoix Tree Service said they'd do it for $20,124. Al & Jim's Tree Service bid $30,535. McDuffie's Tree Care bid $42,475. So Lake Charlevoix Tree Service is going to have at it. Need to have the job done by March 31.

*That new LexaLite plant which is going to be built in the industrial park needs to have the office section of the building located 20 feet west of what was originally planned. Can't move the earth. Have to adjust the plans and the building. Do that.

*It's time for the city to renew its liability insurance. Michigan Municipal League has been covering the city for up to $2 million since 1985-86. The average price increase has been 1.325 percent per year. This year it's dropping from $80,268 to $78,976. The reason for the decrease is the replacement of a fire truck and the purchase of a new site for the electric and water departments. City treasurer Rick Brandi says the Michigan Municipal League's response to the city's claim for the electrical plant fire was very good as has been the service in general. So the city is renewing the coverage.

*And while Brandi has the floor, might as well talk about bids from accounting firms to do the city audit. The city received three-year bids from six firms ranging in price from $41,600 to $65,000. In addition to price, a variety of other factors were considered. After everything was factored in, Brandi recommended the city stay with the firm of Rehman Robson out of Cheboygan. At $46,600, they weren't the low bidder, but Brandi recommended them for the following reasons: They've saved the city money in the past by offering ideas on efficiency and cost cutting and they continue to come up with those ideas. There's a cost in changing auditors. They've never billed the city the full amount. If they're able to get the work done in less time than anticipated, they bill accordingly. They're willing to answer questions that come up without sending an additional bill. So Rehman Robson it is.

*Questions have been raised about how the city handles rollerblading. Should the city be more or less tolerant of rollerbladers, or are policies as they should be. Acting mayor Ted Felter said that if the city is going to look at changing ordinances, one of the first steps should be scheduling a public hearing to get input from folks. That hearing will take place at the council's second meeting in November.

*Turning to public comments -

*Gabe Campbell, who is challenging Felter for a second ward council seat, said he heard that one of the fire trucks had transmission problems and he wanted to know what happened and how much it cost to fix. Brandi said: yes there had been some kind of a problem, but the repair bill hasn't come back yet.

*Billie Smith, a second ward resident, asked about the fee charged for people picking up absentee voting applications. She said that the other day she went down to City Hall to pick up a pad of applications for some of the senior citizens living at Pine River Place and was told there was a charge for them. Felter said his understanding is that there is no charge to pick up one application, but there is a charge if you want to pick up a whole bunch. Smith said there were eight elderly people at Pine River Place who needed the applications and it's difficult for some of them to get out to pick them up. Felter suggested that they write or phone to let the City Clerk know that Smith would be picking them up for them.

*Charles Papineau, a resident of the first ward, said that back in August a statement was made that a report would be received on the airport in two weeks. He asked if the council had received such a report. Council members said: no they haven't and they'll have to look into that.

On another matter, Papineau said that in regard to recent developments on the north side the only time anything has been done to enforce city ordinance compliance is when someone in the neighborhood makes a request. He said that currently once someone gets a zoning permit, there's no enforcement policy in place to assure that the person receiving the permit actually complies with the provisions of the permit. Felter noted that that's true and that the responsibility for zoning enforcement falls upon the city zoning administrator. Currently, the city doesn't have a zoning administrator, but city planner Gerry Harsch is serving as acting zoning administrator. Felter suggested that it might be possible to adopt a system which required the zoning administrator to inspect a building once stakes and a foundation are in place to assure that the building is in the right location and at the proper elevation. The city attorney will look into the possibility of adopting such a policy.

*Polle Verwy, a resident of the second ward, inquired about the shortage of council members. Felter said she'd have to ask the two who weren't at the meeting - those two being Butch Russell from the second ward and Jackie Cross from the third ward.

The Charlevoix City Council met Oct. 17 and took the aforementioned actions. The whole deal took less than an hour.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Additional information about students is helpful to parents

Parents of Charlevoix students recently received six-week updates on students' academic progress. Something worth noting about the updates is that some parents may have received more information from teachers than they have in the past.

For example, one of the middle school teachers, Andrea Dionise, has each of her students' assignments and corresponding grades entered into a computer file. At the six-week update, she had the computer print out a listing for each student. Rather than just receiving a notice of what grade their child is getting, parents of her students received a listing of all topics the student studied during the past six weeks and each grade the student received on quizzes and homework assignments related to those topics.

To a parent who is trying to work with the school system and child to get your child a good education, this kind of information is extremely helpful. As a parent trying to help your child through the educational process, it's vital that you know where that child is doing well and where that child is doing poorly. The more specific the information you have, the more specific you can be in addressing any problems. Dionise has obviously recognized this need and found a way to use a computer to efficiently meet it. A tip of the hat to her.

Other teachers have provided parents information in other ways. Middle-school teacher Tori Fisher used a standard report form to write a note to a parent who had expressed concern at the beginning of the year parent walk-through. She wrote down what the student had been studying, how the student is progressing and what areas of concern she is monitoring. Once again, you have a teacher working with parents to keep them involved and informed. Not only does this address problems, it keeps a lot of things from developing into problems.

Still other teachers have simply been spending time on the phone talking to various parents and letting them know how students are doing. That's good. Common sense indicates that the educational process is going to be more effective if all of the major players - the student, parents and teachers - are on the same page and working toward the same objectives. For that to occur there has to be effective communication so that everyone has the necessary information in hand.

In educational improvement discussions, a statistic which often comes up is the percentage of parents who attend parent-teacher conferences. Often there is a complaint that the percentage is too low. The logical question when confronted with that type of statistic, is why is the percentage low? The answer in many cases is that if parent-teacher conferences aren't done correctly they aren't particularly useful. Teachers don't volunteer enough information and parents don't ask enough questions. Consequently, not much useful information gets exchanged. Parents of good students are told their child is doing fine. And they say, "Good to hear," and go home. Parents of students who aren't doing well are told their kid's getting bad grades. And they say, "Ok, I'll tell the kid to study harder," and go home. In the long run, not much is gained from that type of exchange. Parents don't get much out of it and neither do the teachers. More meaningful information needs to be exchanged. Apparently, that's happening in the Charlevoix school system and residents of the school district should be pleased.

While an improvement in student progress reports is certainly a step in the right direction, another item which would be helpful is to have a syllabus presented to parents at the parent walk-through at the beginning of the year. In most college classes, at the beginning of the semester, students receive a syllabus which tells them what they will be studying and expected to learn during the course of that class. For parents planning to work with their K-12 students, something similar to a syllabus would be very helpful. Teachers have lesson plans which could be fairly easily adapted to meet the need. The syllabus doesn't need to be too detailed. Parents don't need to know exactly what their child will be studying every second of every day. They just need to know the main points being covered and where those topics are addressed in the student's textbook. Many a parent is capable of doing fifth grade math, provided he or she receives enough advance warning to brush up a little. The key point is that in order for a parent to help a child meet educational expectations, the parent must know what those expectations are going to be.

Currently the Charlevoix school system, like many other school systems, is re-evaluating some of its educational practices and philosophies. That's good, very healthy and probably overdue. But all of the talk and theory is only useful when it's put into practice and bears fruit. Improved communication and information flow between teachers and parents is one of those fruits. Apparently we're making some tangible progress there.

Letters to the editor

Thanks for help with race

Editor,

We would like to especially thank Paul and Georgeann Lindberg for their continued support as hosts of the third annual Re-Pete Invitational at Goldeneye Farms. Also thank you to the many other individuals, businesses and volunteers who helped make this event a success.

Sincerely,

Roger Bush, race coordinator on behalf of the Charlevoix High School Cross Country teams.

(Editor's note: For those who aren't familiar with the Re-Pete Invitational, it is an early season cross country race held on a farm south of Charlevoix. The course is unusual in that it is European style and includes hurdles and water and mud. The high school runners love it and consider it to be among the most fun races of the season.)

Author Sue Harrison will visit Charlevoix Saturday, Oct. 22 to sign copies of her recently released book, "Brother Wind." Harrison will be at the Charlevoix Bookshop from noon to 2 p.m. She will be reading from the book at 12:30, followed by a brief question and answer session on Alaskan history.

Harrison is from Pickford in Michigan's upper peninsula. She is on the Board of Regents at Lake Superior State University and was the speaker at Charlevoix High School's 1994 commencement exercise.

"Brother Wind" is the final book in a trilogy of novels set in Aleutian Islands and Alaska several thousand years ago. Harrison has received acclaim from The Literary Guild and Doubleday Book Club, among other organizations. "Brother Wind" is being published by William Morrow & Co., a division of The Hearst Corporation.

Holly Daze planning has already started

Planning is well under way for the second annual Charlevoix Area Hospital "Holly Daze" event Nov. 25, 26, and 27, at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Ginny Carey, chairman of the event, says, "This year's 'Holly Daze' will be a great place to get in the Christmas spirit." There will be wreaths, Christmas trees, and gingerbread houses on display. Angels, poinsettias, craft items and baked goods can be purchased. In addition, a children's store will have items priced at $1 or less.

Christmas music by area musicians and students will set the mood for the season.

The "Holly Trolley" will shuttle between downtown and the elementary school so shoppers can park at either place and be returned to their car.

Committee members are: Kaye Beatty, Dianne Dreyer, Sheila Bogart, Joy Halverson, Sulane Hamilton, Merle Hilderbrand, Sandy Polk and Kathy Johnson.

Charlevoix teachers participate in Quality Learning program

by DIXIE DARLING ASHTON
If this were Jeopardy, the answer would be — what parents, community members, and school districts want for all students as a result of the educational practices enabling them to lead the most enriching, productive lives in the 21st Century.

The question: What is Partners For Quality Learning?

Charlevoix and Boyne Falls Public Schools sent representatives from their communities and schools to the first of five two-day Partners For Quality Learning Workshops held in Petoskey Oct. 4 and 5 at the Holiday Inn.

"We believe that quality and excellence are within the grasp of all students and staff," facilitator Dr. William J. Smith, executive director of the nationwide Quality Learning Program, explained to his audience of 42 educators and parents. "We do not believe in 'quick fixes' or canned programs."

Beginning with separate initial workshops including each entire school district last spring and earlier this fall, Charlevoix and Boyne Falls Schools were introduced to Project Quality Schools by Dr. John Champlin, foremost educator and leader for the nationally acclaimed program. Both districts agreed to make the three-year commitment to join forces with parents, community members, and school personnel to work together toward the common goal of excellence in education for all.

"We need to improve on what we already have," believes Pam Newcomb, parent and member of the Charlevoix core-team who all agree that "this is going to be a very positive experience for our entire community and school district. Rather than dwell on what's wrong with our schools, we're going to keep what's working and make improvements in problem areas."

Dr. Roberta Jackson, Charlevoix's superintendent, reports, "All of us involved with Project Quality Schools and are confident that this program is very meaningful to the entire Charlevoix community."

According to Patrick Smith, Boyne Falls newly appointed superintendent, "I'm really excited about initiating this program in our community schools. I see it as the glue that's going to hold our district together and allow us to adapt successfully to the 21st Century."

Ruth Goldsmith, K-12 principal, also expresses optimism. "This will be a total systemic change for Boyne Falls. Not just instruction, but all facets of our educational system will be affected in a positive way."

The focus of Project Quality Schools is facilitating what entire school communities want for their district. Its philosophy is inclusive in nature: Everybody's involved with the school improvement process.

"This fostering of excellence will enable us to regain pride in our schools as we prepare our students to be responsible, self-directed life-long learners," projects Gary Grundman, new principal of Charlevoix High School.

Supporters of Project Quality Schools sincerely believe, "Higher expectations will produce greater results, and who can argue with success?"

Odyssey of the Mind program gets started for this year

Parents who have children in any of the three Charlevoix schools should be aware that registration for Odyssey of the Mind teams is taking place now through Oct. 19. Information about this creative problem solving after school activity can be obtained by contacting their child's school. Parents would help students decide on the problems their students would like to solve and what their responsibilities as team members are. The program requires many volunteers (parents must help in some way) to work with these teams of seven young people for coaching and judging at all division levels. High school teams have the option of coaching their own team experience.

Over the last ten years Charlevoix teams have been very successful on the regional, state, and nationwide competition levels. Another unique opportunity to join a team.

Region VII competition for the Odyssey of the Mind Program takes place on Saturday, Feb. 18, 1995, in Gaylord.

Steps to insure that all interested students are placed on OM teams include obtaining registration information, completing the form, and returning the signed form to the student's school by Oct. 24. An important parent meeting for organizing the teams will be held at the elementary school, Oct. 24, at 7 p.m. Kathy Martinchek, working through the Char-Em Intermediate School District (547-9947), is conducting a coaches training session Saturday, Oct. 29. Questions about any part of the OM program can be directed to Carol Elliott at the K-5 building (547-3215) or Tom Sothard at the Middle School (547-3209).

October 19 is National Mammography Day Give Yourself the Gift of a Lifetime

Breast cancer is one of the most common cancers. One in 11 women will get it. Curing this cancer depends largely on finding it at an early stage. When it is found at a very early stage 97% of women will live at least 10 years and many will be cured.

Yearly breast exams by the doctor, and self breast exams monthly, are a very good way to detect early changes, but an additional test called a mammogram can pick up some cancers that are too small to be felt yet.

A mammogram is an X-ray of the breast, although very small amounts of radiation are used. The indications for having a mammogram depend on a woman's age and the risk factors, such as having close relatives with breast cancer.

Women should discuss the need for a mammogram with their physician. The guidelines are: 1) A baseline exam at age 35-40 which can be used for later comparison, 2) Every 1-2 years between age 40-50, 3) Each year after 50, 4) Each year after age 40 if there is a family history of breast cancer, 5) Each year after 35 for any person who has had breast cancer herself (there is a five-fold increase in risk if a person has already had one breast cancer).

If a suspicious lump is found on the mammogram, your doctor can decide if it needs to be removed, or if it can be followed.

Charlevoix Area Hospital cooperates with the District Health Department No. 3 in the "Womancare" program for breast and cervical cancer screening for women over 40. Or, if you would like a physician referral, please call Public Relations at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Congregational Church to host "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure

The "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure will be performed by the Charlevoix Community Chorale and Chamber Orchestra Sunday, Oct. 30 at the First Congregational Church at 4 p.m.

Featured soloists at the annual concert directed by Ellen Addington again will be bass baritone Jeffrey Norris, soprano Nancy MacArthur Smith and violinist Rosemary Malocay.

"Cantic of Remembrance," composed especially for the occasion by Elizabeth Humphrey, is a short work being performed for the first time by the chorus, soprano and baritone soloists with Humphrey at the organ. Texts for the work are those commemorating loved ones who have passed away.

Also to be performed will be Antonio Vivaldi's "In Memoria Aeterna." It is from his more extended work "Beatus Vir" (Blessed is the Man).

Norris, member of the Interlochen Arts Academy faculty, is a versatile singer who's equally comfortable in opera, oratorio and chamber music, having performed throughout the United States and Canada in these genres. He made his orchestral and oratorio debut with the Omaha Symphony singing Bach's "Mass in B Minor."

Smith won first place this spring in the National Association of Teachers of Singing competition in Washington, D.C. She is a frequent soloist at St. Alaba's and other churches in the Washington area and a former soloist of the Soldiers Chorus of the U.S. Army Field Band. She also performed in Opera and Other Madness, an ensemble of light opera singers.

Malocay is a member of the Interlochen faculty who has performed often in community concerts.

Addington and Humphrey are well known in musical circles. They are respectively music director and organist for the First Congregational Church. Members of the chorale and chamber orchestra are from the Charlevoix area and the Interlochen faculty.

The Faure work will be performed as he originally scored it in 1893 for a small chamber orchestra of divided violas, cellos, basses, harp and horns with one solo violin. It is not a purely liturgical Requiem as Faure selected texts emphasizing rest and peace, omitting any mention of the Day of Judgment. Lovely rich melodies are Faure's gift in this popular work.

A reception following the program will enable audience members to greet the performers. No admission is charged for the concert but donations are suggested.

Lutherans plan Noah's Ark party

Bethany Lutheran Church is sponsoring a "Noah's Ark" theme party Oct. 31 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Come dressed in your favorite animal costume and join us for some games, stories and even meet Mrs. Noah who will tell us about their journey on the ark.

Admission is a small bag of candy to share with others. Please call Laura at 547-1062 or Sandy at 547-5920 to register.

Bodem to be in town Oct. 21

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-106th District, will conduct local office hours for Charlevoix County constituents Oct. 21.

Each month, Bodem is available at two locations to discuss issues or solve problems. Her schedule for Oct. 21 is as follows:

- 10 a.m. - 11 a.m., at City Hall, 319 N. Lake St., Boyne City.

- Noon - 1 p.m. in the law library at the Charlevoix County Building, Charlevoix.

Anyone needing additional information can contact the lawmaker by calling the toll-free number, 1-800-29-BODEM.

Senior Center serving beef dinner

The Charlevoix Senior Center will host a roast beef dinner from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25 at the center, located on Norwood and Carpenter Street. The cost is $6 for adults, $2.50 for children 5-12 years of age, and free for children under 5. Proceeds will help fund the completion of the center's lower level.

BEACONS

by REV. LOWELL ANDERSON

I'm currently reading the book "The Body" by Charles Colson. In it he shares a deeply moving story of Christian faith in a time of great adversity against which we can measure our own commitment to Jesus Christ and to sacrificial ministry to others. The story is about Father Maximilian Kolbe, a Polish monk who died for his faith in a German concentration camp during World War II.

Because of his refusal to obey the Nazi demand of the priests to "preach what we want them to preach," Father Kolbe was informed through the underground in February 1941 that his name was on a Gestapo hit list. A few days later they came and arrested him. After several months in various prisons he was taken to the infamous Auschwitz concentration camp.

It was the custom at Auschwitz that if a prisoner somehow managed to escape, several prisoners would be randomly selected and then sentenced to the most painful and gruesome execution of all - total starvation. It was calculated that this example was successful and in their fury the guards selected 10 men for the starvation bunker. In terror, one young prisoner who was selected pleaded for his life for the sake of his wife and small children. Kolbe stepped forward to take that prisoner's place! On August 14, 1941, about a month after being put in the bunker, the guards came to terminate the lives of the four emaciated men who still lived by giving them a lethal injection. Father Kolbe was among them! So he died, as did the Lord he served, in the sacrifice of his life for another!

Do you feel you are having to sacrifice too much in the place of ministry God has called you? Are you compelled to serve others out of "duty" or because of genuine love? Does the love of Christ compel you to live, and even to die, in service to others? Father Kolbe was an ordinary man who tapped the extraordinary love of God... so can I... so can you! Lord grant it!

(Rev. Lowell Anderson is pastor of the Charlevoix Assembly of God church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Anderson and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

City Police receive traffic patrol grant

The Charlevoix City Police Department recently received a $5,000 grant fund overtime patrols on US 31 (a.k.a. Bridge Street or Petoskey Avenue) in the City of Charlevoix. The grant from the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning will fund approximately 260 hours of patrol time. The added patrols will begin Nov. 1 and continue through September, 1995.

Crashes on the three-mile stretch represent about half of the city's total. During the past five years there has been a steady increase in the number of crashes on this stretch of roadway. For the past five years, the number of accidents on US 31 within the city limits has been: 1989 - 90; 1990 - 94; 1991-95; 1992 - 98; 1993 - 111.

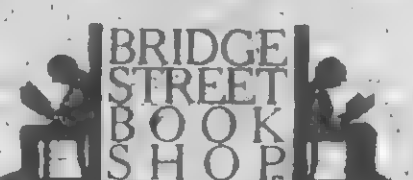

The goal of the grant program is to reduce the number of accidents by 15 percent as well as increase safety belt use.

Castle Farm Board meets to make plans

Castle Farm Community Center's annual board meeting will begin at 7 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 20 at Castle Farm. The newly organized board invites members of the public to attend and hear reports of this past summer's activities as well as future plans for the facility.

JayCees plan Halloween party

The Charlevoix JayCees will be hosting a Halloween Costume Party, beginning at 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 29 at the Grey Gables Inn. Those wearing the top three costumes at the party will receive cash prizes. There will also be door prizes, a 50-50 raffle, cash bar and Hors d'oeuvres and music. Admission is $10 per person or $17 per couple. All proceeds will help fund service projects supported by the Charlevoix JayCees. For tickets phone 547-0152.

Do it for Charlevoix...

Write in...

Josh Barnes

...for Mayor

Why I am a write-in candidate...

Dave Novotny's name is on the ballot as the only candidate for Mayor, but he is not running and is, instead, both supporting my campaign and working with me as part of the "Do it for Charlevoix" Team.

My position on current issues (continued)...

More on Bridge Park: Let's face the issue: Proposal A revised school millage and eliminated the recapture of DDA funds from that millage. The State of Michigan established and committed a set-aside to enable DDA projects that are in the pipeline to compensate for that reduction. That set-aside will provide our DDA with about $170,000, each year, which is in addition to the continued recapture of about $190,000 from the County and City taxes and will enable assured pay off of the Bonds as they come due. The deadline for such bonds is December 31, 1994!

How much will our taxes increase if the Bond Issue is approved? Not one red cent! The State set-aside and the local recapture are now "cast in concrete" and require no additional taxation.

How much will our taxes decrease if the Bond Issue is defeated? Not one red cent! The State set-aside will simply go to other worthy causes, perhaps a new Stadium for Wayne County, a waterfront development in Detroit or a harbor improvement in Muskegon.

What if the State fails to make its payments? The Bonds will be a legal contract and the City Treasurer has an eight page legal opinion that says, in essence, "No Way, that would be a violation of the State Constitution".

Then why am I even voting on the issue? Concerned Citizens petitioned for a referendum. Should you object to the Project itself, you could cast a NO vote. If you support the Project and your only concern relates to taxes, you need to vote YES, as taxes are not the issue! I am supporting the Project because I believe it will provide us with a beautiful Bridge Park and waterfront, while also getting rid of the smelly, unsanitary and ugly sewage digestion station.

I would like your write-in vote on November 8, but your YES vote on the Bond Issue on December 8 is even more important.

Dear Voter,

Due to the fact I don't have the time to give 100% to the office of Mayor, I will not be seeking the job in the November 8th election. I am, however, supporting Josh Barnes for the job of Mayor. Josh and I share the same philosophy on many issues facing Charlevoix. The course we are now on will help insure a sound economic future for Charlevoix. Proper work is in place and with the proper leadership our visions can be realized. A vote for Josh is a vote for our children's future in Charlevoix.

Sincerely,
 Dave Novotny

Names in business

A listing of milestones and accomplishments in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Dennis Kusina

Dennis Kusina, of Charlevoix, has joined Farm Bureau Insurance as a new agent serving this area. He will be working with longtime Farm Bureau Insurance agent Charlie Elzinga, with offices at 101 West Hurlbut Street.

Kusina recently completed an extensive career development program for new agents, which prepared him for the state licensing examination and provided instruction in all areas of property/casualty and life insurance.

Kusina's training included the professional insurance program at Michigan State University and the agent career school at the Farm Bureau Insurance home office in Lansing. Farm Bureau agents are qualified to sell all lines of insurance, including life, home, auto, farm, retirement, and business.

Prior to joining Farm Bureau Insurance, Kusina was fleet manager for Crown Motors in Charlevoix. He also owned and operated Kusina Motors in Charlevoix for nearly 20 years. A past vice-president of Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority, Kusina graduated from Northern Michigan University with a degree in marketing. He and his wife, Peggy, have two children.

Rod Cortright, a resident of Evangeline Township, was elected to the Board of Directors of the 4,000 member association, the Michigan Society of Planning Officials. The results of the election were announced at the Society's 49th Annual Conference held at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, September 29 - October 1. Cortright is Charlevoix County Extension Director, MSU Cooperative Extension Service. He is a member of the Evangeline Township Planning Commission and former member of the Township's Zoning Board of Appeals. He serves as a Director of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

The Michigan Society of Planning Officials is a nonprofit educational organization dedicated to promoting community planning and to improving planning decisions in Michigan. It was established in 1945. The Society published a quarterly magazine, the Michigan Planner, a bimonthly newsletter, the News from MSPO and numerous books on planning and zoning.

William Brodin of Charlevoix recently attended Prudential's regional business conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Brodin is a representative for the company in Charlevoix at 6775 US 31 South. Sales representatives attending the conference were from Prudential agencies in an 11-state territory. The three-day conference provided sales representatives with information on marketing strategies.

Fumbles, fumbles and more fumbles lead to 47-6 loss

Charlevoix got whopped 47-6 in a fumble-fest at home against Petoskey Friday evening. The Rayders fumbled the ball six times and gave up an interception in the game. Not that the offense was going anywhere anyhow, but even punting would have been better than fumbling.

Charlevoix scored its only touchdown of the game midway through the third quarter when quarterback Mark Boss took a short pass to tight end Chuck Pop and then hit Pop with a pass after the defensive back bit on the fake and Pop ran past him. Pop took the pass 74 yards for the touchdown.

Rayder soccer team wins 3-1

Following a 3-1 win at Sault Ste. Marie this past Saturday, the Charlevoix boys' soccer team will close out its regular season with games against Roscommon and Charlevoix boys' soccer team will close out its regular season with games against Roscommon and Cadillac.

Charlevoix opened the scoring in the first half at Sault Ste. Marie on a goal by Steve Carland. The lead was short lived as Sault Ste. Marie quickly tied the game on a direct kick that went into the net just under the cross bar.

Noel Kammerman put Charlevoix back in the lead on a penalty kick. The penalty was called when a Sault player used his hand to keep a Carland shot out of the goal.

The only goal of the second half came on a head shot by Jason Firman off a corner kick from Kammerman.

The win raised Charlevoix's season record above .500 at 8-7-1. The Rayders will play a pre-district game at home against Harbor Springs, Oct. 24. Kick off time is 6 p.m.

Ironically, despite giving up 47 points the Rayder defense did not play that poorly, particularly against the run. Linebackers Dan Harris and Jason Metiva stuffed several Petoskey rushing attempts as did lineman Kurt DeGrow. Harris and DeGrow each had seven tackles in the game.

While the Rayder interior defense was for the most part sound, the defensive backs had a rough night, getting burned on two long passes for touchdowns. Petoskey's remaining touchdowns came on an 8-yard run, a 21-yard run, a fumble recovery in the end zone and a 62-yard touchdown run off a bad snap on a punt.

The loss broke a three-game Charlevoix winning streak and left the Rayders with a season record of 3-4. The Rayders will finish their season with a game at Traverse City St. Francis this Saturday and a game at home against East Jordan Oct. 28.

Although the Rayders were beaten 47-6 by Petoskey, the Rayder defense played reasonably well against the rush. Here Luther Kurtz (8) tackles a Petoskey running back.

Brandi has year's first perfect contest week

For the first time this season, someone went 10-0 in the Courier football contest. Not only did Rick Brandi go 10-0 for the week, he also moved into first place in the cumulative rankings. Several people did well this past week. In fact, darn near everybody - with the exception of the Courier Guru who went 5-5 and slipped from the top 10 cumulative rankings. Why is this one ask. How could the Guru, the one, the only, he who is the knower of all that is football, have a miserable enough to be mortal record of 5-5? Here is the answer. The Guru was distracted. Rather than thinking about pedestrian football questions such as who would win or lose, the Guru was pondering the most cosmic football question of them all: as Wayne Fontes sits on the hot seat with the Lions, think about this - who is the best head coach the Lions have had in the past thirty years or so? Write in your choice somewhere on the bottom of your entry forms this week.

Here are the Guru's undistracted picks for week seven:

Charlevoix at Traverse City St. Francis. Unfortunately the Rayders' season has come unraveled. From here on out, you just watch to see which players have the pride and character to continue playing hard in spite of adversity. Pick - St. Francis.

Cheboygan at Petoskey. This should be one of the best northern Michigan high school games of the season. Petoskey will be missing their coach due to his ejection in the Charlevoix game. But that could serve as a motivating force and besides, they've got some good assistants over there with some Charlevoix roots. Let's go out on a bit of a limb. Pick - Petoskey.

Rogers City at Boyne City. Speaking of Rayder alumni in the coaching ranks, Boyne City coach Pat Klooster has done a superb job with the Boyne City program this year. In what was supposed to be a rebuilding year, Klooster has his team at 5-2. In spite of all of that, Rogers City has more firepower this year. Give the Hurons a slight edge here. Pick - Rogers City.

Michigan at Illinois. Regardless of what the polls say, Michigan is still one of the ten best college teams in the nation. They've had a brutal schedule this year, but when all is said and done, they'll still be all right. Pick - Michigan.

Michigan State at Iowa. Could Michigan State come up with three dismal performances in a row? Don't put it past them. Pick - Iowa.

Kansas State at Colorado. Kansas State's a good team, but they couldn't beat Nebraska and Colorado is a better team than Nebraska. Pick - Colorado.

Colorado State at Utah. Who picks these games anyway? Can you believe these teams are both ranked in the top 20. Every few years this happens. One or two of these western teams will clobber a few wimp teams early in the season and suddenly find themselves nationally ranked. Normally, they then run into a real team and get blown out of the water. But what happens when two of these over-rated western teams collide? That's what we're looking at here. Let's take the University of Colorado leftovers over Brigham Young's second team. Pick - Colorado

State.

Chicago at Detroit. If Detroit can't win at home against Chicago this week, Fontes better be buying plane tickets. Cringe when you make this call, but... Pick - Detroit.

Washington at Indianapolis. Indianapolis has made a major stride forward this season. They've gone from woeful to inconsistent. The Guru has always been a Marshall Faulk fan. His running style has some similarities to Barry's. Speaking of rookies, that Shuler guy has some things to prove before the Guru believes he's for real. Pick - Indianapolis.

New York Giants at Pittsburgh. The Giants have lost three straight. Barry Foster is injured and out of action for at least a couple of weeks. Pittsburgh's offense is supposedly bickering with the defense. (Although Buddy Ryan isn't a coach on this team so nobody's come to blows.) Still, in spite of all of that Pittsburgh still has a great offensive line and they've got good enough replacement running backs to win. Pick - Pittsburgh.

Chili cook-off planned to raise funds for candidate

The "Do it for Charlevoix" committee is hosting a chili cook-off fundraiser for Charlevoix mayoral candidate Josh Barnes. The cook-off will take place from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 22 at the Charlevoix Yacht Club. At least eight varieties of chili will be available to sample. Admission is a donation to the "Do it for Charlevoix" campaign committee. Barnes will be at the event to present the chili award and respond to constituent cross examinations.

Congratulations Rayder Golf Team!

Regarding the old picture on page 19 of the September 28th issue of the Courier, there was a mistake. Emma and Nell Stafford's father did not own the Foster Boat Works. Emma Stafford Parmelee's husband had a lumber yard in the 1920's and 30's in the same location where the Foster Boat Works was later established. Their father was a lumber camp foreman and they lived in Norwood where the picture was taken.

After my name was in the Courier, regarding an old picture of my mother, I had a nice letter from a lady, Catherine Lord, from the Norwood area. She knew Emma Parmelee and has an old family diary that mentions my mother. I hope to get together with her next summer when we'll be in the Charlevoix area.

Thanks for running the old pictures. We look forward to the Courier coming each week and especially that part of it.

change in state legislation which occurred because of a squabble between Antrim and Charlevoix Counties.

When the two counties both started pursuing 911 plans, the phone company said they could bill only according to phone exchanges, not by county boundaries. Antrim and Charlevoix Counties share some phone exchanges in East Jordan, Boyne Falls, and Boyne City. Both Antrim County and Charlevoix County wanted those phone exchanges to go into their respective 911 plans.

Public Act 29 of 1994 allows counties to establish an emergency telephone district within all of their county, regardless of exchange numbers.

The second amendment approved by the commissioners gave the commissioners the power to institute a four percent surcharge on every basic phone service in the county. This surcharge would be used to pay for the operational costs of 911 service. The commissioners can also institute up to a 16 percent surcharge if approved by a vote of the people. "We don't know how much it's going to cost to operate this. With three counties, it may be minimal," Commissioner Phil Johnson said. Johnson is hoping the four percent surcharge will cover the operational costs, or come close enough to it so that the county could pick up the remainder from their general fund.

Johnson said the 911 system should be in operation in the late fall of 1995. The county will pay operating costs for 911 for the first year.

In other business, commissioners decided to conduct a wage study relating to the county's department heads. "If we're going to give raises to department heads, let's make sure they're doing their job as efficiently as possible with the number of people they have," Johnson said. He would like the wage study to compare not only salaries of other area county department heads, but other counties' property values and number of employees in each department. The wage study will be handled by the personnel committee.

NRC to meet at Big Rock

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission will meet at the Big Rock Point nuclear plant annex building. The meeting will begin at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 26 and is open to the public. Among the topics to be discussed will be the planned decommissioning of the plant.

Dear PhoneGuide,

I've been a PhoneGuide customer since their first book, and many of my new customers tell me that they called me after seeing my display ad in the PhoneGuide yellow pages.

Working out of my home makes me a little harder to find, but my PhoneGuide yellow pages ad puts me on "Main Street" as far as new customers are concerned.

As a small business with a small advertising budget, I have to make sure my money is well spent. Just a few extra customers attracted by my PhoneGuide ad can pay for it!

Thanks, PhoneGuide!

Showcasing Charlevoix area industry

Sure northern Michigan is blessed with a great deal of natural beauty. But it's not like those of us who live here just sit around all the time and admire the scenery. We work for a living. We are hard working and industrious people and proud to be that way. Our industry takes a number of different shapes and forms.

Local residents and visitors to the community will all have an opportunity to take a closer look at the industry of the Charlevoix County area during the 1994 Charlevoix Industrial Fair Oct. 21 and 22 in the Charlevoix High School gym. The 1994 industrial fair will be the sixth since 1984. The last one took place in 1992. CB North Bank sponsors the industrial fair which is an opportunity for area industries to show the world just what it is they do.

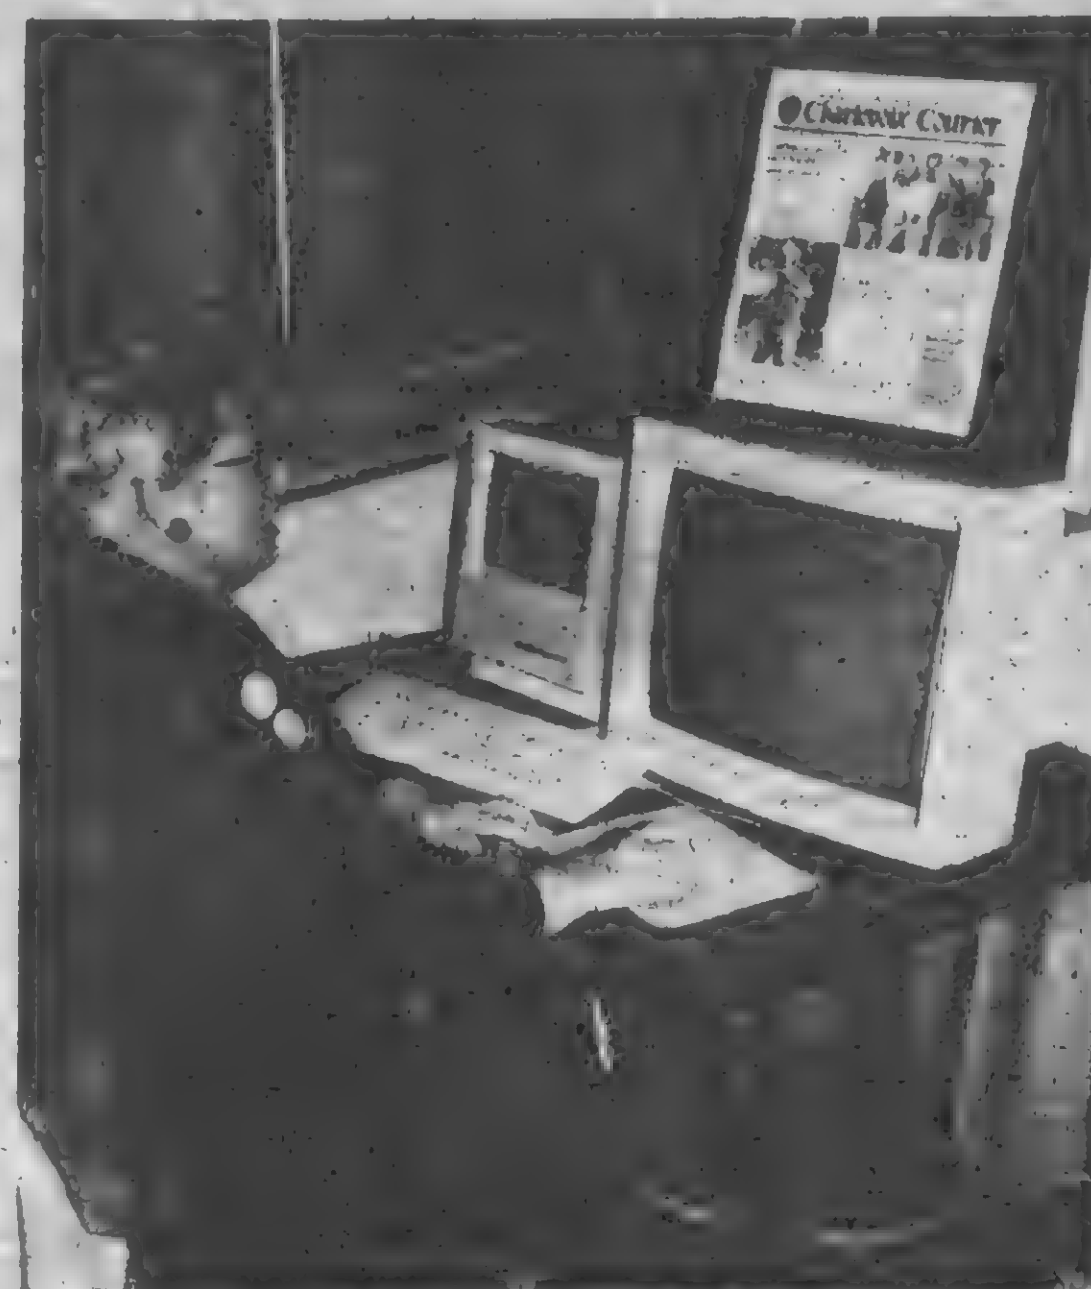

Between 1,500 and 2,000 people are expected to view the exhibits. A great deal of emphasis is put on the educational value of the show. On Friday, the vast majority of people attending the show are students from Charlevoix High School and several other area school districts.

The fair shows students some of the jobs available in northern Michigan. It also gives students a chance to talk to area employers and find out what skills they are going to need to find a place in the local labor market.

Local workers and industrialists get a chance to both see what they produce and also what other area manufacturers produce. From the workers perspective it gives them a chance to show their family and friends the end product of their labors. Approximately 1,700 local jobs will be represented by the industries at the show. From a company standpoint, local companies sometimes find that rather than ordering something from out of the area, there may be suppliers here who can meet their needs.

Although the primary focus of the fair is directed toward education, rather than sales it is hoped that the fair will attract additional industry to the area.

Volunteer firemen from the Charlevoix City Fire Department will help exhibitors set up and disassemble exhibits.

Michigan Lt. Governor Connie Binsfeld, R - Maple City, was among the people who attended the 1992 Charlevoix County Industrial Fair. Binsfeld stopped by the Charlevoix Courier booth to see how the local newspaper is produced. Binsfeld was not the only political figure to attend the Industrial Fair. U.S. Senator Carl Levin, D-Detroit, also stopped by to take a look at the work of local industries.

Area business people invited to seminars

This year's Industrial Expo, in addition to hosting exhibits from 35 local companies, features two special events developed for local businesses. The first event, a round table discussion featuring a panel of distinguished speakers, takes place from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., Friday, Oct. 21. The second event, an International Standards Organization (ISO) presentation will take place from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. Both events take place at Charlevoix High School.

The panel discussion highlights issues facing area businesses in today's rapidly changing business environment. Topics to be addressed include: how to bid for and win state and federal contracts; how a company-sponsored wellness program can be of benefit to employees and employers; and small business management.

Panel participants include: Tom Natche of North Central Michigan College. Natche, director of the Institute of Business and Industry Training (IBIT), will review available training programs offered through the college. IBIT also provides seminars, workshops and teleconferences.

Jim Haslinger, director of the Technical Assistance Center (TAC)

at the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments. The TAC assists businesses with identifying bidding opportunities for government contracts, provides military specifications and standards, researches bid histories and locates sources of supply. Haslinger will discuss the services of TAC and how local businesses might use them to their benefit.

Donna Smith of Medusa Cement Company and Ellen Zeinert of Big Rock Point nuclear plant. Smith coordinates her company's wellness program. Medusa was recently honored by the state as one of the top ten work sites for innovative physical fitness ideas. Zeinert oversees her plant's wellness program, employee benefits and insurance. Together, they will discuss and explain how a well executed wellness program can be rewarding for both employees and employers.

Bill Douglass of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (S.C.O.R.E.). Douglass will review the wealth of expertise S.C.O.R.E. has available for counseling small businesses in Northern Michigan in terms of marketing, management, financial planning etc.

Lydia Murray of the Michigan Jobs Team. Murray will highlight the business development programs available from the state, covering job training, financial and technical assistance programs.

Fred Nelson, business liaison with the Private Industry Council (PIC) will present information about employee training and placement as it relates to the Job Training Partnership Act.

Tom Johnson, executive director of the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance will facilitate the panel discussion. Panel members will be available following the presentation to answer specific questions.

Following the round table discussion, there will be an International Standards Organization (ISO) presentation by Jerry Stanbrough of Phase Two Communications. The goal of ISO is to provide a set of standards that can be understood and accepted worldwide. Stanbrough will explain how ISO standards include the basic tools required to ensure fundamental manufacturing practices in all aspects of the manufacturing process and how it relates.

The Industrial Fair is by no means a closed event. It's a chance for the public to take a look at all of the things area manufacturers produce. People manning the many booths are proud of what their company does and a spectator willing to take some time and ask a few questions can learn a lot about area business.

Along with exhibits by area manufacturers, it's also not uncommon to see additional attractions at the Charlevoix Industrial Fair. This solar powered car was brought to a past fair by Consumers Power.

"Michigan's Fastest Growing City"

LexaLite: a story of hard work and creativity

In 1961, an experimental polycarbonate globe was introduced to the Detroit Edison company as a possible solution to a severe street lighting vandalism problem. One year later, they announced savings of nearly $100,000 from the use of these globes in critical areas.

In 1962, the globes were first marketed using the tradename "LexaLite," derived from "Lexan®," a General Electric tradename for polycarbonate material and "Lite" symbolizing the potential applications for the product in the lighting industry.

In February of 1963, a group of seven individuals formed LexaLite Corporation to design, tool, promote and sell LexaLite globes and refractors. That year sales of $32,119 resulted in a loss of $10,674. The company has grown significantly and each year since 1963 has been profitable.

In August 1965, manufacturing became part of LexaLite's Corporate franchise with the completion of the Charlevoix plant of 9,600 square feet.

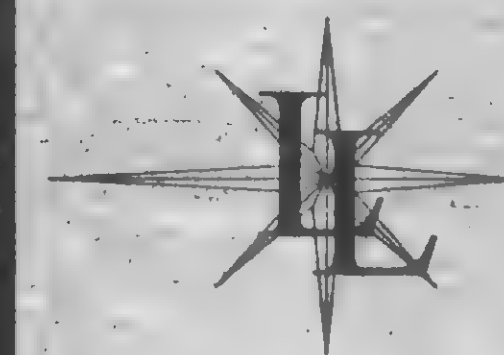

In August 1981, LexaLite suffered a devastating fire. The company quickly learned the meaning of dedication; days after the fire, employees and company officials began putting machinery back in shape under temporary roofs. By the end of eight weeks, a new facility was completed and LexaLite was back into full production. June 1985 brought southern hospitality to our team with the dedication of our Dickson, Tennessee facility — 30,000 square feet of manufacturing and sales offices. Dickson quickly became an integral part of the corporation.

In 1991, our CEO and a few specialized employees started a new research and development facility; they are responsible for several new product designs and patents.

In response to dramatic sales increases and manufacturing demand, ground is broken for a 21,000 square foot addition to our Dickson facility in August 1993. Two months later a brand new photometric lab is running at Charlevoix's Lighting Research Center. The new photometer is one of the finest in the lighting industry.

In August 1994, plans to construct a facility called LexaLite Scientific Center (L.S.C.) are announced. Scheduled to be operational in May of 1995, L.S.C. will have 24,000 square feet of manufacturing area and 3,500 square feet of office area.

Today, LexaLite has 171,000 square feet of state-of-the-art manufacturing, engineering, tooling and assembly operations in three plants employing approximately 200 persons. Our efforts are focused on product innovation, market development and employee participation.

Supplying Optical Components to Lighting Manufacturers Worldwide

What does LexaLite make? We make lenses, refractors and reflectors for lighting. We also help lighting manufacturers design their products and make those products.

LexaLite products can be seen almost everywhere!

LexaLite refractor used in downtown
Charlevoix lighting.

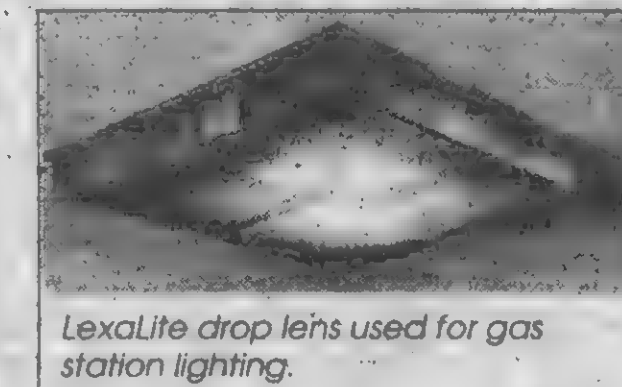

Take a look at the lighting in downtown Charlevoix... we make the refractor that covers the light source.

Take a look at the canopy lighting over the gas pumps at Charlevoix gas stations like Holiday and Shell. See those square acrylic drop lenses? We make those lenses.

Take a look at the lighting in the Ellsworth and Pellston gymnasiums. See those reflectors... what the lighting industry calls prismatic reflectors? You guessed it, we make those too!

LexaLite prismatic Reflector, used for gymnasium, industrial, retail, and commercial lighting.

Medusa: a story you might say is written in cement

In 1967 the Medusa Cement Company started production at its South Point plant in Charlevoix Township.

The abundance in the area's geology of the natural materials needed to manufacture cement plus the ability to ship to major Midwestern markets by large lake carrier made the 1,350-acre Charlevoix location an ideal one for Medusa.

The cement produced by Medusa is known as the Portland Variety and is used primarily for road construction, block work and other large-scale building projects.

The plant has a production capacity of 1,364,000 tons of cement from its kiln process and 1,360,000 tons of clinker on the grinder end.

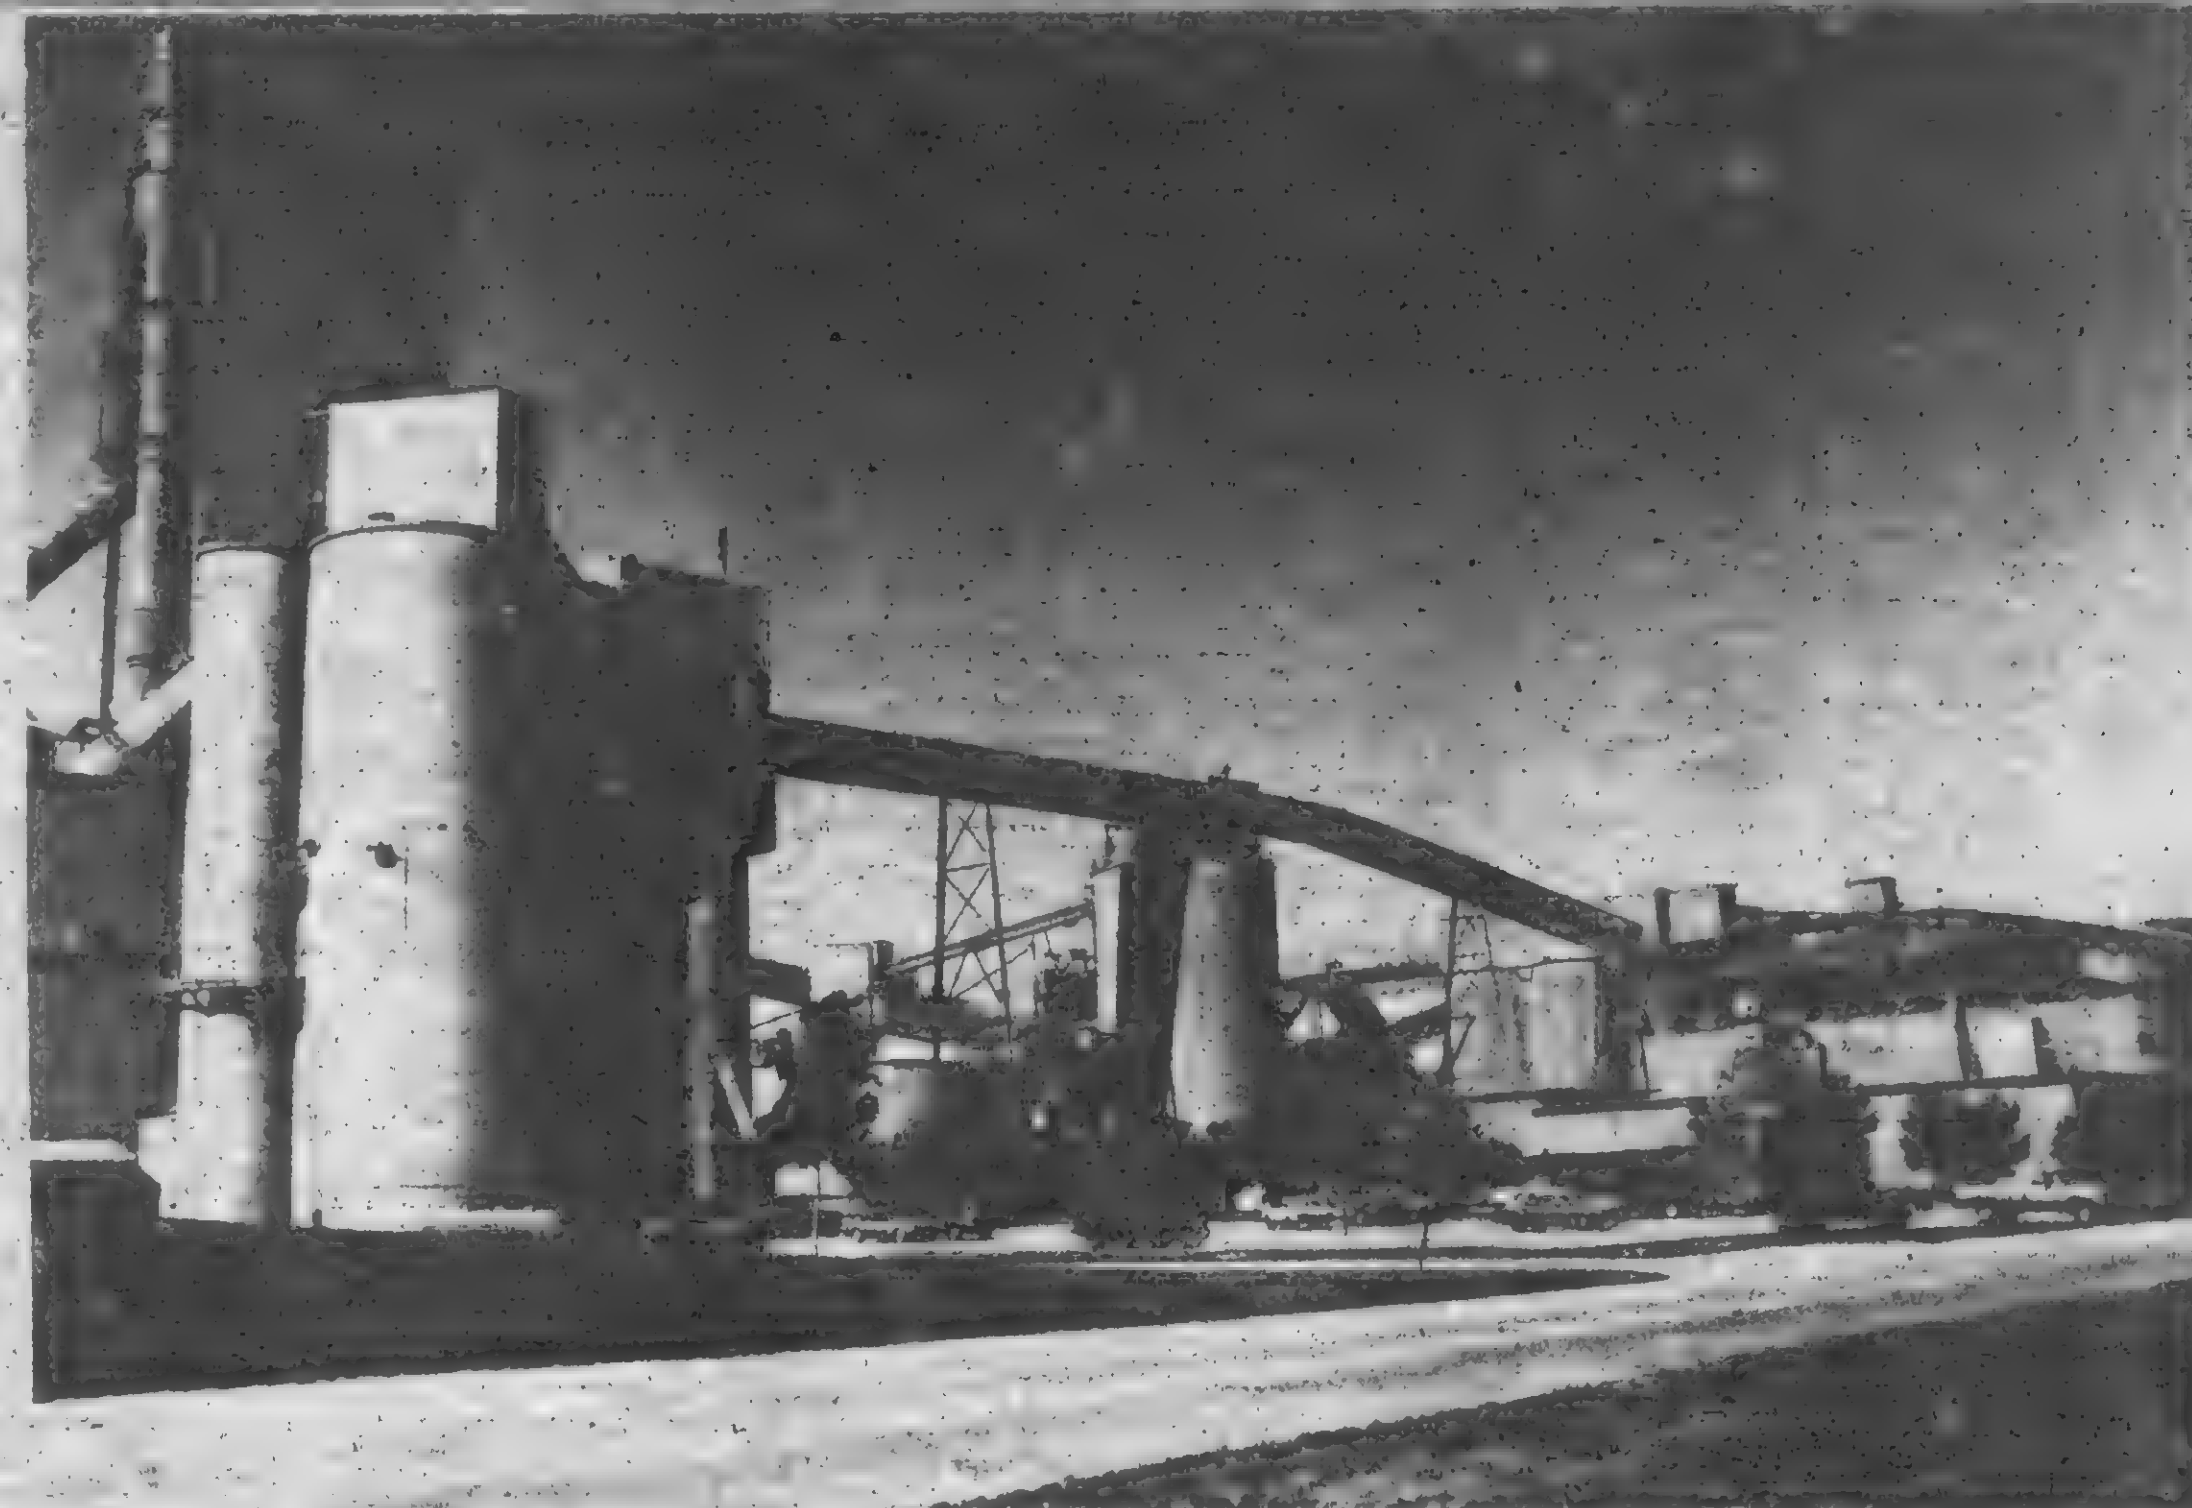

Limestone and shale, two of the raw materials used in the manufacturing process are mined from two surface mines on the Medusa site.

An innovative land reclamation project has been ongoing at the plant in which areas where mining has been completed are restored to their natural states using sludge from the City of Charlevoix's waste treatment plant as fertilizer.

At present, there are 110 hourly and 25 salaried employees at Medusa. Medusa's corporate headquarters are in Cleveland.

Shipping of the cement from the Charlevoix plant is done largely by lake carriers. The 352-foot Medusa Challenger is capable of carrying over 11,000 tons of cement, the Medusa Conquest 8,500 tons. Cement is shipped to Great Lakes ports of Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Grand Haven and Owego Sound in Canada.

The plant underwent a major renovation project in 1979 when it converted from the "wet" process of manufacturing cement to a "flash Calcining" system, a more energy efficient system developed in Japan in 1966.

The $50 million conversion included the addition of state-of-the-art equipment that makes the Medusa facility one of the most technologically sophisticated cement manufacturing operations in the world.

In flash calcining, the kiln feed, a mixture of finely ground limestone, sand and shale is metered and transported to the top of the preheater tower.

The preheater consists of a series of four cyclones and a flash furnace in which the hot water heat gases contact and heat the kiln feed prior to the feed actually entering the kiln.

After a third preheater stage, the kiln feed is discharged into a flash furnace where fuel is burned to further increase the temperature.

The flash furnace discharges to a fourth stage where final preheating occurs prior to the feed entering the kiln. During the process the particles of kiln feed are suspended in the gas stream resulting in very efficient heat transfer.

The resulting "clinker" discharges from the kiln into a cooler where ambient air is used to cool it to a compatible temperature for handling and storage.

Showing students what the labor market needs

Among the main purposes of the Charlevoix Industrial Fair is showing area students what kind of skills they are going to need when they enter the labor market. On Friday, students are brought to the Industrial Fair from schools throughout Charlevoix and Antrim Counties.

Northern Lakes Economic Alliance: Helping area industry

A non profit economic development organization, the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance has been serving Northwest Michigan for ten years. Its mission is to create and retain quality jobs. By providing free and confidential business assistance to over 75 businesses a year, the Economic Alliance has helped with business plans, financial packaging, government regulations, site location, technology transfer and a variety of other business concerns.

Economic Alliance staff has helped several manufacturers enter global markets by providing export assistance and marketing plans for doing business overseas. As a partner in economic development with Michigan State University, the Economic Alliance has helped with technology transfer by working with MSU and local companies via interactive television.

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance was awarded permanent Michigan Small Business Development (SBDC) status two years ago. As a division of the U.S. Small Business Administration, the SBDC's goal is to assist in retaining, expanding and starting up small businesses. The Economic Alliance also helps new and existing businesses identify financial resources ranging from SBA loans to venture capital.

For more information about Northern Lakes Economic Alliance services, call Tom Johnson, Executive Director, at (616) 582-6482.

Charlevoix Area Hospital: Keeping workers healthy and on the job

Susan Roache, occupational therapist at Charlevoix Area Hospital, works with Reinhold Hessler to restore his thumb function to normal following an injury last year.

What started as a need to understand the work site in order to better treat patients has become a benefit to area businesses, also. Susan Roache, occupational therapist at Charlevoix Area Hospital, says, "We found that we needed a better understanding of our patients' work settings in order to know how they were doing their job, so we could design their therapy to get them back to work sooner following injury or surgery."

"We needed to know what was happening in the workplace," she says, "such as what machines they used, what they were sitting or standing on, and how they did their jobs." However, she has found one of the biggest benefits of her visits to different businesses has been an opening up of communication between the hospital and the employer, and the employee and the employer.

When the hospital, business, and employees work together, employees are returned to work more quickly and, also, other employees benefit from the changes in the work setting. "Employers want to make changes that are cost effective and that improve working conditions," Roache says.

One employer, she says, let her video tape at the workplace, so that when the worker came back he could be placed at jobs appropriate to his physical limitations. "We look at the work site with a creative mind," Roache says. "Sometimes two people may work together to produce the same amount. Or, we may start an individual with a reduced work load."

The key is to return people to work as soon as possible because the longer a worker is off, the less likely they will return to that position at all, Roache says. "We want the businesses to be satisfied that we are getting people back to work and able to work at their highest level as soon as possible."

Roache has visited many area businesses, including machine shops, offices, sewing shops, light industrial plants, the Health Department, and even the hospital.

When she reviews a work setting, she looks at many specific things. For example, with a clerical position she asks what is the seating? How high is the desk? Where is the equipment such as the computer, or calculator positioned? Does the person wear bifocals or trifocals? If so, do they need a copy holder in order to keep the copy the same distance from their eyes as the computer screen to avoid constant neck movements?

Roache is a graduate of Wayne State University and has attended many workshops on job site analysis. She has contracted with Charlevoix Area Hospital to provide occupational therapy for the past 12 years. She makes herself available to area businesses for work station analysis and may be contacted at the hospital.

How Can You Reduce Lost-time Injuries?

East Jordan Iron Works is one of the leading Independent Automated Foundries in the United States. Always having been located in East Jordan, it is one of Northern Michigan's oldest and most respected industries.

The Iron Works produces a wide array of gray and ductile iron castings. It is noted for an outstanding workforce of many skills, using some of the most modern tools and technology available.

A Special Thank You to the Employees of East Jordan Iron Works for making it possible to enter our 111th Year of Operation.

EAST JORDAN IRON WORKS, INC.
East Jordan, Michigan

East Jordan Iron Works: a great history and a bright future

East Jordan Iron Works has been an integral part of the Charlevoix County economy for more than 100 years.

At the time the foundry was established by William E. Malpass, East Jordan was the center of lumbering operations. Railroads had not yet penetrated this region and 11 sawmills and the Pine Lake Iron Company were dependent on water for transportation.

Hand hewn timbers were floated to the mills and as many as 14 lumber schooners could be seen loading simultaneously at the East Jordan docks.

All this activity created a demand for the foundry and machine shop operation. The foundry was built in 1883 and was followed by a machine shop two years later. Casting demands for miscellaneous machine parts, ship parts, agricultural and eventually castings for the railroads later followed.

Closing of mills and lessening of lake shipping in the 1920s were met by changing types of manufacture. In 1928, the machine shop was enlarged and the production of fire hydrants, water works valves and street castings began.

Through the support of the community and many dedicated employees, the company grew and has continued to do so. Today East Jordan Iron Works employs approximately 800 people.

Besides the corporate office and manufacturing facilities located on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, the company operates branch offices and warehouses in Grand Rapids and Detroit, Cleveland and Columbus Ohio, Middletown, Delaware, Baltimore, Maryland, Warrenton, Virginia and Chicago Illinois. Additionally there is an extensive network of product distributors. A central distribution facility is located in Sunfield, MI.

East Jordan Iron Works manufactures a variety of gray and ductile iron casting to remain flexible in a fluctuating market and economy. Products include a full line of street castings, such as manhole covers, grates, and frames.

Additionally, the company is a major supplier of fire hydrants, valve and service boxes, tapping and repair sleeves and supplementary water distribution supplies.

The company also manufactures industrial castings such as tractor and trailer brake drums, off the road brake drums, gear housings, valve bodies and other specialty items.

East Jordan Iron Works services and facilities include:

- Sales and Engineering departments to assist customers in placing their order and in assuring that the customer takes advantage of the right casting for the job. All sales data such as orders, inventories, and production schedules are computerized on an IBM AS/400 computer linked to numerous individual terminals including sales offices and yards.

- The Engineering Department includes manufacturing, industrial, product, and process engineering. Continuous evaluation of procedures and processes assures efficient, accurate and reliable production resulting in on-time delivery and competitive pricing.

- A complete pattern shop ready to construct any new pattern required. East Jordan Iron Works also maintains thousands of patterns.

- A number of core making technologies including automated shell core, no-bake and oil sand.

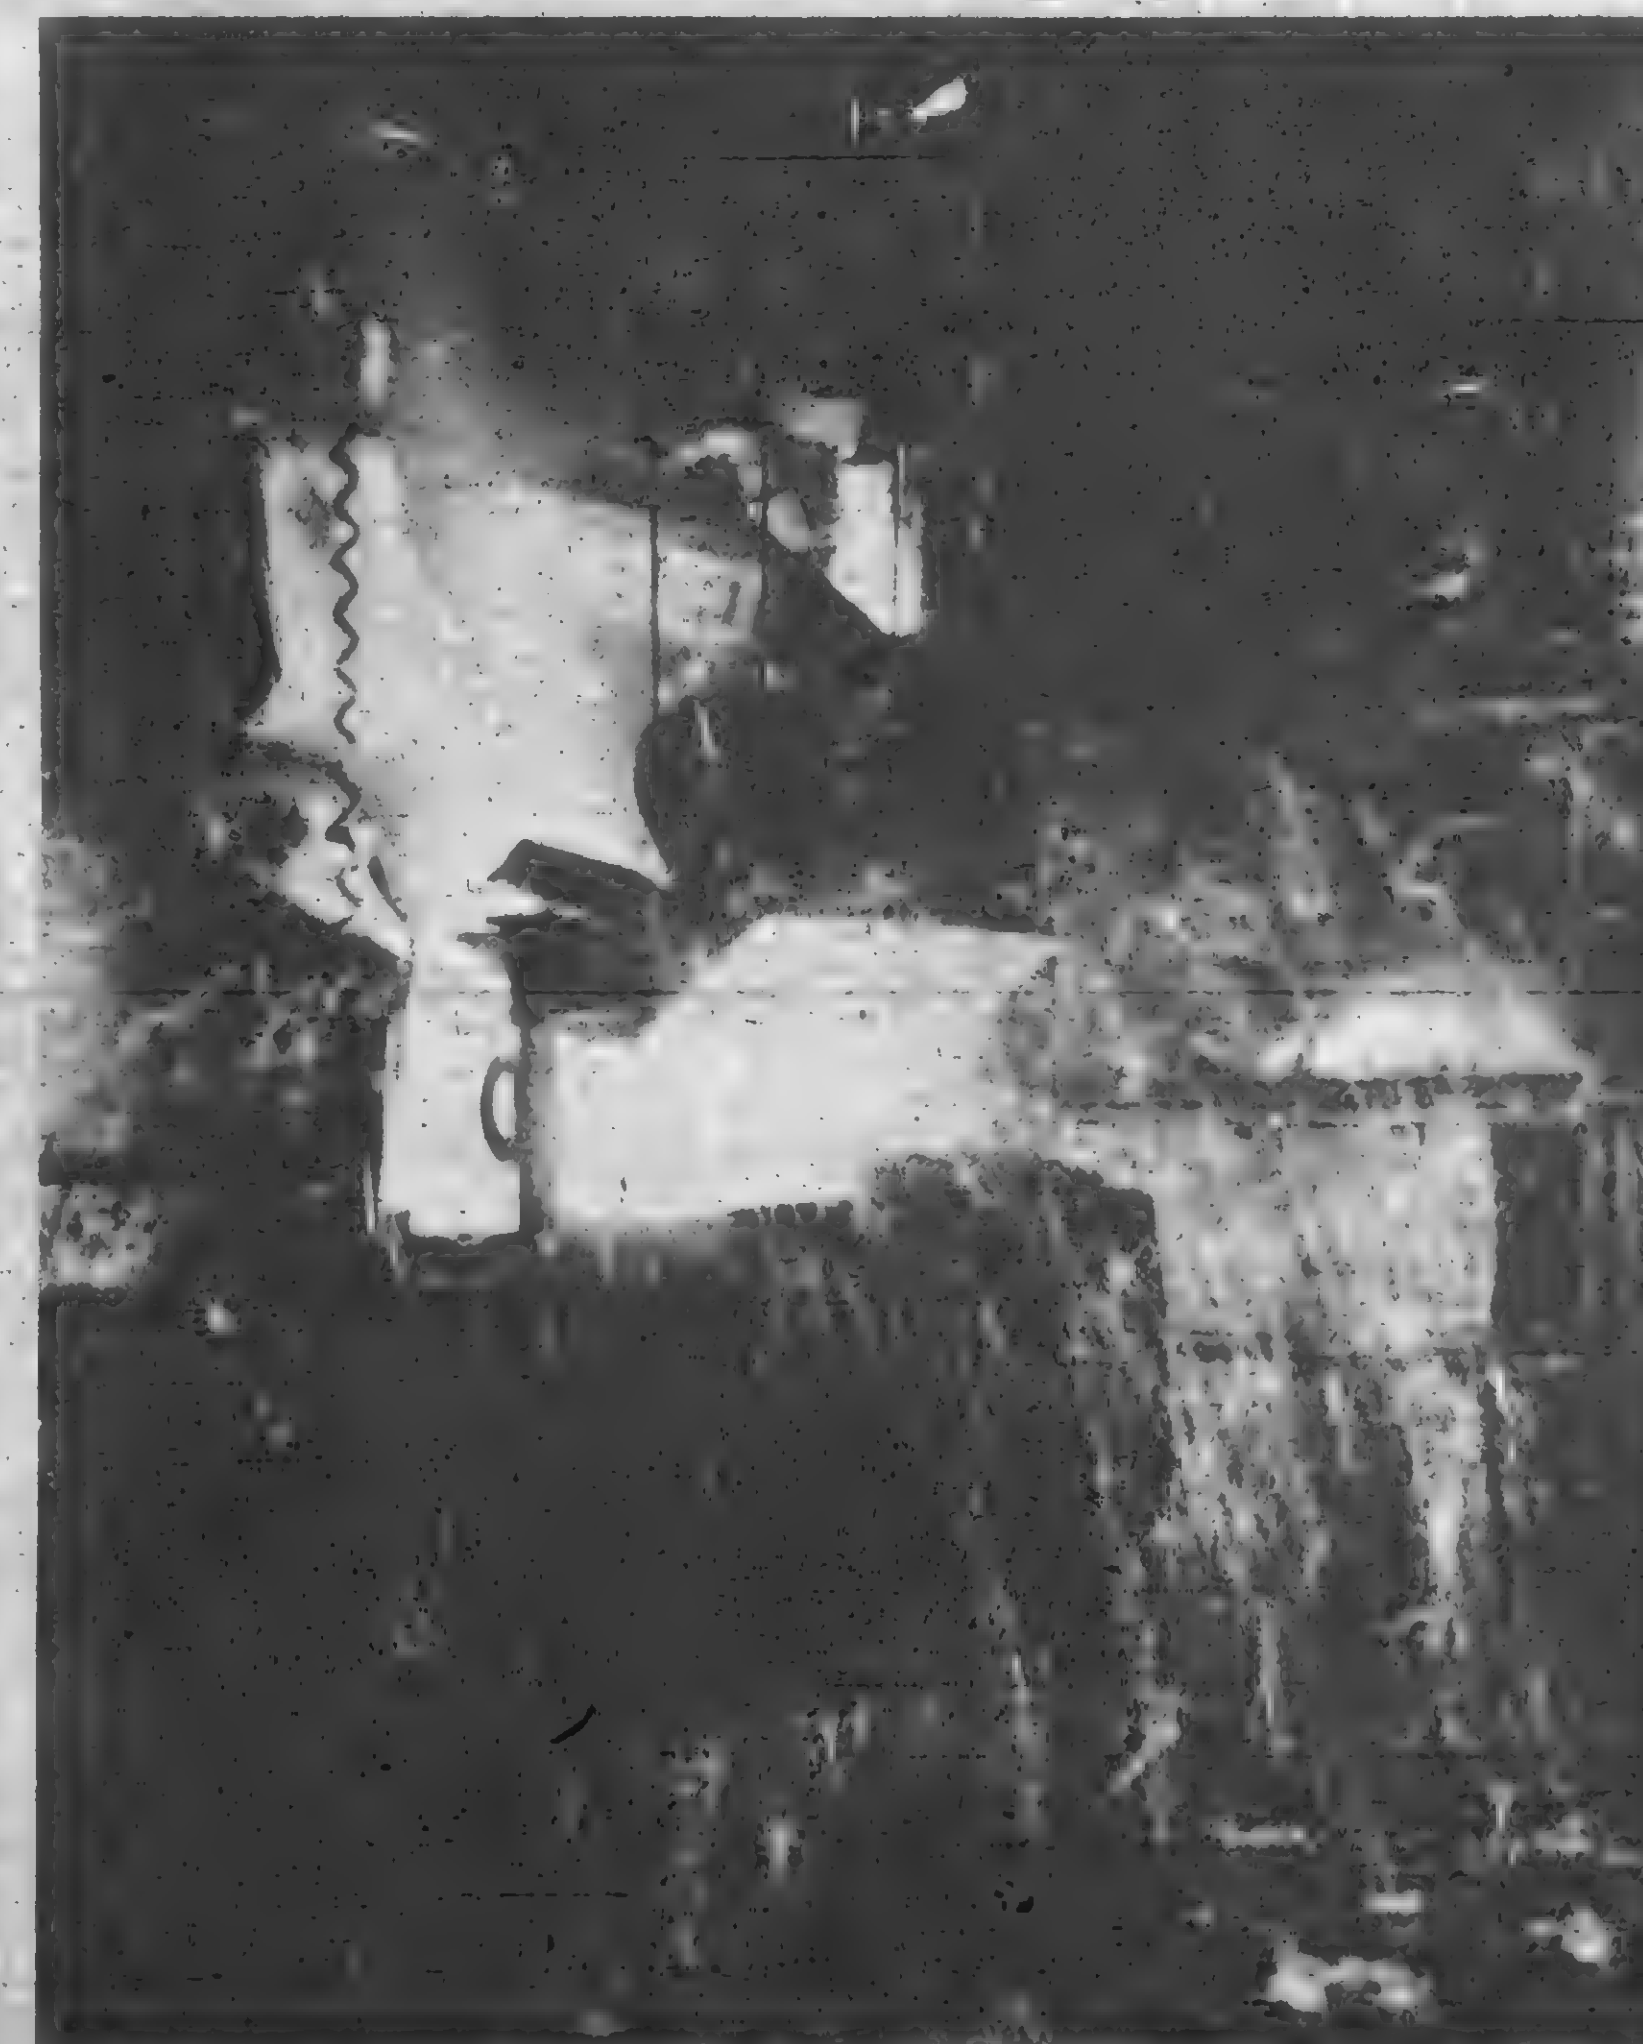

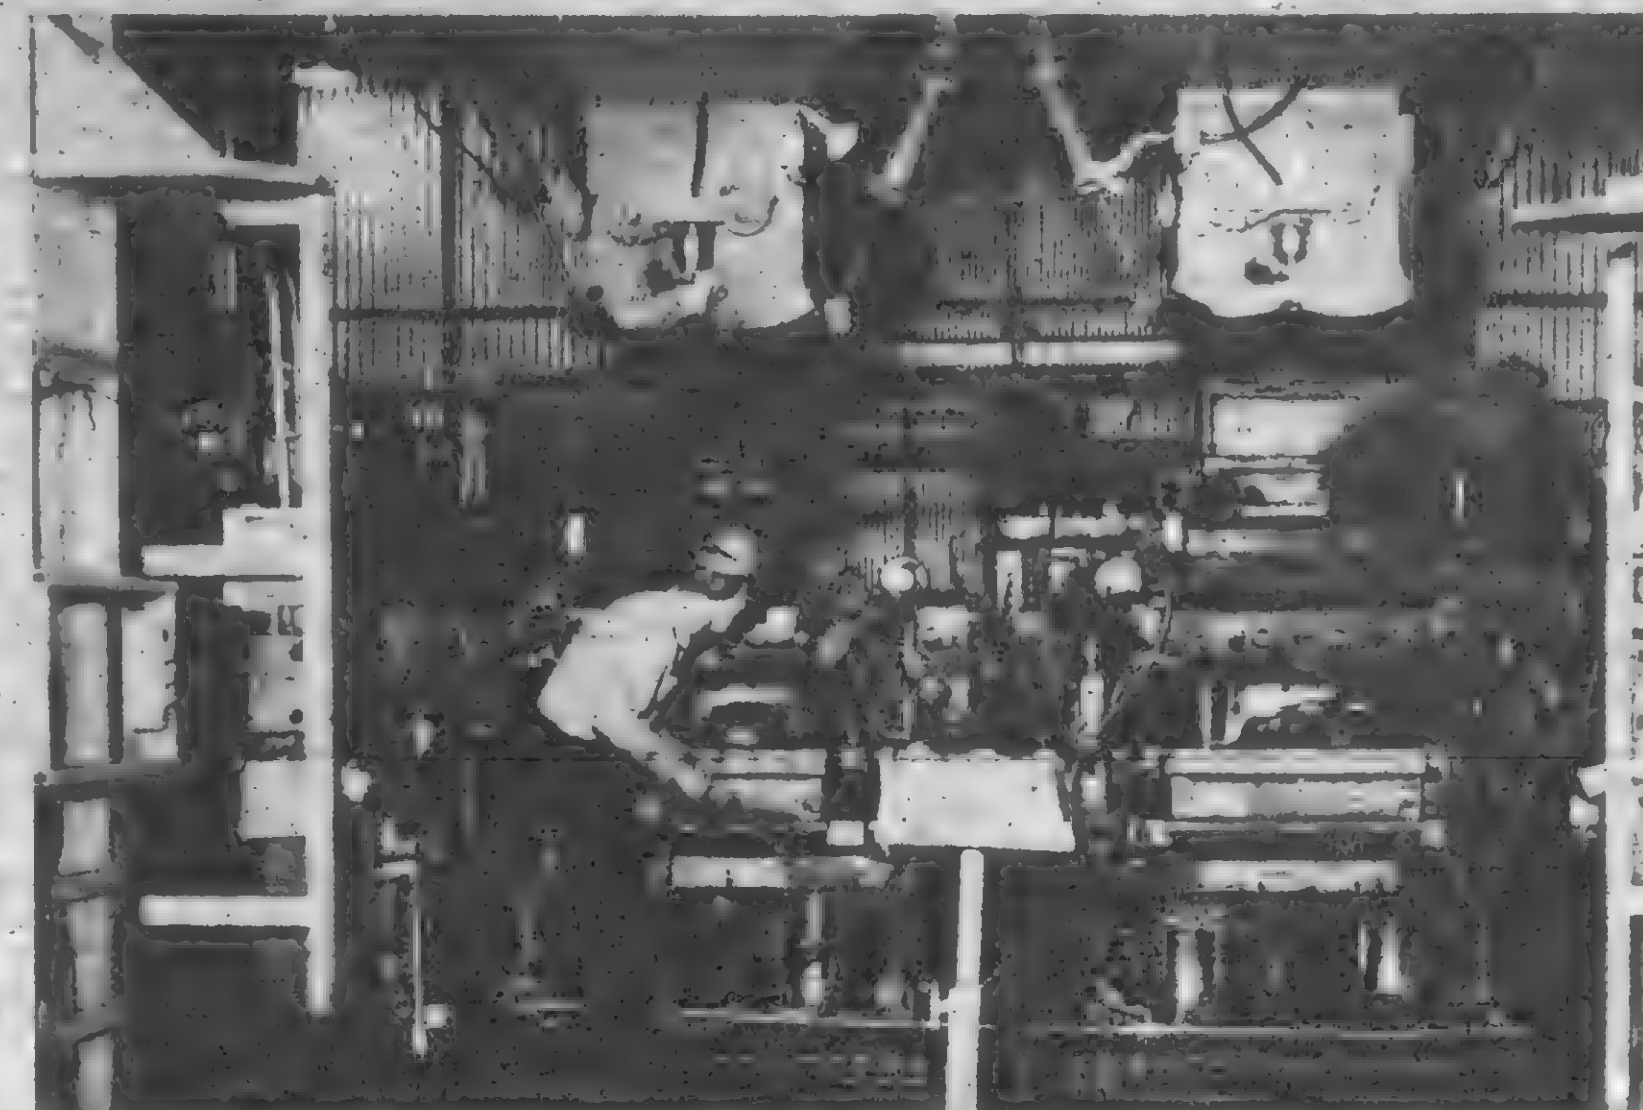

- A state-of-the-art water cooled cupola with a 1,000-degree recuperative hot blast, oxygen enrichment system capable of delivering fifty tons of molten iron per hour. This is coupled with a 40-ton electric induction holding furnace to insure that the iron is delivered to the molding centers at the proper temperature and analysis.

- Machining operations are performed on computer numerical controlled vertical and horizontal turret lathes from 10-inch chuck size up through a 68-inch swing diameter. These lathes are programmed in the engineering department utilizing Compact II computer assist, a graphic plotter, and floppy disc storage. Additional manual and automatic metal working equipment includes milling machines, radial drill presses, multi-spindle drills, horizontal lathes and grinders.

- One of the largest casting inventories in the world, ready for immediate delivery. Rail and truck delivery are available for on-time delivery of all products.

- Sand lab to assure that sand-mix prepared for each molding center has been properly formulated. A melt lab where testing of the iron's physical properties are performed. Additionally, chemical analysis on an in-house spectrometer, and microscopic inspection of the iron's structure are performed.

- East Jordan Iron Works, Inc. and its employees continue to be one of the most stable, progressive, well-tooled, manufacturing facilities in the nation and are vigorously working to meet further demands for quality products.

Several agencies assist area businesses

Several organizations have been formed to promote business and industry in the Charlevoix County area. Some date back many years and were responsible for assisting industries which have become mainstays of the local economy. Newer organizations represent efforts of local government to join with the state, business, industry and citizen's groups to improve our Northern Lower Michigan economy.

These development groups are working to maintain and attract business to the area:

NORTHERN LAKES ECONOMIC ALLIANCE - Initiated in 1984, the organization helps bring new business and industry into its Antrim-Charlevoix-Emmet County service area, and assists with the retention of established businesses. It is funded by contributions from local counties, cities, townships and industries.

The main Economic Alliance functions are:

- Assisting local governments in planning for quality development.
- Coordinating efforts between local development groups and the state.
- Regaining local industries by assisting with problem solving and company expansions.

- Providing business counseling to entrepreneurs.
- Providing export assistance to local manufacturers.
- Marketing the area for industrial development, contacting new prospects and following up on business leads.

The Economic Alliance employs full-time professional staff to carry out the above functions. Its primary goal is to create full-time, year-around base jobs for local residents.

The Economic Alliance is governed by a 19-member board representing industry, business, education and government. For more information about the Economic Alliance, call Executive Director Tom Johnson at 616-582-6482.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION - The Charlevoix County EDC was organized in 1981 to provide tax exempt industrial revenue bonds under the state act authorizing EDCs. It also promotes business and industrial development, and acts as a development arm for the county as a whole. Board members are appointed by the county commission and represent various county communities. For more information at 616-547-7200.

BOYNE CITY ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION - The Boyne City EDC was formed in 1979 to encourage growth in the city. The organization helped develop the air-industrial park and to locate several industries in the park. The EDC also acts as the tax increment financing authority for the air-industrial park and has developed a policy statement for the city with regard to using financial incentives in attracting industry. The EDC is currently working on a national marketing effort.

W.R. Frykberg, City Manager, is the contact person at 616-582-6597.

CHARLEVOIX DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION - The Charlevoix Development Corporation was formed to assist in funding development projects in the City of Charlevoix. During its tenure, it has provided financial assistance to several businesses and industries. For more information, contact 547-3270.

CHARLEVOIX INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE - This committee was formed in 1981 as a cooperative effort between the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, the City of Charlevoix and area industries. The group works to retain and expand its industrial base and has produced a promotional video of the Charlevoix area for presentation to industrial prospects. The committee membership represents city government, the Chamber of Commerce, private industry and the Economic Alliance.

For more information, contact Jacqueline Merta, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, at 616-547-2101.

CITY OF EAST JORDAN - The City of East Jordan has created a 51-acre industrial park located next to the municipal airport. Planning is underway to market the park and to use grant monies to cover some of the development costs. For more information, contact Bob Johnson, City Superintendent, at 616-536-3381.

Harbor Industries: Making products look their best

Harbor Industries is one of the largest full service manufacturers of permanent and semi permanent display fixtures in the United States. Facilities in Charlevoix, and Grand Haven, Michigan give the company a total of more than 400,000 square feet of manufacturing and warehousing space. Regional sales offices are located throughout the United States with more than 100,000 display fixtures shipped each year nationwide and abroad.

Harbor Industries, located in Grand Haven, MI, was founded in 1946 by Henry Parker. In 1981 Harbor Industries acquired the Charlevoix location which was originally known as Freedman Aircraft. Freedman Aircraft was Charlevoix's first manufacturing entity and an innovative leader in display cases; particularly greeting card fixtures. The merger brought together businesses which had paralleled each other for more than 30 years. While Freedman Aircraft specialized in wood products, Harbor Industries was moving into extensive use of plastics and metals.

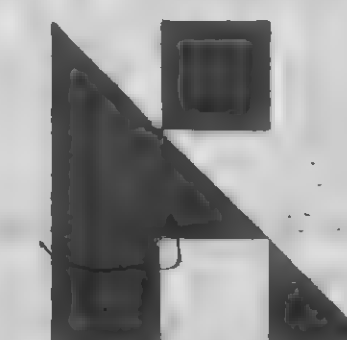

Harbor Industries' modern facilities house state-of-art automated equipment for wood, and plastics. The Charlevoix plant has installed several innovative production machines. Several are numerically controlled which increases both production volume and accuracy. It is primarily a wood-working facility with departments including wood fabricating, assembly, finishing, packing and shipping. It is a full service company, from concept and design of a new display to the manufacturing and delivery to the customer.

Harbor Industries is in business to help move products at the point of purchase. This year alone, at least 100 million products in more than 200,000 retail outlets will be sold from Harbor Industries displays. Our major accounts include, Wal-mart, Sears, Hills Pet, Oneida, Gibson Greeting Cards, General Electric, Half Off Card Shop and Technicolor/CBS Fox. We have just recently introduced a Multiple Adjustable Shelf System (M.A.S.S.) which allows retail stores to plan their sales floor display capabilities down to the square inch. The design of the '90s will be low cost, efficient and flexible.

Control Engineering: a manufacturers' manufacturer

Control Engineering Company started in Pellston, Michigan as an affiliate of the Detroit based Jervis B. Webb Company in 1964. The Harbor Springs Permalum Division was acquired in 1965 and in 1967 the Boyne City Enclosure Manufacturing Plant was purchased from the Roblo Company. In 1993 all three facilities became subsidiaries of the J.B. Webb Company with Corporate Headquarters located in Farmington Hills, Michigan.

In 1994 the Pellston plant was consolidated into the Harbor Springs facility. Three new product lines are being transferred to Pellston under the Control Engineering Company nameplate from a J.B. Webb Cohasset, Massachusetts plant which is being shut down. The move will bring additional employment opportunities to Northern Michigan. Altogether the three plants will have more than 230 employees.

Today, the Harbor Springs Plant provides Automatic Guided Vehicles for American industry. The Boyne City Plant manufactures UL Approved electrical enclosures which house the controls that operate industrial plants and electronic apparatus throughout the United States and North America. When the new Pellston Plant is fully operational it will produce Roller Conveyor and Automatic Pallet Accumulating Equipment. The third product line, a Smart-T Car will be built at the Harbor Springs Plant.

Control Engineering is proud to be an active member of the Northwest Michigan Industrial Association.

Wojan Window & Door: 42 years in Charlevoix

Wojan Window & Door has set the pace for the window and door industry ever since Walter Wojan introduced his aluminum windows and doors 42 years ago.

In 1973, he proved to a skeptical industry that properly constructed aluminum windows are energy efficient, durable, maintenance free and economical.

Today, Dennis Wojan oversees a growing business which currently employs 45 people to keep up with the increasing demand for Wojan Window & Door products.

Wojan's engineering staff keeps pace with the needs of home owners and businesses north and south - wherever energy efficiency means savings.

At Wojan Window & Door's modern 45,000 square foot facility on Stover Road, the company designs and manufactures single, double and triple glazed windows and doors.

Each is carefully engineered with Wojan's unique combination of triple weatherstripping and thermal barrier, offering home owners, architects and contractors a wide range of choices.

Wojan Windows are tested by the American Aluminum Manufacturers Association (AAMA) in approved testing labs. These tests have shown that Wojan products all surpass AAMA standards for thermal performance, structural performance, air infiltration and water infiltration.

In hot climates, where the cost of air conditioning can be more expensive than heating in harsh northern climates, Wojan products keep the heat out and the comfortable cool air in.

In the north, Wojan's Triple Shield Windows, with the highly perfected hollow vinyl tubing thermal break and triple polypropylene weatherstripping keep the heat in and the cold out.

Wojan manufactures a complete line of aluminum and vinyl windows and doors and also distributes Vetter and Weathershield wood window products.

Charlevoix Manufacturing: growing in Charlevoix

Charlevoix Manufacturing is embarking on a major expansion and General Manager Jim Hater credits the expansion to the company's biggest resource - the employees. "We have a fabulous group of people here," Hater said. "Because of our people, we've gained a lot of efficiencies here. That's why we decided to phase out our Cincinnati plant and move all of the manufacturing up here."

Charlevoix Manufacturing first opened for business in Charlevoix in 1978. The parent company, Hater Industries, is in Cincinnati, Ohio. Hater Industries had been looking for a place to expand, and picked Michigan for its abundance of natural gas and proximity to its automotive clients. After the company settled on the state of Michigan for its new plant, Charlevoix was the next logical step. The Hater family has summered in Charlevoix since 1940.

Charlevoix Manufacturing has experienced slow, steady growth since 1978. The plant manufactures master cylinder brake pistons, with General Motors being one of its biggest customers. It was the quality work of the Charlevoix employees that enticed company president Harry Hater and son Jim to move all plant operations from Ohio to Charlevoix. "The people really care here - care about their jobs; and care about the product. They're team players, open minded, and willing to try new things," Jim said. Trying new things, finding ways to improve plant efficiency is what made Charlevoix manufacturing win out over the plant in Ohio.

The plant will expand to 33,000 square feet, about triple its current size. The expansion will also provide 70 new jobs locally. Charlevoix Manufacturing has received support and encouragement on both the state and local levels. "For Charlevoix and northern Michigan, this is a big deal," Hater said.

While Hater touts the quality employees in Charlevoix, some credit must also go to good management. Plant Manager Lawrence Bradley and Quality Manager Phil Hoffman work with Hater to inspire employees. "We encourage them to try new things and don't fault them when they fail," Hater said, adding, "Slight changes in the process can make big changes in efficiency. Our employees are always finding better ways to do things."

Mayoral race to be decided by write-in

There are three candidates seeking to fill the now-vacant Charlevoix mayoral seat. All three will be running as write-in candidates. The only name appearing on the ballot will be that of former mayor Dave Novotny. Novotny resigned midway through his second two-year term. Although his name

...three seeking Charlevoix mayoral post

McRae has been hospitalized and consequently was unable to respond to the Courier's written questions. Some background information on Barnes and Gill as well as the Courier questions and responses from Gill and Barnes follow:

Robert L. Gill, 72, is a retired industrial plant manager. He and his wife Louise live at 304 Park Avenue. Josh Barnes, 66, is the chief executive officer of LexaLite International Corporation. He and his wife Gloria live at 307 Michigan Avenue #4.

Question: Have you ever held a local political office? If so, what office and when?

Barnes: I have 66 years of experience as a human being, but have never held a political office.

Gill: City of Charlevoix second ward alderman from 1963 to 1973.

Question: What other community projects and organizations have you been involved in?

Barnes: I have been involved in (in chronological order, local only): Chamber of Commerce (Director), Charlevoix Yacht Club (a founder and charter member), liaison to Lansing resulting in "Flood Plain" status for the city, Charlevoix County Business & Industry Task Force (a founder, director and Chairman) which later evolved to be the Growth Alliance, Mt. McSaubia ski hill lighting (design and installation with the Charlevoix Electrical Department), Lake Charlevoix Mariners (a founder, director and "obtainer" of the sail training boats), ball diamond lighting, downtown lighting, etc. Also a member and/or board member of various local committees and task forces.

Gill: Currently serving as secretary to the Charlevoix County Local Emergency Planning Committee.

Question: Why are you running for the city council seat?

Barnes: I am running for mayor in the hope of continuing the trend of major infrastructure and aesthetic improvements that has been accomplished in the last ten years, after years of some neglect.

Gill: I would like the opportunity to return to City government the conservative, deliberate planning approach of the past, which has most contributed to the physical and financial health of Charlevoix.

Question: What are some areas of city government that you see as being in need of improvement?

Barnes: I see a need for improvement in the relationship between the City Council and the City Manager and between the Council and the public. The council meetings should be a dignified forum for intelligent debate without rancor or disruption. The city needs a means of better informing the public of both sides of each controversial issue.

Gill: It would appear that more definitive and timely presentation of information to all council persons and strict adherence to regular meeting schedules would be an advantage to council in their decision making process.

Question: What are some areas of city government that you view as being strengths?

Barnes: The city has momentum and a skilled professional staff. It is awesomely good at getting things done when it wants to — witness the smooth expeditious flow of the actions required to implement the LexaLite project in the Industrial Park.

Gill: I think the strength of the City lies in the personnel. They just keep us rolling along.

Question: How do you feel about the DDA bond issue which city voters will vote on Dec. 8? What do you feel should be the long-term goals of the DDA and when do you feel the program should conclude? Or do you feel the program should ever conclude?

Barnes: The DDA should offer the County an agreement to end the DDA recapture concurrently with the final payments on the bonds. If the County enters into such an agreement, all recapture would end that year as the City portion is dependent on the County's. Future projects for which DDA financing is the desired means of funding would need a favorable vote of both the City and the County. I am in favor of leaving in place the 1.5 mill operating revenue levy on the Downtown District of the City. I believe its use should remain flexible; not as a "slush fund," but as a small financial resource to permit continued planning and minor improvements.

Gill: Space limits my comments on this issue, so suffice it to say I am opposed to the bond issue for various reasons and would hope (win or lose) that I could convey some of my concerns to the voting public before that election.

Question: Are there any issues involving city government which may not have recently received a great deal of discussion, but that you feel are going to come up and be important in the foreseeable future?

Barnes: Thank you for the opportunity to present my views. A question you did not ask was "What qualifies you for the job of mayor?" Thirty years as President, later CEO, of LexaLite has given me experience in the conduct of meetings and the implementation of the results thereof. Keeping LexaLite "in the black" for thirty consecutive years demonstrates my ability to weed out waste while encouraging intelligent investment. I'd like the job and your support.

Gill: Twenty years ago we discussed the need for a Board of Public Works (or equivalent) to monitor growth and help plan revisions and extensions of utilities so that these items would not be "piece meal." I feel the need exists more than ever now.

Historical Society to host WWII program

The Charlevoix Historical Society will host a WW II Commemorative Program at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1, to recognize the contributions and sacrifices made by veterans and their families on the home front and overseas.

The Harsha House Museum will have a special display of WW II artifacts and other related items during the month of November. The Museum is open Saturdays 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

All WW II veterans and men and women serving in other jobs relating to the war are invited to participate in this program to honor all who served during this time.

The public is also invited to attend and share in remembering this important time in our history.

DDA promoting bond proposal

By L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) board met in a special session Oct. 26 to plan strategy to promote a $3.5 million bond proposal. The proposal will be decided by city voters at a Dec. 8 special election.

Among the promotional means discussed were: hosting a public forum; distributing a question and answer sheet; having people go door to door; seeking editorial support from local newspapers; and seeking resolutions of support from local organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce.

City treasurer Rick Brandi said he attended a meeting in Gaylord to discuss the bond issue with representatives from the Michigan Bonding Authority. Should the Charlevoix bond proposal pass Dec. 8, it will be combined with municipal bonds from other communities. The bonds will be sold later in December.

Brandi said offering the bonds together, rather than separately, makes a lot of sense from a market standpoint.

Bonding is simply a way for the city to borrow money to finance DDA projects. The city will sell the bonds to the bidder willing to put up the $3.5 million at the lowest interest rate.

The rate of interest will not be known until the bonds are sold. However, tax exempt bonds normally receive a low interest rate. In addition to that, the City of Charlevoix also has a good bond rating.

Without knowing the interest rate or some other information which is subject to variation, it is impossible to give an exact figure on the cost of paying back the bond.

Brandi has developed some estimated figures which would have total bond payments of $354,000 per year over 20 years with the

OPINIONS

Impressions of political candidates

With the general election less than two weeks away, the time has come to offer some insight on the Nov. 8 election. Although the Courier has not made endorsements of political candidates, at least in recent years, prior to every election we get a flood of candidates coming into the office.

Having candidates stop by to talk about local and state issues is always appreciated. Endorsements or not, it seems only appropriate to at least convey to readers some of the general impressions of the candidates. As you go into this, be advised that the opinions and impressions are offered by someone who believes that in most instances one of the best things government can do is stay off people's backs and out of their pockets.

Races in the city of Charlevoix—There are only two races in the city; one for mayor and the other for second ward council member.

The mayoral race has an interesting twist in that all three candidates, Ralph McRae, Bob Gill and Josh Barnes, are write-in candidates. The only person whose name will appear on the ballot is former mayor Dave Novotny and he is not interested in the job, but instead is supporting Barnes. McRae is a former mayor. He excels in working as an ambassador for the community, but has difficulty maintaining order at council meetings. Gill is a former city council member. Were he elected, he is likely to be fiscally conservative and put a tighter rein on Downtown Development Authority (DDA) activities. Barnes has a wealth of business experience and is used to getting things done efficiently. Were he elected, he would probably be less fiscally conservative than Gill, keeping local government closer to the status quo. However, he also is likely to put a somewhat tighter rein on DDA and other spending.

In the second ward, Gabe Campbell is challenging incumbent Ted Felter. Here voters have a clear choice. If you like things to continue on their present path, Felter is the choice. If you want to see some changes, then the choice is Campbell. From a voter's perspective, that's healthy. You have two candidates with some differing views and you make your decision.

State elections—Incumbent Beverly Bodem (R-Alpena) is again being challenged by G.T. Long (D-Horton Bay). Bodem has stopped by the Courier office on several occasions during her two years in office. When she was elected as representative of a district which extends from the shores of Lake Michigan to the shores of Lake Huron, a major concern was that we might not see much of our state representative on the west side of the state. That simply hasn't been the case. Bodem has visited Charlevoix County often and made herself accessible to her constituents. While in Lansing, she's been an effective legislator. She's taken some strong positions on education reform and also has been willing to work with both republicans and democrats. Long hasn't been in the Courier office during this election although he has stopped by in the past. Long is a pleasant enough guy to talk to, but his background in the private sector business world is lacking.

State Senator: Walter North (R-St. Ignace) and Mike McElroy (D-Cross Village) are competing for the seat formerly held by John Pridmore in a newly formed district which encompasses Charlevoix.

Both North and McElroy have been in the Courier office during the past week. This is a peculiar race. The guy running as a democrat, McElroy, is running on a very strong pro-business platform and sounds a lot like a republican. Meanwhile, the guy running as a republican has been working for the government for nearly 30 years, and consequently it's difficult to see him trimming government programs and reducing taxes. Of the two, McElroy made a better impression. He's very direct. If you want to know where he stands on an issue, you only need to ask once and he tells you in no uncertain terms. The question with McElroy is if he is elected, will his votes in Lansing reflect what he's saying on the campaign trail, or will he fall in line with the Lansing democratic leadership? He says if he's elected, party leaders will probably see him as something of a maverick. North is a pleasant guy. He has a background in finance and isn't going to be baffled when dealing with the state budget. The problem is he's been in government and on the government payroll for decades. He just doesn't seem to have any new ideas to offer to the state political process.

State Governor: Neither candidate has stopped by the Courier office this time around, although Engler was through during the last campaign and recently visited Charlevoix for a town meeting.

Engler's methods may sometimes be abrasive, but he gets done what he says he's going to do. Interviewing him is always interesting because you can hit him with a tough question and he's bright enough and forthright enough to come back with a well-thought-out and direct answer.

Wolpe, on the other hand...well, he hasn't been seen much in these parts.

Congress: Incumbent Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) is being challenged by Gil Ziegler (R-Traverse City).

Stupak has been in town three times that come to mind. Once for a town meeting at the Senior Center more than a year ago. Once for the Venetian Festival in 1993 and once on a tour of the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia. His press secretary sends a stream of faxes, but other than that the Courier office hasn't had much contact with Stupak. To his credit, Stupak voted against NAFTA and the crime bill, but voted for other Clinton programs that raised taxes. He also worked on keeping the Acacia in town, although how much of an impact he had, as opposed to other people working on the project is open to opinion. But any impact should be appreciated. He could have just sat on the sidelines.

Ziegler is quite familiar with Charlevoix and even has some investments here. Much like McElroy, Ziegler's a real straight forward guy. When he decides he wants to do something, he goes after it hard. There's nothing wishy-washy about him. That's a trait which has served him well in business. He also favors term limits and says that even if he's elected to Congress, he doesn't plan on staying there forever.

State Supreme Court: Only one of the State Supreme Court candidates stopped by the Courier office. That was Richard Griffin of Traverse City. He made a very good impression. Although State Supreme Court candidates run without party affiliation, Griffin is supported by the Republican party. He said that he is very much concerned about an increasing pattern of judges overstepping their boundaries and effectively making laws, rather than simply interpreting them. As he put it, if you want to make laws, you should be in the legislature. If you want to interpret laws, then you should be on the bench.

EDITH GILBERT

This will be my thirtieth Halloween in Charlevoix and there is much to reflect on during this pumpkin season—or as I prefer to call it, the season for a soft touch.

The street where I live has always been a popular stopping off place for "trick or treating" by tiny toddlers dressed as bunnies, middle school kids dressed as monsters, and sometimes even teenagers dressed as space cadets, pirates, or Gypsies.

Every year hundreds of cars stop on the corner where fun-loving home owners put on a spooky show with eerie noises and visual effects that scare the little ones right back into their mother's arms.

My doorbell starts ringing about 5:30 when the youngest toddler timidly holds out a container to be filled with goodies and proud parents beam with memories of their own earlier "trick or treating" days. It ends about 9:30 with older boys and girls giggling, shoving and racing each other down the block.

In spite of all the "treating" I have done, there have been many unwelcome "tricks" played on me over the years. "Tricks" like string-ing toilet paper from tree to tree I don't really mind, but wiping dried egg off the car isn't much fun. Smashing the lamp post and shooting BB's into the side of my car doesn't seem like much of a "trick" either.

For those of us who live in a small town and know most everyone's mother by her maiden name—who have observed with a bemused eye what we used to call "lively" children growing up to become successful professionals with "lively" children of their own—we can't help but be reminded of the strange emotional currents that take place in the lives of these young people during adolescence. I swear that some of the darling little bunnies, who rang my doorbell for the first time years ago, have grown up to toss an egg or two at my car or worse when they became teenagers. This year it will be no surprise to anyone, least of all to me, that some former egg throwers will be back as proud parents ringing my doorbell. I will be introduced to a new generation of adorable wide-eyed little bunnies for their first "trick or treat" experience.

Petition group thanks those who signed

Editor,

Recently a group of concerned citizens circulated petitions to inform the taxpayers of the City of Charlevoix about the DDA proposed expenditure of three and a half (3.5 million) dollars. The Concerned Citizens Committee would like to take this opportunity to thank the taxpayers of Charlevoix who took the time to sign these very important petitions.

The election vote on this very important issue will be held December 8, 1994, and we surely hope all you good people, (read taxpayers) will get out and vote or apply for absentee vote applications at the City Clerk's office.

Questions concerning this proposal will be answered by any member of the Concerned Citizens Committee who circulated these petitions.

See you at the polls.

Thanks again,
Billie Smith

Constituent found Bodem to be helpful

Editor,

This letter is being written in sincere appreciation for assistance received from Representative Beverly Bodem. We had a serious problem with a medical provider in the area and could not get anyone to help us. After suffering the indignity of having our account turned over to a collection agency, we contacted Representative Bodem's office. Representative Bodem immediately contacted the provider, our insurance carrier and the collection agency.

After repeated notices and correspondence the wrongful amount billed by the medical provider was reduced approximately $2,500.00.

We urge everyone to support Representative Bodem on November 8, 1994. It is not just for us, but everyone, who needs a representative in Lansing that can be counted on.

Respectfully,

Fred Welch

FAMILY

Curtis - Atkinson

Kimberly Ann Curtis and James Edward Atkinson Jr. were married August 27 at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey. The double ring ceremony was performed by Deacon Joe Nelson and witnessed by 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Katie and Jack Curtis of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Marilyn and James Atkinson of Bloomfield Hills.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a satin white dress with chantilly lace. The full satin skirt and cathedral length train were accented with pearls and iridescent sequins. The bride's fingertip veil and pouf of illusions were attached to a headband of pearls and sequins.

Vocalist at the ceremony was Carol Grady, cousin of the bride. She was accompanied by Wil Moy-er as organist.

Bridesmaids were Kathy De-Mars, Donna Szythiel, Cathy Yount, Suzanne Gozior, and Shelly Atkinson.

Groomsmen were Steven Atkinson, Denny Curtis, Tom Williams, Lonny Abigon, Marc Behrendt, and Glen Behrendt.

Flower girls were Lauren Atkinson and Stephanie Summers.

After a carriage ride through downtown Petoskey, a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The wedding cake was decorated with white roses and pink mini carnations with ivy and baby's breath. The cake was cut by friends Edna Miller and Roberta Whitley. Serving the cake was Theresa Golding, aunt of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was given at Stafford's Bay View Inn by the groom's parents.

The newlyweds took a trip to Harbor Springs and Mackinac Island. They plan to take a winter honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico. They will reside in Bloomfield Hills.

The bride is a graduate of Ferris

State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in business education. She is also a graduate of the Petoskey Beauty Academy. She is employed as a district sales manager for General Wines - Liquor in Detroit.

The groom has a Bachelor of Science degree in marketing and is employed as an account executive for Paragon Technologies in Warren.

Kayla Potter of Charlevoix was recently crowned Miss Pee-wee Sunburst U.S.A. at a Sept. 23 competition in Traverse City. Potter received a crown, banner and trophy and will receive $200 for the entry fee in a state competition. During the competition, Potter received awards for "Best Attire U.S.A.," "Most Photogenic U.S.A.," and "Prettiest Eyes U.S.A." Potter will compete in the state pageant in the spring and in the international pageant in the fall of 1995.

Potter is the five-year-old daughter of Jay and Deborah (Shores) Potter of Charlevoix. She enjoys modeling and dance. She was sponsored in the Sunburst competition by Creative Tile of Charlevoix.

Gil Ziegler Is Making

3 Simple Promises to the Voters in This District:

#1 Gil is not a politician and he won't become one.

- Gil supports congressional term limits and will only serve 3 terms.
- Gil will not accept PAC contributions and will lead the fight against special interest money.
- Mass mailings at taxpayer expense will not be the way Gil runs his office.

#2 It won't be "business as usual" when Gil's in Washington.

We need to restore accountability to Congress by:

- Passing a balanced budget amendment and giving the President the line item veto.
- Requiring all laws that apply to the rest of the country to apply equally to Congress as well.
- Cutting the number of house committees and staff by 1/3.
- Requiring a three-fifths majority vote to pass any tax increase.

#3 Gil will be a Congressman who can look Bill Clinton in the eye and say "NO!"

- The budgets Gil votes for will either reduce the deficit or they won't get his vote.
- The 1993 tax hikes on Social Security benefits will not be repeated, and if Gil has anything to say about it, they'll be repealed.

Do it for Charlevoix...

Josh Barnes

...for Mayor

Just answers to your questions...

Why do you say that passage of the DDA Bond issue on Bridge Park will not increase our taxes "one red cent"?

Michigan Deputy Treasurer Nick Khouri advises that the Proposal A "Set-Aside" for Pipeline Projects is out of the $10.5 billion Michigan School Aid fund. About half of this 4 million dollar bond issue, plus interest, will be repaid from the Set-Aside over the life of the bonds. Thus the net annual theoretical "cost" to each taxpayer, if we were to increase taxes to offset that reduction, is a couple cents per year. Since that will not be done, I stand by my statement that passage of the Bond issue Referendum (December 8) will not increase your taxes by "one red cent."

Do you favor or oppose the "endless" DDA?

The DDA is a useful tool and has been instrumental in improving the infrastructure of Charlevoix but, like a chain saw, this useful tool can be dangerous. First, I suggest that the DDA offer the county a binding agreement that would end recapture on a given date. Assuming the current bonding proposal passes with 19 year maturity, that could be in the year 2013, if the county so agrees. Ending recapture at the county level will automatically also terminate recapture at the city level. I believe we should also investigate "Project Basing" rather than "Revenue Basing" but that needs further study. I further believe the use of the "operating" 1.4 mil levy (city downtown area only) should remain flexible and at the direction of the DDA.

Can't we remove the sewage digester without the Bridge Park Bond Issue?

Sure, but WOW! at what a cost! And that entire cost would be spread either to some 1700 sewer users as a major increase in our monthly sewer fees or to a similar number of taxpayers as a major increase in our city taxes. It is not an intelligent alternative!

Are you sure you want the job?
Yes.

Quotes...

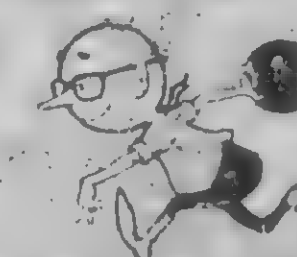

"If elected, I plan to run the meetings in an impartial manner and not to push for any particular policies, which is properly the domain of the elected council members. I hope to give opportunity for ample public input but only in an orderly, well mannered mode."

"I favor the continuation of intelligent spending on parks, parking, area and street lighting and landscaping so Charlevoix is even more the Beautiful. There are, however, significant savings available in the costs of city government, that can make such improvements painless. Still, such decisions are up to the council members. My job would just be to see that those issues get a fair hearing."

"Charlevoix does have one problem. While it is normal to have differing opinions among its citizens, it is not acceptable to let those differences divide the city. I would propose to encourage intelligent discussion with mutual respect for one another, no acrimony, no personal attacks, just dignified debate leading to a decision acceptable to all."

Beatrice G. Richardson

Beatrice Grace Richardson, 75, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 21, 1994, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

A private family service is planned. There will be no visitation at the funeral home.

Mrs. Richardson was born March 9, 1919, at home in Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, the daughter of John and Anna (Sauder) Struthers. She was raised in Hayes Township and attended Burgess School, and then Charlevoix public schools.

On Aug. 8, 1937, she married Orva Richardson in Charlevoix. He preceded her in death on Feb. 15, 1963.

Mrs. Richardson worked at Fairbanks Bakery in Charlevoix until 1945. She was employed in nursing at Charlevoix Area Hospital for 15 years, and then worked in nursing at the Northern Michigan Hospital emergency room for 25 years.

Mrs. Richardson was a lifelong resident of the area, and had been a resident at Grandvue since 1987.

Survivors include one daughter, Sandra I. Beaudoin and her husband, Joseph B., of Charlevoix; two grandchildren, Mark Lyle Burt Beaudoin of Plymouth, and Marcie Rey Grace Beaudoin of Charlevoix; two brothers, Charles Struthers and his wife, Florence, of Norristown, Pa., and Howard Struthers and his wife, Mona, of Charlevoix; and two sisters, Leona Bartlett and her husband, Bruce, of Charlevoix, and Ruth Berg, also of Charlevoix. Mrs. Richardson was preceded in death by one son, Donald L. Richardson in 1946; and by one daughter, Phyllis M. Richardson in 1945.

Cynthia "Cindy" Kurchinski

Cynthia "Cindy" Kurchinski, 35, of Littleton, Colo., died Oct. 20, 1994, at home.

Her funeral was Tuesday, Oct. 25, at St. Francis Cabrini Catholic Church in Littleton.

Mrs. Kurchinski was born Dec. 20, 1958, the daughter of Walter and Cecelia Hunter. She graduated from Bear Creek High School in Lakewood, Colo.

Mrs. Kurchinski worked in the computer field and was most recently employed by the Public Service Corporation of Colorado.

She and her husband, Tim, have been involved in drag racing and are members of the National Hot Rod Association. They both drove their 1965 Chevrolet Super Sport in superstock competition, and also owned a gas dragster, which Mrs. Kurchinski drove in competition.

Survivors include her husband, Tim Kurchinski, two sons, Timmy and Tyler, and one daughter, Caley, all at home in Littleton. She is also survived by her parents, Walter and Cecelia Hunter of Littleton; two brothers, Steve and Kerry, and one sister, Diana, all of the Littleton area; and brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, Jon and Mary Ann Wasyliwski of Hickory, N.C., Gerard and Kay Ackley of Newberry, and David and Lee Kurchinski of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorial contributions be directed to Charlevoix State Bank, 111 State St., in memory of Cindy Kurchinski, Kurchinski Children's Educational Fund, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

Alec Lachman

Alec Zephaniah Lachman, age four months, of Pinckney, Michigan died Oct. 4. He was the infant son of John and Karen Lachman and the grandson of John and Agnes Lachman of Norwood. Services were held Saturday, Oct. 8 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Methodists plan luncheon and bazaar

The Charlevoix United Methodist Women will host their annual fall luncheon, bazaar and bake sale from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Friday, Oct. 28 at the church on the northeast corner of State and Clinton Streets. The event will feature a buffet lunch complete with home-made pie as well as a selection of gift items and baked goods. The cost is $4.50 or $4 for senior citizens.

Assembly to host party

Charlevoix Assembly of God is hosting a community-wide party Monday, Oct. 31, with admission and costume judging from 6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Carnival games and a movie from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. (Wholesome costumes only. No witches, goblins, monsters, etc.) There will be lots of treats and goodies. For ages 3-12. Adult supervision provided.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. DALE OSTEMA
Charlevoix United Methodist Church

Surprise, religion is good for you! - or so says a 1992 report in the "American Journal of Psychiatry." For centuries, the Bible has been telling us that "the fear of the Lord leads to life." Finally, the scientific community is catching up with this long-held truth. In summarizing more than twelve years of studies, the report shows in more than 90 percent of the cases there is a positive link between religion and good mental health. Healthy religion proved to curb suicide, drug and alcohol abuse and depression. The studies also show less heart disease risk, quicker recovery from burns and fractures, lower blood pressure and fewer hospital stays among church goers.

Other reports show that the religious are more likely to stay together in marriage than their unchurched neighbors. Why is that? Because religion brings shared values, beliefs and purpose to a marriage. It creates a common bond, our faith in God, which strengthens and supports a marriage.

For me, it comes down to the truth that we are made to be in relationship with God. Without that relationship, there is an incredible void which touches all areas of our lives. Christian Apologist, C.S. Lewis once said, "God designed the human machine to run on Himself. He Himself is the fuel our spirits were designed to burn, or the food our spirits were designed to feed on. There is no other. That is why it is just no good asking God to make us happy in our own way. God cannot give us a happiness and peace apart from Himself, because it is not there. There is no such thing."

It seems clear that far from taking the joy out of life, religion (that which helps our relationship with God), enables us to live a more satisfying and happier life. How is your relationship with God today? Why not deepen it? It can only be good for you!

School bands wrap up fall marching season

The Charlevoix Rayder Marching Band recently attended the Traverse City Marching Band exposition at Thirby Field. Their show, entitled "Nostalgia Dream" showcased tunes from the big band and swing eras. Drum major Annie Campbell led the Rayders on the field and flag corps members Debbie Hamilton, Alissa Lachiusa, Sarah Shepard, and Tiffany Wojan presented colors for Charlevoix. Soloists were Duffy Stewart, Mark Scharbaum and Callie Siwarga.

The marching season comes to a close Friday, Oct. 28, as the Rayders host their last home game against East Jordan.

Other highlights of the fall season for the Charlevoix music program are the eighth grade marching performance during half time of the Oct. 21 middle school football game, a strong start for the sixth grade beginning band, and a new choir group that meets on Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the high school band room. The new seventh hour jazz lab is showing some promise and will be featured in the winter concert.

Anyone interested in Band Boosters events may contact Band Booster President, Nancy Allison at 348-6610. All music lovers and band parents are welcome.

CB North acquires branch banks

Francis B. Flanders, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of CB North in Charlevoix, and Barry J. Eckhold, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Republic Bank recently announced the signing of a definitive Agreement to acquire the banking operations of the northern Michigan branches of Republic Bank, a subsidiary of Republic Bancorp Inc., Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The acquisition includes the banking operations of Republic Bank's branch offices in Bellaire, Central Lake and Traverse City. It excludes Republic's Traverse City and Petoskey Loan Production Offices and operations. The assets of the three Republic Bank branch offices totaling $54,915,510 as of June 30, 1994, in addition to CB North's assets as of September 30, 1994 of $121,448,656, will bring the total assets of CB North to over 176 million, with eleven banking offices in Antrim, Charlevoix and Grand Traverse counties.

Flanders commented, "Expanding our banking offices into these communities is a natural progression for the Bank. The CB North staff is experienced and committed to servicing the needs of the customers here. The addition of the three branches in Bellaire, Central Lake and Traverse City will enable us to offer expanded services to all our customers. We are pleased to have this opportunity to grow and service a greater area of Northern Michigan and look forward to future expansion."

CB North is a subsidiary of CB Financial Corporation of Jackson, Michigan. CB Financial Corporation, with reported assets as of September 30, 1994, of $683,490,314, and its banking subsidaries City Bank and Trust Company in Jackson, City Bank in Lansing/St. Johns and CB North in Charlevoix, have 43 banking offices providing commercial, trust and personal services in Northwest and Mid-Central Michigan.

Republic Bank, with assets of $882 million, is a subsidiary of Republic Bancorp Inc., a $1.4 billion registered bank holding company, with headquarters in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Republic Bancorp Inc. has 85 banking and loan production offices in 16 states: Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Colorado, Texas, California and Oregon.

The acquisition is pending all required regulatory approvals and is expected to be completed by year end.

Book Shop brings books to children

The holiday season arrives early at Bridge Street Book Shop, located across from the Chamber of Commerce in downtown Charlevoix. Owners Kit and Dianne Foster are putting up the store's Christmas tree in early November, well before most Yuletide decorations are in evidence. And hanging on this year's tree will be white paper angels, each carrying the name and age of a child.

Thus the Christmas stage will be set for the first annual Bridge Street Book Shop Book Angel Project which will place books into the hands of underprivileged children in the Charlevoix area. This is how it works: the Book Shop has received children's names from the Charlevoix Department of Social Services. The Book Shop staff will write each child's name and age on an angel to be placed on the tree. Customers are encouraged to select an angel from the tree and purchase a book of the customer's choice - at a 20 percent discount - for the child whose name appears on the angel. In place of the angel, a gold star with the donor's name on it will be hung on the tree. The Book Shop then giftwraps the book, using the angel as the gift tag, and places it under the tree. The books will be delivered to the children for Christmas.

Bridge Street Book Shop welcomes the support of individuals, families, businesses, local clubs and organizations to help put books into the hands of every angel on the tree. Volunteers are also welcome to help giftwrap the books. Stop by Bridge Street Book Shop, or call 547-7323, for details on the Book Angel Project.

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Daniel Bickersteth of Charlevoix was among the University of Michigan College of Engineering students named to the Dean's List for the 1994 winter and spring terms. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point scale.

Charlevoix High School student Mark Schairbaum has been named a Commended Student in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship Program. He is one of about 35,000 students throughout the nation to be honored for academic promise. These students placed among the top five percent of more than a million students who entered the 1995 Merit Program by taking the 1993 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Three Charlevoix High School alumni will be in uniform for a showdown for the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association football title this weekend. The game is between the Alma College Scots and the Albion Britons Saturday at Alma. Both teams are unbeaten. In uniform for Alma will be sophomore wide receiver Keith Carey, freshman quarterback Don Jess and freshman wide receiver Brandon Webb.

The former Bellinger Marine Service building, a familiar waterfront landmark for the past several decades, was demolished last week. The property was purchased earlier this year and two new homes will be constructed on the site. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Rayders hold onto league lead

Charlevoix's girls' varsity basketball team continues to hold a one-game lead in the Lake Michigan Division of the Great Northern Conference. The Rayders traveled to Elk Rapids Oct. 27 and beat the Elks 73-38.

Liz Grunch scored 25 points and hauled down seven rebounds to lead the Rayders to the win. The 25 points brought Grunch's career total to 1,175 to move her past Melinda (Klooster) Langford into first place on the Rayder girls' all-time scoring list. Grunch has always been an effective scorer for the Rayders. This year the team lacks height and has to work hard for rebounds. Consequently, Grunch has stepped up her efforts in that facet of the game.

Lisa Parrish, a freshman recently called up to the varsity, scored 15 points while junior forward Liz Kelly added nine. Senior point guard Jill Dreyer had six steals and seven assists.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 68-24. Amanda Eaton led the j.v. team with 25 points while Julie Gregory had 13 and Anne Terryberry a dozen.

Football team falls to 3-5 with 34-13 loss at Traverse City

Charlevoix stayed with Traverse City St. Francis through the first quarter Saturday, but fell victim to big plays in the second quarter and ended up coming home with a 34-13 loss.

Charlevoix opened the scoring in the first quarter when Jerry Duhart took off on a 54-yard excursion to the end zone. Casey Crain ran in the extra point.

In the second quarter, St. Francis wrapped up their twenty-seventh conference win and fifth consecutive conference title with three unanswered touchdowns. The Gladiators, ranked seventh in Class C, led 20-7 at halftime. They added two more touchdowns in the third quarter.

Bryan Jarema scored Charlevoix's final touchdown of the game on a two-yard run with 47 seconds remaining in the game.

Duhart had 107 yards on 16 carries for the game. Jarema accumulated 77 yards on eight carries. Jason Terryberry completed three of 10 passes for 65 yards. Mark Boss was four of seven for 14 yards. Trevor Williams caught three passes for a total of 69 yards.

Kurt DeGrow had nine tackles for the Rayders, while Charlie Pop and Dan Harris each had five.

The loss left Charlevoix with a 3-5 season record and a record of 2-2 in conference play. The Rayders will close their season at home this Friday night with East Jordan.

Cross country team sweeps league meet

After letting East Jordan borrow the Great Northern Conference cross country title for a year, Charlevoix's boys' cross country team has taken back the crown. Oct. 18 at Elk Rapids, the Charlevoix boys took back the title they held for 13 straight years prior to East Jordan's win in 1993. Making the 1994 win even sweeter was the Charlevoix girls' team joining the Rayder boys as conference champions. The girls' team last won the conference meet in 1992.

Charlevoix's boys finished with a team total of 37 points. East Jordan came in second with 48. The Rayders and Red Devils were a cut above all other league teams as Kalkaska placed third with 106 points.

Mike Bush was the Rayders top individual finisher, placing second with a time of 15:42, which was 16 seconds behind Ryan Shay of Central Lake. Charlevoix's Matt Dickinson was third at 16:16. Chris LeButt placed eighth in 16:25. Justin Davis was ninth in 16:40. The top ten finishers in the race were named to the all-conference team.

Other runners for Charlevoix and their places and times were: James Conlan, 12th in 16:52; Brian Martinus, 15th, 17:16; and Paul Henne, 17th, 17:27.

Sophomore Chelsea Gorkiewicz led the girls' team, winning the conference race with a time of 19:51. Becca Chamberlain was second in 20:31. Rachael Newcomb was fourth in 20:39. Candice Vandergriff was sixth in 20:55. Lisa Hoadley was ninth in 21:20. The top ten finishers in the race were named to the all conference team.

Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: Monica Browe, 12th in 21:59; Candy Siwarga, 16th in 22:15.

Chamberlain and Hoadley are the only seniors on the girls' varsity team. Gorkiewicz and Newcomb are sophomores. Vandergriff, Browe and Siwarga are freshmen.

Saturday, Oct. 22 the Rayders returned to Elk Rapids for a tune-up race for this weekend's Regional meet this coming Saturday at Schuss Mountain.

At the Elk Rapids Edwardson Memorial Invitational the Rayder boys' team placed second in the Class A, B, large-C division behind Traverse City. Traverse City, which is ranked fourth in Class A, took first with 28 points. Charlevoix finished second with 68 points.

In the girls' race, which consisted of nine teams, Charlevoix placed third with 100 points. Gaylord won the race with 27 points while Traverse City was second with 71 points.

Bush was second in the boys' race with a time of 15:33, seven seconds behind a Traverse City runner. Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: Dickinson, eighth in 16:05; LeButt, 15th in 16:33; Davis, 17th in 16:40; Conlan, 21st in 16:52; Henne, 28th in 17:07; Martinus, 43rd in 17:50.

Gorkiewicz led the Rayder girls, placing eighth in 19:34. Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: Chamberlain, 12th in 19:51; Newcomb, 20th in 20:24; Vandergriff, 21st in 20:24; Hoadley, 39th in 21:34; Browe, 44th in 21:49; Siwarga, 50th in 22:50.

Soccer team wins district game

Charlevoix's high school boys' soccer team struck early to beat Harbor Springs 4-1 in a Class C-D District soccer game Monday at Kipke Field. Charlevoix will play Elk Rapids in Elk Rapids, Oct. 26 in a district semi-final game.

Two goal lead with assists from Eric Hess and Tim Terry. Chris Mikulski scored Charlevoix's third goal on a direct kick with 8:02 left in the half. Steve Carland completed the Rayder scoring on a header off a Kammerman corner kick.

Cam Carre got the goal-tending victory for the Rayders.

Becky Lent is first woman to win football contest

For the first time since who knows when, a woman, yes a woman of the female gender, has won the Charlevoix Courier football contest. Becky Lent was the top entrant in this past week's contest with an 8-2 record. Bob Borths, Leroy Buchannon and the Courier Guru tried to maintain a manly stronghold in the sport of football, but fell short with 7-3 records.

And it's not just in Charlevoix where this kind of thing is happening. Max Novak dropped off a clipping from the Grand Rapids Press. Novak's daughter Nancy (Novak) Lotherby recently won that newspaper's football contest.

Women winning football contests throughout the state. Men of Michigan, it's time to step back and take a long, hard look at ourselves.

Perhaps the problem is that women just don't understand the proper technique for watching football. Rather than eating a big meal, flopping down on the couch and falling asleep by halftime, they're probably eating light and staying awake for the whole game.

Well let's hope the men make a better showing this week.

Here are the games and the Guru's picks:

East Jordan at Charlevoix: Could Charlevoix pull off one of the biggest upsets of the season? Chances are slim, but don't be surprised to see the Rayders make a game of this. Pick - East Jordan.

Ludington at Petoskey: Nobody believed Petoskey would beat Cheboygan last week, but they did. The question is, will the Northmen suffer a let-down this week? No. Pick - Petoskey.

Wisconsin at Michigan: Did you hear that big thud earlier this fall? Was it a comet striking terra-firma? Nope. It was the Wisconsin football program falling back to earth following last year's Rose Bowl win. For running back fans, this game features some of the nation's best. Pick - Michigan.

Indiana at Michigan State: Local Michigan State alumni report that at Michigan State games people are selling George Perles, Farewell Tour T-shirts. That's got to be a distraction for the program. Despite that and Indiana's ranking in the nation's Top 25, this one has upset written all over it. Pick - Michigan.

Top ten football visionaries (Minimum 40 picks)

1. Larry Nunemaker 28-12 .780
2. Rick Brandt 27-13 .675
3. Bill Dreyer 33-17 .660
4. David Fowler 46-24 .657
5. Bob Borths 45-25 .643
6. Tom Meggison 45-25 .643
7. Kyle Borths 38-22 .633
8. Norm Lawson 25-15 .625
9. Courier Guru 43-27 .614
10. Ralph Doan Jr. 30-20 .600
10. Gilbert Ice 36-24 .600
10. Tom Sandison 42-38 .600
10. Brandon Webb 36-24 .600

State.

Colorado at Nebraska: Nebraska has played well despite injury problems. Colorado has played well without injury problems and has been looking forward to this game all year. Pick - Colorado.

Ohio State at Penn State: Penn State had this past weekend off. But then, in a way so did Ohio State. (They waxed Purdue.) Now, pay close attention and try to follow the scenario here: Two weeks ago Penn State beat Michigan. This weekend Ohio State beats Penn

State. Indirectly, this would indicate that Ohio State is a better team than Michigan and consequently Bill Webster has bragging rights at the Medusa Cement plant. But these rights should be exercised judiciously as they are only temporary. How temporary, remains to be seen. If Michigan beats Ohio State in football within a couple of weeks, they're very temporary. Even if Ohio State wins at football, Webster's bragging rights are still temporary because basketball season's just around the corner. All this is moot anyhow. Pick - Penn State.

Kansas State at Oklahoma: Kansas State has put together a good team. Don't be surprised to hear their coach's name bantered around for several other jobs during the off season. Pick - Kansas State.

Detroit at New York Giants: Aside from three big plays, the Lions really didn't show much against the Bears. The Giants are in a losing streak, but are due to snap out of it. Pick - Giants.

Kansas City at Buffalo: These are two teams which are somewhat disappointed with their seasons so far. Both have been inconsistent. Pick - Buffalo.

Indianapolis at New York Jets: And speaking of inconsistent...here are the two most inconsistent teams in the league. Indianapolis needs a new owner. Until they get one, the highlight of their season will continue to be the anticipation of draft day. Still, Marshall Faulk can probably carry them past the Jets. Pick - Indianapolis.

state paying $177,000 and the city paying $177,000. Those figures are very conservative. They are based on the state paying only 50 percent although that figure could be more. They are also based on no growth in property values within the DDA district.

The annual payments are based on a 20-year projected pay-off time. That would take the bonds out to the year 2015. The DDA program is currently projected to end in the year 2013 although that termination date could be amended by the DDA board and city council as have past DDA termination dates.

Using the conservative figures of $354,000 annual payments split 50-50 between the state and city over 20 years, the total payback of the bonds would be $7,080,000 with the city and state each paying half.

The money from the bonds would help fund DDA projects, primarily the renovation of Bridge Park. Included in that renovation would be improvements to the Beaver Island Boat Company and U.S. Coast Guard docking area; removal of the old sewage treatment building; parking area improvements; and putting a building in the bank of the park to house the Beaver Island Boat Company facilities, storage space for the Coast Guard, public rest rooms, and a smaller sewage disposal facility.

The DDA board will meet again Nov. 2 for further discussion of the bond proposal.

Man injured falling from car

A 20-year-old man from Central Lake was in critical condition in the hospital after falling from the hood of a moving vehicle Sunday evening. The accident, which is being investigated by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, occurred on Ferry Road near M-66 at approximately 6:25 p.m.

According to a sheriff's department news release, Michael Basse jumped on the hood of a westbound 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Charles Shafer, 20, of Traverse City. The vehicle traveled about 200 more feet when Shafer began to turn and applied the brakes. Basse landed in the roadway and suffered serious head injuries.

The Charlevoix City Ambulance took Basse to Charlevoix Area Hospital where he received treatment prior to being transferred to Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey.

The investigation remains open and according to the news release the sheriff's department plans to issue citations, but those are pending upon the condition of Basse.

The sheriff's department was assisted by the Ironton Ferry operator who radioed a report of the accident.

Nursery school plans activities

The Kids Corner Nursery School in Charlevoix is offering beautiful evergreen Christmas wreaths for sale. The wreaths are $15 and will still look great after the holidays are over. Contact a Kids Corner parent or the school to place your order. Orders are due by Friday, Oct. 28 and wreaths will be delivered the first week of December.

Kids Corner is also conducting a plate night at Charlevoix elementary school Thursday, Oct. 27 from 3:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Your child is invited to draw a picture that will then be transferred to a keepsake plate. Each plate is $5.50.

Please contact the school at 547-9122.

Introducing the SureGrowth CD

We call it the SureGrowth CD, because it has one feature the others don't: guaranteed growth. That means the longer you stick with it, the higher the interest rate we pay... and the more your earnings grow. And not only that... you can enjoy your earnings when you want.

It works like this. Every six months during the two year term, your interest rate goes up. Guaranteed. Leave your money in a SureGrowth CD* for six months, and you'll have earned a good rate. Leave your money in for a year, and you'll have earned an even better one. Hang on for the whole two years, and... well, look at the way your interest rate grows!

4.92%	5.43%	5.95%	7.50%
APY	APY	APY	APY
1st six months	2nd six months	3rd six months	4th six months

Give us a call or drop by any CB office and open your SureGrowth CD today. Because, after all, what's the main thing you want out of a CD? Sure, growth.

*ANNUAL PERCENTAGE YIELD (APY) FOR THE TERM OF THE SUREGROWTH CD IS 1.0% EFFECTIVE AS OF OCTOBER 12, 1994 AND IS SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE. AT EACH SIX MONTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DATE YOU OPEN YOUR SUREGROWTH CD, YOU HAVE 10 DAYS TO WITHDRAW WITHOUT PENALTY. WITHDRAWAL OF FUNDS AT OTHER TIMES MAY BE PENALIZED. $100 MINIMUM BALANCE REQUIRED. CERTIFICATE AUTOMATICALLY RENEWS TO A 14 MONTH PERIOD.

 (to fill vacancy, if any)
 Township Treasurer
 (to fill vacancy, if any)
 Township Trustee
 (to fill vacancy, if any)
 Mayor & Councilmembers
 (Charlevoix & East Jordan)

And to vote on the following proposals:

STATE

PROPOSAL A: A PROPOSAL TO CONVEY A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION FOR THE PURPOSE OF DRAFTING A GENERAL REVISION OF THE STATE CONSTITUTION.

Shall a convention of elected delegates be convened in 1995 to draft a general revision of the state constitution for presentation to the state's voters for their approval or rejection?

PROPOSAL B: A PROPOSAL TO LIMIT CRIMINAL APPEALS
 The proposed constitutional amendment would restrict a criminal defendant who pleads guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) from appealing his or her conviction without the permission of the court. Currently, someone who pleads guilty or no contest to a crime has the automatic right to appeal.
 Should this proposal be adopted?

PROPOSAL C: A REFERENDUM ON PUBLIC ACT 143 OF 1993 - AN AMENDMENT TO MICHIGAN'S AUTO INSURANCE LAWS
 Public Act 143 of 1993 would:

- 1.) Reduce auto insurance rates by 16% (average) for 6 months for policyholders reducing personal injury (medical) insurance to $1 million. Extra coverage made available at added cost.
- 2.) Permit Insurance Commissioner to waive company's obligation to reduce rates if statutory formula would be in excess of 1989-1992 state average.
- 3.) Place limits on personal injury (medical) benefits.
- 4.) Limit fees paid to health care providers.
- 5.) Limit right to sue by setting higher standards for the recovery of damages for "pain and suffering" and prevent uninsured drivers and drivers over 50% at fault from collecting damages.
- 6.) Allow rate reductions for accident-free driving with same insurer. Should this law be approved?

PROPOSAL P: A PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH A MICHIGAN STATE PARKS ENDOWMENT FUND, INCREASE THE MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE AMOUNT OF FUNDS IN THE MICHIGAN NATURAL RESOURCES TRUST FUND AND ELIMINATE THE DIVERSION OF DEDICATED REVENUE FROM THE MICHIGAN NATURAL RESOURCES TRUST FUND.

The proposed constitution amendment would:
 1.) Establish a Michigan State Parks Endowment Fund to be funded by certain royalties, bonuses and rentals collected by the state from the

- drilling of oil and gas or mining of minerals on state-owned land.
- 2.) Require that money in Endowment Fund be used to operate, maintain and improve Michigan state parks.
- 3.) Limit accumulated principal of the Endowment Fund to $800 million with annual adjustments for inflation.
- 4.) Increase the maximum principal of the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund from $200 million to $400 million.
- 5.) Eliminate the diversion of dedicated revenue from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund.
 Should this proposal be adopted?

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

GRANDVUE MEDICAL CARE FACILITY RENEWAL PROPOSAL

Shall the previous voted .75 mill levy as reduced by the required millage rollback which last resulted in a levy of .6599 mill ($.66 per $1,000 of SEV) upon taxable real and tangible personal property within Charlevoix County, State of Michigan, be increased by .0901 mill ($.09 per $1,000 of SEV) to offset such millage reduction for levy in the years 1995 through 1998 inclusive for Grandvue Medical Care Facility operating purposes, which increase will raise in the first year of levy, the estimated increased revenue of $76,323.00 over that raised in the previous year?

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

TOWNSHIP PROPOSAL

Shall the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, Michigan levy an ad valorem tax of two (2) mills ($2.00 per $1,000.00 State Equalized Valuation) for the period of 1995 through 1996 inclusive for the purpose of township road construction and maintenance which would generate approximately $202,185.00?

HAYES TOWNSHIP

ROAD REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE PROPOSAL

Shall Hayes Township levy one (1) mill ($1.00 per $1,000.00 SEV) for the period of 1995 through 2000 inclusive for road repair and maintenance; and shall the Township levy such millage for such purpose during such period, which increase will raise in the first year of such levy an estimated $85,000.00?

...Campbell challenges Felter for second ward seat

In the second ward race, the Courier provided questionnaires to Campbell and Felter. Some general background information on the candidates as well as the questions and the candidate responses follow:

Felter - Chairman of the zoning board of appeals for five years. Former member of the Charlevoix Lions Club.

Question: Why are you running for the city council seat?

Felter - The reason I am running for a city council seat is that I think it is time for a change. Some of the areas I think could be changed are: 1. Downtown Development Authority (DDA); I believe that even though some of their programs have merit, it is wrong to take taxes that are voted to the school, Grandvue or 9-1-1 and use those taxes for other purposes. 2. There is a feeling in the community that when a job opens up in the city, you must come from at least 25 miles away to qualify for it. 3. From time to time, the city paves the streets before the sewer or water lines are fixed. We need to correct such situations before these mistakes occur.

Question: Have you ever held a local political office? If so, what office and when?

Campbell - No.

Felter - Incumbent second ward council member, two terms.

Question: What other community projects and organizations have you been involved in?

Campbell - President of Local D-480 at the cement plant for over 10 years. Past president of Charlevoix Federal Credit Union. Past Grand Knight of Pierre Charlevoix Knights of Columbus.

Felter - City government has made tremendous strides in positive directions in the recent past. I would like to see the city continue in the direction in which it is currently moving.

Question: What are some areas of city government that you see as being in need of improvement?

Campbell - See response to above question.

Felter - There needs to be more cooperation and coordination between the city and surrounding townships to coordinate growth and future development. There are parts of the charter that need to be revised and updated. The most serious problem facing the city is lack of enforcement provisions in the city code. I have been working toward correcting this situation.

Question: What are some areas of city government that you view as being strengths?

Campbell - No response.

Felter - The city is fortunate to have excellent department heads and employees who serve city residents. The level of service provided here is unequalled in the north. We have excellent physical facilities, such as the airport, beaches, marina, ski hill and golf course. Tax payers should be extremely proud of their city assets.

Question: How do you feel about the DDA bond issue which city voters will vote on Dec. 8? What do you feel should be the long-term goals of the DDA and when do you feel the program should conclude? Or do you feel the program should ever conclude?

Campbell - On page one of the Oct. 19 issue of the Courier, it states that the city would pay $135,265 per year for 20 years. I believe that if the residents want to fund projects, that they should vote a millage for it. I don't think it should be funded on the backs of our schools, Grandvue or 9-1-1.

Felter - Passage of the bond issue is very important to the future of Charlevoix. The waterfront is our greatest asset and it should be used to its maximum potential. The Beaver Island Boat Company operation and Coast Guard facilities are both economically imperative to the vitality of our downtown. We should do everything possible to make these facilities as profitable and useable as we can. What's good for Beaver Island and the Coast Guard is good for Charlevoix.

Question: Are there any issues involving city government which may not have recently received a great deal of discussion, but that you feel are going to come up and be important in the foreseeable future?

Campbell - I believe that the city has a right to limit bikes or roller blades, but no one should be arrested for a law that can't be cited or that the public hasn't been made aware of. If the city doesn't know the number and content of the law, we owe a young man a written apology.

Felter - No response.

Mayoral race drops to two candidates

by L. Scott Swanson

Ralph McRae has withdrawn from the city mayoral race due to health problems, leaving Josh Barnes and Bob Gill as the only two remaining candidates.

In a press release issued Friday, Oct. 28 McRae said, "I wish to announce my withdrawal from the mayor's race."

"Presently I have a few health problems that I hope to overcome. To those of you who would have voted for me, I would appreciate it if you would now fully support Josh Barnes as Charlevoix's next mayor."

McRae, a former mayor and council member, was recently hospitalized with an infection. He is now out of the hospital and recovering at his home.

The election, which will take place Tuesday, Nov. 8, will be decided by write-in ballots. The only name appearing on the ballot is that of former mayor Dave Novotny, who resigned this past summer.

Novotny's resignation came after petitions had been filed to put his name on the ballot. Novotny has said he is not seeking election and is instead supporting Barnes' candidacy.

To simplify the write-in process for their supporters, Gill and

How to cast a write-in vote

The Charlevoix City mayoral race will be decided by write-in votes. The only candidate listed on the ballot, former mayor Dave Novotny, is not seeking election. The two candidates officially campaigning for the city mayoral post are Bob Gill and Josh Barnes. Both are seeking election through write-in ballots. Following are step-by-step directions for casting a write-

Medusa builds new 5-acre sediment pond

by L. Scott Swanson

A fair amount of water seeps into the Medusa Cement Plant quarry. But that's to be expected. As Tom Bacon, the plant's environmental engineer, points out, the floor of the quarry is 35 feet below the level of Lake Michigan which is just a stone's throw away.

The millions of gallons of water which seep into the quarry each day must be pumped out. But before the water can be returned to Lake Michigan it must have the particles of limestone and clay removed. This is accomplished by channeling all of the water on the floor of the quarry into a series of ponds prior to pumping it back to the lake.

"You let the water slow way down and then all the crud will settle out," Bacon explains.

Currently the two large pumps operating on the quarry floor will pump up to 9 million gallons of

in ballot.

Step 1: Open the grey envelope you receive from election officials along with the punch card ballot.

You now need to dial 6-1-6

Customers in the Charlevoix County area beginning Nov. 1 must dial a "1", + the area code + the 7-digit telephone number when placing long-distance calls within the 616 area code. Calls made with only the "1" + the 7-digit number will not go through.

The dialing change will not increase rates in any way.

The new procedure started in the Charlevoix County area May 1. A six month transition period gave customers time to get used to the new dialing pattern.

Ameritech and the nation's other phone companies are adopting new dialing patterns to create more than 6 billion phone numbers from 640 new area codes.

Unlike existing area codes — which only use a "1" or a "0" as the middle digit — the new codes will use any number between 2 and 9 as a middle digit. The new area codes will look like the first 3 digits of existing 7-digit telephone numbers. The first of the new-style area codes — 334 — will be introduced in Alabama in January 1995.

The demand for new area codes — and new numbers — is the result of the skyrocketing use of faxes, cellular phones, pagers and computer modems.

For example, in Michigan, Ameritech added 117,000 new customer lines in 1993 and 132,000 in 1992.

(The front of the envelope is blank. On the back, it says, "After voting insert ballot card with stub exposed into envelope pocket and close flap.")

Step 2: Inside the envelope you will see six different boxes where you may cast ballots for write-in candidates. Each box contains four lines. The lines ask for the following information: Office Title; Office Term; Political Party; Name. The lines for Office Term and Political Party are not relevant for the Charlevoix mayoral race. Ignore them.

Step 3: On the line above the words "Office Title," print the word, "Mayor."

Step 4: On the line above the word "Name," print the name of the candidate you wish to vote for

High School vandalized

City police and school officials are investigating a breaking and entering and vandalism which took place at the high school Saturday evening.

According to high school principal Gary Grundman, someone broke into the school, tore things out of lockers, turned some things upside down and wrote on some walls with markers.

Monday morning, Grundman said that no dollar value has yet been put on the damage. He said custodians put in a lot of time cleaning up the mess and there's no way to put a dollar value on some of the wall murals, which were defaced.

Note: Gill and Barnes have both had stickers printed. If you wish, you may obtain a sticker and place that on the envelope, rather than writing in the office title and name. Make sure to attach the sticker firmly to the inside of the envelope.

Note 2: If you're going to cast a write-in vote in the mayoral (or any other) race, you must not punch anything on the punch card ballot for that race. If you do, you have cast two votes where you are only allowed one and consequently your ballot will be considered spoiled.

...mayoral field narrowed

Barnes have both had stickers printed. The stickers may be inserted on the inside of the grey envelope in the space provided for write-in votes. The gray envelopes are handed to voters by election officials along with the punch-card ballot.

(A box explaining how to cast a write-in ballot in the mayoral race accompanies this story.)

The only other city race is in the second ward where Gabe Campbell is challenging incumbent council member Ted Felter. Incumbent council members Don Meggison and Jackie Cross are running unopposed in the first and third wards.

City voters will vote at the Charlevoix City Hall.

water a day. Currently there are three ponds in the system, but a new and larger pond is soon to be added. The new pond cost approximately a quarter million dollars to build, covers five acres of land and will hold about 18 million gallons of water. It will be about 10 feet deep in the center. It was going to be deeper, but when it was first filled, it leaked. Consequently, it had to be emptied and lined with compacted shale.

When a drop of water seeps into the Medusa quarry it isn't allowed to just go wherever it darn well pleases. It is channeled into streams, pools and ponds within the quarry. Bacon says plant workers shoot elevations and dig trenches to make the water go where they want it to go. Right now a drop of water entering the quarry will take two days to pass through the stream and pond system before it goes back to Lake Michigan. Bacon says the additional pond will make that trip take closer to three days.

Bacon explains that the two big ponds at the end of the system are parallel, not in series. In other words, water is pumped into the ponds from the quarry and then flows out, rather than into the other pond. The pumps from the quarry allow water to be pumped into either one pond or the other or into both ponds at the same time.

From the ponds, water flows into spillways which create the Medusa Creek at the end of Lakeshore Drive where salmon are planted in the spring and harvested in the fall. The Department of Natural Resources likes to use the creek for planting fish because while there aren't enough particles in the water to harm the fish, there are enough for the fish to distinguish the creek from others and consequently they return there to spawn.

Bacon says that before the water is returned to Lake Michigan, the ponds have to bring the sediment level down to 45 parts per million or less. Readings are taken five days a week.

The new pond is just one of several projects Bacon has undertaken to improve the quarry environment and keep the water clean. He has placed rocks alongside some of the quarry roads to confine equipment to the roadways. Some workers at the plant initially objected to not being able to drive over-land in some places, but once they recognized that the rocks weren't just for aesthetics, but serve a practical purpose, they were willing to compromise. Under Bacon's direction, there are also additional areas of the plant where grass has been planted. He said it not only helps with run-off problems, but also happens to look nicer than bare ground.

While conceding that the cement business is heavy industry, and consequently not going to be as spotless as the inside of a church, Bacon also says the plant is doing what they can to keep the operation environmentally friendly. He says the new pond is just one step in a continuing series of steps to improve the cleanliness of the operation.

Many geographic features in the Medusa quarry are enormous and have almost a moon-scape kind of look. In this photo, the gray streak of clay midway up the quarry face is eight feet thick. If you look closely, you can see Medusa environmental engineer Tom Bacon near the dirt pile at the base of the cliff. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

VOTE FOR GABE CAMPBELL 2ND WARD COUNCILMAN

To the Voters of the 2nd Ward of Charlevoix:

I am Gabe Campbell, and I am running for Charlevoix City Council from the 2nd Ward. I would like to share with you my views on the DDA and bonding proposals.

Every time I hear or read how the bonds will be funded, it's a different story. First, it was to be paid with captured funds. Next it was with grants and captured funds. Then I heard it wasn't going to cost a red cent! Finally I heard the amount it would cost in captured funds would be $170,000.

Since 1991, the DDA has captured funds totaling close to one and a half million dollars! This money would have gone to schools, Grandvue, and the county transit system. Meanwhile, the assessments in the DDA area are frozen at a 1984 level. Perhaps we should have a Residential Development Authority; then we in the neighborhoods could go back to 1984 assessments also.

To my knowledge, the City still has not been paid $87,000 it is owed from the Odmark band shell.

It's time for some straight talk, folks. The city taxpayers deserve a comfort zone. It's also time for change, and that's one of the reasons I am running for City Council.

I would appreciate your vote. If elected, you can be sure I'll work for the taxpayers of our city.

One more thing. Vote for Charlevoix write-in Bob Gill for mayor.

Overall, Rayder teams have had a good fall season

The fall sports season is traditionally entertaining in this area and this year has been no exception. Several area schools, including Charlevoix, have had a fair measure of success.

Although football gets the most attention and Charlevoix's varsity team didn't do particularly well, (finishing the season at 3-6) the Rayder athletic program is faring well in other areas.

Charlevoix's boys' cross country program continues to be the one that all other Class C schools hope to emulate. This past weekend the boys' team ran off with the regional title and qualified for the state meet for the eighteenth year in a row. Mike Bush and Matt Dickinson are both having stellar years and likely will be named to the Class C All State team. James Conlan has been a pleasant surprise on this year's team. Conlan, a senior, spent previous years in the middle of the pack, but this year has stepped up in a big way.

While the Rayder boys' cross country program cast a large shadow, the girls' program is showing signs of stepping out of that shadow. This year's girls' team won the league title and has placed second in regionals to qualify for the state meet. For years the Rayder girls' team always had one or two good runners, but never enough depth to really shine as a team. This year has been different. The team has four outstanding runners and several others pushing in that direction. Not only are the Charlevoix girls a good team this year, they're a good team that looks to get better in coming years. Of the four top runners, only one, Becca Chamberlain, is a senior. Two of the others, Chelsea Gorkiewicz and Rachael Newcomb, are sophomores while Candice Vandergriff is a freshman.

The Rayder golf team also turned in a strong season, sharing the conference title, winning the regional crown and qualifying for the state meet. One of the nicer things about the golf team is that no one player carried them. Different players came up big in different meets.

The girls' basketball team is currently leading the league. While the team has a few losses, most of them have come against tough competition. Last week the Rayders lost to Petoskey, one of the top teams in Class B, by two points. The Rayders will certainly enter the district tournament later this month as one of the favored teams. If the Rayders win the district tournament, they also could at the very least have a say in, and quite possibly win, the regional tournament.

Senior guard Liz Grunch is wrapping up a four-year varsity career and is drawing the attention of some college programs. But the team has by no means been a one-person show. Coach Joe Powers uses the whole bench, sending in fresh players to play an attacking defense that wears out opposing teams.

While the varsity football team finished 3-6 and had its share of turmoil which was no day at the beach for either the coaches or players, the team also had some success by streaks. Consistency hurt the Rayders. In the first half of the East Jordan game, Charlevoix looked strong. Then mistakes struck and things fell apart. Several individual players had good seasons. Chuck Pop made some big catches and showed surprising speed once he caught the ball. Jerry Duhart improved from his junior to senior years, running much harder and becoming a more well-rounded running back. Dan Harris, a junior, was a hitting fiend at linebacker and will be back next year to continue pounding on opposing running backs. While the win-loss record and some scores might not have indicated it, the Rayder defensive line played solid against the run during most games.

The Charlevoix boys' soccer team, in only its second season, as a high school sport, finished right around .500 and picked up a tournament win against Harbor Springs.

All in all, when you look at the fall sports season, it's been reasonably successful.

Soccer board thanks volunteers

Editor,

The Charlevoix Soccer Club Board would like to express thanks and sincere appreciation to the many volunteers and sponsors who made possible our most successful season ever.

With 21 teams in the under 12 divisions, spring and fall travel programs for middle school aged children and last spring's girl's high school club team, our participation soared to over 350 children. Volunteers all, coaches, referees, concession stand helpers, pop can collectors and local business sponsors can take pride in a season well done! We've provided a healthy recreational alternative for the youth of the Charlevoix area. We've stressed positive coaching and spectating, improved soccer skills and knowledge, given the kids role models, and had fun in the process.

Again, thanks to all who took part. You know who you are! We'll see you again next season.

Very truly yours,
Tom Conlan, President
Charlevoix, 4-H Soccer Club

Chamber supporting Barnes

Editor,

I am writing to you as president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce urging support for Josh Barnes as mayor of Charlevoix. We are all fortunate that three very able gentlemen have expressed an interest in serving the people of Charlevoix as their mayor. However, after careful review and consideration, it is the very strong and firm position of the Chamber that Mr. Barnes is the best qualified candidate to serve as the leader of Charlevoix's city government.

First and foremost is Josh's record as a business leader. His company has operated at a profit every year of its existence, over 30 years. It has expanded steadily and, is today one of the area's leading employers. Recently, the company announced plans to expand its local operations and will undoubtedly put Charlevoix on the map as a leading technological manufacturer. Such industry means local, high paying jobs in manufacturing fields which do not adversely impact our beautiful environment. The net effect is that our children can someday return to Charlevoix and obtain meaningful and financially sound employment.

If you view the city government as any kind of a "business," what more can you ask for than a proven leader such as Josh Barnes. Very simply, Josh knows how to run an enterprise with a budget much larger than Charlevoix's and is able to work effectively with the very qualified people who are employed by the city. Josh has made a very strong commitment to the Charlevoix area and is now willing to make a commitment to use his expertise in helping the city government run more smoothly.

On other issues, Josh has stated a position which is clearly in the best interest of the City of Charlevoix. Josh has expressed a need and desire to make city council meetings more dignified and create a more respectable place for intelligent debate. Anyone who has attended a city council meeting in the recent past will know that this area should be one of any candidate's priorities.

Perhaps the most important issue facing the City of Charlevoix in the near future will be the improvements to Bridge Park. One of the top priorities of the Chamber of Commerce is and has been the retention of the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia in Charlevoix. Because of its history and financial impact to the area, both as a tourist attraction and as an employer (over 41,000,000 payroll) keeping the Acacia headquartered in Charlevoix should be at the top of everyone's priority list, especially the mayor's. Recently, a local township official commented to me that Charlevoix had always had a Coast Guard cutter and always would. While I have the highest respect for the person who made this statement, I believe he is wrong. One need only ask the people in Grand Haven, the Acacia's former home, if they feel that this statement is correct. I have been fortunate to attend several meetings at which this issue was directly addressed. Suffice it to say that we are in grave danger of losing the Acacia, and all that it means to Charlevoix, to another northern Michigan community. We have so much as been told that the Acacia will move if something is not done to improve her mooring, at Bridge Park.

Without the approval of the bond issue and the city's continued support of the Downtown Development Authority the improvements to Bridge Park will likely not occur. Mr. Barnes has been intelligent enough to recognize this threat and the impact it would have on every one who resides in Charlevoix. We simply cannot afford to lose million-dollar payrolls and continue to have a strong business community. More importantly, Mr. Barnes has been courageous enough to openly state his support for this very important project.

Finally, I do not believe that effective leaders are those who point to things and say "this is wrong" or "this does not work" without offering any positive, affirmative plan of action. I am sure that we are all sick and tired of seeing political television ads where the candidates announce they are fed-up with government but offer no solutions to the problems.

Josh has made public his position on several issues presently facing the city government. If you have read Josh's campaign ads or read the interviews contained in the Charlevoix Courier dated October 26, 1994, you know that Josh intends to move the City of Charlevoix forward not by trying to recreate the past but by implementing new, progressive solutions to our current problems. This is a management style which Josh has successfully learned in a very competitive industry. When someone with Josh's experience, intelligence and integrity offers to share those qualities and skills with the city of Charlevoix the voters should quickly and decisively accept that offer. You can do this by voting for Josh on November 8.

You should vote for Josh Barnes because it is a positive way for Charlevoix to approach the future. You should vote for Josh because he has expressed the best plan and method for retaining existing jobs within the Charlevoix area and has the ability and leadership experience to create new jobs. You should vote for Josh because it is in the best interest of everyone who resides in the city, particularly our children.

Richard E. Joseph, President
Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce

Stupak joined Washington establishment

Editor,

Two years ago, we sent Bart Stupak to Washington. It did not take long to realize that he left our message at home.

Bart Stupak left for Washington vowing independence and free judgment but promptly, gaved in and joined the establishment by voting mainly party line, or as on NAFTA, union line. He tells us his Clinton Budget vote cut spending. Any well informed voter knows that the only things cut were programmed increases in spending. On other bills, he voted to spend, spend, spend.

When the singular opportunity arose to make REAL spending cuts under the A-Z Bill, Bart Stupak opted out. He would not sign a discharge petition to bring it to the floor for debate and action even though he sponsored the bill. This play allowed him to support spending cuts publicly, even while blocking them privately. How disingenuous!

We must get big government off our backs and out of our everyday lives. The only weapon we have to fight an inefficient, arrogant, intrusive and stifling federal bureaucracy is fiscal starvation. Let us all declare that we will no longer tolerate being bribed and swindled with our own money.

Bart Stupak left our message home two years ago. This time, let us vote him a message he can't ignore. Stay home Bart!

Editorial strikes nerve of senate candidate

Editor,

I wanted to take this opportunity to respond to your opinion that a public servant is not fit to be a candidate for state Senate. Specifically, you stated "... the guy running as a republican has been working for the government for nearly 30 years, and consequently it's difficult to see him trimming government programs and reducing taxes."

I was very disturbed by your comments not only because they were against my candidacy, but they were against public servants in general. To assume that all public servants are fiscally irresponsible is prejudiced and shallow. Specifically, in my case, my record clearly shows that I have been fiscally responsible by implementing innovative programs at the Mackinac Bridge that saved millions of dollars including "in House" painting and taking Canadian currency to Canada to save on the exchange rate.

If you were truly interested in who will be the most responsible to the needs of our area and someone who will work to reduce government regulation and taxes, you should rethink your position about my opponent. Your column would have been better served by expanding on your point about with whom my opponent will fall in line if he got to Lansing when you stated, "The question with McElroy is if he is elected, will his votes in Lansing reflect what he's saying on the campaign trail, or will he fall in line with the Lansing democratic leadership?"

By simply looking at each of our endorsements it becomes very clear where my opponent stands. My opponent has been endorsed by organized labor groups that tend to support legislation that burdens the business climate, such as the AFL-CIO, MEA, UAW, Teamsters, and the Service Employees International Union. He has received financial support from local unions in Detroit such as the Teamsters 214, 299, and 328, Friends of a Democratic Senate, Senate Democratic Majority Fund, and Committee for a Democratic Majority. For 28 years I have worked to improve the economic and business climate of northern Michigan. As a result, I have the support of such organizations as the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Manufacturers Association, the Michigan Farm Bureau, the Michigan Restaurant Association.

My experience in the state government process will actually benefit the 37th district. Combined with my private sector and non-profit experience, I know what changes are necessary to make government more responsible and efficient to the needs of northern Michigan. As a member of the Senate majority, I will work with Governor Engler to implement these changes.

Sincerely,
Walter North
Republican for State Senate

CROP Walk raises thousands

Lucy Witthoef

Fifteen Charlevoix CROP Walkers are being recognized for exceptional contributions to the hunger walk which was held Oct. 1. Each raised $100 or more through sponsorships which they solicited.

Top fund-raiser was Lucy Witthoef who collected $1,028. Other $100 plus walkers were: Leona Bartlett, Rev. Robert Bellairs, Rev. Lander Carter, Edith Dale, Pat Drost, Sandra Gregory, Joy Halverson, Clara Martin, Linda Matchett, Kathy Plum, Mary Helen Riggie, Rev. Philip Scharbaum, Jim Washburn and Ellen Addington.

To date, $4,524 has been turned in to local treasurer Mary Helen Riggie.

Totals for the other participating cities of Boyne City and East Jordan are to be announced later.

Natalie Ruth Jones of Charlevoix and Patrick Kirk Riley of Rockford were married May 20 in an evening ceremony at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. One hundred guests witnessed the double ring rites, performed by Reverend Gary Davis of the Congregational Church of Rockford and Reverend Philip Scharbaum.

The bride is the daughter of Lonnie and Donnell W. Jones of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Wanda and Michael Riley of Rockford.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, where the altar was decorated with candelabras and white satin bows. An arrangement of white snapdragons and a lavender garden mix graced the altar and unity candle.

The bride wore a white tulle and satin gown. The neckline was a sweetheart styling and the bodice was encrusted with appliques, sequins, and pearls. The gown had short sleeves and a full, bouffant, floor-length skirt of tulle with an attached, chapel-length train. The skirt was enhanced with lace appliques. The bride's headpiece was rosettes of satin and lace attached to a finger-tip veil of illusion. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white mini carnations and lavender roses with baby's breath and ivy.

The organist for the ceremony was Elizabeth Humphrey. The bride's uncle, Dr. Ronald C. Merrill of Dorthford, CT., played "All I Ask of You," on the piano as the unity candle was lit.

Maid of honor was Christine L. Felton. Bridesmaids were Megan E.

Jones, sister of the bride, and Colleen M. Riley, sister of the groom. Elaine Husted of New York served as greeter. They wore tea length, lavender print dresses featuring a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The maid of honor carried an arm bouquet of lavender roses. The bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of white carnations with lavender tips.

The flower girl was Shannon D. Riley, the groom's niece. Her dress matched the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried a mini white fireside basket of white mini carnations and lavender roses.

Ring bearer was Brandon S. Riley, the groom's nephew. Best man was Michael Riley, father of the groom. Groomsmen were Sean K. Riley, the groom's brother, and Nathan C. Jones, the bride's brother. Ushers were David E. Davis and Nathan C. Jones.

A reception was given by the bride, groom, and bride's parents at Alexander's Restaurant in Charlevoix. The wedding cake was made by Debbie Peterson. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Nanny's Restaurant in Charlevoix on May 19.

The wedding couple took a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Canada, Niagara Falls, and Cedar Point. They now live in Mt. Pleasant.

The bride graduated from Central Michigan University last spring with a degree in theatre and communications. The groom will graduate from CMU in the spring of 1995 with a degree in theatre and hospitality services.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Gregory Stuart Seaman of Charlevoix was among the August, 1994 graduates of Siena Heights College. Seaman received a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in art.

Margaret M. Merchun-Brindel of Charlevoix was among the summer 1994 graduates of Western Michigan University. She received a Master of Arts degree in special education.

Three members of the Barnard Grange of Charlevoix have been elected officers of the Michigan State Grange. Richard Smith was elected steward. Kay Empey was elected pamona and Kim Stevens was elected flora.

Mark Newman of Charlevoix was awarded the Class Merit Scholarship at Taylor University for the 1994-95 school year. Newman, and son of Shirley Newman, is also a graduate of Charlevoix High School. A senior at Taylor, he majors in political science.

Class Merit Scholarships go to the fifteen sophomores, fifteen juniors, and fifteen seniors with the highest grade point averages who don't already receive merit scholarships.

Gil Ziegler Is Making 3 Simple Promises to the Voters in This District:

#1 Gil is not a politician and he won't become one.

- Gil supports congressional term limits and will only serve 3 terms.
- Gil will not accept PAC contributions and will lead the fight against special interest money.
- Mass mailings at taxpayer expense will not be the way Gil runs his office.

#2 It won't be "business as usual" when Gil's in Washington.

We need to restore accountability to Congress by:

- Passing a balanced budget amendment and giving the President the line item veto.
- Requiring all laws that apply to the rest of the country to apply equally to Congress as well.
- Cutting the number of house committees and staff by 1/3.
- Requiring a three-fifths majority vote to pass any tax increase.

#3 Gil will be a Congressman who can look Bill Clinton in the eye and say "NO!"

- The budgets Gil votes for will either reduce the deficit or they won't get his vote.
- The 1993 tax hikes on Social Security benefits will not be repeated, and if Gil has anything to say about it, they'll be repealed.

Do it for Charlevoix...

Write in...
Josh Barnes
...for Mayor

The next Mayor of Charlevoix...

...will be in office during one of the largest city tax or sewer fee increases in Charlevoix History if the bond issue on December 8 does not pass! I do not want to be that mayor, so, if you will be voting against the bond issue, do not write in Josh Barnes for mayor.

...has the responsibility to know the issues and their alternatives, to present them to the citizens in a concise and accurate summary and to encourage the most appropriate action by the Council or the voters; not only on this bond issue, but also on the other issues of the next two years. You should not have to spend hours digging into every detail necessary to make the best decision; you elect the mayor to do that for you and, if elected, I hereby pledge to do so.

...should already know, and be telling you, that the bond issue is to be repaid from funds "cast in concrete". When you voted for Proposal A, you voted for the State Pipeline Set-Aside, that will repay at least half of that issue. It will be used for these purposes, partially for Charlevoix or entirely for others, depending on your vote on the issue. That Set-Aside is only available NOW.

...should also know, and be telling you, that the city and county tax recapture that will pay off the balance of the issue is, and has long since, been in place. It will not increase if the bond issue passes; it will not decrease if it fails.

...should be alarmed by, and warning you of, the cold hard fact that the sewage digester will be removed, regardless of the vote on the bond issue. He should be alarmed because it will have a raw cost of some $600,000 for a total cost, including interest, of over a million dollars! If the bond issue fails, you & I will be paying for that through increased city taxes or sewer fees, or both.

...should convey his concerns about the bond issue now, not after the mayoral election, so that the voters are fully aware of the reasons for his position before they vote. I hope I have made my reasoning very clear.

...needs a supportive council. Living in the First Ward, I have always, and will again, take pleasure in voting for Don Meggison. Since Ted's opponent is against the bond issue (which will not, in any way, be "on the backs of our schools"), I ask Second Ward voters to support Ted Felter. He has done an excellent job as Deputy Mayor and deserves to keep his council seat. I'm comfortable with Jackie Cross, running unopposed in the Third Ward.

...will be me, if you so desire and also get out and vote! We will be mailing stickers and instructions to all registered voters so that you will receive them just days before the election. My campaign staff and I will also have stickers and will be as close to the polls as permitted on election day. Watch for the "Josh Barnes for Mayor" hats or the "Do it for Charlevoix" T-shirts (probably worn over our long underwear!)

"If elected, I promise to serve to the very best of my ability."

Mary Bruce

Former Charlevoix resident Mary M. Bruce, 100, of Stockbridge, died Oct. 26, 1994, at the City and Country Convalescent Center in Stockbridge.

A family memorial service will be held at a later date.

She was born Sept. 13, 1894, in Norwood Township, the daughter of George and Esther B. (Beattie) Miller.

She married Lloyd Bruce, and he preceded her in death in 1965.

Mrs. Bruce was a homemaker and had worked as a secretary for numerous businesses.

She attended the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Bruce was a member of the Charlevoix Women's Club, a life member of Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary, a member of the Charlevoix Humane Society, the Charlevoix Historical Society, a life member of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Association, and did volunteer work at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Survivors include a niece, Margaret "Peg" Dancer of Stockbridge; a nephew, Bruce Miller of Charlevoix; nine great-nieces and great-nephews; and nine great-nieces and great-great-nephews. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Bruce was preceded in death by her nephew, Jack Miller. The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Ingham County Meals on Wheels.

Arrangements were handled by the Caskey Funeral Home in Stockbridge.

Robert Barnum

Robert A. Barnum, 76, of Charlevoix, died Oct. 28, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A military memorial service under the auspices of Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 of the American Legion was held Tuesday, Nov. 1, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the Community Church of God officiated. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

Mr. Barnum was born Jan. 17, 1918, in Lake City, Mich., the son of H.L. Barnum and Florence (Alexander) Barnum. He was raised in Lake City and attended Lake City High School, Michigan State University, and Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash., where he earned a MBA.

Mr. Barnum was a highly decorated fighter pilot with the 64th Fighter Squadron, 57th Group. He fought in both North Africa and in Italy during World War II, where he earned the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, the Croix de Guerre, and the Purple Heart. He spent 23 years in the U.S. Air Force, retiring as lieutenant colonel in 1962.

Following his retirement, Mr. Barnum and his family moved to Charlevoix, where he resided for 25 years.

He was a member of American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 in Charlevoix.

He was an avid photographer and bird watcher.

Survivors include his wife of 46 years, Christine Barnum; daughter, Gretchen Grenell of Grand Blanc; son, Craig Barnum and his wife, Lela, of Wichita, Kan.; three granddaughters of Wichita, Kan.; son, Robert Bruce Barnum and his wife, Liz Talley, of Seattle, Wash.; one sister, Emma Albi of Spokane, Wash.; and two cousins, Sam Alexander of Ironton, and Jane Friend of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where arrangements were made.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

There are times when every parent wonders how well they are doing in raising their kids. The Lord provided an encouraging word for me from an unexpected source.

While waiting for my daughter after school, one of her friends came up to me telling about a party where a bunch of teens got together. They were telling each other "ghost stories." When it was my daughter's turn, she told her friends of a night she had been haunted by unsettling nightmares.

The young man relating the adventure said, "She told us you prayed with her. You got out of bed in the middle of the night and prayed with her! I think that's so neat!" He went on to say that she had told all her friends how her father's prayers made everything better.

To hear a tale from someone I hardly knew caused my heart to rejoice. To realize my child thought enough of my prayers to tell others amazed me. Could this have been God's way of saying she's going to turn out just fine?

I have come to value the challenges and the pressures our children face each day more than ever before. What better foundation could they be given to make the right choices in life than seeing that faith works in the lives of their parents? What greater love could be offered to a child than one that encourages them to seek out their parents' love and care when they are faced by tough decisions or fearful moments?

I would hope that I am fairly safe in saying that virtually every parent does indeed love their children. But I know I am also correct in saying that not every parent recognizes the need for the added dimension that faith in God can bring to their lives. It is awfully easy for us to expect others to teach our children the things that they need to grow up in this world. That finds us shifting the responsibility from the home to the school and even the church. But no teacher, no matter how skilled or gifted, and even no pastor, no matter how available and compassionate, can take the place of what you as a parent ought to be doing.

The book of Proverbs talks about training up a child in the way they should be so that when they are old they will not depart from it. Were you trained in matters of faith? Was prayer at the dinner table or with your folks at bed time a part of your life? Do you have memories of Bible stories or songs from years ago? How else are the children going to learn if we do not teach them? How else are our children going to grasp the importance of believing if they do not see that belief at work in us? It is a challenging age to be a child. But if you share with them the faith, hope, and love that God has given us through Christ, He will see that you got the reassurance you need as a parent. He will show you in more ways than one that your children can and will turn out fine.

Christmas Project organization begins

This is an article about Christmas! Who... besides Kmart, Wal-Mart, and every other mart... thinks of Christmas when the October leaves are still falling? The answer to that is the members of the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project. The group, members of several Charlevoix churches, begins thinking about Christmas this early in the fall as each year the project has seemed to grow and expand, and, consequently, it takes a great deal of time to complete preparations so that the less fortunate in our community may enjoy a beautiful Christmas.

To prepare tags for The Giving Tree at St. Mary's Church takes much time. Names of children are received from several sources in the community, and the children's names are then coded and placed on the tree Thanksgiving weekend. The Giving Tree is in the church for only 2 weeks, due to the necessity of receiving and organizing gifts in time for delivery, so names of children must be received early. Marc and Donna Cross coordinate The Giving Tree; they originated it and over the years it has become their special yearly project. In 1993, there were 139 children's tags on the tree, and an additional 32 names reached the group after the Giving Tree was removed. Because of that, the Community Christmas Committee is always looking for families or businesses to sponsor a child and purchase gifts for him or her.

Last year also the Project helped provide a little extra Christmas cheer to 82 senior citizens in Charlevoix; furnished Christmas dinners for 160 families; and, all in all, helped 460 persons to have a brighter Christmas.

If you are a business or individual who would like to work on the project in some way - by furnishing Christmas for a family, by working on a committee, or by a donation of money or food - please call Kay Smith at 547-2229 or Mary Helen Riggie at 547-9515, and they will be glad to add you to the list of volunteers.

This is a truly wonderful, ecumenical project, involving most of the churches in Charlevoix; and it is the definitive example of what small-town America is. The Community Christmas Board, is looking forward once again this year to the kindness and generosity of our Charlevoix neighbors.

Organizational work has already begun on the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project. Serving on the committee to plan this year's project are: (clockwise from front left) Barbara Gallagher, Phyllis Gill, Velma Smith, Rosemary Horton, Mary Helen Riggie, Mary Towsley, Kay Smith and Ruby Curtis. GETTING RESULTS FOR NORTHERN MICHIGAN
The FACTS on some of her LEADERSHIP Legislative ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Beverly Bodem is fighting to cut taxes on senior citizens

- Bodem co-sponsored the new state law that virtually eliminates state income taxes on private pensions. This will save retirees statewide millions of dollars.
- Bodem voted for the historic property tax cut that has cut taxes on senior citizens and capped annual increases in assessments.
- Bodem co-sponsored the law that eliminated Michigan's burdensome inheritance tax on middle-class families.

Beverly Bodem is creating jobs for Northern Michigan

- Bodem is in the Top Ten of the Chamber of Commerce's Job Provider Index.
- Bodem helped secure state funding for the city of Alpena to study the feasibility of international ferry service between Alpena and Ontario.
- Bodem has a 100% voting record as rated by the National Federation of Independent Business.

Beverly Bodem listens to her constituents, works in a bipartisan spirit in Lansing and gets things done.

- Bodem authored 10 new laws this session alone - one of the most effective records in the House.
- Bodem helped to pass legislation creating the split in the 33rd Circuit Court, giving Charlevoix its own circuit judge.
- Bodem worked with other legislators to develop the Michigan State Parks Initiative Plan which will provide a stable source of funding for our state parks which generate more than $260 million in economic activity each year.

Big Rock discusses decommissioning

by Laurie Lounsbury

Big Rock Point's decommissioning team, led by Jim Rang, plans to submit a final decommissioning plan to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) on March 1, 1995. Right now, it looks like the plan will include a shut down date of May 31, 2000, and two different methods of storing the high level waste on site for at least the next 25 years. The plant itself won't be dismantled until the year 2027. At that point, the site of the reactor will be restored to a green field.

Consumers Power employees presented an update of their plan to the NRC last Wednesday. One change in their preliminary plan is that the company no longer plans to store high level, radioactive waste in the spent fuel pool (wet storage) for 25 years. Consumers Power determined that wet storage for that long would be too expensive. Bob Fenech, Vice President of Consumers Power nuclear operations, said the company will move high level waste into dry cask storage as soon as transportable dry casks are available. The transportable dry casks will be kept on site until a federal repository is available. The NRC reported that the transportable dry casks should be available by the year 2005. The best guess today is that a federal repository will open up by the year 2025, but there are no guarantees that will be the case. Low level waste will remain on site until a state, low level repository is available. The plant cannot be dismantled until a low level repository in the state is created. "The optimum procedure would be to dismantle the plant immediately," Fenech said, but he sees advantages to leaving the plant intact for years before dismantling. As the plant sits and decays over time, the levels of radioactivity will be reduced, lowering the risks to employees.

Members of anti nuclear groups attended the meeting, asking questions about the plant's capabilities to do a complete full core off load of the nuclear reactor. Right now the spent fuel pool, where spent

Allen Telgenhof joins local law firm

By Laurie Lounsbury

Allen Telgenhof knew he was ready to make a move from his private law practice in Clio. He also knew that someday he wanted to live in Charlevoix. It still came as a big surprise to him when a Detroit based employment agency asked him if he'd ever heard of a place called Charlevoix, where a law position was available. Telgenhof didn't hesitate to pursue a position with Pointner, Joseph, and Corcoran.

Telgenhof joined the Charlevoix law firm a month ago, leaving behind many ties in his home town of Clio. "I wanted to be up here, and I wanted to get back to the work I enjoy doing," Telgenhof said. He will be doing business and real estate law with Pointner, Joseph, and Corcoran.

Telgenhof got his undergraduate degree from Michigan State University before attending law school at Cooley Law School in Lansing. He worked for the Michigan House of Representatives as a legislative analyst and a law firm in Flint doing business and real estate law before returning to Clio to open his own practice.

While Telgenhof is a native of Clio, his family has roots in the north. His father is originally from Central Lake, and many other family members live in the area.

Telgenhof was very active in his community in Clio. He was on the local school board and served as president of Clio's educational foundation. He was also a member of Rotary, which he plans to continue in Charlevoix.

Telgenhof and his wife Judy have two children, Tyler and Allyson.

Attorney Allen Telgenhof (right) has joined forces with (from left) attorneys Mike Corcoran, Tom Pointner and Dick Joseph. Telgenhof will specialize in business and real estate law.

Megan Blair

Girl hits with the rest of the football team

by Laurie Lounsbury
Megan Blair's mother didn't believe Megan years ago when she announced, "I'm going to play football when I grow up." Her mother believes it now. Blair just finished her first season of playing tackle football with the Charlevoix Middle School team. She now has the distinction of being the only girl to complete a season of football in Charlevoix. "A lot of girls have signed up for football, but she's the first to go through with it," reported Hal Evans, head coach of the middle school football program.

"She was definitely one of the guys," he added.

Blair had no problems being one of the guys. As a defensive half-back and offensive halfback, Blair tackled and was tackled just like everyone else. Well, almost. "She got tackled more than everybody else," said Mike Marr, a fellow ball player.

"At first they were scared to tackle me, afraid they might hurt me - they got over it pretty fast,"

Blair said.

As Blair sat at the cafeteria lunch table last week with several of her teammates, it was apparent that the guys had no problems with girls on the gridiron. They teased Blair affectionately, with the usual middle school mixture of sarcasm and compliments. "I didn't feel she got any special treatment as a girl," said Scott Zukowski. In fact the only way she was treated any differently was that she changed in the girls' locker room instead of the boys' locker room. She joined the rest of the team in the boys' locker room for pre-game pep talks.

Blair matches up fairly evenly with the male middle school players. As a female, she's already undergoing the growth spurt that many of the boys haven't experienced yet. "There's no disadvantage now, a lot of the guys are still smaller than I am," Blair said. She knows the day will come when that won't be the case. So what happens when the boys grow up to be men? "They'll be much bigger, so I'll be much faster," Blair said with confidence.

Middle School Principal Dennis Van Guider got a close up look at Blair's football playing when he refereed the end of the season football game. "She was a real trooper," Van Guider said. "She took some hard hits, but it didn't stop her. She just got right up and kept playing."

Blair plans to play football as long as she can. Her girlfriends are supportive of her endeavor. Seventh grader Alisha Johnson decided to join the team next year, now that Blair has broken the ice. Blair's girlfriend Winter Kyvik said, "She's awesome - she's gonna be all state quarterback some day."

Local Eastern Star elects new officers

The regular meeting of Charlevoix Chapter #72, Order of the Eastern Star, took place Oct. 19, with Worthy Matron Esther Carey presiding. Reports were given by delegates to Grand Chapter held in Lansing. Annual reports of local activities and donations were given, showing 130 members presently enrolled, that 568 cards had been sent to shut-ins, 330 calls made, and 333 visits made to other chapters. Eleanor Terrell and Phila Shanahan were granted Life Memberships during the year. Annual reports by all officers were accepted.

Invitations were issued by surrounding Chapters to attend their installations, and seven members from Charlevoix attended the installation of new officers at Pellston Oct. 19. Betty Straw and Lois Lewis served the Masonic dinner October 11. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting by Virginia Gebau, Carla Spencer, Hazel Rehkopf, and Diane Rosendahl.

The following officers were elected for the 1994-95 year: Worthy Matron Carla Spencer; Worthy Patron Robert Kelley; Associate Matron Rosalyn Goldstick; Associate Patron Tom Carey; Secretary Anne Hufford; Treasurer Betty Straw; Conductress Dorothea Kelley; Associate Conductress Sarah Seiverson; 1995 delegates to Grand Chapter Session Carla Spencer, Robert Kelley, Rosalyn Goldstick, and Tom Carey; Alternate delegates will be Janada Chingwa, Esther Carey, Dorothea Kelley, and Sarah Seiverson. Nominating committee for 1995 new officers will be Donald Carey, Beverly Plum, and Virginia Roundtree.

Initiation for new members was held Oct. 26, with Margery Russell being welcomed into the Chapter. Refreshments were served after the initiation by Nancy Wood, Carla Spencer and Betty Straw.

uranium rods are stored, has enough room to completely unload the reactor into it if there's a problem with the reactor. After the next scheduled refueling in 1996, the number of storage racks in the spent fuel pool will not be able to accommodate a full core off load. "Lots of plants operate without full core off load capabilities," Fenec said. Consumers is considering having another rack built for the spent fuel pool. The rack holds the uranium rods in a vertical position in the spent fuel pool. With one more rack, a full core off load would be possible after the next refueling. "It would be nice to have another rack, because it gives you the option of doing a full core off load. It also means we wouldn't have to store fuel in two different places after the plant shuts down," Fenec said. Without the additional rack, spent fuel will be stored in the spent fuel pool and in the reactor.

Decommissioning isn't a cheap thing

The cost of decommissioning a nuclear power plant isn't cheap. Consumers Power has currently set aside $100 million towards the decommission costs. The total amount needed to decommission the plant is estimated to be $200 million. The NRC requires power companies to raise the total amount of money for decommissioning before the plant shuts down. Consumers Power raises the funds for decommissioning by adding a surcharge to the customers' bills. Big Rock is a unique situation because it is the first plant to run to the end of its license, and doesn't plan to dismantle for another 25 years after shut down. Because of these factors, Big Rock is proposing to the NRC that the money they currently have could be invested and would grow to the full $200 million by the year 2025, when they will need it. This would save customers the surcharge on their electric bills. JoAnn Beemon expressed concerns of anti nuclear citizens when she said, "I want Consumers Power to make enough money for the next 250,000 years to take care of waste. If Consumers Power goes bankrupt, who takes care of this?" Fenec explained that the Department of Energy has the power to walk in and take over if Consumers Power is unable to pay. That's why they want power companies to raise all of the money for decommissioning up front. Fenec also said that the company is able to raise the full amount up front through surcharges, but would like to keep costs down for their customers. "It's a balance we're trying to strike all the time," Fenec said.

Cross country team wins regional

In Class C Regional cross-country, Charlevoix's boys' team entered the race as the team to beat, but nobody did.

The Rayder boys' team won the Class C Regional at Schuss Mountain Saturday while the Rayder girls' team placed second. Both teams will be competing in the State Finals meet Saturday, Nov. 5 at Lowell High School.

Mike Bush led the Rayder boys, taking second place in a time of 15:53.67, just more than half a second behind the race winner, Matt Dickinson placed seventh in a time of 16:18.11. Charlevoix's team total of 65 points was 25 better than second place East Jordan at 90. Benzie Central came in third with 91.

Other Rayder places and times in the boys' race were: 17 - Justin Davis, 16:47; 21 - Chris LeButt, 16:58; 22 - James Conlan, 17:00; 35 - Paul Henne, 17:33; 41 - Jeff McCombs, 17:45.

Unlike the Rayder boys' team the girls' team hasn't made a habit of qualifying as a team for state finals. But they may be forming a habit. Four Charlevoix underclassmen were named to the all-region team. Only one, Becca Chamberlain, is a senior. Of the other three, two, Chelsea Gorkiewicz and Rachael Newcomb, are sophomores and one, Candace Vandergriff, is a freshman.

Gorkiewicz led the Rayders, placing third with a time of 20:08.23. Chamberlain finished

Gun range open for sight-in

The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club will have its range open for hunters to sight in their rifles for the coming deer hunting season on the following dates:

Sunday, Nov. 6 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, Nov. 7 - Nov. 11 from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12 from 9 a.m. to fourth at 2:09:34. Vandergriff placed 10th in 10:53.75. Newcomb was 11th in a time of 21:03.3.

Other Rayder runners and their places and times were: 23 - Lisa Hoadley, 21:58; 32 - Monica Browe, 22:27; 36 - Candy Siwarga, 22:44.

Charlevoix finished with a team total of 51 points, six behind meet winner, Clare. Suttons Bay finished third with 76 points while Elk Rapids was fourth with 105 points.

The top three teams in the regional meet qualify for the state meet.

Sight in fees for non-members are $3 for one rifle and $1 for each additional rifle. There is no charge for members with current membership cards. Membership applications will be available with membership for the balance of 1994 and all of 1995 costing $25.

Basketball team loses 55-53

Petoskey has an awfully good girls' basketball team this season. They entered the Oct. 25 game at Charlevoix with a record of 14-1. They're ranked in the top 10 in Class-B. They've got height. They've got speed. They can board, they can dribble, they can pass, they can shoot.

Good to know. Charlevoix jumped out to a 19-11 lead in the first quarter, before eventually losing 55-53.

Rayder guard Liz Grunch was honored before the game, receiving a plaque for replacing Melinda Klooster as Charlevoix's all-time leading scorer. Entering the game, she had 1,188 points. A scant few minutes into the game, Grunch had 11 more points and Petoskey was calling time out to re-evaluate.

Charlevoix closed the first quarter with a 19-11 lead. But Petoskey didn't get to be 14-1 by panicking when things go wrong for a few minutes. In the second quarter, the Northern got their act together and played the Rayders to a draw for the quarter. At halftime the Rayders still led by eight, 29-21.

The third quarter was costly for the Rayders. Petoskey went on 15-2 run which turned the game around. By the end of the quarter the Rayders were clinging to a one-point lead 37-36.

In the fourth quarter, things got wild. Both teams like to play up tempo defense and have multiple weapons on offense. In the end, Petoskey ended up being just a bit better than the Rayders, using a 21-18 fourth quarter scoring advantage to take a 55-53 win.

Grunch led the Rayders with 21 points. Junior forward Liz Kelly added 11. Kelly and freshman forward Lisa Parrish nearly had double-doubles. Parrish had nine points and nine rebounds while Kelly had eight rebounds to go with her 11 points.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 65-52. Amanda Eaton led the Rayders with 16 points while Jenny Eveleigh added a dozen.

Charlevoix lost the freshman game 39-38 despite 17 points from Mandi Barrett.

Charlevoix answered with an 84-yard drive, capped off by a 25-yard touchdown run by Leitner. The extra point kick fell short in a driving wind and Charlevoix led 13-6.

Charlevoix was driving again late in the quarter when a fumble inside the East Jordan 5-yard line ended the drive.

Ed Johnson wins contest with 8-2 record

Ed Johnson won week eight of the Courier football competition with a record of 8-2. Johnson and Norm Lawson both had 8-2 records, but Johnson won on the tie-breaker. Several people, including the Courier Guru, finished at 7-3.

Several people reached the 40-pick minimum for the Top Ten list and consequently caused some shuffling there. But that wasn't the only thing which caused shuffling. Some people who had been picking well in recent weeks didn't do so well this past week. But we're not going to mention Rick Brandi's name or his record last week because nobody gloats here in northern Michigan. We all like to think we're above it.

Speaking of 5-5, now according to last week's Top Ten list, the Courier Guru was two games behind Tom Meggison. This week the Courier went 7-3 (a fairly good showing) and now Meggison and the Guru have the exact same season record. That would make Meggison's record for last week ... oh, I never was good at story problems, especially when they involve advanced math.

But enough looking back at the past. Let's look to the future. Here are this week's games and insights from someone who continues to cling by his fingernails to a spot in the Top Ten:

Petoskey at West Branch - This is Petoskey's first appearance in the playoffs and they may have some jitters. Still, they don't seem to be mistake prone and they're good enough to beat West Branch. Pick - Petoskey.

Boyer City at Whittemore-Preseott - Boyer City has had a banner season and has much to be proud of, but that season is about to come to an end. Pick - Whittemore-Preseott.

Traverse City St. Francis at East Jordan - For a while this past Friday evening, it looked like Charlevoix might spoil this party. But, to their credit, East Jordan got squared away and won the opportunity to play for one more week but just one more week. Pick - Traverse City St. Francis.

Michigan at Purdue - Come on now. Let's not hold a grudge. Just because Michigan let down all of its loyal fans last week, that's no reason to pout. Purdue isn't Wisconsin. Pick - Michigan.

Michigan State University at Northwestern - Just as Michigan State's football program begins to face allegations of academic misconduct for the sake of athletics, they travel to Chicago to play a university with a history of athletic misconduct for the sake of academics. It's a funny world we live in. Pick - Michigan State.

Texas at Texas A & M - Earlier in the year Texas had a good team. But for some reason, they've slipped a bit. On the other hand, who knows anything about Texas A & M, including what A & M stands for. Pick - Texas.

Toledo at Central Michigan - "Welcome to sunny Kelly-Shorts stadium." Does the announcer at CMU still say that at the beginning of every game, even in the midst of a hail storm? He used to. Pardon that bit of Chippewa nostalgia. Pick - CMU.

Detroit at Green Bay - Having a defense that scores nearly as often as the offense just isn't a sign of a good team. Pick - Green Bay.

Los Angeles Raiders at Kansas City - The Raiders are improving as the season progresses, but Kansas City has something to prove after getting thumped by Buffalo last week. Pick - Kansas City.

San Diego at Atlanta - This could be an upset. Atlanta's a sleeper team and San Diego's quarterback was hurt last week. Still, San Diego has a great defense. Pick - San Diego.

obituary

William W. Adams

William W. Adams, 42, of Charlevoix and formerly of Grosse Pointe Farms, died Oct. 31, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 3, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Dale P. Ostema officiating.

A second memorial service will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 10, at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Mr. Adams was born May 29, 1952, in Grosse Pointe Farms, the son of Dr. Vincent B. Adams and Sharon (Tyll) Adams. He graduated from the University of Dayton in Ohio.

He worked as an advertising executive for MTV for eight years, and for the Discovery channel.

He had resided in Charlevoix the past two years, where he worked in real estate for Coldwell Banker, and most recently for Vacation Properties Network. Mr. Adams also worked as a consultant for TCI Cable.

He was active in Charlevoix Friends of the Pool Committee, and the Castle Farm Community Center Project.

Survivors include his wife, Susan L. Adams of Charlevoix; one son, Alexander T., and one daughter, Laura G., both at home; his parents, Dr. Vincent and Sharon Adams of Grosse Pointe Farms; three brothers, Dr. Dennis Adams and his wife, Kathy, of Grosse Pointe Farms and Charlevoix; James Adams of Grosse Pointe Farms, and George Adams and his wife, Mary, of Northville; two sisters, Renee Schulte and her husband, William, of Grosse Pointe Farms, and Andrea Rodriguez and her husband, Victor, of Caracas, Venezuela; and his maternal grandfather, William B. Tyll of Grosse Pointe Farms.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the charity of choice.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Elementary conferences scheduled

Charlevoix Elementary School will host fall parent-teacher conferences Nov. 8, 10 and 11. Parents should have received letters with their children Oct. 19 with the letters to be returned by Oct. 26.

Evening conferences will take place Nov. 8 and 10 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Afternoon conferences will take place from 1 p.m. to 3:45 p.m., Nov. 11.

All elementary students will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m., Nov. 11. There will be no kindergarten classes that day or school lunches served.

For additional information, call the school office at 547-3215.

What do parents expect from schools

Dr. John Champlain, an educational consultant, will be visiting the Charlevoix School District Nov. 16 and 17. Parents of Charlevoix students are invited to attend a discussion moderated by Champlain from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., Nov. 16 at the high school. The subject of the discussion will be what parents expect of schools and what schools expect of parents. For additional information, call the school's central office at 547-3200.

Police respond to shooting

Charlevoix City Police responded to an incident Saturday evening in which a Charlevoix man died from a gunshot wound to the head. At 10 p.m., Oct. 28 police received a report of a man with a gun and shots fired at 304 Meech Street. Officers responded and found Bill Adams, 42, of Charlevoix in the home with a gunshot wound to the head. Adams was taken by ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital and later to Northern Michigan Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

City police chief Dennis Halverson said that the officers' investigation at the scene and interviews indicate the wound was self-inflicted.

(to fill vacancy, if any)
Mayor & Councilmembers
(Charlevoix & East Jordan)

And to vote on the following proposals:

STATE

PROPOSAL A: A PROPOSAL TO CONVEY A CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION FOR THE PURPOSE OF DRAFTING A GENERAL REVISION OF THE STATE CONSTITUTION.
Shall a convention of elected delegates be convened in 1995 to draft a general revision of the state constitution for presentation to the state's voters for their approval or rejection?

PROPOSAL B: A PROPOSAL TO LIMIT CRIMINAL APPEALS
The proposed constitutional amendment would restrict a criminal defendant who pleads guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) from appealing his or her conviction without the permission of the court. Currently, someone who pleads guilty or no contest to a crime has the automatic right to appeal.
Should this proposal be adopted?

PROPOSAL C: A REFERENDUM ON PUBLIC ACT 143 OF 1993 - AN AMENDMENT TO MICHIGAN'S AUTO INSURANCE LAWS
Public Act 143 of 1993 would:

- 1.) Reduce auto insurance rates by 16% (average) for 6 months for policyholders reducing personal injury (medical) insurance to $1 million. Extra coverage made available at added cost.
- 2.) Permit Insurance Commissioner to waive company's obligation to reduce rates if statutory formula would be in excess of 1989-1992 state average.
- 3.) Place limits on personal injury (medical) benefits.
- 4.) Limit fees paid to health care providers.
- 5.) Limit right to sue by setting higher standards for the recovery of damages for "pain and suffering" and prevent uninsured drivers and drivers over 50% at fault from collecting damages.
- 6.) Allow rate reductions for accident-free driving with same insurer. Should this law be approved?

PROPOSAL P: A PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH A MICHIGAN STATE PARKS ENDOWMENT FUND, INCREASE THE MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE AMOUNT OF FUNDS IN THE MICHIGAN NATURAL RESOURCES TRUST FUND AND ELIMINATE THE DIVERSION OF DEDICATED REVENUE FROM THE MICHIGAN NATURAL RESOURCES TRUST FUND.
The proposed constitution amendment would:

- 1.) Establish a Michigan State Parks Endowment Fund to be funded by certain royalties, bonuses and rentals collected by the state from the

- drilling of oil and gas or mining of minerals on state-owned land.
- 2.) Require that money in Endowment Fund be used to operate, maintain and improve Michigan state parks.
- 3.) Limit accumulated principal of the Endowment Fund to $800 million with annual adjustments for inflation.
- 4.) Increase the maximum principal of the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund from $200 million to $400 million.
- 5.) Eliminate the diversion of dedicated revenue from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund.
Should this proposal be adopted?

GRANDVUE MEDICAL CARE FACILITY RENEWAL PROPOSAL
Shall the previous voted .75 mill levy as reduced by the required millage rollback which last resulted in a levy of .6599 mill ($.66 per $1,000 of SEV) upon taxable real and tangible personal property within Charlevoix County, State of Michigan, be increased by .0901 mill ($.09 per $1,000 of SEV) to offset such millage reduction for levy in the years 1995 through 1998 inclusive for Grandvue Medical Care Facility operating purposes, which increase will raise in the first year of levy, the estimated increased revenue of $76,323.00 over that raised in the previous year?

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

TOWNSHIP PROPOSAL
Shall the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, Michigan levy an ad valorem tax of two (2) mills ($2.00 per $1,000.00 State Equalized Valuation) for the period of 1995 through 1996 inclusive for the purpose of township road construction and maintenance which would generate approximately $202,185.00?

HAYES TOWNSHIP

ROAD REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE PROPOSAL
Shall Hayes Township levy one (1) mill ($1.00 per $1,000.00 SEV) for the period of 1995 through 2000 inclusive for road repair and maintenance; and shall the Township levy such millage for such purpose during such period, which increase will raise in the first year of such levy an estimated $85,000.00?

The Polls of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a.m. and will remain open until 8 o'clock p.m. of said day of election.

Barnes and Campbell win local elections

by L. Scott Swanson
Josh Barnes will be Charlevoix's next mayor and Gabe Campbell will replace Ted Felter as a second ward city council representative.

In a strange race, even by Charlevoix standards, Barnes, a write-in candidate beat Bob Gill, also a write-in candidate, 550-501. Former mayor Dave Novotny had the only name appearing on the ballot. Prior to the election, he said he was supporting Barnes and wanted him to win, but also said that if as a result of having his name on the ballot he received the most votes, he would serve. Last week Ralph McRae withdrew from the race.

Several ballot booklets were spoiled when voters either wrote in the name of a candidate or placed a sticker beneath Novotny's name and then punched the hole beside the name or sticker. It reached the point where election workers were checking booths after nearly every voter to make sure the ballot booklets were still correct. After several booklets were ruined, election workers put cellophane over the page of the ballot to stop the damage.

A total of 1,376 votes cast in the city's three wards. The totals in the mayoral election were Barnes-550, Gill-501, and Novotny-102, leaving a disparity of 223 votes between the total cast and the total the three candidates received.

Barnes and Gill were both out early Tuesday and spent virtually the entire day passing out stickers across the street from one another near the corner of State and Mason. The candidates' behavior toward one another was amicable. They even got together for a brief chat during the morning.

When the election results came in, one of the first things Barnes said when asked to comment on his victory was, "I'll tell you one thing. The guy running against me is a first class individual." Barnes said that while he's glad he won, he would have been comfortable with Gill as mayor.

Barnes also said the people who helped him on his campaign did an excellent job. Barnes will take office Nov. 21. He said he hopes to work with others so the community operates harmoniously and continues to move forward.

In the only contested city council race, Gabe Campbell unseated two-term incumbent Ted Felter 226-127. Campbell couldn't be reached for comment late Tuesday night following the election.

School conference format changed

by L. Scott Swanson

Charlevoix High School will be trying a new arena format for parent-teacher conferences Monday, Nov. 14. In the past, parents scheduled appointments and went from classroom to classroom, talking to individual teachers. Under the new format, all teachers will be available in the high school gym at various stations. Parents don't need to schedule appointments in advance. Instead, they can just go from teacher to teacher for five to seven minute conferences.

High school principal Gary Grundman says there are two main objectives for the format change. First, it is hoped that having all of the teachers in one area will allow parents to see more teachers. Second, by having parents pick up report cards for their students in the hallway on the way into the conference, it is hoped that more parents will attend. (If parents aren't able to attend the conferences, report cards will be sent home as in the past.)

There will be two time periods available for conferences. The first will be from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Nov. 14. The second will be from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Report cards will be distributed in the hallway that contains the trophy cases, in front of the gym.

Grundman said he hopes the new format generates more communication between parents and teachers. "My feeling is that the more communications that we have, the better off we are," he said.

Grundman said that a student will deal with six different teachers on any given day. He said that as a parent, when he goes to a parent-teacher conference, he wants to know how his child is doing in class, not just academically, but overall. For example, a student could be doing well academically, but due to being too busy or for some other reason, struggling and beginning to show signs of other problems. It's also possible that a student can be doing well in most classes, but for one reason or another he having problems in a particular class. Conferences give parents a chance to discover problems, or potential problems, and begin working on solutions.

At the conference, parents will also receive a 40-question survey. Grundman estimates that it will take about five to 10 minutes to complete. He is urging parents to take the time to complete the survey because the school needs the parents' input.

Anyone with questions about the new conference format is welcome to call the high school at 547-3222.

What do parents and schools expect from each other?

Dr. John Champlain, an educational consultant, will be visiting the Charlevoix School District Nov. 16 and 17. Parents of Charlevoix students are invited to attend a discussion moderated by Champlain from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Nov. 16 at the high school. The subject of the discussion will be what parents expect of schools and what schools expect of parents. For additional information, call the school's central office at 547-3200.

Castle Farm backers attempt to regroup

By Laurie Lounsbury

The Castle Farm Community Center has experienced some ups and downs since the project's inception last summer. But with many new board members and John Porter acting as the new executive director, the group is ready to move forward again.

Like race horses chomping at the bit, Castle Farm supporters charged out of the starting gate last summer and raised $250,000 in 80 days. With a $150,000 donation from the Frey Foundation, Castle Farm raised a total of $400,000 within months. Renovation costs, employee pay roll, and failed concerts put the Community Center $30,000 in debt after the summer. One concert lost $10,000 in one week-end. The classical music concert lost another $8,000. "Concerts are risky," said Todd Kesner, Director of 4-H. He said the group would consider doing concerts in the future only if they were able to book big name entertainers, such as Reba McEntyre or John Denver. Kesner would want any concerts to be family oriented.

Kesner said the community center needs to raise about $240,000 by May 15, 1995, when the next payment is due. The property was purchased on a land contract for $1.1 million. A $250,000 down payment was made last summer, leaving a balance of $850,000 to be paid during the next five years.

Kesner was happy to see that the board has been expanded to represent Gaylord, Antrim, and Emmet counties. "This makes it a northwest-regional community center," Kesner said, adding, "Because of the size of the fundraising, the size of the project, we need to branch out into other counties."

The general consensus among people involved with the Castle Farm project is that the group went too fast in too many directions. Now they're ready to reconsider the direction they should be taking. A brain storming retreat will take place the weekend of Nov. 11 with board members. Executive Director John Porter, and any interested citizens. Dick and Gina Legman are bringing experienced facilitators up from Chicago to help with the retreat.

John Porter hired as Castle director

John Porter of Petoskey will be acting as the executive director of the Castle Farm Community Center project. Porter has experience in a broad range of fields. With a doctor of ministry from Chicago Theological Seminary, he worked as a minister and an interim minister in the Chicago area. Porter also has a masters degree in health administration from Governors State University in Illinois. Porter gained experience in fundraising when he worked as the director of development for the Lion's Club of Illinois. He is currently doing consulting work in the computer and health care fields. Porter and his wife Pam have been living in the Petoskey area for one and a half years.

A reminder of the advantages of small town life

If your appreciation for the pace of life in Charlevoix begins to wane...

If for some reason you begin to long for some of the things a small town doesn't readily provide...

If you start to tire of the familiarity of all of the faces you see day in and day out...

Take a trip to the city.

The pace of life in the city is fast. There is never a dull moment in the city. There are a thousand things happening all of the time. There are so many things happening all around you that it is impossible to take it all in. You must learn to ignore much of it. Ignorance is bliss. Ignore and be happy.

There is nothing you need long for in a city. The city has everything you could possibly want within two blocks of where you stand. Unfortunately, if your timing isn't right, it can take two hours to get there. Driving in urban traffic is like driving through Charlevoix in the summer, but with a bridge on every block, going up with every change of the traffic lights.

You know where Bridge Street narrows from two lanes to one lane - near 7-Eleven to the south and near Park Avenue to the north? Driving in the city, it's kind of like that at every on-ramp, driveway and intersection. You want to drive successfully in the city? Equip yourself properly. Get yourself a hat that spins like that of an owl and a mouth that can hold its own in a bar filled with sailors.

Some of the faces in our little town belong to jerks. But at least you know 'em. If a familiar jerk gives you a hard time, it hardly ever catches you off guard. You deal with it, perhaps even chuckle about it, and go on with life. On a per capita basis, there may not be any more jerks in the city than what there are in our little town. But in cities, jerks benefit from the element of surprise. You don't know going in that you're dealing with a jerk. You have to find out as you go along. Granted, this normally doesn't take long, but still it's a nuisance. Cities should require jerks to be clearly labeled...a scarlet "J" or something.

Charlevoix and all of the other countless small towns of the world may not be everything to everybody, but when your appreciation for them begins to falter, take a weekend trip to the city.

EDITH

by EDITH GILBERT

Would you believe that I was invited to attend a Junior and Senior Prom?

The Juniors were all students in Dixie Ashton's eleventh grade English class and the rest of us were all over age 62 - Senior Citizens! About seventy people showed up at the Elementary School Gym, where guests were presented with refreshments and a corsage. We sang and danced to live music, played by Dr. Goodheart's Home Remedy band. Both Juniors and Seniors enjoyed line dancing together, as well as performing a lively Hokey Pokey, a fast Virginia Reel, and thankfully ending the evening with a slow waltz.

The prom was the idea of Dixie Ashton. Her goal, in addition to bridging the generation gap, was to help build mutual respect between Juniors and Seniors. The prom was also the culmination of an English writing assignment for her students who interviewed Seniors and then wrote their biography. They could choose any friend, neighbor or relative to interview. In addition to the written assignment, and in conjunction with National Volunteer Day, each student was asked to volunteer three to five hours in return for the favor of an interview. One of the young men interviewed his grandfather and in return built a deer blind for him. Others raked leaves, washed windows, volunteered at Boulder Terrace or baby-sat.

Heidi Miller made an appointment to interview me. I showed her my Beverly Hills High School year books which triggered a lot of forgotten, pleasant memories, including 15 cent ice cream sodas! Heidi tells me she learned a lot from the interviewing process, and I learned to appreciate this attractive young woman, who, I predict will go far in whatever road she chooses in life.

We all know there are English teachers and there are English teachers! Dixie Ashton is quite outstanding. She believes in giving USEFUL writing assignments such as composing autobiographies or biographies. To foster creative

Hospice program helps people handle holiday grief

For those who have lost a loved one, "Handling the Holidays" is no small burden. The Charlevoix County Hospice and District Health Department No. 3 are presenting a program Monday, November 14, at the Charlevoix Area Hospital that we hope will give some suggestions on how to HANDLE THE HOLIDAYS. Rev. Milton Walls, hospice spiritual advisor, will talk of "The Grieving's Holiday Bill of Rights," and C.O.P.E. - a simple plan for handling some of the stresses associated with the holidays. Available to participants will be a wonderful booklet "Handling the Holidays," which contains a Holiday Planner, among other things. This program is open to anyone who feels the need for help in getting through the holidays. The program will start at 7 p.m., Charlevoix Area Hospital, in the old cafeteria - Main Floor of the hospital. Following the program there will be a time for sharing and refreshments. If you have any questions, please feel free to call the Charlevoix County Hospice office at 536-2842, or District Health Department No. 3 at 547-6523.

Volunteers needed to help with "Holly Daze"

Volunteers are needed to assist with this year's "Holly Daze" fundraising event for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The event will be at the Charlevoix Elementary School Nov. 25 and 26 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Nov. 27, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

This year, in addition to the wreaths and decorated gingerbread houses, there will be an exhibit of Christmas trees including an "Angel of Mercy" tree covered with angels made and donated by the Charlevoix Area Hospital nursing staff. Saturday will feature a "Teddy Bear Tea" for children and a variety of entertainment by local musicians.

Volunteers are needed to help decorate on Wednesday before the event and to help in the various "stores." To serve as a Holly Daze volunteer call Kathy Johnson at 547-4024, extension 201.

Holly Daze is sponsored by the Holly Daze Committee, comprised of volunteers from Charlevoix and Antrim counties, and the hospital Guild. Proceeds from the event will be used to purchase new and replacement equipment and to assist with the continuing renovation for expanded physical therapy and cardiac rehabilitation services.

writing skills, for example, she encourages her students to design greeting cards. On the practical side, she teaches boys and girls how to write a proper "thank you" letter. She assigns students to keep a scrapbook or compose a portfolio with pictures of something they have done that they are really proud of. This may be useful as a resume or may help a young person on their first job interview. We don't mean to imply that traditional assignments are overlooked. On the contrary, she also covers American Literature including traditional authors such as Steinbeck, Hemingway and Faulkner, as well as poets Frost, Dickinson and Angelou.

Any teacher who goes out of her way to create an innovative extra curricular activity such as a writing project for her students that includes interviews with senior citizens, volunteer assignments and fundraising for an evening prom is truly a dedicated teacher.

While Dixie Ashton stepped out of the classroom, I asked her students if this energetic women's extra efforts on their behalf made other teachers look bad, as is often feared by competing professionals. The students' immediate answer was reassuring. They listed a number of Charlevoix teachers right off the top of their head, who go that extra mile for their kids - Mrs. Ford in Performing Arts, Mr. Plude in History, Mrs. LaBlance in Music, Miss Mathers, Loding and McGraw in Art, Mrs. Chew in English, Mme. Wendt in French. I am sure there are more. (just as we all know, to be realistic, there are a few who should not even have tenure - but that's a subject for another day.)

This was the first Junior/Senior Prom of its kind ever held in Charlevoix. Let's hope that Ashton will give the writer of this article high marks in "persuasive writing." We would like to encourage this English teacher and her students to repeat such a delightful and stimulating project.

Outdoor author to sign books

The Charlevoix Bookshop will host Sgt. John A. Walker for a book signing on Nov. 12. Walker is the author of two books, "A Deer Gets Revenge," and "A Bucket of Bones."

Sgt. Walker, a native of the upper peninsula, is a retired Michigan conservation officer. For years, he has been writing both serious and humorous true short stories about events that occurred while growing up in Ontonagon and later working as a game warden.

In his first year in the publishing business, Walker had more than 20,000 books in print, a phenomenal number for someone who started distributing books from his car. Sgt. Walker has established a scholarship fund with the profits generated from these books, and so far has awarded six students with funds for college.

"A Bucket of Bones" and "A Deer Gets Revenge" would be enjoyed by anyone who loves the outdoors. Sgt. Walker will be at the Charlevoix Bookshop, at the bridge, between noon and 2 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 12 to sign his books and tell stories!

Gladys L. Kemp

Gladys L. Kemp, 88, of Petoskey, died Nov. 6, 1994, at the Emmet County Medical Care Facility in Harbor Springs.

Funeral will be 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, at the Stone Funeral Home in Petoskey. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey.

Mrs. Kemp was born Jan. 2, 1906, in Levering, the daughter of Otwin and Ella (Baier) Denison. She grew up in Levering and attended school in Pellston, graduating from Pellston High School.

On Nov. 3, 1923, she married William Kemp in Petoskey. He preceded her in death in 1974.

Mrs. Kemp had lived in Petoskey for many years. She worked at the Petoskey Steam Laundry and also for Bertha Turk Nursing Home, which is now Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Mrs. Kemp enjoyed gardening and fishing.

She was a member of the Resort Sewing Circle Extension, Salvation Army Church, Resort Township Grange, Golden Agers and the Home League.

Survivors include four daughters, Ruth Sheldon of Muskegon, Lillian Miller of Barryton, Evelyn Lambert of Fenton, and Maxine Hooker and her husband, Charles, of Charlevoix; two sons, William Kemp and his wife, Pat, of Lansing, and Frank Kemp and his wife, Betty, of Gaylord; 13 grandchildren; five step-grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; and nine step-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Kemp was preceded in death by her daughter, Marylou Kemp, in 1943.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Salvation Army Church. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Stone Funeral Home.

Barbara J. Light

Barbara J. Light, 65, of Norwood, died Nov. 3, 1994, at her home.

Her funeral was Monday, Nov. 7, at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth with the Rev. Robert Bellairs officiating. Burial will be in Norwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Light was born Oct. 28, 1929, in Des Moines, Iowa, the daughter of Ira and Bernice (Phillips) Butler.

On March 13, 1948, she married George Light Jr. in Detroit, and the couple made their home in Norwood.

Mrs. Light was a member of the Norwood United Methodist Church, where she loved to sing. She also loved the outdoors, working in the yard and garden, and she enjoyed her grandchildren.

Survivors include her husband, George; two daughters, Georgia Jones of Charlotte, and Chris Richey of Charlotte; five grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Pete (Bernice) Kali of Wyandotte; and one brother, Bud Flower and his wife, Shirley, of Charlevoix. Mrs. Light was preceded in death by her sister, Eunice Lario.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the organization of choice.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

He is in his middle fifties. For nearly thirty years, he worked for a grocery store chain in Petoskey. A buyout by another company suddenly found him out of work. His answer to it all has been to go back to college and train for a second career. He has been one of my English students at North Central Michigan College for about a year.

I had always admired a man of his maturity, voyaging through a world dominated by the young. I came to respect him even more when he shared a special insight with me recently. About the time he was laid off, he was also diagnosed with multiple sclerosis. Those closest to him urged him to apply for disability and just retire. He wrestled with that decision for a long time.

In his sharing with me, he ventured, "It would have been so easy for me to just roll over and die. I just couldn't see myself lying on a couch or a bed and watching the world go by. So here I am, back in school, and looking to make the most of every day that lies ahead."

I have faith that my friend will make it. He has seen both sides of life and he has decided to put his confidence in those things he cannot see. He is going to learn first-hand just how powerful a force really believing can be in his life. Not by anything that I have said or done, he is going to discover what trusting God can do and I'm praying every day that he will.

Life can deal out some very unexpected twists to us all. How we deal with them means everything. We can let those twists tie us up in knots, steal our happiness, and shut down our hopes or we can take a stand and rise above them. When you do take a stand, that does not mean everything will suddenly turn around. In fact, you may encounter discouraging voices in unexpected places. But have faith. Have faith in yourself. Have the faith in the things you cannot see. Above all, have faith in the Lord.

We have been trained all our lives to think we have limitations; that there really are some circumstances beyond our ability to deal with. God has always specialized in things that the world says are impossible. In fact, faith has always been a commodity that has frustrated the world because it doesn't follow the rules. It routinely takes the "impossible" and makes it possible.

In more ways than one, how things go in your life each day depends on the attitude you take towards them. A country preacher I know told his people, "You can pray, receive, and believe or you can cry, doubt, and do without." God's word says, "Greater is He that is in you than He that is in the world." Whatever is going on in your life right now, I believe in you and God does too. What happens next really is up to you.

DDA continues to discuss Dec. 8 bond election

by L. Scott Swanson

Although lacking enough members for a quorum, the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) continued its discussion of a $3.5 million bond proposal which will be decided by city voters in a special election Dec. 8.

DDA board members are anxious to have the issue passed and have held a series of meetings to discuss ways of promoting the issue. The most recent meeting, Nov. 2, ended up being an informal discussion when not enough board members showed up for a quorum. The meeting was scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. Board members Dan Barron, Bob Lieberman and Bill Supernaw were present at 5:30 p.m. DDA chairman Hugh Mason arrived at 5:57 p.m. Board members Bill Haggard, Mary Fiendt, Jeanine Wallace and Ted Felter were unable to attend either due to illness or other business commitments.

Another meeting is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., Nov. 9.

Following Mason's arrival, the DDA board and audience members discussed the bond proposal and upcoming election for approximately half an hour.

According to revised financial figures, if the bond issue passes, the DDA will have a minimum of $472,000 per year available to fund Bridge Park improvements and other projects. Of that, $242,319 would come from the state as a result of education finance reform. Paying back the bond would cost between $313,000 and $318,000 per year according to estimates. With the difference between the $472,000 and $318,000, the DDA would fund components of the Bridge Park project not funded by the bond and also fund other projects. The key component of the Bridge Park project not funded by the bond is purchase of property in the park from the state. According to city treasurer Rick Brandt, the estimated cost of the property is $250,000. For the first few years, a substantial portion of DDA money left over after the bond payment would likely be used for the land payment. A portion of the $472,000 would also be used to make land contract payments on the Kusina property.

In a phone conversation with the Courier, Brandt said that current estimates have the total bond debt service pay-back at between $5,883,000 and $6,277,000 depending on what projects are included in the payback. Estimates are that state funds could pay up to $5.2 million of the total payback.

During the Nov. 2 DDA meeting DDA board members said that if the bond issue is not approved, the city will not have a second opportunity to receive state funding. Supernaw said, "I don't think you have to be a rocket scientist to figure out that if we don't get this thing now, it's lost all together." He added, "There is no logical reason to vote no on this proposal."

Barron raised the possibility of scheduling a public forum prior to the election. Supernaw said he was afraid that would simply deteriorate into an acrimonious exchange. Former mayor Dave Novotny, who was in the audience, spoke in support of a public forum, saying he felt the right information presented by the right people might have an impact on undecided voters. Third ward council member Bruce Reid, who was in the audience, said he didn't see what there was to lose by having a public forum.

Supernaw tried to draw mayoral candidates Josh Barnes and Bob Gill into a debate on the issue. Barnes said he's made known his position supporting the proposal. He also suggested that any public forum be scheduled after Nov. 21 when the new mayor, who will be responsible for working on the project, takes office. Gill said he doesn't feel there has been a specific determination as to exactly what the $3.5 million will fund. He said that even if the bond issue fails, it would be logical for the city to pursue ways to work with the Beaver Island Boat Company and the Coast Guard on the Bridge Park dock area.

Two items which appeared on the agenda were unable to be addressed due to a lack of a quorum. Those items were a resolution requesting issuance of bonds and a discussion of setting a DDA termination date. Those items will be discussed at a later meeting.

$2.4 million grant awarded for Beaver Island transit

by L. Scott Swanson

The Beaver Island Boat Company will be receiving a $2.4 million federal transportation grant to assist in building a new ferry boat and improving docking facilities.

The application process for the grant started in 1991. Early last week, Bill McDonough, Chief Executive Officer of the boat company received word of the grant approval.

McDonough said that within the next few weeks he hopes to get together with the Michigan Department of Transportation and come up with a realistic schedule for making improvements the grant will help fund.

"I would like to see a new ferry pulling into new facilities in 1996," he said.

Preliminary plans call for construction of a new ferry capable of carrying between 20 and 22 vehicles and 300 passengers. The Beaver Islander, the largest of the two ferries currently operating between Charlevoix and Beaver Island, has a capacity of 200 passengers and about nine vehicles, depending on vehicle size.

McDonough and boat company president Lynn DeGrow said the new ferry will load from the stern with an option of also loading and unloading through the sides of the boat.

The grant is from the Federal Highway Administration and is going to the Beaver Island Transportation Authority. The Beaver Island Boat Company has contracted with the Transportation Authority for management services.

In 1991, Congress adopted the Intermodal Transportation Efficiency Act. Shortly thereafter, St. James Township formed the Beaver Island Transportation Authority. The Transportation Authority advertised for proposals for a management contract and eventually selected the proposal submitted by the Beaver Island Boat Company.

During the past three years, boat company officials have worked with several politicians in shepherding the application through the political process. Among the politicians involved were: Congressman Bart Stupak, D-Menominee; U.S. Senator Carl Levin, D-Detroit; Congressman Bob Carr, D-Lansing; State Representative Beverly Bodem, R-Alpena; and State Senator George McManus, R-Traverse City.

Following the announcement of the grant, McDonough was invited to a dinner in Marquette with Stupak and U.S. Vice President Al Gore.

In addition to the $2.4 million grant, another $300,000 will be contributed by the Michigan Department of Transportation plus $300,000 from fares collected during the next several years.

Along with that $3 million, McDonough is also hoping a $3.5 million city bond issue passes Dec. 7. The city bond issue would help fund a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) project to renovate Bridge Park. Bridge Park encompasses the Beaver Island Boat Company docking area and a portion of the proposed DDA project would affect the dock and the boat company building.

McDonough estimates that about 95 percent of goods and merchandise carried to Beaver Island are transported by boat, primarily by the two ferries. Currently the size of the boats and the spatial constraints at the dock area have created a bottle-neck, McDonough says that currently a lot of potential visitors and revenue are lost to the Island simply because of the inconvenience of getting there. He maintains that reducing that inconvenience will spur a great deal of economic activity in both Charlevoix and Beaver Island.

Beaver Island Boat Company currently has two ferries making regular runs between Charlevoix and the Island. The Beaver Islander, a 32-year-old vessel, is the larger of the two. It is assisted by the 50-year-old South Shore. This past summer the South Shore ran around the clock for eight straight days when the Beaver Islander broke a shaft and was shut down for repair work.

McDonough and DeGrow say the boat company will be keeping the Beaver Islander to operate along with the new ferry. The fate of the South Shore is still in question.

Rayder girls clinch league crown

Come back to win 68-63 at Kalkaska

Ours. Ours. It's all ours.

The Charlevoix Rayders girls basketball team clinched all of the 1994 Lake Michigan Division girls' basketball title with a 68-63 win at Kalkaska Friday night. Earlier in the week, the Rayders had wrapped up a share of the title. Friday evening, they made it all their very own.

The title was Charlevoix's first outright league crown since 1981.

Rod and Gun Club to elect officers

The Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club will hold the annual election of officers and directors for 1995 at the Dec. 1 meeting of the membership. The election will take place at 7 p.m. during the business meeting. The meeting will be at the clubhouse located on U.S. 31 North.

Candidates for office are as follows:

President - Les Petersen; Vice-President - Ray Jones, Jim Mansen, and Paul Schwenke; Secretary - Vane Smith; Treasurer - Maurice Seaman; Directors - (two will be elected) Richard Bergmann, Ray Jones, Kevin Kemp, Harold Lang, Joe Nicholai, Maurice Seaman, Vane Smith, Jerry Whitley.

Absentee ballots are available to all members in good standing upon request from the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, P.O. Box 112, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720. Absentee ballots must be returned by mail to the same address no later than December 1, 1994.

Ballots will be available at the club house at the December meeting.

and it didn't come easy. Kalkaska jumped out to a 17-15 first quarter lead and held the lead through much of the game.

With less than a minute to play, Liz Grunch buried a three-point shot to give Charlevoix a 64-63 lead. Grunch and Jill Dreyer each hit two free throws after that to seal the win.

The Rayders had a nicely balanced scoring attack. Grunch, a senior guard, led the team with 19 points. Junior forward Kris Blanchard had 13 points and eight rebounds. Liz Kelly and freshman Lisa Parrish each had 11 points.

The win left Charlevoix with an 11-6 season record and a 10-1 conference record.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 61-41.

Charlevoix's next game will be at home against Harbor Springs Nov. 11.

Boys third, girls tenth in state cross country race

Gorkiewicz and Bush are All-State

by L. Scott Swanson

Mike Bush and Chelsea Gorkiewicz earned all-state cross country honors in leading the Charlevoix boys' and girls' teams to third and tenth place finishes in the Class C State Finals. The state finals races were run Saturday morning in the mud at Lowell High School.

Bush, a senior, placed third in the Class C boys' team race in a time of 17:31. Charlevoix's next four runners came across in a tight group approximately a minute later. Runners from Carson City and Leslie had finished ahead and behind Charlevoix.

Team scores are determined by adding the places of a team's top five runners. For an hour between the end of the race and the time awards were announced, Charlevoix could only speculate on where they had finished.

When the awards were announced, Charlevoix found they had finished third with 136 points. Carson City placed first with 92 points followed by 1993 state champion Leslie with 114. The northwestern lower Michigan region was well-represented at the state race, taking three of the top five spots. East Jordan's boys' team, competing in the state race for the first time, finished fourth with 170 points. Benzie Central was fifth with 216 points.

Bush finished 25 seconds behind the race winner, Justin Curry of Carson City. Other Charlevoix runners and their places and times were: 29-Chris LeButt, 18:39; 33-Matt Dickinson, 18:43; 35-Justin Davis, 18:46; 36-James Conlan, 18:47; 70-Jeff McCombs, 19:27;

98-Paul Henne, 19:57.

Dickinson, concluded an exceptional cross country career on somewhat of an off-note. For the past two years, he has been among the elite runners in northern Michigan and normally has been Charlevoix's number two runner, finishing right behind or on some occasions just ahead of Bush. Unfortunately, Dickinson had an off-day in the quagmire at Lowell.

Conlan was perhaps the biggest and most pleasant surprise of the season and of the state finals. Last year, or the year before, if anyone who follows the area high school cross country races would have predicted Conlan to be a force in the state finals race; they would have been laughed at. Early in his high school career, Conlan was one of the smallest runners on the team and not among the fastest. This year, he shot up both in height and in the race standings. For most of the year, he has been Charlevoix's fifth runner, but with a gap after LeButt and Davis. Saturday, Conlan finished on Davis' heels.

Graduation will take a toll on Charlevoix. Bush, Dickinson, LeButt, Conlan and Henne are seniors. But the Rayders have a strong nucleus coming back. Davis and McCombs ran with the varsity team and return. Among those who ran with the junior varsity this year, but will be looking to break into the varsity team next year are Brian Martinus, Nate Martin and Marc Dohn.

Charlevoix's girls' team placed tenth at the state finals despite the loss of Becca Chamberlain midway through the race. In recent weeks, Chamberlain has been Charlevoix's number two runner, just behind Gorkiewicz. Saturday, she and Gorkiewicz were running close together in the top 20 when Chamberlain nearly collapsed in the final half mile of the race. The course had a two-tiered hill. Despite her exhaustion, Chamberlain made it up the first hill. Pale, in obvious pain and continuing to put one foot

Meggison wins football contest on tie-breaker

Tom Meggison won week nine of the Charlevoix Courier contest with a record of 9-1. Meggison was one of four contestants with a 9-1 mark. In the tie-breaker game between Central Michigan and Toledo, Meggison's prediction of 68 points scored was just four shy of the actual total of 72. The other three contestants with 9-1 records were Leroy Buchannon, Dan MacDonald and Tom Sandison.

Here are the games and Courier Guru projections for the coming week:

Notre Dame at Florida State - Notre Dame with four losses in a season? Just the thought is enough to give many Golden Dome knockers a warm and fuzzy feeling. You just don't hear much talk about Powilus winning the Heisman anymore. Pick - Florida State.

Central Michigan at Bowling Green - This is the Mid American Conference's game of the year. Bowling Green is tough, but CMU is on a roll behind running back Brian Pruitt and new coach Dick Flynn. As they say in Mount Pleasant, "Oooh-whaa. Oooh-whaa. Chip-oo-whaa." Pick CMU.

Illinois at Penn State - Had Penn State not had a difficult time with Indiana this past week, this game might have been a possibility for an upset. But not now. Penn has been scared straight. Pick - Penn State.

Syracuse at Boston College - Both of these are pretty good teams from the East; a pretty good team from the East being the equivalent of a 50-50 team from the Midwest. Pick - Boston College.

Purdue at Michigan State - This is an interesting match-up. Purdue has a fairly good offense, but still hasn't figured out how to play defense. Michigan State, under athletic director wanna be George Perles, remains inconsistent and is due to be upset again. Pick - Michigan State.

Dallas at San Francisco - San Francisco is at home and their offensive line has recovered from various injuries. Meanwhile, Dallas continues to be a car wreck waiting to happen. Their offensive line is injured and their rushing attack, Emmet included, hasn't been that impressive all season. Pick - San Francisco.

Buffalo at Pittsburgh - This could be a closer game than you might think at first glance. The match-up between Buffalo's defensive line and Pittsburgh's offensive line could be a lot of fun to watch. Still, Buffalo is stampeding toward the play-offs. Pick - Buffalo.

San Diego at Kansas City. In the pre-season, a lot of people were saying the AFC West might be the toughest division in football. Lately, that's looking like it might be the truth. The Chargers aren't as good without Humphries. Pick - Kansas City.

Tampa at Detroit - Tampa Bay is in disarray, but Detroit also has problems. Dave Krieg did an excellent job in relief of Scott Mitchell last week. He did what a Lion quarterback needs to do - throw the ball high and let Herman Moore go up and get it. Pick - Detroit.

Cleveland at Philadelphia - Cleveland ran up an impressive record early in the season against lame competition. Now, they're playing the big boys and having problems. Philadelphia is one of the premier teams in the NFC. Assuming Randall stays healthy, it wouldn't be a surprise at all to see them in the Super Bowl. Pick - Philadelphia.

Area foster parents and volunteers receive awards

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Service recently honored foster parents and volunteers with a dinner and awards in appreciation of their service at the Wolverine-Dilworth Inn.

The Honorable Judge Frederick Mulhauser, Emmet and Charlevoix County Probate Judge praised the foster parents and volunteers who give of themselves yet very seldom get a thank you in return. Mulhauser said, "The services provided by volunteers and foster parents elevate the dignity of those served."

Services Supervisor, Mel Sweet, said "If we can agree that every child deserves a family and that children have a right to be with their own parents, then it follows that the best and most effective method of treating dysfunctional families is by maintaining that family as a whole entity. The Department of Social Services through the Family Preservation Initiative will protect children whenever possible by stabilizing and strengthening families through services to the parents to help them effectively carry out their parental responsibilities."

"On occasion children simply cannot be protected within their own homes and the Department must request the assistance of the Probate Court in placing children elsewhere for their own safety. On these occasions, one alternative is temporary placement in a foster home."

"Foster families are those special people who choose to open their homes and their hearts to offer housing, healing, and caring for needy children. This process can be both rewarding and painful to the foster family, but the availability of the foster family to the child in need can make all the difference in healing the wounds of abuse and neglect. The fostering process is a major factor in the treatment of children who must leave their own homes."

"The foster families of Charlevoix County have over the years given of themselves without fail to enhance the life situation of children placed with them, however temporarily. Though few in number, these families are rich in the ability to care beyond themselves and contribute to the overall good of children, families, and our society."

Certificates were presented to the foster parents by foster home certification worker Linda Silver, Children's Protective Services Worker Bonnie Gates and Social Services Board Member Ellie Rouse. Receiving certificates were: 8 years - Lawrence and Sandy Bergmann; 6 years - Robert and Rosaria Davis; 3 years - Paul and Deborah Gelderblom; 1 year - Ken and Kathleen Bradley.

Volunteers Services Supervisor Vasco Zucchiatti reflected over the past years working with volunteers. "Working with volunteers on a daily basis is very inspiring and the relationship becomes a feeling of family," Zucchiatti said. "Every volunteer has a special quality and the combination creates services that are vital to the Department and clients."

Lee Moerland, Social Services Board Chairman presented volunteer certificates of appreciation for years of service. Receiving certificates were: 19 years - Community Service Center, Food Pantry, St. John's and Chat - Genetta Cole, and Shirley Roloff; 14 years - Connie Frady; 13 years - Raymond Ecker; 11 years - Anna Willis; 10 years - Charlevoix Community Food Pantry - Vern Cole; 9 years - Dennis Gocha and Mildred Gocha; 7 years - Dianne Penfold-Sayward; 6 years - Care and Share Food Pantry, J.O. Crawford, Sara Cummings, Oma Darrah; 5 years - Lloyd Cummings, Louis Hooper, Francis Hooper, Ethel Kerner, Margaret Landman, Floyd Peck, Kay Peck; 4 years - John Miller, Mel Morrison; 3 years - Les Vander Jagt; 2 years - William Block, Julie Carter, Thomas King, Kathy Roehrig, Mildred Walden, Susie Walley; 1 year - Harold Cowles, Marie Zoberski; Under 1 year - Marie Arsenault, Marrietta Bell, Terri Bell, Betty Brownell, Sherry Fisher, Fern Horton, Richard John, Sheryl John, Helen King, Linda Silver, Kim Strange, Amber Chellis, Connie Snover, and Mary Carson.

Special awards were given to volunteers who reached 200 hours of service - Harold Cowles, Helen King, Dianne Penfold-Sayward, Susie Walley, and Marie Zoberski; Volunteers who reached 500 hours of service - Marie Zoberski; and 11,000 hours of service - Raymond Ecker.

Several of the volunteers who contribute hundreds of volunteer hours to the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services were recently honored at a dinner at the Wolverine-Dilworth Inn.

Foster parents working with children placed by the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services were honored recently at a dinner at the Wolverine-Dilworth Inn.

obituary

Lois E. Smith

Lois E. Smith, 72, of Charlevoix and formerly of Dayton, Ohio, died Nov. 4, 1994, at St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis, Mo.

Her funeral was Tuesday, Nov. 8, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. Casmier Zawacki officiating. Burial service will be 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, at Calvary Cemetery in Dayton, Ohio, with the Rev. Schartz of the Incarnation Catholic Church in Centerville, Ohio, officiating.

Mrs. Smith was born April 25, 1922, in Dayton, Ohio, the daughter of Charles T. and Eleanor (Ke-uping) Weber. She was raised in Dayton, Ohio. She graduated from Julianne High School in 1940, and then attended Miami Jacobs Business College.

On Nov. 30, 1946, she married Marvin K. Smith in Dayton, Ohio, where they lived until moving to Charlevoix in 1985. She had been a summer resident of Charlevoix since 1933.

Survivors include her husband, Marvin K. of Charlevoix; one daughter, Janet Weghorst and her husband, Dave, of St. Louis, Mo.

son, Doug Smith and his wife, Pat, of Memphis, Tenn.; two granddaughters, Kristin Smith and Colleen Smith of Memphis, Tenn.; and her mother-in-law, Bettie Smith of Mount Sterling, Ky.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Mary's Catholic Church. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where friends may call from 5-8 p.m. today, Nov. 7. A rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the funeral home.

...girls' cross country team places tenth

ahead of the other almost by force of habit. She was staggering slowly along the plateau toward the second tier of the hill when Douglas Bergmann, a former Rayder all-state and college runner who was watching the race, could see she'd had enough.

"Becca, you'd better come over here," he said, holding his hand out. Bergmann and some other Charlevoix spectators helped her off the course and into the high school where she was cared for by her parents and Dr. Edward New-comb, who was there watching his daughter Rachael race.

Although disappointed with the final race of her high school career, Chamberlain has recovered.

Gorkiewicz, a sophomore running cross country for the first year, just made the all-state team with a time of 21:56. Runners with the top 20 times from the team and individual races are named to the all-state team. Gorkiewicz placed 17th in the team race, but that race was much faster than the individual race and only three runners from the individual race made the all-state team.

Charlevoix's other runners, by order of finish, were Rachael Newcomb, Candice Vandergriff, Lisa Hoadley, Monica Browne and Candy Siwaga.

Charlevoix's girls' team is a team on the rise. From the perspective of other teams, the Rayders have so much potential, it's scary. Only Chamberlain and Hoadley are seniors. Gorkiewicz and Newcomb are sophomores. Vandergriff, Browne and Siwaga are freshmen. In addition to the remainder of the high school team, Charlevoix also has some junior-high runners who may push for spots on the varsity team next year.

It's prime season for car deer accidents

To many people, Michigan means deer, the wily whitetail of legend. To motorists, they can be a nightmare - sudden blur out of nowhere. And their numbers are up from about 1.5 million in 1993 to 1.75 million this year.

While the number of car/deer crashes was down slightly last year from the all-time high recorded in 1991, AAA Michigan says they remain a big-bucks expense in the state (pun intended) with more than $65 million paid out in property damage claims industry-wide in 1993.

Numbers tell the story: In 1993, there were 47,813 car/deer crashes in Michigan, claiming five lives and injuring 1,712 people. In 1991, seven people lost their lives and 1,732 suffered injuries in 48,233 car/deer crashes.

The average repair bill for a car involved in a car/deer crash was $1,350 last year, with AAA Michigan paying out some $8.1 million in property damage claims.

A good omen is that while the number of car/deer crashes declined slightly last year, the miles traveled on Michigan roads increased to 85.7 million, a 5 percent increase over 1991.

Of the 363,708 total car crashes in the state last year, most happen during the fall and early winter months, says AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

Breeding and feeding practices find deer on the move during these months. "The addition of close to 800,000 firearm deer hunters in the woods between Nov. 15 and 30 adds to normal traffic volumes.

Last year, the top five counties in the number of car/deer crashes reported were Kent with 1,706; Calhoun, 1,452; Jackson, 1,281; Washtenaw, 1,130; and Kalamazoo, 1,126.

The fewest number were recorded in the Upper-Peninsula counties of Keweenaw with 22; Luce, 129; Gogebic, 146; Houghton, 154; and in the eastern Lower Peninsula county of Bay with 184.

There is no reasonable way to eliminate all car/deer crashes because of the unpredictability of the animal, but Basch advises motorists to always wear safety belts, avoid alcohol when driving and heed the following tips:

- Car/deer crashes most often occur on paved local and county roads, but freeways are not exempt.

- Use extra caution when driving in the hours before dawn and just after dusk. Those are the most likely times to find deer moving from area to area.

- If you see a deer, slow down, drive cautiously and assume others are nearby.

- Should a deer dart into the road in front of you, do not take unsafe evasive action, such as swerving. It is usually safer to strike the deer than another object, such as a tree or other vehicle.

- Be alert for shining eyes at night. Your headlights can "freeze" the deer. Flash your headlights on and off well in advance to encourage the deer to move from the roadway.

- Should you strike a deer, report it to local or county police and your insurance company. If you choose to keep the deer, you will need a permit from the police department or the Department of Natural Resources.

RSVP program honors volunteers

Retired & Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) members were honored for their generosity of time and spirit to the community at their tenth annual recognition dinner held at the Wolverine Dilworth Inn of Boyne City Oct. 13.

Senior volunteers worked 38,000 hours of community service in the past year. Based on the IRS allotment of $7/hour for volunteer service, members contributed $266,000 to the area of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

RSVP stresses the positive potential of older people and gives senior volunteers recognition that is often lacking in their later years. The 1994 Volunteer of the Year Award's were earned by Ms. Margaret Frederick of Petoskey (representing Emmet County), and Mr. and Mrs. Mae and Bill Bridge of East Jordan (representing Charlevoix County). "The Volunteers of the Year" were chosen for their integrity, support of RSVP, and their commitment to their communities," state RSVP Director Becky Mosser.

The 1994 RSVP Station of the Year Award was presented to the Charlevoix Area Hospital (CAH). Accepting on their behalf was CAH Director of Fund Development and Volunteer Coordinator Mrs. Kathy Johnson. "Charlevoix Hospital has been providing superior support for senior volunteers for many years," said Mosser. Station Award winners must advocate and utilize senior volunteers; support and recognize RSVP; its importance and commitment in the community; and provide volunteers with meaningful work in a supportive environment.

A special salute was issued to five volunteers who gave over a thousand hours of service: Glenna Arends, Naomi Miller, Marjorie McNamara, Marge Robarge, and Marie Zoberksi.

"The strength of the RSVP volunteer force is in its diversity," said Mosser. There are 236 volunteers currently enrolled in the program, 96 in Charlevoix County and 140 in Emmet County.

DDA proposes end to county tax capture

by L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has offered to end the capture of county and intermediate school district (ISD) property tax dollars in the year 2013 if the Dec. 8 bond proposal passes. The action was unanimously approved by the DDA board at its Nov. 10 meeting.

Currently the DDA is scheduled to expire in 2013, but there's little if anything to prevent the DDA and city council from extending the DDA and county tax capture as has been done in the past.

In 1990, the DDA, city, county, ISD and Charlevoix Public Schools signed an agreement which required the DDA to give back a portion of captured tax dollars to the other public entities and also called for the DDA program to expire in 1998. However that agreement also contained a clause which made it void if the state adopted a school finance reform package. That occurred early in 1994 and subsequently the DDA, with city council approval, amended the DDA project plan and extended the DDA expiration date to 2013.

The contract proposed by the DDA Nov. 10 doesn't contain any provisions which would void the contract once it is in place. The proposed contract contains only three main components: 1. After Dec. 31, 2013 the DDA shall not capture any millage from the County and/or County function, the ISD or the School District; 2. That the termination date shall be effective only if the DDA actually issues and sells $3.5 million in bonds on or before Dec. 31, 1994; 3. The parties agree not to challenge in court the formation or operation of the DDA up to the date of the proposed agreement.

DDA board member Dan Barron noted that the proposed agreement doesn't terminate the DDA program in 2013, but it would end the capture of any county or school tax dollars. The city, if it wished, could leave the DDA program in place, but the only source of funding

...meanwhile county hears East Jordan DDA plans

by Laurie Lounsbury

Brian Sweet wants the Charlevoix County Commissioners to support the East Jordan Downtown Development Authority. Sweet talked to the commissioners at their last meeting, asking for assurance that they would stay in the DDA plan if boundaries are changed. "I want to avoid having an adversarial situation with other taxing entities," Sweet said, referring to the conflict between the Charlevoix DDA and the county commissioners. (See related story)

Although Sweet spoke to county commissioners about the DDA, he is not on the DDA board and does not represent the East Jordan DDA. He is a member of the East Jordan City Council, and voted against the formation of a DDA in East Jordan.

According to Dick Joseph, Chairman of the East Jordan DDA, "He's (Sweet) out there acting like the Lone Ranger, and we just want to be Tonto. He's excluded us from that," Joseph was surprised and more than a little disgruntled to learn that Sweet went to the county commissioners to speak on behalf of the DDA without consulting anyone on the DDA board.

The East Jordan DDA might get the support of the county commissioners, but they're off to a rocky start with the East Jordan City Council. The six member council was tied on the vote to form a DDA. Mayor Russ Peck cast the deciding vote in favor of a DDA.

The DDA and some members of the city council are at odds over the boundary lines for the DDA district. The original DDA plan includes the downtown district, which has shown declining values and the west side of East Jordan along M-66, which is growing in value. Sweet wants the DDA to exclude the west side from the DDA plan. "I see it as their way to capture revenue from a high growth area and put it into a deteriorating area. I just don't feel it's right," Sweet said. There is also an issue about some boundary lines bisecting properties, which would make it difficult for the county equalization department to prepare tax bills.

Joseph is happy with the boundaries as they are. According to him, there are reasons for including the west side in the DDA plan, and revenue is certainly one reason. "If we didn't include the west side, we'd only be capturing about a thousand dollars a year. That's ridiculous," Joseph said. He also maintains that the DDA wants to tie west side businesses in with the downtown business district. "I don't want south M-66 to become pole barn city," Joseph said. "It needs to be regulated so it's attractive," he added.

Changing the DDA boundary lines at this stage of the game might cancel out East Jordan's original DDA plan. This would send the DDA back to square one, requiring the DDA to comply with new DDA laws. One law would require that the DDA give all taxing entities involved 60 days to exempt themselves from the DDA plan. This could represent a significant loss of revenue to the DDA. "Adjusting boundaries would be a courtesy to the equalization department," Joseph said. "If the (East Jordan) city council wants that,

Do students eat a good lunch at school?

By Laurie Lounsbury

Each morning Charlevoix parents send their kids off to school, armed with either a hot lunch ticket or a brown bag lunch. After that, the noontime nutrition is out of the parents' control. So what are kids eating? Here's a look at the eating habits of kids when they're out from under their parents' watchful eyes.

-Elementary School-

The question here seems to be not so much what, but how much, are they eating? Every day students throw away enough food to fill four garbage cans at lunch time. Some kids blame it on the fact that they don't like the hot lunches. Some say they don't have enough time to clean their plate. For the most part, it appears that the call of the playground overpowers their desire to eat.

"More than half of it (hot lunches) goes to the garbage cans," said Melissa Jones, a fifth grader.

Lunch room supervisors Kathy Haggard and Sue Macks agree. "They throw it away because they want to get outside," Haggard said, adding, "They just won't take time to sit down and eat." Haggard would like to see the school impose a mandatory amount of time for the kids to eat their lunch. The way it is now, kids can spend as little time in the lunch room as they choose. Some choose to spend as little as five minutes on their mid-day meal.

Elementary school principal Dick Swenor doesn't see it as much of a problem. He visits the lunch room every day and doesn't think more than ten kids throw away excessive amounts of food. "Kids are going to eat fast no matter what, to go do what they want to do," he said.

Cafeteria cook Martha Herbold-shimer would like to see the kids eating more and throwing less away. If she sees a child throwing away a large portion of their hot lunch, she tries to get them to sit back down and finish their meal. If it's a brown bag lunch they're pitching, she tells them to save it for an after school snack. "In East Jordan the kids have to sit at the lunch table for fifteen minutes. I wish we had that here," Herbold-shimer said.

Swenor is willing to consider a mandatory amount of time for lunch, but questions if it's physically possible. The elementary school cafeteria must service more than 500 kids in less than two hours. About 100 kids enter the cafeteria every ten minutes. A desire to be on the playground isn't the only thing that drives them out of the lunchroom. A tidal wave of kids every ten minutes forces the earlier arrivals away from the table. "If we had enough room we could give it a shot," Swenor said of mandatory cafeteria time. Meanwhile, kids will continue to eat a little and eat it fast so they can get to the best part of their day - recess.

What They Eat: Elementary schoolers stick with the old standards - Pizza, hot dogs, nachos, applesauce. Opinions vary considerably. "The school food is gross," said Karlee Barnard. "The pizza's like cardboard," Laura Potter chimed in. Sitting one table away, a group of fifth grade boys had a different opinion. "The pizza's the best pizza I've ever had," said Joseph Engermuller. It appeared that the boys in general liked the hot meals better than the girls.

-Middle School-

Kids at this age are doing some serious growing, so many do some serious eating at lunchtime to support their growth habits. If you consider pizza and juice a balanced meal, then most of the kids are doing fine. Pizza is by far the most popular item on the middle school menu. Milk seems to fall out of favor with this age group, along with fruits and vegetables. Middle schoolers are about equally split on their preferences for hot lunch or bringing a brown bag lunch from home. The brown baggers often bring a lunch to avoid the long lines for hot lunch. If parents think their kids are getting a nutritious meal because they packed them a balanced brown bag lunch, think again. Many students admitted they throw away the fruit and veggies lurking in their lunch box, sucking to the main entrée (peanut butter and jelly) and dessert.

The middle school hot lunch program is capitalizing on the tastes of middle schoolers. A vending machine sells Gatorade for 65 cents a can, with profits going to the lunch program. Interest in the vending machine picked up when a sign was posted on the machine saying that every tenth beverage is free. The school also opens up a corner store after all the kids have gone through the lunch line. The corner store sells cookies, ice cream bars, doughnuts, and fruit roll ups.

Middle schoolers are more socially evolved than the grade school children, so sitting at the table and eating is less burdensome to these kids than it is to the little ones. Middle schoolers spent 15 to 20 minutes at the lunch table, compared to the five or ten minutes spent by kids in the elementary school cafeteria.

High school kids actually eat the nutritious food offered in the cafeteria. Eating fruit and salad along with their main course are Robert Sineway, Mark Schairbaum, Jessica VanGuilder, Callie Siwarga, and Kaylee Manker. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

-High School-

Take heart, parents, coaches and teachers. By the time kids reach high school, some of those lectures on good nutrition actually take root in the minds of teenagers. At a glance, it appears that most high school students eating in the cafeteria actually eat salad, fruit, and a main entrée. Cafeteria Manager Babs Sharrow estimates that about 40 percent of the high school students eat lunch in the cafeteria. Most of those kids are selecting a reasonably balanced meal for lunch. "I think kids today, especially the ones in sports, are more educated about what they should eat," Sharrow said.

High School students had almost no complaints about the cafeteria food, other than the menu gets repetitious. "The food here is second to none. Babs Sharrow does a great job," said Mark Schairbaum, adding that the cookies are pretty darned good too. Schairbaum sat at a table with fellow members of the cross country team. They all had fruit or salad, macaroni and cheese, and a sloppy joe on their trays, along with juice or milk. Lisa Hoadley was the exception, with her own brown bag lunch. "I know I'm going to get something normal if I bring my own lunch," Hoadley said.

Students can't agree on whether it's cheaper to eat lunch at school or go out for lunch. Some students think it's too expensive to go out for lunch, especially if you're looking for a well balanced meal. Kaylee Manker said that the kids going to Pizza Hut can only afford to get breadsticks for the amount they would spend on a school lunch. "If you're into nutrition, you can get it here," she said, referring to the school hot lunch.

Eating at school is a real bargain for Heidi Miller. "I can get a pretzel and juice for 80 cents, and it fills me up," Miller said. On the other hand, students who favor the a la carte bar at school can end up spending more than if they went out to lunch. The a la carte bar offers pizza, submarine sandwiches, muffins, large pretzels, chips, and cookies. The a la carte items are sold separately from the regular hot lunch program.

For the 60 percent of the students leaving school for lunch, their lunch consumption ranges from burgers and pizza to a nutritious lunch at home. The 35 minutes they're allowed for lunch doesn't leave much time for socializing. That's another reason some students prefer to stay at school for lunch. They have more time to eat. Unlike their younger peers at the elementary school, the high schoolers enjoy their time at lunch.

DDA proposal is a major step forward

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) program took a major step forward this past week by adopting a proposed contract which would set a firm termination date for the capture of tax dollars from the county, school and intermediate school district. The concept set forth in the proposed agreement (See related story on page 1) protects taxpayers from having the DDA become another unending government bureaucracy. Instead, the DDA will become a finite program with defined goals. The proposed contract puts a light at the end of the tunnel and will ultimately make DDA funding easier for the average person to understand.

Since its inception in 1984, the DDA has made several improvements to the downtown business district. Among the more prominent improvements have been two new parking lots, the development of Hoffman Park, and new sidewalks and lights on Bridge Street. Although community support for each of these projects individually hasn't been unanimous and it's possible to argue about the amount of money expended, overall the DDA program has made Charlevoix's downtown business district more attractive and economically viable.

Where the DDA has drawn the most criticism and come into conflict with other public bodies is in the way it is funded. DDA money is derived from tax increment financing - which is not the easiest thing to explain or understand. A simplified explanation is that tax increment financing is a means of allowing the DDA to take a portion of property tax revenues generated in the downtown district and earmark that money for DDA projects. "Capturing" is the term DDA proponents use to describe this taking of tax funds. DDA opponents use other harsher terms.

If these property tax dollars weren't captured by the DDA, they would go to the county, schools and city. When tax dollars are captured by the DDA, the county and schools must either do without that money or increase taxes to offset the loss. Obviously, that upsets county commissioners and school board members. DDA "captured funds" don't really affect the city because the DDA is an arm of city government. Projects funded by the DDA directly benefit the city and if DDA funds weren't used for the projects, other city funds would be used. For the city, tax increment financing allows city projects to be completed with the school and county footing part of the bill. Under school finance reform, from here on out the school will no longer be footing the bill. Instead, the state will foot that portion of the bill.

From a taxpayer's perspective, no matter which governmental agency ends up with the money, the taxpayers' motto remains, "The buck starts here." For taxpayers, two of the most critical problems with being taxed via tax increment financing are that it allows one governmental body to take money from another without voter approval - with the end result of tax dollars voters approve for one thing being spent on something else; and it's so complicated that it's difficult to understand.

Putting a termination date on the capture of money from other governmental units addresses both of those problems. Once the termination occurs, county taxes will be spent by the county, school taxes by the school and city taxes by the city. As far as the DDA continuing after 2013 to use tax increment financing to capture city tax dollars for DDA projects, that's no big thing. At that point, even without understanding all of the nuances of tax increment financing, city taxpayers will easily be able to understand where DDA money is coming from and what it's going toward. After 2013, the DDA will just be an economic development arm of the city spending city tax dollars. If city taxpayers feel having a DDA board is the best way to promote economic development, the program can be left in place. If, at that time, the people of the city feel there are better ways to take care of economic development needs, the DDA can be scrapped and something different instituted.

Putting a fixed termination date on the capture of funds from governmental bodies other than the city makes sense. In the long run, it will be good for taxpayers and keep local government accountable to the people.

School support staff praised by teachers

Editor,

On behalf of the Charlevoix teachers, I am taking this opportunity to recognize some of Charlevoix School District's finest people. During the week of November 13th - 19th, the nation will be celebrating American Education Week. A special day has been set aside to pay tribute to our educational support personnel. These are the people who carefully drive the buses, caringly assist in the classrooms, patiently answer the phone and diligently prepare the hot lunches. Because of them, we have clean facilities and well maintained equipment; the list of all they do is endless. On Wednesday, November 16th, make a special point to thank these people for making our jobs as teachers run smoother and for contributing to the success of our students. Thanks for a job well done.

Sincerely,
Mary Beth McGraw, President
Charlevoix Education Association

Letters to the editor

The DDA has captured and spent enough money

Editor,

On December 8th the taxpayers of the City of Charlevoix will be asked to approve $3.5 million dollars in DDA bonds. Before you taxpayers vote, please consider the following points. Since 1985 the City has captured almost $4 million dollars ($3,939,660) in DDA and TIFA programs. All this money was voted for other purposes such as Grandvue, 911, Transit, schools and the County.

The total DDA capture, including 1994 taxes, will be $2,598,036. Breaking this down by local entity: Charlevoix Public Schools - $1,230,145; Charlevoix Emmet ISD - $120,710; City of Charlevoix - $912,179; Charlevoix County - $286,383; 9-1-1 (not even started yet) - $17,799; Grandvue MCF - $15,626; Charlevoix County Transit - $15,194.

The estimated (total) cost of the $3.5 million bond issue will exceed $5.9 million. The total amount of DDA spending will be just under $10 million, providing interest rates do not change, and all of it in a very limited, geographic area: North Hill to South Hill and Round Lake to State Street.

What if the DDA closed up and disappeared? The first thing you City of Charlevoix taxpayers would see is a 1.13 mill reduction in your city taxes. Each mill in the City of Charlevoix generates $123,972. If the DDA captures $139,589 that would have gone to the General Fund, then this amount equates to a 1.13 mill subsidy that every City of Charlevoix taxpayer pays to the DDA. This same principle applies to County taxpayers as well, and prior to this year, it applied to school taxpayers. Someone else had to pay the bills because of the tax money being captured by the DDA.

Here is another interesting note. The DDA has such a pressing need for revenue this year that they are capturing $6,740 from Grandvue, $9,028 from 9-1-1 and $2,191 from transit millage. While taking tax money from these worthwhile programs, the City Council doesn't levy the maximum millage on the DDA district properties. The maximum allowed taxes on the DDA district is 1.5274 mills out of the original 2 mills. How much did the City Council levy? Only 1.3631 mills. Another case of NIMBY, huh? Not in my back yard!

Let's talk about possible future millages. If there's a new 9-1-1 operational millage or a school enhancement millage you can bet the farm the DDA will be right there with its hand out ready to capture some of those taxes too.

The $3.5 million bond issue is being closely connected to the Bridge Street Park Project. The appointed, not elected, DDA Board claims that this project will consume all the money. What if the project should be completed for $3 million? Would the extra $500,000 be used for a new Chamber of Commerce building as approved in the 2nd Amendment project list? The City Council in its February 1994 resolution states that "The DDA must be given flexibility to determine in what order and at what pace the projects are to be implemented." Some people would interpret that as giving a fox the key to the hen house.

Is there a good answer or any kind of guarantee to any of the following questions? Has the State of Michigan approved funding for their share of this $3.5 million project? Do you taxpayers have $3.5 million worth of confidence that the State of Michigan will come through based on a legal opinion of a person who is financially interested in the sale of the bond? Who's going to represent the City when

Editor,

Gyping the Elderly. Michigan has a law, Public Act 519, that lists 33 points of conduct toward the elderly that might be cause for prosecution.

In the 27 percent of complaints that are registered annually for violations ranging from physical abuse to financial exploitation, almost 100 percent involve either relatives or adult health center operators.

So much for the private side of the legal issue of elderly abuse? Now, how about government's role in elderly abuse?

Recent activity out of the Charlevoix County Equalization Department's hike in assessments indicates that many of the listings are outdated, in need of mathematical adjustment, a raise in the qualifications of assessors as well as experienced field surveyors with common sense.

Frankly, I'm bleeding. And I know a great many Courier readers are too.

Just because a couple developers paid extra high prices for land of bloated value, I, over 80, am expected to keep apace, tax-wise for the high buck invaders. My 1994 assessment was hiked $17,400 - just because I can see the lake.

It is not my intent to elicit sympathy for my own cause. However, as a knowledgeable tax appraiser, "graduate" of the U of M business school's courses in real estate appraisal, I feel it's my right to criticize and I hope your readers will join me in putting forth your own significant case histories setting forth the Charlevoix County Tax Equalization's machinations in assessment procedures.

Don't be embarrassed that your financial affairs may be given a bit of airing. In a Democracy, everyone has the right to know what government is doing.

Further, I see no reason why a bureaucrat who is derelict in the duties of office should not be prosecuted the same as the relative who violates the provisions of PA 519.

- VOTERS OF CHARLEVOIX -

I am more than grateful for the unsolicited, unselfish support that was accorded me before and during the election. The offers of financial support, the physical participation, (for instance the efforts of the 85 year "young" fellow who must have put a hundred miles on his bicycle peddling my stickers around the countryside), and the words of support that must have been passed in many conversations. Thanks to my good wife, who has been abiding my nonsense for 45 years, for her continued assistance and patience.

My apologies for having missed a news deadline with an ad which would have more clearly revealed my qualifications - (copy available for the curious). Thanks to Gabe, and whoever, for plugging me in his ads.

Now - if you are not comfortable having been associated with a loser, the "What If" scenario should be consoling - "What if the 200 votes not counted had all been for Bob Gill?" We would have whupped 'em!! No sour grapes, just wishful thinking. I enjoyed the whole campaign and I hope you did also.

My congratulations to Mr. Barnes, I wish him well. Congratulations also to his campaigners - particularly his family and friends who were passing out stickers Tuesday - they surrounded me with their pleasant, friendly presence and made the beautiful "Charlevoix" type day really enjoyable.

Thanks again everyone!! I intend to keep my finger on the pulse of City government and look forward to participating "from the floor" at many future council meetings.

United Way moving toward goal

The United Way (UW) of Charlevoix/East Jordan has collected more than half of its campaign goal. UW President Ellen Zienert said that approximately $30,000 had been donated by area businesses and individuals to date. The 1994-95 goal is $50,000.

"We are very pleased with the response of the community so far," said Zienert. "Our volunteer solicitors have been meeting with area businesses and spreading the United Way message." Zienert said that several changes and traditional supporters have contributed to increased awareness of the services offered by United Way agencies and the success of this year's campaign. Among the highlights of the campaign:

The first ever use of a "Pacesetter" company. A pacesetter runs their fund-raising effort before the general campaign in order to "set the pace" for the rest of the campaign. Big Rock Point nuclear plant served as the pacesetter and raised more than $19,000, of which $12,000 goes to the UW of Charlevoix/East Jordan.

The use of a speakers' bureau, consisting of UW member agency representatives, to deliver the UW message to area residents.

On the strength of a $4,725 donation, Medusa Cement Company once again was recognized as the area's major corporate contributor.

Zienert said that while the campaign is rolling along nicely, much work still needs to be done. "We still have a long way to go to reach our goal and I hope those who have not already contributed will consider making a generous donation. Almost everyone is touched in some way by a United Way agency."

Zienert said that about 93 percent of all money donated is turned over to member agencies that bring needed services to area residents.

Charlevoix/East Jordan United Way agencies are: Red Cross, Bergmann Center, Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp McSaub, CHIP Counseling, Volunteers in Probation, Women's Resource Center, Lake Charlevoix Exceptional Riders, Planned Parenthood educational programs, Salvation Army, Northwestern Michigan Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, Senior Citizens, Alano Club, Michigan Dyslexia Institute, The Living Room Adult Day Care, R.S.V.P. and Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Funding levels will be determined for member agencies after allocation meetings are held January 11 and 12, 1995. Funding for agencies is based on the success of the campaign and agency needs. Agencies that do not currently receive United Way funding, but would like to be considered, should call Zienert at 547-8110.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution may send donations to: The United Way of Charlevoix/East Jordan, P.O. Box 532, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Donations are tax deductible.

Clifford C. Green Jr.

Clifford C. "Butch" Green Jr., 48, of East Jordan, died Nov. 10, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral was at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City. The Rev. Mike Allen officiated. Burial took place in Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey.

Mr. Green was born Sept. 18, 1946, in Grayling, the son of Clifford C. and Darlene (Giffin) Green Sr. He graduated from Wilbur-Wright High School in Detroit in 1965.

Mr. Green served in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War. After his service, he was a postal worker in Plymouth, and then worked at the Holiday Inn in Livonia for eight years.

He moved to East Jordan in the spring of 1990, where he had resided since.

Mr. Green worked for TJK Lawn Maintenance during the summer months and for H&R Block in Boyne City and Charlevoix during the tax season as a tax preparer.

He was a member of the American Legion.

Survivors include his mother, Darlene Green of East Jordan; four brothers, William Green and his wife, Sheila, of South Lyon; Edward Green and his wife, Chris, of Charlevoix; and Michael and Robert, both of East Jordan; two sisters, Carol "Sue" Murray and her husband, Patrick, of East Jordan; and Judy Mons and her husband, Todd, of East Jordan; and many aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews. Mr. Green was preceded in death by his father, Clifford Sr., on Nov. 11, 1985.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the family. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City.

Daniel G. Kent

Daniel G. Kent, 48, of Central Lake, died Nov. 11, 1994, at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

Funeral was held Nov. 14 at the Central Lake Chapel of Mortensen Funeral Homes with the Rev. David Scott officiating. Committal services, under the auspices of Central Lake Torch Post VFW No. 6985, followed at Southern Cemetery, Central Lake Township.

Mr. Kent was born Jan. 10, 1946, in Charlevoix, the son of Curzon and Amelia (Shaw) Kent. He was raised in Central Lake, and returned in 1988 from Flint.

He served in the U.S. Army and National Guard for a total of 16 years.

He worked for the AC Spark Plug Co. of Rochester until 1983.

He attended the East Flint Nazarene Church.

On July 29, 1978, in Flint, he married Juanita J. (Jackson) Clark, and she survives.

Also surviving are his mother, Amelia Kent of Central Lake; three sons, William A. Clark and his wife, Tina, of Flint; Gregory A. Kent of Clio, and Matthew G. Kent and his wife, Shana, of Clio; one daughter, Barbara J. Jones and her husband, Jeffery, of Flint; one brother, Gerald Kent and his wife, Margo, of East Jordan; two sisters, Beverly Coleman and her husband, Aaron, of Elk Rapids, and Lorna Withey of Central Lake; four grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Church gathers food to meet challenge

The congregation of Bethany Lutheran Church was challenged by Lutheran Brotherhood and Points of Light Foundation to "Make A Difference Day" and the project was to gather food for the local food pantry.

Sunday, Oct. 23, 13 grocery bags and 8 cases of canned goods were brought to church along with more than $300 in cash. Monday morning, Mary Towles and her husband Harold delivered the goods to the delight of the food pantry helpers.

The thought behind "Make A Difference Day" is to realize the potential each of us have if we just spend one day helping someone. The challenge was joined by hundreds of thousands across our nation.

...Reader wants to see the end of DDA tax capture

possible legal action is needed in an attempt to get the State to put its money where its law is? (Case in point, it's Court Funding Law.)

Would the DDA Board, City Manager, City Treasurer and new Mayor all be willing to offer their resignations should the City have to dip into the General Fund or increase the City millage to cover this huge debt?

Do the City of Charlevoix taxpayers need a quick reminder of the DDA - Movie Theater Fiasco? The Kusina property went to the low bidder and not to the high bidder. Isn't it easy to spend tax dollars? The high bidder has already made a huge monetary commitment to Charlevoix. It's been a year now since the deal was made and what has happened? The ex-City official who appointed part of the DDA Board is now the purchaser as an agent. (Explanation - it was done for tax purposes.) Why wasn't the property put up for new bids to protect the taxpayers? This maneuvering has created a great deal of animosity toward the DDA and we are all sure they know it too.

It's a crying shame that things have gotten so far out of hand. What exactly was the purpose of Charlevoix's DDA back in 1982? The original DDA plan states that it was being established to provide $690,000 worth of infrastructure improvements for the Finn/Foichman/Weatherwane projects. The original controversy was that it was supposed to halt property value deterioration, but the City gave up trying to prove this after numerous studies by the City Assessor. Instead, the DDA plan stated that the City Manager conducted a study of downtown Charlevoix in the winter of 1982 and found 25 percent of the stores closed. What did he expect in a resort community? Because of this serious problem the taxpayers have spent close to $3 million and they are now being asked to commit to another $5 plus million.

This entire DDA madness is still based on the misconception that the downtown property values declined at some point. The original DDA plan has been amended three times and its lifetime has been extended to the year 2013.

Each time a change is made, this declining property value logic (The sky is falling mentality), surfaces. Just last February the City council passed a resolution that stated, "The City attributes the current strength of the downtown business district to the continuing efforts of the DDA to prevent deterioration of property values in the downtown district." It's utterly amazing that the DDA is given so much credit for preventing something they couldn't prove existed in the first place!

When the City Council approved the ordinance that extended the DDA until 2013 they stated that they were acting to carry out the purposes (halting declining property values) of the DDA act.

The DDA started out in 1984 with property values around $6 million. Ten years later the DDA is valued at around $18 million. Where are the declining property values the DDA was created for?

City of Charlevoix taxpayers, please don't get too high on Cloud 9 thinking about all the free money from Lansing.

It is time to say ENOUGH to the DDA. Hope to see you all at the polls and thanks for your time.

For the Concerned Citizens Committee.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

For almost a month now, the signs have all been there. Men who are normally clean shaven and well groomed have been nourishing patches of "scruffiness" on their faces. Apples, carrots, and corn that somehow did not make the grade for ordinary household consumption are offered in huge plastic sacks at prices that are hard to ignore. Just when you thought the orange and black of Halloween had been retired for another year, it makes a sudden resurgence for this unique harvest ritual.

For certain young participants, the preparation for the event has meant passing a safety course. They are probably among the most anxious to get the new smell out of their equipment and come back just dirty enough to look like experienced veterans.

There is, of course, the matter of location. Some adventurers have been known to be very "territorial" about where they set up shop. No expense is spared in arranging for their site to "blend in" as much as possible while still offering a limited amount of comfort. They have explored the area thoroughly in search of what they hope is a four legged superhighway that will assure a successful outcome to all their preparations.

Many will come out and say that the thing they love most of all is just being "out there." The thrill of being in place by first light, the crisp morning air or just being away from their usual hangouts supposedly satisfy them: You and I both know better. Let's come right out and say what we've hinted at from the opening line. It's the hunt! They really want their deer.

By the time you read this, the first trophies will have already been bagged. Some folks will have the pictures and be telling everyone they meet. Others will be back in the woods again and again and again until they hopefully succeed. I wish them all well and I pray for their safety.

Just consider one thing. Think about all the things in your life that you are willing to go to great lengths for in order to achieve success. If you're not into hunting, maybe it's fishing. There's more than just a pole and a worm involved for the serious angler. How about golf? Ever price a set of Ping clubs? Let the ladies feel left out, serious seamstresses will amaze you in what goes into the crafts they turn out. The list could go on.

All I ask is that you look at the energies you put into the different leisure activities that fill your life and stack them up against how much you do for the encouragement of your spirit. Prayer cannot only be comforting. It can be fun. The Bible can teach you far more than you may realize. It just takes really reading it. God knows both the serious and the fun side of your life. You might be surprised how much more meaningful each can be when you make Him a concerted part of everything you do. After all, who do you think put the deer out there in the first place?

New features at "Holly Daze"

Shopping just doesn't get any easier or better than this. The Holly Daze committee has arranged for a Holly Trolley to transport shoppers from the downtown area to the elementary school on Friday, November 25, and Saturday, November 26. The Holly Daze event, which benefits the Charlevoix Area Hospital, will run from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, November 27.

This year's event has expanded to include special musical performances on Friday and Saturday. On Sunday at 1:45 the Northern Michigan Youth Orchestra will perform, and at 2:30 the Petoskey Belles, an elite Petoskey High School group, will sing and accompany themselves with bell ringing.

Christmas trees will be displayed by Barb's Hallmark of Charlevoix, Busy Bridge Antiques of East Jordan, an "Angel of Mercy" tree by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nurses, an "Angel Tree" by Ginny Carey, and a Charlevoix Children's House tree. The display trees give great ideas for tree decorating in your home. A decorated Christmas tree by Linda Mason will be available by silent auction.

Holly Daze provides lots of gifts and activities for all ages. Children will be interested in the Kids' Store, with all items costing under $1, face painting, and the Teddy Bear Tea for the little ones on Saturday at 10.

The event will also offer angels and handcrafted items for sale, a bake sale, crafted wreaths, both

Sheriff's Department investigates accidents in Charlevoix County

Speed, alcohol, and recklessness cause two rollovers

Kevin Mousseau, 23, of Charlevoix, was involved in a one vehicle personal injury accident last Saturday at 12:25 a.m. The accident occurred on M-66 Highway west of Shaw Rd. According to the sheriff's report, Mousseau was driving at a high rate of speed when he passed a vehicle west bound, lost control of his car, and rolled several times. Mousseau was thrown about 35 to 40 yards from his vehicle.

Mousseau was driving a 1989 Ford Mustang and was not wearing his seat belt at the time of the accident. Alcohol was also a factor in the accident. Mousseau was transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital by ambulance and later transferred to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey where he was treated for head, neck, chest, and internal injuries. As of Tuesday, Mousseau was reported to be in good condition.

Two young girls were injured in an accident that occurred at 12:01 p.m. Sunday. Crystal Starr, 13, and Crystal Sweet, 12, both of Charlevoix, were thrown from the bed of a pickup truck driven by Richard Lee Starr, 11, 32, of Charlevoix. Starr was arrested for reckless driving. The 1986 Jeep pickup rolled into a ditch off Stolt Road in Hayes Township right after the girls were thrown from the back. Both girls were treated and released from the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The sheriff's department reported that Starr was doing power slides prior to the accident.

Based on the investigation of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the prosecuting attorney authorized a warrant for negligent homicide. The maximum penalty for this crime is two years in jail and/or a $2,000 fine. The driver's name is being withheld at this time until he is arraigned in the 90th District Court in Charlevoix on November 29.

The driver turned himself in to the sheriff's department on November 14.

The driver turned himself in to the sheriff's department on November 14.

T.C. man arrested in fatal accident case

A 20 year old Traverse City man was arrested following the investigation of a fatal accident that occurred on October 23. Michael Joseph Basse, 20, died of head injuries which he received from falling off the hood of a 1977 Oldsmobile which was westbound on Ferry Road near the Ironport Ferry.

IN LESS TIME THAN IT TAKES TO EAT AN APPLE ...

You can help your child improve in school.

A little of your time - every day - will make a much bigger difference in your child's education than you probably realize. Research shows that daily parental interest results in higher school grades, improved attendance, better behavior, greater self-esteem and increased achievement test scores.

Ask about school

- What library book are you reading?
- What was hard today?
- What did you enjoy the most?

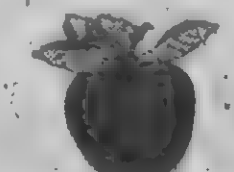

Check homework

- Parents who daily ask about school and check over homework send a powerful message about the value of learning to their children.
- Is your homework finished?
- Are there any long-term projects you should be working on?
- When is your next test?

Talk to the teacher

- Learning. If it's important to you, it's important to them. And that's important to us.
- What can I do at home to help?
- What are my child's strengths and weaknesses?

Christmas project encourages more children to read books

The Charlevoix Bookshop is participating in the Book Angel project this year in cooperation with the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project. The goal of the program is to provide every needy child in the area with a book for the holidays.

The program originated at "That Bookstore" in Blytheville, Arkansas, close to the Missouri border. Owner Mary Gay Shipley distributed 1500 books last year. Because of the enormous success of the program, she wanted to promote a national effort, and contacted Workman Publishing. Workman helped get a national promotion off the ground by distributing angel tags for any bookstore requesting them. Charlevoix Bookshop was one of the first 40 stores to sign up. Now there are more than 700 stores participating.

Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, a group of several Charlevoix churches, gathers names of families with special needs, ranging from clothing to toys to Christmas dinner. The group takes donations during the holiday season to purchase the goods, and distributes them before Christmas. The Book Angel project would add a book for each child to the gifts gathered for the family.

Here's how it works: each child will be represented by an 'angel' hanging from a tree or garland in the store. Charlevoix Bookshop customers may pick an angel with the age and gender of a child from the tree, and purchase an appropriate book at a 20 percent discount. The books are then delivered to the Christmas project for distribution.

Mary Jane Barnwell of the Charlevoix Bookshop hopes parents will encourage their children to come in and shop for an 'angel' book. "It's a great way to teach the importance of giving during the holiday season," Barnwell has promised every child in the program will receive a book.

Organizations, businesses and individuals are invited to call Charlevoix Bookshop for more information, or to pledge either a dollar amount or quantity of books. Mary Jane can be reached at 547-4335.

Rayders recover from slow start for 66-54 win

by L. Scott Swanson

Giving up offensive rebounds to your opponent is poison to a basketball team. From a defensive perspective, you work hard, the offense misses the shot - and then just when things are looking good... Bang! An offensive player sneaks in, gets the rebound and puts the ball back up and in the basket. Pick your expletive! There's nothing more demoralizing, it's a dagger to the heart.

In the second half of a Nov. 8 game against Grayling, Charlevoix forward Liz Kelly burned the visiting team on baskets off of offensive rebounds not once, not twice, but three times as Charlevoix overcame a slow first half and went on to a 66-54 win.

In the opening quarter, Charlevoix's offense looked sad. Liz Grunch hit two three-point shots and Traci Allison scored off a nice pass from Jenny Swenor. That was it. Not only was the Rayder offense not scoring, it was initiating the Grayling offense with turnovers at the top of the key which the Vikings turned into quick points. The Rayder guards did a poor job taking care of the ball and Grayling guard Nicole Parker turned steals into ten first quarter points, outscoring the entire Rayder team. Rayder coach Joe Powers brought Swenor in off the bench midway through the quarter and she helped settle the Rayder offense, but the Rayders still finished the quarter trailing 15-8.

In the second quarter the Rayder offense remained somewhat stagnant, but Grayling wasn't exactly setting off fireworks either. Charlevoix held Grayling scoreless for the first three minutes of the quarter, but only scored six points themselves. The Rayders went into halftime trailing 25-18.

In the third quarter Charlevoix came out like a house a-fire. Guards Jill Dreyer and Angela Buday hadn't played well in the first half, but reformed their ways in the second half. Buday, Dreyer and Kelly combined to score six unanswered points to give the Rayders their first lead of the game and prompt a Grayling time-out. When the teams came back out on the court, Charlevoix picked up where they'd left off. Six seconds after play resumed, Kelly scored off a rebound.

Grayling scored two baskets to go ahead 27-26, but that was to be their last lead of the game. Grunch drained a beautiful rainbow three pointer with 5:16 left in the quarter and just to show that was no fluke, 32 seconds later hit another just like it.

With Charlevoix leading 36-28, Buday turned an eight point lead into a 13 point lead in the space of four seconds. She hit a three-point basket and then scored off a steal to put Charlevoix up 41-28.

Melissa Anderson fouled out late in the third quarter. So Powers sent in the rookie left-hander, recently called up from the farm system, freshman Lisa Parrish. Parrish hit two baskets and forward Kris Blanchard beat the buzzer with a third and Charlevoix went into the fourth quarter leading 47-32.

Grayling closed to within 12 points early in the quarter, but Kelly got a rebound, was fouled and hit two free throws. Beth Norton then sandwiched two baskets around a Grayling basket and the teams pretty much traded baskets the rest of the way. Norton scored six of her eight points in the fourth quarter.

Grunch made a big nuisance of herself to the opponents in a variety of ways, scoring 17 points and coming up with five steals, seven assists and seven rebounds. Kelly ended up with 14 points, 10 rebounds, two steals and two assists. Parker led Grayling with 24 points.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game 43-31. Jenny Eveleigh, who is on a late season roll, led the Rayders with 13 points. Freshman Julie Gregory had 10 points.

Newcomer Zellers wins contest with 9 -1 record

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, November 16, 1994 - PAGE 15

The winner of the tenth week of the Charlevoix Courier football contest was Tonia Zellers, with a 9-1 record.

The games for the coming week are as follows:

Illinois at Wisconsin - Illinois visits the Badgers, a team with a new motto, "Moss doesn't grow after rolling stoned." This game has no effect on the Big 10 championship, but it's still a good college football game between two good teams. Despite more than their share of problems, the Badgers are having a pretty good year. Pick - Wisconsin.

Indiana at Purdue - Another good game between two teams that suffer from being against great competition in the nation's toughest conference. This is the one-notch-to-the-south version of Michigan vs. Michigan State. This should be close, but Purdue's at home. Pick - Purdue.

Iowa at Minnesota - Here are two teams that are evenly matched. Neither of them are doing well this year. Pick - Iowa.

Michigan at Ohio State - Earlier in the year it would have been easy to pick Michigan. Now, you have to eringe a bit, but you can still make the pick. Pick - Michigan.

Auburn at Alabama - Auburn's a great team, but since they're on probation, we're not supposed to know about it. Yet we do. Pick - Auburn.

Utah at Brigham Young - Now remember, earlier in the year Utah goofed us up by beating Colorado State. Do we dare pick against them again? Yes we do. Pick - Brigham Young.

Detroit at Chicago - Detroit is trying to make its annual run at the wildcard spot behind a second string quarterback. What would make a great story is for Krieg to get hurt and have Chuck the prodigal Long come in and lead the team to victory. Yes, that would make a nice story. But... Pick - Chicago.

Green Bay at Buffalo - Do you think Green Bay will be thrown off by the cold weather in Buffalo?

Probably not. Green Bay's the only team in football that looks at a road trip to Buffalo as a chance to play in warmer weather. Pick - Green Bay.

Miami at Pittsburgh - Miami's offense is dinged up and their defense wasn't that good to begin with. Pick - Pittsburgh.

Kansas City at Cleveland - After a good start this year, Cleveland is coming back to earth. Pick - Kansas City.

Bonus pick of the season

This is a two week long endurance game - the deer versus the hunters. The deer have an abundance of players on their team this year, making them easier to pick off. However, the game is being played on the deer's turf, giving them the home field advantage. Warm weather on opening day gave the deer the right to call an immediate time out for napping. Hunters have a hard time finding, then shooting, snoring deer. Lack of snow will also inhibit the hunters' tracking abilities. With the deer napping as a result of warm weather, and the hunters napping as a result of warm spirits, the pick this year goes to the deer.

Reader recalls growing up in Charlevoix

(The following story was submitted by Devere Bird, and contains some of his recollections of growing up in Charlevoix.)

Editor,

At the urging of members of my family, I will try to relate some of my experiences growing up in Charlevoix. My earliest memory is of living on the Dogge Farm which is midway between Charlevoix and Boyne City. I remember visiting a day with Oscar Stroud to help get used to being with other children before attending "Chart Class" at Undine School. Later years, I sometimes rode a horse to school and let the horse go home by itself. I would then walk home after school. Roads were not plowed in the wintertime and travel was by horses and sleighs. Near spring, local farmers used discs to break up the snow and ice so that it would melt faster. I remember the first snowmobile being driven by our mailman to deliver our mail.

Besides doing general farm work and clearing land, my father, Frank Bird, used to cut stove wood and haul it on the ice of Lake Charlevoix, then called Pine Lake, to Charlevoix or Boyne City as a way of generating some extra cash. On the return trip, he usually delivered flour or something else needed in Charlevoix. Travel on the ice was dangerous. Sometimes the ice created ridges five or six feet high and had to be chopped through with an axe so the team of horses could pull the sleigh through. Trip ropes were used to be able to release the team in case the team or sleigh broke through the ice. Usually he came ashore in Charlevoix at the old sugar beet factory, near the Irish boat works and the teams were rested and fed in the basement of the Hooker barn at the corner of Antrim and State Streets.

My father was elected Register of Deeds in 1924 and we moved to 409 Antrim St. I had never seen electric lights or electric light switches before and my brothers Kenneth and Douglas and I were fascinated with them. We almost wore them out before our curiosity was satisfied.

Several years later, my parents almost doubled the size of the house and it was used as a tourist home. We named it the "Bird's Nest." Many people came to Charlevoix at that time not only to escape the heat in the cities but also to get relief from asthma and hay fever. During the winter, after the tourist season, my mother rented the rooms to school teachers. My mother operated a tea room and fed the teachers as well as working in the office with my father. During this period I made many beds and did a lot of laundry. Work was scarce during the early 1930s. I worked at Staley's Hardware for $5 per week during high school. Later I operated a boat and took people sight seeing and fishing.

Charlevoix was a great place to grow up. In the winter, every evening was spent skating on the ice rink that was in front of the old high school building on Mason Street. Winter sports were just beginning at that time. Several people built bob sleds and then iced a path down the south Bridge Street hill and extended it through town, across the bridge and part way up the north hill. The bob sleds carried about twenty-five people. My father had a bob sled built using the principles used by the logging companies. It was fast, light weight and easily handled. Everyone helped pull the bobs back up the hill and then we were off again. I wonder what ever happened to that bob sled.

We spent many days with toboggans and skis at Mt. McSaba. No improvements had been made at that time and the main idea was to see how fast one could go and not break something.

Living at the Bird's Nest meant that it was just a few steps by the beach and Lake Michigan and we missed very few days in the water.

I left Charlevoix in 1934, after attending Parsons Business School in Kalamazoo for two years, at a total cost of $590 and that was all I had.

After graduation, I entered the life insurance business and have been in that business for 56 years, living most of that time in Adrian, Michigan. I was married for 52 years and have four wonderful children. After my wife's death in 1986, I married the former Eberdean LaBlance Livingston, who lived across the street from the Bird's Nest during our growing up years. Charlevoix was very good to me and I am most appreciative of the experiences and friendships it afforded me.

...Charlevoix DDA offers end to tax capture

would be city tax dollars and any grant money the program could secure. Barron noted that in the past, Don Smith, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, has said that he favors completion of the Bridge Park project. The adoption of the proposed contract would allow that to happen.

DDA board member Bill Supernaw asked who the DDA is "trying to pacify" in adopting the proposed agreement. City attorney Jim Young said the DDA stands to benefit in a number of ways from the agreement. Young said that first, and foremost, the agreement could help get the bond proposal passed by voters. It could also help resolve any conflict with the county and eliminate the threat of litigation, consequently making the bonds more saleable at a better interest rate. It's more than just pacifying people, Young said. It's a matter of eliminating pending controversy, resolving issues and determining the future course of the DDA program.

The proposed contract will now be forwarded to the City Council, County Commissioners, ISD board, and Charlevoix Board of Education for their consideration.

In addition to accepting the proposed contract, the DDA board also adopted a statement of policy indicating that money from the bond proposal must first be used to complete the Bridge Park project. Only after completion of that project, may bond revenues, if any are left over, be used for other eligible DDA projects.

...East Jordan DDA boundary questioned

they should first go to the city attorney and come up with a new plan. Then they should meet with Equalization and re-adjust the lines, then go to the DDA and see what kind of an impact it would have on the plan. Mr. Sweet isn't doing that. He's trying to do the middle of the crossword puzzle first."

Differences exist between DDAs

Charlevoix County Commissioner Chairman Don Smith was singing a different tune when he told Brian Sweet he would support East Jordan's DDA if a few matters were resolved. "I think the DDA law was intended for cities like East Jordan," Smith said. It was unusual to hear Smith speak in favor of a Downtown Development Authority. Smith has been at lock-horns with the Charlevoix DDA for years. Smith's stipulations to the East Jordan DDA are that he wants a specific project list, an end date for the DDA, and mutually agreeable boundary lines. Smith may not be in any position to demand these conditions. The East Jordan DDA was legally formed under the old DDA law and the boundary lines they currently have are also legal. The DDA doesn't need county approval to go ahead and capture revenue from county taxes. East Jordan would be in a position to capture revenue from Grandview, the county transit department, and 9-1-1. DDAs capturing money from these county millages has been a source of irritation to Smith. Charlevoix's DDA is capturing money from these taxing entities; and can continue to do so until the year 2013. Smith is hoping that the Charlevoix DDA will live up to the old agreement with the county that terminates the capture of county revenue in 1998. According to Dan Barton, a DDA board member, that won't be the case. Property tax reform nullified any prior agreements. And while the Charlevoix DDA may want to give money back to the county for Grandview or 9-1-1, their hands are tied by the new state law. If the DDA gives any portion of money back to one taxing entity, then they must give the same proportionate amount back to all taxing entities. That won't happen, according to Barron.

It was unusually warm on November 14, but not quite warm enough for boating. Paul Hoadley, left, and his brother Art pulled their boat out of the water under sunny skies. "This is it - the end of the season," Hoadley said. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

If the DDA Bond Referendum passes ...
+ Charlevoix will receive $240,000 per year from the State of Michigan.
+ Taxes will not increase!

If the DDA Bond Referendum does not pass ...
- Charlevoix will receive $0 per year from the State of Michigan.
- Taxes or sewer fees will increase!

WHY??

1. The sewer digester in Bridge Park is outdated and must be removed.
2. It will cost $1,000,000 to remove the sewer digester.
3. No state funds will be available to pay for removal of the digester unless the DDA Bond Referendum passes.

Welcome home, Acacia!

By Laurie Lounsbury

Many thanks will be given around the tables of Coast Guard families this Thanksgiving. The Acacia and crew made it back without mishaps - and without being involved in a war. Acacia Commander Steve Corporan summed up the excursion when he said, "Everyone performed almost flawlessly. Needless to say, I'm pretty proud of my boys."

The sun broke through the clouds and beamed down on the Acacia as it approached the Pine River Channel. The Acacia sailed back into its home port last Thursday after spending nearly three months in the Caribbean. Wives, mothers, and toddlers ran the length of the pier to greet the crew as the song, "The Boys are Back In Town" blared over the boat's speaker system.

The trip, as Boatswain's Mate Chief Joe Travers put it, was, "a National Geographic experience. The magazine should have been there to cover it." Travers was struck by the primitive lifestyles and poverty he saw in Haiti. "We read about African people living like that in the National Geographic, but you don't expect to see it on this side of the world." He was moved by the people and their gratitude for the United States' military presence. "It was definitely a worthwhile experience. I'd do it again. Just seeing the looks on the people's faces was worth it." Travers said, adding, "We (the United States) needed to go there." Travers saw more than gratitude

...Acacia returns from Haitian mission

in the Haitian people's expressions. He saw the look of amazement on the faces of native fishermen as they approached the Acacia. The Haitians were fishing in dug-out canoes, using hand-made wicker fish traps. They would paddle up alongside of the Acacia as the boat was setting buoys and tap on the hull, trying to figure out what the boat was made of. After the Acacia crew set the buoy, the fishermen would paddle over and tap on the buoy too, curious to see what it was.

When the Acacia crew set sail for the Caribbean Aug. 26, they didn't know precisely where they would be going or what they would be doing. The Acacia crew suspected that they might be assigned the task of picking up Cuban refugees. "There were only two rafts picked up with a total of four Cuban refugees on it by the time we got down there," Travers said.

Many of the Coast Guard ships in the area were assigned to box watches, where the boat cruises in a designated box-shaped area. When on a box watch, the cutters would stop any vessels that entered the area and check to make sure the boat had a proper reason to be in the area. The Acacia did a couple of box watches, but spent most of their time setting buoys and marking channels for the incoming fleet of ships that were part of Operation Uphold Democracy. Corporan said when they arrived at the port of Miragoane, there wasn't a single buoy or navigational device in the area.

The Acacia was the first boat to arrive at Miragoane, to find the town completely without electricity. "We did mount machine guns since we were the first one in," Corporan said, adding that the machine guns were not fired, but were put in place to alert any hostile parties that they were armed. The Acacia also assisted other branches of the military in setting up port security and delivering equipment supplies to Camp Haitian. "The guys did an excellent job - there were very few complaints. They were happy to be doing something other than box watches," Travers said.

Corporan noted that the Acacia crew traveled 4,000 miles to get to Haiti, then put another 4,000 miles on the cutter while working in the Caribbean, followed by the 4,000 mile return trip home. "We were underway all but one day, and the guys did fantastic. No one ever balked, they just did the work we had to do," Corporan said.

The Acacia crew never set foot on the island of Haiti. Marines and the army controlled the piers, which were wired off for security reasons. The crew did get some shore leave time in Bermuda as they headed back home.

The weather in Haiti ranged from 75 to 101 degrees, with humidity running high almost all the time. When the Acacia crew hopped off the boat in Charlevoix, a reporter asked them how it felt to be back in Charlevoix. One crewman quickly responded, "It feels cold." Temperatures may have been cold, but their homecoming was a warm and welcome event.

Lack of sewer hook-up discovered after 14 years

Courtesy TAMARA STEVENS
Petoskey News-Review

A city resident who faithfully paid her sewer bill for 14 years — only to find out she was never hooked up to the city sewer system — got the matter flushed out by contacting her city councilman.

Leigh A. Lovell, of 1001 St. John's St., discovered in July her house was not attached to the city sewer. Her washing machine backed up and a plumber realized the house was on a septic tank. Lovell had paid nearly $2,400 in sewer bills since purchasing the house in 1977.

After contacting several city officials, including the city manager, treasurer and street department supervisor, and getting nowhere, Lovell contacted Bruce Reid, 3rd Ward. He brought the matter up with city council Monday night.

Lovell did not ask for a refund or special treatment, but simply wanted the city to assist her in getting her house hooked up to the city sewer system.

Council decided to apply $1,000 of the money Lovell has paid toward the tap in fee to hook her up to the city system. The remaining money, about $1,400, will be returned to Lovell to help her pay for sewer lines from her house to her property line, something all homeowners are responsible for.

Council was presided over by the city's new mayor, Josh Barnes, who was installed prior to the meeting along with new 2nd Ward councilman Gabe Campbell, who replaced Ted Felter.

Barnes said he recalled that when the city constructed the sewer system in 1973, residents were required to sign up and pay for sewer, and pay for their own hookups.

Alvin "Butch" Russell, 2nd Ward, asked city manager Mike Wiesner if council had discussed a similar situation several years ago, and were there more cases like this one that may come up again.

Wiesner said there had been similar problems in the past, but the city has little way of knowing who is on sewer and who isn't.

Council passed a provision that states because this particular case was an honest mistake, the city would reimburse the homeowner.

In other business, the council asked chief of police Dennis Halverson and city attorney James Young to outline a proposal with restrictions regarding in-line skating in the city as a result of a public hearing.

Chris and Mary DeNio, 108 W. Upright St., spoke on behalf of their son, Cory, who was issued a ticket by city police this summer for skating across Bridge Street near Belvedere Avenue. Cory had to appear in probate court, where the case was thrown out.

EDITH

by EDITH GILBERT

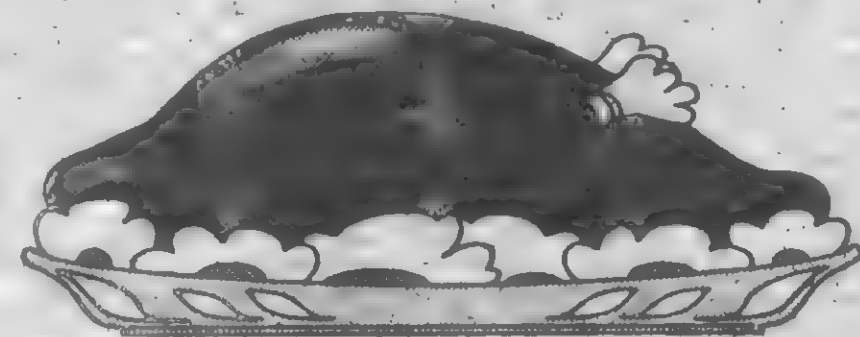

Thanksgiving tradition in our family includes more than just savoring a turkey stuffed with chestnut dressing. Every year we read a letter that my mother wrote to me from Beverly Hills, California, over thirty years ago. No matter how many unsuspecting guests are present, we all end up laughing sympathetically over her days' events on that long ago, but unforgettable Thanksgiving Day.

It all started smoothly. Mother wrote that her table is set, the turkey is in the oven, her Bing cherry fruiting laced with brandy is in the refrigerator, when the phone rings. It seems that Aunt Jeanette has just arrived in San Pedro on a cruise boat and wants to surprise Mother for Thanksgiving.

"Wonderful!" my mother exclaims, resetting the table for one extra person. Including my sister, her husband Jerry, his mother and three small children, Walter age 4, Janet age 2 and baby Peter, there would altogether be five adults and three children.

At the appointed hour the doorbell rings and Aunt Jeanette is helping her sister Kate over the threshold, saying, "Kate had a slight accident on the boat and she needs a doctor right away."

Mother did not expect sister Kate. Nevertheless, Mother makes numerous calls to emergency rooms and hospitals and finally arranges for a doctor to see Kate in his office. Upon examination, the doctor advises they go to the Professional Building nearby where they give Kate a sedative, take x-rays and learn that Kate has a broken shoulder. She had slipped in the hall of the ship and tried to catch herself on the railing and broken her shoulder.

In the meantime my sister and her family arrive with Grandma Smith, who gets out of the car with a bleeding nose! She had slipped getting into the car and fell on her face. She is helped into the house, calmed down and her face washed when the phone rings and the Doctor calls that someone should pick up Kate.

By this time, Aunt Jeanette has taken a couple of Scotchies on an empty stomach and can't go to pick up her sister. So Jerry goes for her. Upon their return, Mother says, "Let's eat." She steps into the kitchen and finds that two-year old Janet had turned the gas on high and the red cabbage is badly burned.

Then Mother hears the children screaming. She finds that Janet and Walter had locked themselves into the bathroom and can't get out. The only thing to do is for "someone to climb through the window — but the windows were stuck. After much hammering and pushing, my sister opens the window and climbs into the bathroom and unlocks the door.

Finally, everyone sits down to eat, but not at the table. They eat wherever they feel like eating. After dinner, the older children fall asleep and mother realized they had eaten the cherries from her fruiting laced with brandy and are slightly tipsy! About nine o'clock my sister, and her family, with the baby crying for his bottle, decide it's time to go home. They bid everyone good night and leave.

But not for long. Their car won't start. Mother knows it will take time if they call the Automobile Club on Thanksgiving, and she can't face another hour or more with the little family, so she gives Jerry her car keys, and off they drive.

In the meantime, Aunt Jeanette has soothed her nerves with some more Scotch, and her sister Kate is bemoaning her predicament. Both comfort each other and weep. Mother doesn't care. She is tired and wants to go to bed. It is two o'clock when Mother finally has both sisters tucked in for the night.

She concluded her letter, "I will remember this Thanksgiving Day as long as I live. Wouldn't you?"

Editorial

Beware of politicians and bureaucrats rewriting history.

A recent news-release from the Michigan Department of Treasury noted that Michigan's Real Estate Transfer tax of .075 percent on the sale of property takes effect Jan. 1, 1995. The added state real estate transfer tax was part of the Proposal A educational finance reform package passed by voters March 15. The state tax will be added to the existing county transfer tax to make the total transfer tax 0.86 percent of the property's sale price.

The news release goes on to say: "As part of the financing package for schools, Michigan residents received an annual cut in their very high property taxes. As part of the replacement revenues for this cut, we now have a one-time real estate transfer tax that is only paid at the time a property is sold," noted State Treasurer Douglas B. Roberts.

He added, "Most homeowners were paying three to four percent in property taxes each and every year. Now, they pay much less in annual property taxes and pay less than one percent when they sell their property. Property owners are obviously better off now in terms of their tax liability than they were before Proposal A passed."

Now what's missing from Mr. Roberts' quote?

He conveniently neglects to mention that while Proposal A decreased property taxes, it also increased sales taxes from four percent to six percent. He also doesn't mention that the property tax decrease in many cases is negligible for non-homesteaded property.

The bottom line here is that Roberts is only telling half of the story. And he's certainly not the first or only state official who has done that, particularly on Proposal A. The surprising thing is that a lot of people have accepted this historical revision. National media, such as CNN, have referred to Proposal A as a large tax cut. They referred to it as a large tax cut because that's what state officials told them it was. A little more research would have told them it was more of a tax shift than a tax cut.

The issue here isn't so much whether Proposal A is good or bad. The issue here is more general. The issue here is the revision of history. When the public sees legislators and bureaucrats painting a picture which seems too rosy, they must view that picture with a critical eye. It's vitally important that the public has an accurate understanding of what has gone on in the past because that is what forms the foundation for the future.

DDA bond proposal should be supported

Editor,

On Thursday, Dec. 8 the voters of the City of Charlevoix will vote on a DDA Referendum to sell bonds for improvement to Bridge Park.

The money to pay off these bonds will come from the State of Michigan. This money will cover both the principal and interest of these bonds.

Why is the State of Michigan funding this project? It goes back to when Governor Engler was pushing for School Tax Reform (Proposal A). He knew he needed the votes out of Detroit so he approached Mayor Archer and asked for his support. Mayor Archer agreed to support Proposal A if the State would fund DDA projects which were in the process of being implemented. There was an agreement made and Proposal A was passed.

This put the City of Charlevoix in line to receive State money for any project which has passed the planning stage and had been engineered. The Charlevoix DDA had completed these stages on the Bridge Park project and became eligible for funding.

This money can only be used for projects which have completed the State criteria. It cannot be funneled to other projects. A YES vote on the DDA Bond Referendum will not increase city taxes and a NO vote will not decrease city taxes. A NO vote could indirectly increase city taxes or city sewer rates due to the need to move the out-dated sewage digester.

The estimated cost of a new digester is in excess of $950,000. Which would be better, have the State of Michigan give us a new digester or let the tax payers or rate payers foot the entire bill?

What if the State defaults on their obligation to pay off the bonds? There are over 20 cities in the State of Michigan who qualify for this money and all the bonds will be sold together on the open market. It would be political suicide for our elected State officials to let the State default on payment of these bonds with so many cities involved. Remember Proposal A was voted in by the people of Michigan, and like our State Constitution these funds are guaranteed.

For years, we the citizens of the City of Charlevoix have been sending tax dollars to the State of Michigan with a return of less than 50 cents on the dollar while many large metropolitan areas have been receiving over a dollar for every dollar sent to the State.

It does not make sense to refuse this opportunity to have Bridge Park partially funded with State funds that have been allocated and will be distributed to eligible communities that apply for this assistance.

I urge you to vote YES on the Bond Proposal on Thursday, Dec. 8.

Sincerely,
Ken Staley, Mayor 1982-84
Charlevoix the Beautiful

(Editor's note: A portion, not all, of the money to pay off the bonds will come from the State of Michigan. That portion will be the equivalent of the money the DDA was receiving from school millage levies, but will no longer receive due to Proposal A school finance reform.)

Pine River Place is a great place to live

Editor,

We recently moved to Pine River Place and would like to say that we appreciate the efforts of the management and staff in keeping it such a nice place to live.

We are happy to be there.
Sincerely,
Dale and Julie Martin

The term "hunting" is a misnomer

Editor,

Let's stop dishonoring deer hunters. Let the whining Bambi lovers, tree huggers, enviro-freaks and their ilk stop bashing the noble deer hunter. Why? Deer "hunting" hardly exists any more. Just check out the Random House Unabridged

Dictionary definition of the transitive verb, hunt - "To seek out and pursue game for food or sport, to pursue with intent to capture or kill something, attempt to find something, to search out, synonyms: chase, run."

Hey, folks, we're talking Daniel Day Lewis running full tilt through the forest after a stag, as in the recent film, "The Last of the Mohicans." Ladies, I ask you to visualize for a moment, your husband or boyfriend prancing full tilt through the woods in hot pursuit of a deer. Right! I'm laughing too! O.K. Put the old fella back in his lazy boy and hand him his remote. There. That's better.

No. He's not a hunter is he? So what is he? Like all us us, he is what he does.

Does he feed deer? Does he sit down by a bait pile? Does he use terms that a rancher or a farmer would use such as: herd, crop, harvest, stock, feed, trim the herd, breed? You know he does. So what do these terms call to our minds? Right again, Farmers feed and stock. Ranchers trim the herd and concern themselves with breeding.

So let's call these ample bellies out of shape good-ole' boys what they are. Let's put the nouns farmer and rancher together. What have we now? FANCHERS!

Farmers harvest their crops, produce carrots, beets, apples and such to feed the stock, the herd. Ranchers also have herds, concern themselves with breeding and trim the herds. So let's call folks who feed deer and/or sit in a blind or tree with their heaters, food and such and who talk of deer being a crop signs of the next stage of Fanching can be seen. Private, stocked hunting areas. Free transport and lodging therein. Sooner than you think, huge Fancher complexes will be set up offering semi-loads of bait on site, blinds with heat and toilets, beaters to force the livestock (deer) to the sitters/fanchers. ORV's to hurry the carcasses to on-site butchering facilities; photo shops where the sitters/fanchers can pose with their ravishing beasts they subdued with their very own little guns and shuttle service to nearby parking areas and airfields with on-site gambling, boozing and eating facilities.

So folks; Let's leave the one or two remaining hunters in our state alone. Concentrate instead on FANCHERS.

MDOT thanks drivers for their patience

Editor,

This letter is to thank you and your readers for your support and your patience during this record-breaking construction season. The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) worked diligently to improve transportation services in our area. MDOT district staff appreciates the manner in which the media provided up-to-date construction information and news on projects. We would also like to thank motorists for their patience and cooperation.

Under Governor Engler's Build Michigan plan, MDOT partnerships with contractors, communities and counties have resulted in improvements for over 1,000 miles of Michigan roadways, nearly doubling previous improvement goals. We will continue supporting Michigan's growing economy and global competitive position.

We thank all motorists for their cooperation and patience in our district's construction zones and throughout the state. We are committed to improving the roadways and we will continue to do our best to keep motorists, residents and businesses abreast of road improvements designed to meet transportation and safety needs.

Sincerely,
Thomas A. Coleman
District Engineer

FAMILY

Tyler - Allard

Mr. & Mrs. Lee Allard

Jennifer Tyler of Ann Arbor and Lee Allard of Ann Arbor were married in an afternoon wedding on May 28. The service took place at the First Presbyterian Church in Niles, with Pastor John DeSanto performing the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Kathryn and Thomas Tyler of Granger, Indiana. The groom is the son of Sandy and Fritz Allard of Charlevoix.

The wedding was attended by 275 guests. Thomas Tyler, father of the bride, escorted the bride to the altar.

Diana Bartholomew was the vocalist for the service, with Walter Ginter providing the organ accompaniment.

Kathryn Tyler, mother of the bride, acted as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Christy Brannham, Rebecca Budd, and Suzanne Lucey.

Best man was Fritz Allard, father of the groom. Matt Peterson, John Tunison, and Bill Taylor were groomsmen.

Ushers were Shawn Hartnett, brother of the groom, and Terry Tyler, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Knollwood Country Club in Granger, Indiana.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Tippecanoe Place in South Bend, Indiana.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to go white water rafting in Moab, Utah. They are making their home in Ann Arbor.

The bride is currently working on an M.S. degree in industrial engineering and an M.B.A. degree at the University of Michigan.

The groom works for Compuware Corporation of Farmington Hills as a technical consultant.

obituaries Nick DeYoung

Nicholas B. DeYoung, 48, of Charlevoix, died Nov. 21, 1994, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral will be 10 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 23, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. William McKeon and the Rev. Thomas Neis will officiate. Burial will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. DeYoung was born Sept. 29, 1946, in Charlevoix, the son of Harold B. and Marie (VanZant) DeYoung. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1964, and from Western Michigan University in 1969.

Mr. DeYoung had been employed by Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. since high school. After graduating from college, he became a land surveyor. In 1973, he established himself as a self-employed land surveyor.

On June 28, 1969, he married Geri Bedrick in Petoskey, and she survives.

Mr. DeYoung loved to golf, bowl and play tennis. He was active with the Charlevoix High School Sports Boosters.

Survivors include his wife, Geri, of Charlevoix; two sons, Scott N. of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Chad M. of Charlevoix; four brothers, Terry and his wife, Linda, of Fremont, Calif., Tom and his wife, Maria, of Detroit, Bob of Lansing, and Randy and his wife, Renee, of Charlevoix; his father, Harold DeYoung of Charlevoix; and his father-in-law, Lawrence Bedrick and his wife, Pat, of Petoskey.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the DeYoung Family Education Fund. Envelopes for memorial contributions will be available at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, or at St. Mary's Church.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Virginia N. Anderson

Former Chicago resident, Virginia N. Anderson, 90, died Nov. 16 at her home in Charlevoix. She is survived by her four children, Robert N. Anderson of Naperville, Illinois, Mrs. Norton C. (Mary Ann) Wheeler of Mystic, Connecticut, Mrs. John R. (Barbara) Danly of Charlevoix and Roger Y. Anderson of Albuquerque, New Mexico. She is also survived by her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Her husband, John, preceded her in death in 1957. A private memorial service and burial took place in Batavia, Illinois. Arrangements were made by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

C.E. Greeley

C.E. Greeley, 76, father of former Charlevoix resident Michael A. Greeley, died Nov. 19, 1994, at his home in Cincinnati, Ohio. Funeral will be Wednesday, Nov. 23, at the T.P. Whyte & Son Funeral Home in Cincinnati.

Mr. Greeley was born July 28, 1918, in Cincinnati, where he grew up and attended school. He studied electrical engineering at the University of Cincinnati.

In March 1942, he married Mary-on E. Aerni, and she preceded him in death in 1988.

Mr. Greeley served in the U.S. Navy in the Pacific during World War II, and was employed by Cincinnati Milacron for 45 years. He retired in 1981.

Survivors include a son, Michael of Muskegon; a daughter, Patricia Carlson of Clarkston; three grandchildren; and a sister, Dorothy Haehle of Cincinnati.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Shriners Burn Hospital, 3229 Burnet, Cincinnati, Ohio 45229, or to the Little Traverse Conservancy.

Thanksgiving service scheduled

Bethany Lutheran Church will host a Thanksgiving Eve Service with Holy Communion at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Saturday, Dec. 3 the ladies of Bethany will again sponsor their annual Christmas Cookie Walk beginning at 10 a.m. in Fellowship Hall at the church. The community is invited to come and fill the decorated coffee cans which will be offered at $5, $7 and $10. Matching funds are being applied for through Lutheran Brotherhood Cherry Land Branch #8318. This year's matching fund check was given to the church for the new piano fund.

Advent services will begin Wednesday, Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. with Holy Communion. Christmas Eve will feature two services: an early one at 7 p.m. and the Candle-lit service at 11 p.m.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. MERLE WELLHOUSEN

Each year our nation has set aside the fourth Thursday to celebrate Thanksgiving Day. The question I want to ask is: "Do we need to have a national day of Thanksgiving?" Let us first look at this question historically. Throughout the years, our attention has been drawn to the first Thanksgiving where the pilgrims praised God for all of His blessings upon them. They realized that God made the ground, the seed, the laws of nature which cause the seed to grow, the sun, the rain, even the ability to know how to grow the crops all came from God — so they sat down and thanked God for His blessing.

Over the years, some people have sought to re-write history to remove God from the lives of our founding fathers; however, God was the recipient of the thanks of the first celebrants of Thanksgiving. Today, this writer feels it would be appropriate if not obligatory to go back to the Source and thank God for all of His blessings to us. We have freedom to elect any leader we choose; we can worship regularly at the church we prefer; the Bible is translated in our own language so we can read and study it so we can get to know God better; we can own our own house and land; and we can be just about anything we want to work hard enough to be. All because of the freedom we enjoy in this nation because God has blessed us.

This brings me to a story I heard a few years ago. The United States Postal Service receives thousands of letters each year from children telling Santa Claus what they would like for Christmas. This particular year they received their "usual" Christmas letters to Santa with one exception: After Christmas they received one postcard dated after December 25th, which was addressed to Santa. This card said, "Thank-you Santa for the ... Of the thousands of "give-me" letters sent, only one child thought to stop and say "thank-you."

This brings me back to my initial question: "Do we need a National Day of Thanksgiving?" YOU BET! We are blessed! It is very easy to take for granted all our "freedoms" until they are taken away. This Thanksgiving and every one to follow, remember to give thanks to the source of all you have.

(Rev. Merle Wellhausen is pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Wellhausen and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Seminar explains international standards for manufacturers

ISO-9000. The term refers to a set of international standards designed to insure production of quality goods and services worldwide. Most large corporations have already implemented ISO-9000 systems, but smaller manufacturing firms often are intimidated by the regulations and paperwork required, reports manufacturing consultant and standards specialist Jerry Stanbrough.

To clear up misconceptions about ISO-9000 and provide an explanation of the registration process, the Institute for Business and Industry Training, a division of North Central Michigan College, is sponsoring a one-day seminar entitled "In-terpretational ISO-9000." On Dec. 9 in the NCMC Conference Rooms, Stanbrough will present an overview of the system for quality control that is now required by 75 countries worldwide as well as by all U.S. automotive and communications corporations.

"It's important for companies to understand that this system will benefit them," emphasizes Stanbrough. "It's not just a matter of preparing the paperwork to register. The process provides a way for firms to analyze their operation, increase efficiency, improve employee involvement and become more profitable."

standards, ISO-9000 provides the framework for establishing or enhancing their own quality control program, adds Stanbrough.

"Many manufacturers are concerned about revealing trade secrets, but the process is not product specific," stresses Stanbrough who has worked with Westinghouse Electric, Motorola and ANTEC Cable Systems.

The ISO-9000 seminar from 1:30-4:30 p.m. on Dec. 9 costs $49. For registration forms or information, please call the Institute for Business and Industry Training at North Central Michigan College (616) 348-6613.

Nature turns ugly

The popular saying in northern Michigan is, "If you don't like the weather, wait a minute - it will change." Last week's weather was a fitting example of that. The week started with warm, calm weather and ended when the gales of November came stealing.

(Photos by Laurie Lounsbury)

The Coast Guard launch pounded through the waves on Lake Michigan. The boat was almost completely obscured from view by the spray.

Monday morning we woke to the sight of thick, white frost covering the landscape. By noon, the frost had been melted by warm sunshine - By afternoon, folks were walking around town in short-sleeved shirts.

The gales of November sneaked up on everyone Friday morning. The day started with bright sunshine, warm temperatures and a stiff breeze. By afternoon the breeze escalated to hurricane levels, crashing waves against the north pier under gloomy, gray skies.

Tuesday evening the air was so still that Lake Michigan made a perfect mirror for the reflection of Medusa's lights.

This tree on Michigan Avenue lost a major limb in the high winds.

...roller blades discussed

The city of Charlevoix does not allow bicycles (the ordinance police use to govern the use of in-line skates) on sidewalks in the downtown area or on streets elsewhere.

The DeNios asked the city to consider changing their restrictions on skating on side streets or to designate an area in the city where children and adults could skate without retribution from law enforcement officials.

Halverson said the matter was a safety issue, and that skaters and cars should not share the same roadway. He said the uniform traffic code considers in-line skates to be a "toy" similar to a skateboard, and gives them no more authority than a pedestrian.

John Cross, 3rd Ward councilman, recommended designating a route through town similar to the way the city handles snowmobiles.

Halverson said a designated skating route would be difficult to control.

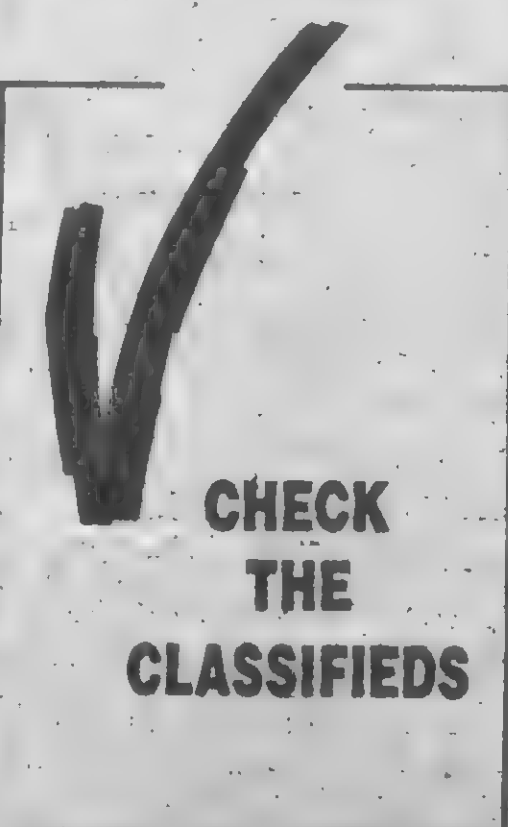

"The typical complaint we receive is that roller bladers won't yield to cars and don't follow the traffic laws," Halverson said.

Halverson said the complaints his department receives greatly outweigh the number of advocates he hears from.

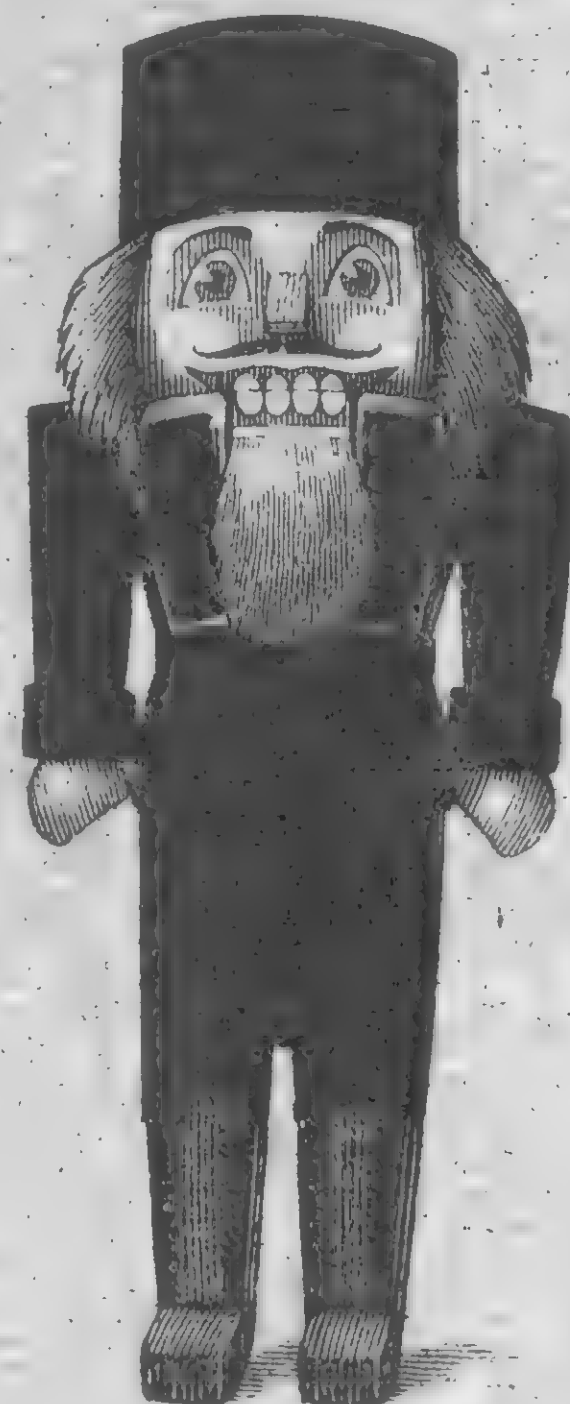

The proposed outline will be presented to the council in January.

Wild Side to host open house

From the Wild Side, a business located on Old Norwood Road will host a holiday open house from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 26. There will be door prizes and herbal things to eat. A portion of the proceeds from the day's sales will benefit the Sunshine Club after-school day care program.

Yeah, we're for real!

Rayders advance to Regional finals

by L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix Rayders entered the girls' Regional Basketball Tournament in Clare with a record of 15-6. The team they opened against Monday evening came into the tournament with a record of 21-0, a 6'3" center, an all state guard, a ranking of number two in state polls and the initials W-P. The initials W-P stand for Whittemore-Prescott, but as far as the Rayders were concerned all that ranking stuff and the W-P might as well have stood for Whoopie-Poop because the Rayders came to play and when the dust had settled had claimed a 79-72 victory.

After beating the number two ranked Class C team in the state, Rayder coach Joe Powers was asked if his team was ranked anywhere in the polls. His one word answer: "Nope."

When W-P's 6'3" tall center lined up for the opening tip and looked down at Charlevoix's Liz Kelly, all 5'5" of her, she probably didn't realize that was the last chance she'd have to get a good look at Kelly. Once play began, Kelly became nothing but a blur to the W-P defense. With some excellent passes from her teammates and quick and decisive cuts with the ball, Kelly operated with impunity in the lane and scored 20 points for the game.

After the game, Powers said that in preparing for the game, "I told Liz Kelly there's no post (player) anywhere that can stop you."

Charlevoix got off to a bit of a slow start in the game, trailing 9-3 midway through the first quarter, then getting three baskets in less than 30 seconds to force a W-P time-out.

Powers said that falling behind by as many as seven points in the first quarter really didn't bother him. "We're used to being behind in the first half. Our game is the whole game." He said that his goal was to be within five points, either ahead or behind, at halftime.

Although Charlevoix sacrificed size, they played more aggressively than W-P. Charlevoix's post players, Kelly, Kris Blanchard, Melissa Anderson and Lisa Parrish combined for 44 points on the night. Blanchard and Kelly relied on quickness and guile while Anderson and Parrish moved bodies. Anderson came off the bench in the first quarter and promptly made it clear that she intended to take no prisoners in the lane. Playing aggressive, yet clean, at both ends of the floor during the course of the game she ended up being involved in four plays where somebody hit the floor. On three of them, she was still standing.

"Melissa Anderson played super. She played strong and aggressive," Powers said following the game.

The first quarter ended with Charlevoix down 20-18. The Rayders quickly took the lead in the second quarter on two three-point baskets by Liz Grunch. For much of the remainder of the half the teams essentially traded baskets.

All-state guard Jill Tunney hurt the Angela Buday (10) nearly brought rain with this three-point basket in the first half of Charlevoix's regional win at Clare. Buday had seven points for the game.

Charlevoix players and coach Joe Powers celebrated Monday evening after knocking off Whittemore-Prescott 79-72 in the opening game of the Regional basketball Tournament in Clare.

Jill Dreyer sets up for a shot in the second half of Charlevoix's upset of Whittemore-Prescott. Dreyer played her normal killer defense and scored just enough to keep the Whittemore-Prescott defense honest.

Liz Grunch (54) and Jill Tunney (20) both turned in stellar performances in the regional opener Monday evening. Grunch had 18 points to go with two critical rebounds late in the game. Tunney had 17 points in the first half and 25 for the game.

Kris Blanchard (34) leaves a Whittemore-Prescott player sliding on the floor as she goes to the basket. Blanchard had a dozen points and played an excellent defensive game for the Rayders.

Gilbert Ice wins contest in tie-breaker

Gilbert Ice won the Charlevoix Courier football contest in one of the closest contests of the season. Ice, Mark Fiegel and Mike Webb all went 7-3 sending the competition to a tie-breaker. The tie-breaker was the total number of points scored in the Indiana and Purdue game. The total was 62. Webb guessed 65, Fiegel 60 and Ice 61.

Overall the contestants in this past week's contest turned in an ugly performance. The Courier Guru was a mere 5-5, but that was better than many other people fared.

This week's games are all easy. There will probably be half a dozen people who go 10-0 ... well, maybe not.

Nebraska at Oklahoma. This used to be a bigger game in past years, but Oklahoma's program isn't what it once was. Despite injuries, Nebraska is having a big year. Pick - Nebraska.

Michigan State University at Penn State - Could MSU pull off a big upset and give George Perles a grand send off? Nah. Pick - Penn State.

Boston College at Miami. Boston College is known for upsets. But they won't get one in Florida. Pick - Miami.

Florida at Florida State. Spurrier at Florida and Bowden at Florida State are two of the best college coaches around. Give Florida State the edge due to the home field advantage. Pick - Florida State.

Philadelphia at Atlanta. Neither of these teams is particularly consistent, but Randall is a real quarterback while Jeff George is over rated. Pick - Philadelphia.

L.A. Raiders at Pittsburgh. This should be a fun game to watch. Both of these teams can play real well or real bad. Next year could be different, but for this year... Pick - Pittsburgh.

New England at Indianapolis. Two of the best young players in the game, Drew Bledsoe and Marshall Faulk. In many ways, the players are about equal, but New England has a better coach. Pick - New England.

Chicago at Arizona - Both of these teams are coming around. Wannstadt has done a nice job at Chicago - a much better job than Fontes has done at Detroit. Pick - Chicago.

Cincinnati at Denver - Cincinnati made a good move when they changed quarterbacks earlier this year. Denver made a good move when they started playing better defense. Pick - Denver.

Hunting season in 100th year

The current deer season marks Michigan's one hundredth year of licensed deer hunting.

"This is a landmark in the responsible management of wildlife for public benefit," said Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harmes. "By commemorating this one hundredth licensed deer season, we're recognizing an important part of our Michigan heritage."

Before the end of the previous century, there were no regulations on the killing of deer. Early Michigan residents depended on deer for hides and food, and deer were taken by whatever means were practical. Snares and deadfalls were common, dogs were used to drive deer out of thickets, and deer were shot at night and while swimming or mired in deep snow.

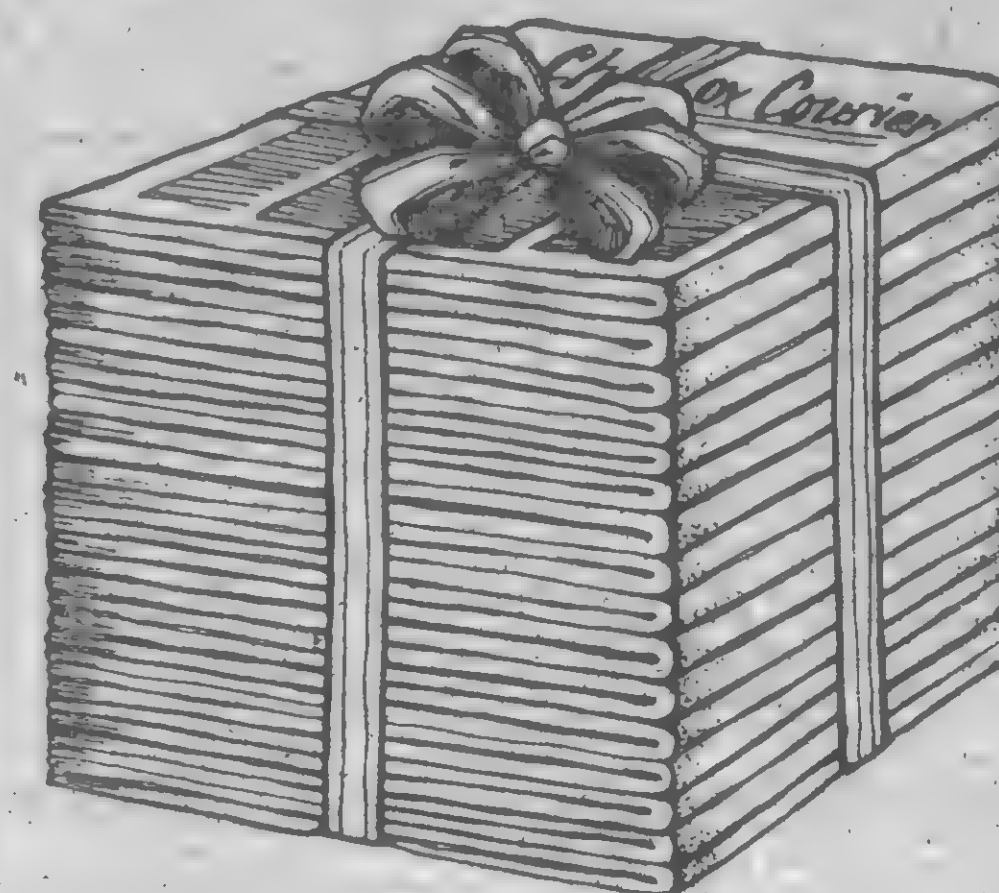

As the herd decreased, people became concerned. The first deer regulation made it illegal to take deer during the nursing season, but this did not stop the decline of the deer population, which disappeared from southern Michigan in the 1870s.

Meanwhile, the deer herd in northern Michigan increased as logging improved deer habitat. The Michigan deer population peaked at about 1 million in 1880, and commercial interests quickly capitalized on this resource. Market hunting became a major industry, as hundreds of thousands of deer were shipped by rail to ready markets throughout Michigan and other states. In 1880, an estimated 66,000 deer were taken by market hunters, compared to 4,000 by recreational hunters.

Out of concern for this heavy commercial hunting, Michigan hunters formed the Michigan Sportsmen's Association. Through their lobbying efforts, a law was passed in 1881 to prohibit the sale of Michigan game meat in other states. The deer season was shortened from seven to five months, and it became unlawful to kill a deer while it was swimming in water. Then in 1887 a law was passed to prohibit the use of dogs or artificial lights to take deer. However, the deer herd still declined.

There were as few as 50,000 deer when, in 1895, a law was passed to establish the first deer hunting season Nov. 1-25, the first deer hunting license, and a bag limit of five deer of either sex per hunter. The significance of this law was that hunters themselves demanded this regulation. Individuals became organized to request action on the part of their state government to protect the welfare of the deer herd.

In 1895, a total of 14,499 hunters participated in the first licensed deer season and harvested 12,000 deer. This year, DNR staff expect 50 times as many hunters to participate and 20 times as many deer to be harvested.

Elementary school students are amazed at the progress schools have made over the last century. In celebration of National Education Week, a display at the front of the elementary school contrasts the old days and old ways with the modern technology we enjoy in the schools today. On the left, Rob Boss, Lauren Silberhorn, and Kenny Sulkowski are dressed in old fashioned clothes and grouped around an antique school desk. On the right, Logan Priess, Melissa Jones, and Jamie Left represent today's computer age.

School looks back at 100 years of education

By Laurie Lounsbury

In the last hundred or so years, schools have gone from the educational Viewmaster to laser discs; from Palmer handwriting workbooks to computer word processing. In celebration of National Education Week, teachers Beth McGraw and Marina LaBlance have compiled teaching materials, photos, and books that span more than 100 years of education. The result is an impressive display of schooling through the years, which can be seen in the front hall of the elementary school.

Every class at the elementary school will have time to take a close look at the display. Students so far have been particularly fascinated by the antique lunch pail. (How did they fit their drink boxes into those things?) a miniature dictionary, (about one inch by one inch in size) and old Charlevoix school photos. One photo shows Max Novak, former principal and school board president, in a spiffy Charlevoix basketball uniform with his high school teammates. Several pictures show the old one room schoolhouses that dotted the countryside in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

The display includes an old

McGuffey Eclectic Spelling Book, which was once the predominant reader used in the United States. McGraw reported that Laura Ingalls Wilder, author of "Little House On The Prairie," learned to read with the McGuffey book. Near the McGuffey reader is a book with characters familiar to most of the students' parents - Dick, Jane, and Sally.

Today's students were also amazed to learn about the amount of time students used to spend with the Palmer handwriting book. Hours upon hours were devoted to the practice of cursive handwriting.

One notable change was evident in a passage from Lottie Stockman's diary. Stockman was the first teacher in Charlevoix, teaching in a one room school in the 1860s. She wrote that the mothers would often accompany their children to school and sit quietly in the back of the room. Stockman didn't know if they were there because they wanted to learn or if they were just checking up on Stockman. Schools weren't publicly funded then. Parents paid a certain price per child they had in school. Stockman suspected some parents watched her teach because they wanted to make sure they were getting their money's worth from the school.

Beware: The flu season is here

District Health Department No. 3 is stressing the importance of practicing good health habits. During the school months, viral diseases such as influenza, influenza like illnesses, measles, and chicken pox, and bacterial diseases such as streptococcal sore throat increase in frequency. In addition, individuals with an intestinal or diarrheal illness can spread illness to others.

Good health habits are important in preventing the spread of disease. They are common sense things taught to us as children and include: washing your hands before you eat; washing your hands after you use the bathroom; washing your hands before you prepare food for others; not sharing common personal items such as eating utensils, glasses, combs, towels, and food; keeping your fingernails clean and trimmed; not biting your fingernails; covering your mouth when you cough or sneeze; staying home when you are sick; avoiding others who are ill; and keeping small children from putting objects in their mouths.

Parents should not send ill children to school, to day care or to a nursery. Parents need to be aware of their child's health status and be alert to signs and symptoms of illness which include fever (100 degrees Fahrenheit or higher); cold like symptoms with fever; sore throat, difficulty swallowing and swollen glands; coughing and difficulty breathing; nausea, vomiting and diarrhea; stomach aches and fever; yellow eyes or skin; pink eye; unusual rashes or infected skin patches; headache and stiff neck; severe itching or scratching of scalp; body aches and pains; and marked congestion, localize pain and fever.

Students should be kept out of school or day care when they are ill. Unfortunately, the child may be contagious before he/she becomes ill and has effectively spread the disease for several days. Students can return to school when well, or when a physician states they are not contagious, or when local school policies allows them to return. Remember, good health habits, especially a simple measure like washing your hands, will prevent the spread of illness from one person to another.

Rayders, scoring 17 points in the first half. At halftime, Powers had what he wanted, a spread of less than five points, as his Rayders led 38-34.

Charlevoix took over the game in the third quarter, outscoring W-P 24-8. The Rayder press keyed by Jill Dreyer, Kelly, Angela Buday, Grunch and Blanchard gave W-P fits. Powers said of the Rayder press and the intensity of the players, "It's an attitude, the press. You either have it or you don't. These girls have it."

Late in the third quarter, the strain was beginning to show on the faces of the W-P players. On one particular inbound play, as Blanchard ran down court to get into position, she had to weave through W-P players who were shuffling down the court with stunned looks on their faces. The third quarter ended with Charlevoix leading 62-42.

In the fourth quarter, W-P made a run closing to within five points, 77-72 with 43 seconds remaining.

"They're a good team. There was no doubt in my mind they were going to make a run," Powers said. "I'm just so proud of the maturity shown (by the Rayder players). We preach four quarters."

In the game's final seconds, Grunch, who gets a lot of acclaim for her scoring, came up with two huge plays that didn't require her to shoot the ball. W-P was fouling to stop the clock. Charlevoix missed the front end of one and one free throws in the final seconds of the game. On the first miss, Grunch wormed her way in for the rebound. On the second miss, Grunch couldn't grab the ball, but got enough of her hand on the ball to pull it loose from a W-P player so Dreyer could grab it.

Powers said Grunch is able to do things like that because she's constantly working hard. Grunch had to spend some time on the bench in the first half after she picked up two quick fouls. "She's too important to foul out of the game," Powers noted.

While Kelly led the Rayders in scoring with 20 points, Grunch contributed 18, Blanchard 12, Anderson 8, Buday 7, Dreyer 6, Parrish 4, and Jenny Swenor and Traci Allison 2 apiece.

Charlevoix will play against McBain (22-1) in the Regional finals at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Clare High School. The winner will play in quarter-finals Tuesday, Nov. 29 at Gaylord.

$3.5 million bond issue is no simple matter

ANALYSIS

(Editor's note: The accompanying story is far lengthier than most which appear in the Courier. But then, the issue it deals with, the DDA bond proposal, is more complicated than many issues faced by local voters. The story is intended to present a background of the proposal and give readers an idea of both sides of some of the main arguments surrounding the proposal.)

by L. Scott Swanson

Thursday, Dec. 8, Charlevoix city voters will go to the polls to decide the fate of a $3.5 million bond issue. If the issue is approved, the city will borrow, via the sale of bonds, up to $3.5 million to assist in funding major improvements to Bridge Park and the Beaver Island and Coast Guard docking area.

Bond elections are seldom simple and this one is perhaps even more complicated than most. To begin with, the Bridge Park project is being proposed by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA). The DDA is a branch of the city government whose role is the improvement of the downtown business district to maintain the economic vitality of the district. The DDA is funded by tax increment financing, a controversial and complex means of diverting property taxes for economic development.

The second and more confusing issue is that the state is offering to cover a substantial portion of the annual payments to pay off the bonds. Strange, but true:

A brief historical perspective

Charlevoix's DDA was formed in the early 1980s as a means of funding improvements in the downtown business district. Among the projects undertaken by the DDA have been the creation of two parking lots between Antrim and Clinton Streets, Bridge Street sidewalk improvements, new downtown street lights and the construction of Hoffmann Park.

The DDA is funded through tax increment financing. Tax increment financing is really nothing more than a way of earmarking a portion of property taxes for a certain thing in this case DDA projects. To understand how this earmarking takes place, you need to have at least some grasp of the two key aspects of property taxes: millage and property values. Millage multiplied by property values equals property taxes ($M \times Val = taxes$). Tax increment financing doesn't mess with the mill part of the equation. What it does, is fix the property part of the equation at a certain number for all property in the DDA district. No matter how much property values in the DDA district go up, the city, school, intermediate school district and county only get tax revenue from that district based on an equation using that frozen value number. As any taxpayer in Charlevoix will tell you, property values in Charlevoix have not been frozen during the past ten years. They've gone up and consequently so have taxes. Tax revenues resulting from property value increases in the DDA district don't go to the city, school, intermediate school district and county. That money goes to the DDA. Remember the ($M \times Val = taxes$) equation. For DDA funding the equation would be ($M \times added value since freeze = DDA tax revenue$). That's how the DDA receives the majority of its funds. The DDA also receives funds from a small additional tax levy in the DDA district, but the majority of its funds come from tax increment financing.

Schools and county government on the whole have never been too thrilled with the DDA. With tax increment financing, barring millage increases, which are seldom popular with voters, the school and county never get any increase in funding from year to year from the area encompassed by the DDA. Even with a millage increase, a portion of the added revenue is captured by the DDA. Look at the equations above and you'll see that increasing the M in both equations also increases the product in both equations.

Curiously, while Charlevoix's DDA and tax increment financing were costing the Charlevoix school system money, in other parts of the state schools weren't losing money due to DDAs. Charlevoix was classified by the state as an "out-of-formula" school district and consequently got very little state money. Other school districts were "in-formula" and received enough state money to bring them up to a certain amount of dollars per pupil. For example, if the state was guaranteeing an "in formula" school district $3,500 per pupil and the school district, without a DDA, had a local tax revenue of $2,500 per pupil, then the state had to provide $1,000 per pupil. But if the "in formula" school district had a DDA and consequently only had a local tax revenue of $2,300 per pupil, then the state provided $1,200 per pupil. Either way, with or without a DDA, the "in formula" school district ends up with $3,500 per pupil. So what do they care?

...how the city got to where it is on $3.5 million proposal

But the state cared. They cared because year after year this was costing them money. So as part of the proposal to reform school finance by reducing property taxes while raising sales taxes, the state proposed to end the tax increment finance capture of funds from educational millage. To DDAs this was a big deal. If the capture of funds from school millages was stopped, it wouldn't just put a nick in their budgets, it would take a chunk out. For example, in Charlevoix millage, for schools is at least 60 percent of the average property owner's tax bill.

The proposal to cut that kind of money from DDAs across the state drew complaints, particularly from southeastern Michigan. Mayors of cities with DDAs complained to Michigan Governor John Engler. They said, John, Buddy, Don't do us this way. We got plans. We got projects. You can't pull a big chunk of our money and leave us hangin'. Voters in southeastern Michigan were primarily responsible for voting down school finance reform the first time it was put on the ballot. Not wanting to see that happen again, Engler cut a deal. He told the complaining mayors, Fellas, Tell ya' what I'm gonna do, I know you got plans and you got projects and you don't want to be left hangin'. So what we'll do is eliminate the tax increment finance capture of educational funds, but the state will cover any funds you lose due to the elimination of that capture. But this is only to help you pay for projects you've got in the works, if you add new projects next year, you're on your own. Thus was born the term "pipeline projects."

To the credit of Charlevoix city officials and DDA members, they were paying attention to what was going on in Lansing. When the opportunity for pipeline project funding from the state came up, they moved quickly to take advantage of it. In a series of special meetings, the DDA took action to get a number of projects far enough along by state deadlines to qualify as pipeline projects. Among those projects were the renovation of the Chamber of Commerce/Harbor Master building, various smaller park projects and the Bridge Park project. Of all the projects, the Bridge Park project was clearly the DDA board's top priority.

In early April, the DDA board got a shock. Earlier engineering estimates for the Bridge Park project called for a project cost of approximately $1.8 million. When refined estimates arrived in early April, the cost estimate had risen dramatically to nearly $4 million.

Between April and August, city officials tried to figure out a way to fund the project. In August, the city council began discussing the possibility of borrowing via bonding up to $6 million for DDA projects. At their Aug. 15 meeting the council approved taking the first step toward borrowing up to $3.5 million. That first step involved publishing a notice of intent to bond. One of the things that notice did was notify city residents that if they wished for the question of whether or not bonding should be pursued, they could require an election by collecting the names of approximately 200 city voters on a petition. A group of city residents submitted a petition with well more than the required number of names and consequently an election has been scheduled for Dec. 8.

Do it for Charlevoix...

The Real Issue on December 8...

...is, do we, or do we not, wish to recover, from the State of Michigan, some $4,600,000 of future sales and property taxes we will be sending to the State?

...is not about tax re-capture, as it is not affected by either a yes or a no vote!

The decision that is to be made is: YES, Charlevoix may issue the Bridge Park Bonds and proceed with the Project (or NO: Charlevoix may not issue those bonds).

IF THE VOTE IS NO:

...about $242,000 per year will be paid by the State of Michigan to help retire those bonds. That money comes from the Proposal A State Set-Aside Fund for Pipeline Projects, which are only those community projects that are underway prior to December 31 of this year! That $242,000 per year does not come from re-capture. It is in lieu of the old re-capture of a portion of the incremental increases in School Tax revenues due to valuation increases and is a one time opportunity.

THAT TIME IS NOW.

(It is such an unarguable opportunity that no other Michigan community called for such a referendum.)

The State money does come from the State School Aid Funding but, even if the State decided not to allocate our portion to other projects (don't count on that), the effect is almost not measurable. Mr. Nick Khouri, Deputy (and currently, Acting) Treasurer of the State of Michigan, states that it is equal to $242,000 divided by 10% billion ($10,500,000,000) each year. Should it not pass and if the State does not grant that funding to some other project, the effect on our Charlevoix Schools is similar to a $2.30 increase on each $100,000.00 that Schools receive from the State. Regardless of this, the only such referendum to be held, the Pipeline bonds of other communities will have the effect of reducing State school aid by a factor of thousands of times that tiny increase.

Contrary to what has been said, the State money that is at issue does not come from the County, Grandview, 911 or the ISD. Re-capture from tax increment financing is NOT AFFECTED by our vote on the Bond Issue!

Do it for Charlevoix... Vote YES on December 8!

A Bond Information Meeting will be held at the High School Study Room at 2 o'clock, Sunday, December 4; if you're not convinced, Please Attend!

Many, many thanks...

...to all who gave hard work, financial support and/or their vote on behalf of our campaign to "Write in Josh Barnes for Mayor". It was just enough of each to make the difference! Special thanks to our opponent, Mr. Bob Gill, for the nice post-election compliments to this staff. You, also, were good company on election day. You and Josh had similar voter support and we hope you will actively assist in guiding our city's future.

...just what does $3.5 million buy these days?

That gets us to where we are today.

What the bond money fund, or just what does $3.5 million buy these days?

The $3.5 million borrowed through bonding will fund the majority of the approximately $4.25 million needed for the Bridge Park project. (The $4.25 million figure includes an estimated cost of $250,000 to purchase a portion of the Bridge Park property from the Michigan Department of Transportation.) The main components of the Bridge Park project are: renovation work to the dock area occupied by the Beaver Island Boat Company and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia; removing the old sewage plant building and the Beaver Island Boat Company office; and relocating them in a new building in the bank of Bridge Park; and creating a Coast Guard storage and office space within the new building; and adding public rest rooms to the new building. Additional aspects of the project include: constructing a walkway under the south end of the bridge, similar to the one at the north end; and improving parking and traffic conditions near Bridge Park.

Although it is a separate project with separate funding, the Beaver Island Boat Company recently received a $2.4 million federal transportation grant which will help fund the construction of a new ferry and assist in making dock improvements in Charlevoix and on Beaver Island.

The total estimated cost of the Bridge Park project, including interest from the bond payback is difficult to put a precise figure on. To begin with the interest rate on the bonds won't be known until the bonds are sold. Whether or not the bonds will be sold won't be known until the Dec. 8 election. Current estimates are that the total cost of the bond payback will be somewhere between $5,883,000 and $6,277,000. Estimates are that the state could pick up up to $5.2 million of the total cost.

Some key questions and issues:

1. Can the state back out halfway through and leave city taxpayers stuck with the entire bill?

This question came up almost immediately when the possibility of bonding was first raised at city council meetings in August. The state sought legal advice from both their own attorneys and other attorneys who specialize in bonding. The legal opinion of those attorneys is that it would be a violation of Michigan's state constitution for the state to pull out of the deal midway through and leave the city hanging. The legal opinions were quite adamant in saying the fear is unfounded.

On the other hand, if the state can't pull funding on such projects, why was the deal between Engler and the mayors of southeastern Michigan necessary prior to the school finance reform election? Wouldn't it have been impossible for the state to pull the funds?

2. Is this free money which has no effect on local taxes?

Supporters of the bond issue argue that the passage of the proposal will not raise local taxes and that turning down the bond issue will not decrease local taxes. That kind of depends on how you interpret things.

On the one hand, if you view the removal of the old sewer plant as something that has to be one way or another and believe that the cost of correcting the sewer plant is about equivalent to the local share of funding for the entire Bridge Park project - then you can argue that by bonding the city is simply fixing something which has to be fixed anyhow and everything else is simply state funded gravy.

On the other hand, by passing the bond issue, city voters are committing to maintaining the DDA program in some form at least until the bonds are paid off. That's estimated to be 2013. Were the DDA program ended earlier, a portion of the money currently captured by the DDA would instead go into the city's general fund. Bonding supporters contend that the additional money would just be absorbed by city programs rather than resulting in a tax decrease. However, in recent years when the city budget has been presented to the city council, there have often been arguments from council members to lower taxes. In some years, proposed budget items have been cut and taxes lowered from what was initially proposed.

But, if the DDA was eliminated there would still be a need for some type of economic development program. If another program was initiated, it would have to have a source of funding.

3. How much of a factor will the bonding election and Bridge Park project play in the retention of a Coast Guard ship?

Bonding supporters argue that the Bridge Park project is vital to retaining a Coast Guard ship in Charlevoix. Their argument has been bolstered by the ship's commander Steve Corporan, who said at a city council meeting that building space near the ship is needed and without it, the chances of retaining a large ship would certainly be greatly damaged, if not eliminated.

However, storage space is only one issue among many that the Coast Guard will consider in deciding whether or not a ship remains stationed in Charlevoix. Another issue is the availability of housing. If the decision of where to station a ship comes down to either Cheboygan or Charlevoix, the advantage goes to Cheboygan due to the availability of Coast Guard owned housing in that community.

4. What about the DDA termination date?

The DDA has now offered to enter into a contract with the school, county and intermediate school district to end the capture of all but city tax funds in the year 2013. At that point, the DDA would essentially become just an economic development arm of the city. That's essentially what it is now, but it captures funds from taxing entities other than the city. The termination date, which was strongly advocated in Courier editorials, is a major step toward keeping the DDA from becoming a government program which is formed for a purpose, fulfilling

Bond proposal should receive yes vote

While it's not the no-brainer its supporters contend it is, the $3.5 million Downtown Development Authority (DDA) bond proposal city voters will cast ballots on Dec. 8 should receive a yes vote.

Through a combination of odd political twists and turns, (see related analysis story on page 1) the city of Charlevoix finds itself in a position where it can undertake and complete an expensive Bridge Park project with the state paying in the neighborhood of 60 to 70 percent of the cost.

The bond proposal is a complicated issue, but when all is said and done what it boils down to is an opportunity for Charlevoix to correct problems in the Bridge Park area and make the north end of the city's municipal docks more desirable. Given the estimated $4.25 million price tag the Bridge Park project carries, that would be difficult using city funding alone. Utilizing state funding makes the project possible.

It took a petition drive to bring the issue to an election. Having the issue decided in a public election, rather than simply adopted by the city council is healthy for a number of reasons. To begin with, a $3.5 million issue in a town the size of Charlevoix is something important enough that it should be subject to a vote of the people. Beyond that, the petition drive and election have forced the issue to be given greater scrutiny than it otherwise would have received. The call for an election has also led to the DDA board and other people in the city to take a harder look at the future of the DDA and what the entire scope of the program should be. The DDA board, to its credit, recently offered the county, school and intermediate school district a contract which would terminate the DDA capture of all but city tax funds in the year 2013. That's an important step because it acknowledges that the DDA program should be finite rather than self-perpetuating like too many federal programs. With continued monitoring, the DDA ultimately may become what it should be - a board which oversees the completion of a set list of projects, rather than a board which continues looking for additional projects.

Passing the bond issue has been made something of an uphill struggle because of some past unpopular DDA actions. When those decisions were made, many voters felt that if only they had been given an opportunity to vote against them, they would have. Now, voters have an opportunity to cast a no vote against a DDA proposal and many of those disenchanted voters are prepared to cast just such a vote. But the bond issue should not be judged on previous DDA decisions, it should be judged separately on its own merits.

People in Charlevoix have a strong history of being politically active and questioning local government bodies. Although the form of that activity and questioning sometimes becomes unnecessarily acrimonious, the questioning in and of itself is healthy. It forces city administrative and elected officials to do their homework and keep all of their ducks in a row.

In this case, city government has been forced to do its homework and it has. The bonding proposal, while somewhat complicated, is at heart sound and consequently merits voter support.

Letters to the editor

DDA spending needs to be restrained

Editor,

This letter is in regard to the upcoming December 8 vote on whether to allow the City of Charlevoix to issue bonds for the Downtown Development Authority.

Anyone who lives here knows the Beaver Island Boat Company is a vital link in the economy of both Beaver Island and Charlevoix. Nevertheless, this is not reason enough to issue bonds for $400,000 to $500,000 more than is required to do what is necessary on the Beaver Island Boat and Coast Guard boat dock project. In fact, the people might want to know why we want to borrow $3.5 million dollars to build on land we don't even own! The taxpayers may well end up being taxed for the payments. As a matter of fact, a portion of the Notice to Taxpayers and electors of the City of Charlevoix of Intent to Issue Bonds Secured by the Taxing Power of the City of the Right of Referendum Relating thereto states:

"In the case of the insufficiency of said tax increment revenues, the principal and interest on said bonds shall be payable from the general funds of the city or, if necessary, from ad valorem taxes levied upon all taxable property in the city, subject to applicable charter, statutory and constitutional limitations."

The DDA also gave Bob Davis $4,000. This was tax dollars, captured from the schools. The DDA sold the Kusina Building to the low bidder, and that building now sits idle. Now we see high dollar ads appearing, which I hope aren't paid for from the DDA miscellaneous account. However, the address of the sponsor of the ads is the same address as that of the secretary of the DDA.

Is this using tax dollars to acquire more tax dollars? Until the DDA publicly states, to the dollar, how much money they have captured to date, how much money they presently have, and where every dollar has been spent, we should vote NO on the proposal. Until the DDA agrees, in writing, that they cannot spend more than $100 in any month for anything unless they have the prior approval of a majority of the full City Council, we should vote NO!

We do have elected people to run the City, and they are the ones who have to answer to the people.

Very truly yours,
Gabe Campbell

Vote no on bond proposal

Editor,

Excuse me!!! But I do get skeptical as to underlying motives when proponents of an issue distort the truth! To wit, two recent newspaper references to the "sewage digester," which is located in the sewage pump (or lift) station on the edge of Round Lake in an area referred to as Bridge Park. In a Courier ad it is stated that if the DDA Bond Referendum does not pass, taxes or sewer fees will increase, because the "sewage digester" in Bridge Park is outdated and must be removed at a cost of $1,000,000. My friend and former Charlevoix Mayor, Ken Staley also states in a letter to the editor that a "No" vote on the referendum could indirectly increase City taxes or City sewer rates due to the need to move the "out-dated sewage digester." Fact is, the "sewage digester" referred to has been abandoned. (Not in Use) since the 1973 wastewater treatment plant installation west of Boulder Park. WHY WOULD WE REPLACE IT??

Other published quips about which I am skeptical: — "The State is going to G-I-V-E Charlevoix the money..." If the State wants to be so generous it should just G-I-V-E the City $3,500,000. The City could accept - no questions asked - that way it costs the State only $3,500,000 instead of the projected $4,598,000 and Charlevoix would get $3,500,000 instead of a discounted (less issuance fees, discounts, bond counsel fees, trustee fees, and insurance) $3,390,000 and no 19 year pay-off.

Voters should support bond proposal

Editor,

To: Voters of the City of Charlevoix

You are being asked to vote on December 8th to decide if the City shall receive approximately $250,000 a year for 19 years from the State to improve Bridge Park. The money will be used to do the following:

1. Remove sewer digester alleviating the odor.

2. Move Beaver Island offices underground. (See model at city hall).

3. Improve dockage for new Beaver Island Boat and Coast Guard Cutter.

Bridge Park is a worthwhile project. Please vote "yes" on December 8th.

Sincerely,
Chuck Center

Letters to the editor

Voters should say yes to bond

Editor,

Charlevoix voters!! Your support of the referendum on Bridge Park next week is extremely important to the future of Charlevoix and Beaver Island.

For many years the need to improve the facilities on the waterfront has been very obvious. The safety issues and increased traffic to Beaver Island have never been more in evidence. As well, the need for improvement of the sewage digester and the Coast Guard facilities.

Taking these items one at a time, it is obvious that this project should go through.

Ferry Dock: The city-owned facility has been a principle loading and unloading terminal for freight and passengers to and from Beaver Island for many years. The city fathers of Charlevoix know the value that this facility brings to the community through the enhancement of revenues and jobs that are created on the Charlevoix side alone. Ask any motel or restaurant owner in town if they feel an effect on their business as a result of traffic coming to and from Beaver Island, let alone lumber yards, hardware, clothing stores and other businesses.

Sewage digester: It is no small secret that this facility is in dire need of improvement which should be done in a proper way. If the bond issue fails, the taxpayers in the sewer district will undoubtedly be asked at some point in the very near future to reach into their pockets to pay the added cost of improvements. If this is not done in sympathy with Bridge Park, the improvement will not be nearly as good. The way it is proposed, the digester will go under Bridge Park with the other improvements; if not, the building will probably stay where it is. Hardly an enhancement to Charlevoix the Beautiful!!

Coast Guard: There is much speculation that the Coast Guard may leave town. When you stop and consider that there are Coast Guard vessels stationed in the Straits of Mackinac and the ship Mackinac herself stationed in Cheboygan, one could hardly conclude that a sensible move would be to move our vessel to that port when the Mackinac is (potentially) decommissioned in 1998. I believe it is imperative that we provide adequate facilities to the Coast Guard to encourage them and prove that we are interested in keeping them and their significant payroll in Charlevoix. We need a large Coast Guard vessel stationed in this end of Lake Michigan and I feel that Charlevoix is the most centrally located, protected spot to do so. Your support of the bonding issue will help to achieve this end.

If we go forward with the bonding we will be receiving a significant amount of money from the state each year in support of the project list. This parallels a political deal Gov. Engler made with the Mayor of Detroit in consideration of his support for Proposal A. If passed, this "revenue enhancement" of at least $240,000 each year will flow back to Charlevoix to aid these improvements instead of into Lansing and staying there. It would be penny wise and pound foolish to defeat the bond referendum.

It seems crazy that all of this can be done without raising your taxes. Crazy but true. There are no trap doors, no smoke/screens, just hard facts. I urge you to get out and vote "Yes" on the "DDA Bond Referendum" on Dec. 8th.

Sincerely,
Richard L. Gillespie

— "The money if F-R-E-E..."

The money comes supposedly from the additional 2 percent sales tax imposed as the result of passage of proposal "A". One has to wonder how much this is going to generate. You don't have to wonder how much it hurts just ask the guy who's looking at a new Dodge Ram 1500 4X4 pick-up out at Dodge City how much additional tax money is required because of proposal "A" — $479.32 - ($23966 - cost of vehicle X 2 percent additional sales tax imposed by Proposal "A").

— "Unconstitutional for State to renege on payments for Bond debt retirement". So say the attorneys. So many items and conditions have surfaces that we didn't know we had voted for when Proposal "A" was approved that one wonders how long it is going to take someone to find that indeed the act itself is unconstitutional. What then?

I'm skeptical - so I KNOW how I shall vote.

Jews celebrate Hanukkah

At sundown, Nov. 27, Jews worldwide began the eight-day celebration of the Feast of Lights, or Hanukkah. Although the holiday comes close to, or some years even overlaps the Christian Christmas, there is no historical or religious connection between the two.

Hanukkah (also spelled Chanukah) commemorates a popular revolt against major suppression. The tyrant Syrian ruler Antiochus ruled the huge empire. In his quest to rule the world, Antiochus moved against Egypt (171-168 B.C.) On his return to Antioch in his kingdom, he stopped in Jerusalem to loot and pillage. He pulled down the city's walls and plundered the holy temple of the Jews. Antiochus decreed that all Jews should "profane the Sabbath" and his men polluted the sanctuary. They also ordered the Jews to build altars and temples and shrines for the idols. Thousands of Jews were killed and thousands more fled. Some exiles formed a small band of rebels. Judah, a man of superb military capabilities, became leader of the band; and was known as "Macabee" or "The Hammer."

Judah led many who formed bands and waged guerrilla warfare from hiding places in the hills. In 165 B.C. Judah's men swept into Jerusalem. They found their Temple profaned and in ruins. After clearing the debris, they prepared to re-purify the sanctuary. Then the priests discovered all of the holy oil had been defiled by pagan rites. After a thorough search, they were able to find only enough pure oil to burn for one day.

But, it burned and lit the temple for eight days, and was proclaimed a miracle.

Since that time, Jews have joyously lighted candles to mark the eight days of the festival. This festival is one of the affirmations of faith. The word "Hanukkah" means dedication. They rededicated the Temple to God and reaffirmed and rededicated their own lives to God. Candles are lighted on a Menorah or Hanukiah, one each night until all eight are lighted. Benedictions are said at the lighting of the candles, praising God for His allowing the Jews to remain free of religious persecution.

The holiday is celebrated worldwide, reminding all of the true meaning of Hanukkah and Hanukkah Gelt (money). Foods cooked in oil, a reminder of the original vial of pure oil, such as potato pancakes or fried jelly cakes are eaten. A favorite game is played with a four-sided top or "Dreidel." Each side of the dreidel has a Hebrew work on it which forms a sentence "A Miracle Happened There" referring to the miracle of the oil lasting eight days.

In Petoskey, Temple B'Nai Israel will celebrate Hanukkah with a program of games and songs, followed by a pot-luck dinner. Sunday, Dec. 5 at 11 a.m. A beautiful candle lighting ceremony will be held. Those members and their guests wishing to attend should call 347-8033 immediately for reservations. Shabbat (Sabbath) services will also be held Saturday morning at 10 a.m., open to the public. Rabbi Intern Howard Needleman from Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, will officiate. For further information regarding any Temple activity, please call 347-8740, 347-8033, or 347-2636.

Grant E. Mudge

Grant E. Mudge, 93, of Livonia died Oct. 27 in Livonia. Mr. Mudge was born in Central Lake and married Beryl Meggison Mudge of Charlevoix, who died in 1986.

Mr. Mudge was a 1925 graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in civil engineering. He spent his career as a civil engineer for the city of Detroit. After retiring in 1962, he divided his time between his homes on Torch Lake and in Englewood, Fla. Mudge enjoyed growing trees - fruit trees in Florida and nut trees in Michigan. He was a past president of the Northern Nut Growers Association.

A memorial service for Mr. Mudge took place Nov. 1 at Christ the King Lutheran Church in Livonia. The body was cremated.

Surviving are a son, James E. Mudge, two grandchildren; and four great grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Upper Torch Lake Association Park Fund, 33550 Hathaway, Livonia, MI 48150.

Arrangements were handled by the R.G. & G.R. Harris Funeral Home in Livonia.

Pool project moving forward

The Friends of the Pool have elected officers for the coming year and plan to host a sign installation at the pool site at 10 a.m., Dec. 10. The site is located on U.S. 31 north of town, near Waller Road. A sand-blasted sign by Bruce Janssen of Bozette City will be unveiled at the ceremony.

Dr. David Strawbridge has been named president of Friends of the Pool. Bruce MacArthur is vice president, Mary M. Frame, recording secretary and Laura Smith, corresponding secretary.

The pool group currently has approximately $200,000 in a fund being held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. They also have pledges for an additional $140,000 and have made applications for various grants. A pool fund-raising committee has scheduled a meeting for Dec. 5. The total estimated construction cost of the pool is $700,000.

The pool group hopes to begin construction in the spring of 1995 and complete work by autumn of 1995.

In recent months pool proponents have been working with officials from Hayes Township and the City of Charlevoix to get sewer service to the pool site. Hayes Township officials have said they have no objections provided the pool can meet zoning requirements and the Township Master Plan can be appropriately modified. The city council has directed city attorney Jim Young to formulate a contract which will allow the pool to be hooked into the city sewer system.

Recently elected mayor Josh Barnes threw the switch and lit the community Christmas tree after local children decorated the tree Friday. This year's tree does have a star on top. Last year the tree was without a star, as the old star burned up in the electric plant fire. This year, John Whitely from the City Electric Department rigged up a new star for the tree. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

American Legion to host

The Leslie T. Shapton #226, American Legion, Charlevoix, will host a potluck dinner for all members and guests at the Post Home, Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 6:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend and please bring a dish to pass. Business meetings will follow with the Legionnaires meeting at 8 p.m. and the Auxiliary members meeting at 7:30 p.m.

There will be no American Legion Christmas party this December. However, members of the Auxiliary will have a Christmas gift-exchange at the close of their meeting. Auxiliary members are asked to bring a gift with $5 maximum price.

Post members meet the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 8 p.m. and the Auxiliary meets the first Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. All visiting members are urged to attend.

Chorale to present holiday concert

The Northern Michigan Chorale celebrates a seasonal tradition with their 14th Annual Holiday Concert, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 4 at 4 p.m. in the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium.

This single program under the Direction of Jerry Westermann, features the 50-voice Chorale and its instrumental trio in an hour-and-a-half of music on the lighter side paired with songs for the Christmas season. Music runs the gamut from "The Greats of Paul Simon" and the humorous "It's So Nice to Have a Man Around the House," to "Silver Bells," and the lesser known Alfred Burt Carols, to arrangements of the ever-popular "Happy Holidays" and "White Christmas." The numbers feature not only the entire ensemble, but soloists, duets and smaller groups.

Tickets for the Northern Michigan Chorale 14th Annual Holiday Concert are available through the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce. The Outfitter in Harbor Springs and from Chorale members. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Adults are $7 and students, $3. For further information, contact Connie Tanner, 347-8623.

Meeting to include sewage tour

Josh Barnes, Charlevoix's new mayor, has announced that a Bridge Park Bond Issue Information Meeting will be held in the Study Room of Charlevoix High School at 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4.

The Bridge Street Project Model will be on display at the Information Meeting. Information on both the project and the related bond issue will be summarized; that presentation will be followed by a question and answer period open to all.

Following the meeting, those who desire an interesting (but not particularly pleasant) experience may inspect the existing sewage digester building in Bridge Park (Santa Claus will not be there).

No parking on streets at night

Effective Dec. 1, winter parking hours go into effect in the City of Charlevoix. Through the winter, people will not be allowed to park their cars on the street between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m. The purpose of the parking ordinance is to keep the streets clear of vehicles during the late night and early morning hours to allow snow plows to clear the streets of snow.

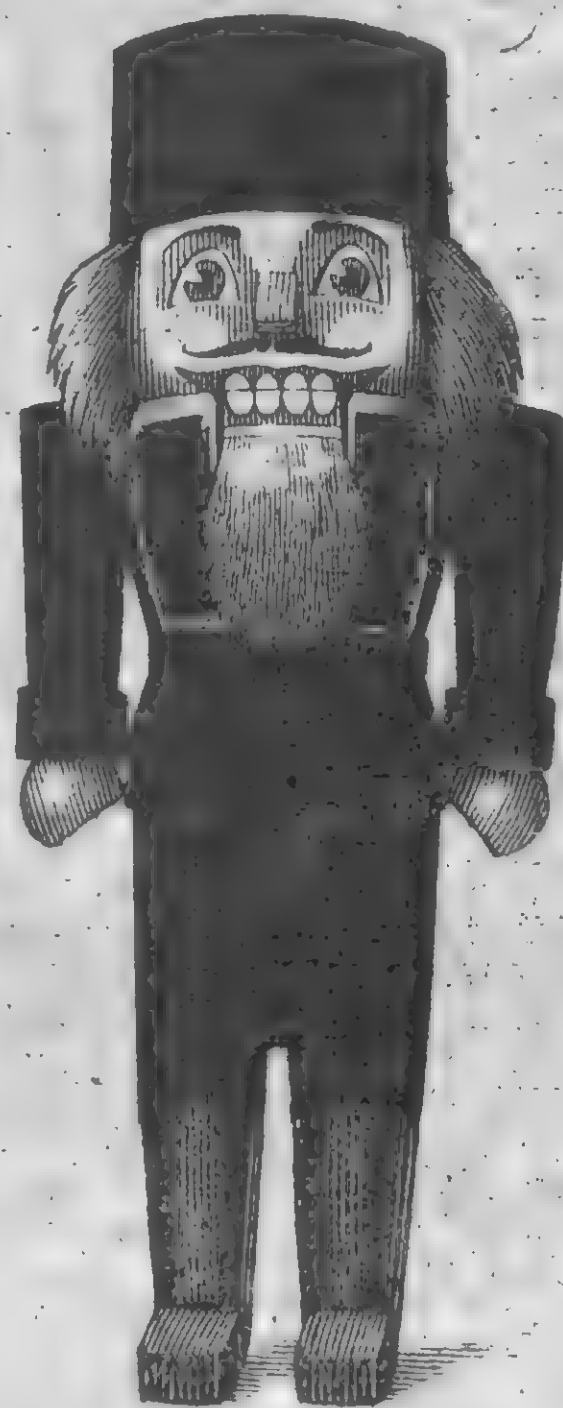

Santa's coming to lunch

Area children and their parents are invited to have lunch with Santa between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 3 at the Charlevoix Elementary School. The lunch is being hosted by the Preceptor Beta Mu Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. The cost of the lunch is $2 per person. The menu includes pizza, fruit, milk, juice and a variety of other edibles donated by local restaurants. Children will receive balloons and may have their photo taken with Santa at no additional cost.

Parents invited to anti-drug meeting

At the request of a group of parents and community members a meeting to discuss drug and alcohol problems among students will take place from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Dec. 1 in the conference room at the Charlevoix/Emmet Intermediate School District building on Mercer Boulevard. Charlevoix City Chief of Police Dennis Halverson and Celia Partida Kelly, Drug Free School Liaison will moderate the meeting. For additional information, phone Kelly at 547-1144.

Rayders fall in regional finals

by L. Scott Swanson

The hole got too deep and things just didn't pan out for the Charlevoix Rayders in the Regional girls' basketball finals at Clare Wednesday night. The Rayders fell behind by 25 points in the first half and ended up losing 68-50 to McBain.

A stagnant first quarter offense set a bad tone for the Rayders in the game. Throughout the season, Charlevoix has depended on scrambling full-court defensive pressure to keep opponents off balance. Against McBain, the Rayders couldn't score to give themselves an opportunity to press.

As coach Joe Powers put it, "Can't score, can't press. Then, they end up playing a different ball game than they're used to."

Despite being disappointed with the loss, the first thing Powers had to say was how proud he is of this year's Rayder team. "We had a great year. These girls are over-achievers just because of their work ethic. I don't want anything taken away from what they've accomplished because it's been a lot. Forever they'll be 1994 conference champions. Forever they'll be 1994 district champions."

Charlevoix fell behind 13-2 in the first four minutes of the first quarter. The Rayders couldn't get anything to stay in the basket. Meanwhile, McBain, which entered the game ranked fourth in Class C, beat the Rayders back in the transition from offense to create scoring opportunities. It's often said that baseball is a game of inches. Wednesday evening, basketball was a game of inches. At least three times in the first half, Rayder forward Kris Blanchard, who was playing back on defense, anticipated McBain passes and tipped the ball loose, but couldn't quite corral it. Instead of resulting in Charlevoix baskets, the plays resulted in McBain baskets.

By the end of the first quarter, Charlevoix was down 24-7. The scoring drought continued into the second quarter. The Rayders first points of the quarter came nearly three minutes into the quarter when freshman Lisa Parrish made a basket and a free throw to make the score 31-10. Parrish was a bright spot for the Rayders. Despite not having a player taller than 5'8" the Rayders swarmed the offensive glass and got several offensive rebounds. The problem for Charlevoix was that Parrish was the only player who had any success converting the rebounds into points. She ended up leading the team with 14 on the night.

Despite being down 42-17 at halftime, Powers said he still felt it

"We had a great year. These girls are over-achievers just because of their work ethic. I don't want anything taken away from what they've accomplished because it's been a lot. Forever they'll be 1994 conference champions. Forever they'll be 1994 district champions."

Girls' varsity basketball coach Joe Powers

State approves tax exempt status for LexaLite bonds

The Michigan Strategic Fund (MSF) recently approved a $5.0 million tax-exempt bond to help finance the construction of a manufacturing facility for LexaLite International Corporation in Charlevoix, Michigan. The project will include the acquisition of land, construction of an approximately 27,500 square foot manufacturing facility and the purchase and installation of new machinery and equipment.

The company designs, engineers, manufactures and assembles injection molded plastic products and polycarbonate globes for use in protecting lighting installations. LexaLite International Corporation had facilities in Charlevoix and in Tennessee. The company, which employs approximately 168 people in Michigan and 62 in Tennessee, will add an estimated 23 new jobs to its Charlevoix facility.

The MSF, in cooperation with the Michigan Jobs Commission, can issue Industrial Development Revenue bonds (IDRBs) to finance projects for manufacturers, solid/waste/cogeneration companies and certain non-profit corporations. IDRB financing lessens the cost of borrowing because the interest paid to the bond buyer is exempt from federal, state and local taxes.

Right: Despite chilling winds, several local children and their parents turned out to take a ride in the city bucket truck and decorate the community Christmas tree. As usual, this year's tree is decorated heavily on the top and bottom with kind of an empty area in the middle. The decorations on the bottom are put on by people on the ground. The decorations at the top are put on by children in the bucket truck. Why are there no decorations in the middle of the tree? No kid's going to get in the bucket truck and settle for a trip that ends halfway up the tree. (Photo by L. Scott Swanson)

Big Brothers/Big Sisters begin funding drive

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Northwestern Michigan has embarked on a fund drive to secure sponsors for twenty Little Brothers and Sisters by Christmas.

"We've all seen the appeals to sponsor children in foreign countries," said Kay Vandervort, Executive Director. "We're asking individuals to sponsor children in their own communities."

The cost to sponsor a child for a year in Big Brothers/Big Sisters is $500. The funds will be used to cover the direct costs of service to the children being sponsored. Those services include recruitment and training of a volunteer, skills enhancement and learning opportunities for the child, and group recreational activities that the volunteer and child participate in.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is a one-to-one mentoring program for children from single parent families. A volunteer spends a few hours a week with the child in activities that include learning and recreation. "A volunteer looks at what they do in their own life," said Vandervort, "and figures out how to include a child. That makes it easy for everyone because it's not making extra time in an already busy schedule, it's enjoying the things the person already does with a young friend who shares common interests."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters serves children in Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Antrim, Kalkaska, Emmet and Charlevoix counties. Information about sponsoring a child or volunteering is available by calling 946-2723 or 348-7510.

Names in business

A collection of milestones, awards and accomplishments in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Keith A. Moore was recently named assistant vice president and commercial loan officer of First of America Bank - Northern Michigan, announced William R. Day, president of the bank's Petoskey region.

"Keith Moore is a native of the area and is very familiar with Northern Michigan," Day said. "His experience in the commercial lending function makes him a very valuable addition to our staff."

Moore has more than 10 years of banking experience including positions as branch manager, consumer lender and, most recently, commercial lender with Northern Michigan banks.

Moore is a 1978 graduate of Cheboygan High School. He earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration from Graceland College in Lamoni, Iowa and a master of business administration degree from Lake Superior State University.

Moore currently resides in the Harbor Springs area with his wife Jill and their three children.

The Community bank directors for the Petoskey region are: Dale E. Meyer, Gretchen Olsen, Rodney A. Phillips, Stafford C. Smith, Susan Van Wieren, and Fred W. Walstrom.

Letters to the editor

Turning down state money would be a big loss

Editor,

As a new teacher in the Charlevoix Public Schools, I have taken a keen interest in the recent debate over the DDA funds available for the City of Charlevoix. The fact that we are the only place in Michigan voting on whether or not to accept the funds was a concern to me because I want to make an informed choice on December 8th when we decide the issue in the voting booth.

Turning down the money means a big loss for everyone. I'm not just talking about the money - I'm talking about losing some valuable people. Today I watched the Coast Guard Cutter Acacia return to Charlevoix from its tour of duty and saw how happy the crew and families were to be reunited. Some of my students are "Coast Guard kids" and I have grown close to them through daily contact. I don't want to see them have to leave Charlevoix because of a lack of proper facilities. The DDA money can change that. It can provide them with a facility to keep pace with the changing needs.

An early morning walk downtown will give you another reason to support the funds. The smell coming from the ancient sewer digester is enough to make you change your dinner plans! Several improvements will be made that will benefit everyone in Charlevoix, including rest rooms at the north end of town, and a wider view of Round Lake. (The new sewage facilities and the Beaver Island Boat Company go underground.)

Being a teacher, I would want to know that no funds were being diverted from the Charlevoix Public Schools to make this plan work. It's a fact that the schools will come out winners because no funds will be captured from the public schools and we can only benefit from the Coast Guard students and families in our community.

Like everyone else, I am concerned about tax increases. If you vote yes, your taxes will not increase, but you will reap the tremendous benefits of the improvements. If you vote no, your taxes will not decrease, and you will eventually have to pay for a new sewage digester anyway at the expense of $1,000,000 dollars. That sounds like a tax increase to me!

As a new resident, I am continually impressed with the charm and beauty of Charlevoix. Part of that beauty and charm are the people who live here. A yes vote in the December 8th election will benefit our entire community. Let's keep Charlevoix beautiful.

Sincerely,
Raphael J. Rittenhouse

was possible to win the game and told his players that. Powers said his players "came out with an attitude" at the beginning of the second half. In the first few minutes of the third quarter, the Rayders swarmed like mad bees. The Rayder defense held McBain to a single basket during the first three and a half minutes of the quarter. Meanwhile the Rayders scored nine points to cut the McBain lead to 46-26. Even during the run, the Rayders were plagued by an inability to get the ball in the basket. Seldom were first shots falling. Most of the Rayder points came on second or third shots.

"We beat ourselves. We gave them too much," Powers said. "We had opportunities."

Charlevoix continued to work hard in the fourth quarter, but couldn't contain McBain forward Becky McNally. McNally scored six straight points midway through the quarter and finished the night with 12. Charlevoix also had problems with Kelly Hoekwater all night long. Hoekwater led McBain with 27 points.

Despite never getting closer than 18 points in the second half, Charlevoix's intensity level never dropped.

"We all played hard," Powers said following the game. "I feel good inside. I'm so proud. Five point one seconds left (down by 18) and we're still going full speed." He said he left his seniors in at the end of the game because he felt that with their intensity, they deserved to finish on the court.

The Charlevoix loss was the final high school basketball game for seniors Liz Grunch, Angela Buday, Melissa Anderson and Jill Dreyer. Grunch, who had 11 points against McBain, finishes a four-year varsity career as Charlevoix's leading scorer. Opposing coaches have offered her the highest praise possible. They've said they'll be real glad to see her graduate. Buday and Dreyer both were two-year starters at guard. Their quickness and defensive intensity set the tone for the Rayder press. Anderson, for the past two years has been a spot starter or early substitution. She has been the Rayders' most physical player and turned in one of the best games of her career in the Rayders' Regional upset of unbeaten and number two ranked Whittemore-Prescott.

"We all played hard. I feel good inside. I'm so proud. Five point one seconds left (down by 18) and we're still going full speed."

fills that purpose and then finds other reasons to perpetuate its existence.

5. Does the city have the money available to make its share of payments on the bonds?

All indications are that the answer is clearly yes. City treasurer

Rick Brandi in formulating pay-back figures has operated on the premise better safe than sorry and been very conservative. At one point, he was basing his calculations on a 50-50 split between the city and the state. Chances are the state portion will be at least 60 percent. He had also based calculations on no projected increase in property values in the DDA district. That is highly unlikely.

Say YES To Charlevoix

If the DDA Bond Referendum passes ...

- + Charlevoix will receive $240,000 per year from the State of Michigan, for the next 19 years.
- + Taxes will not increase!

If the DDA Bond Referendum does not pass ...

- Charlevoix will permanently lose $240,000 per year from the State of Michigan.
- Taxes or sewer fees will increase!

WHY??

1. The sewer digester in Bridge Park is outdated and must be removed.
2. It will cost $1,000,000 to remove the sewer digester.
3. No state funds will be available to pay for removal of the digester unless the DDA Bond Referendum passes.

Voters to decide bond issue Thursday

by L. Scott Swanson

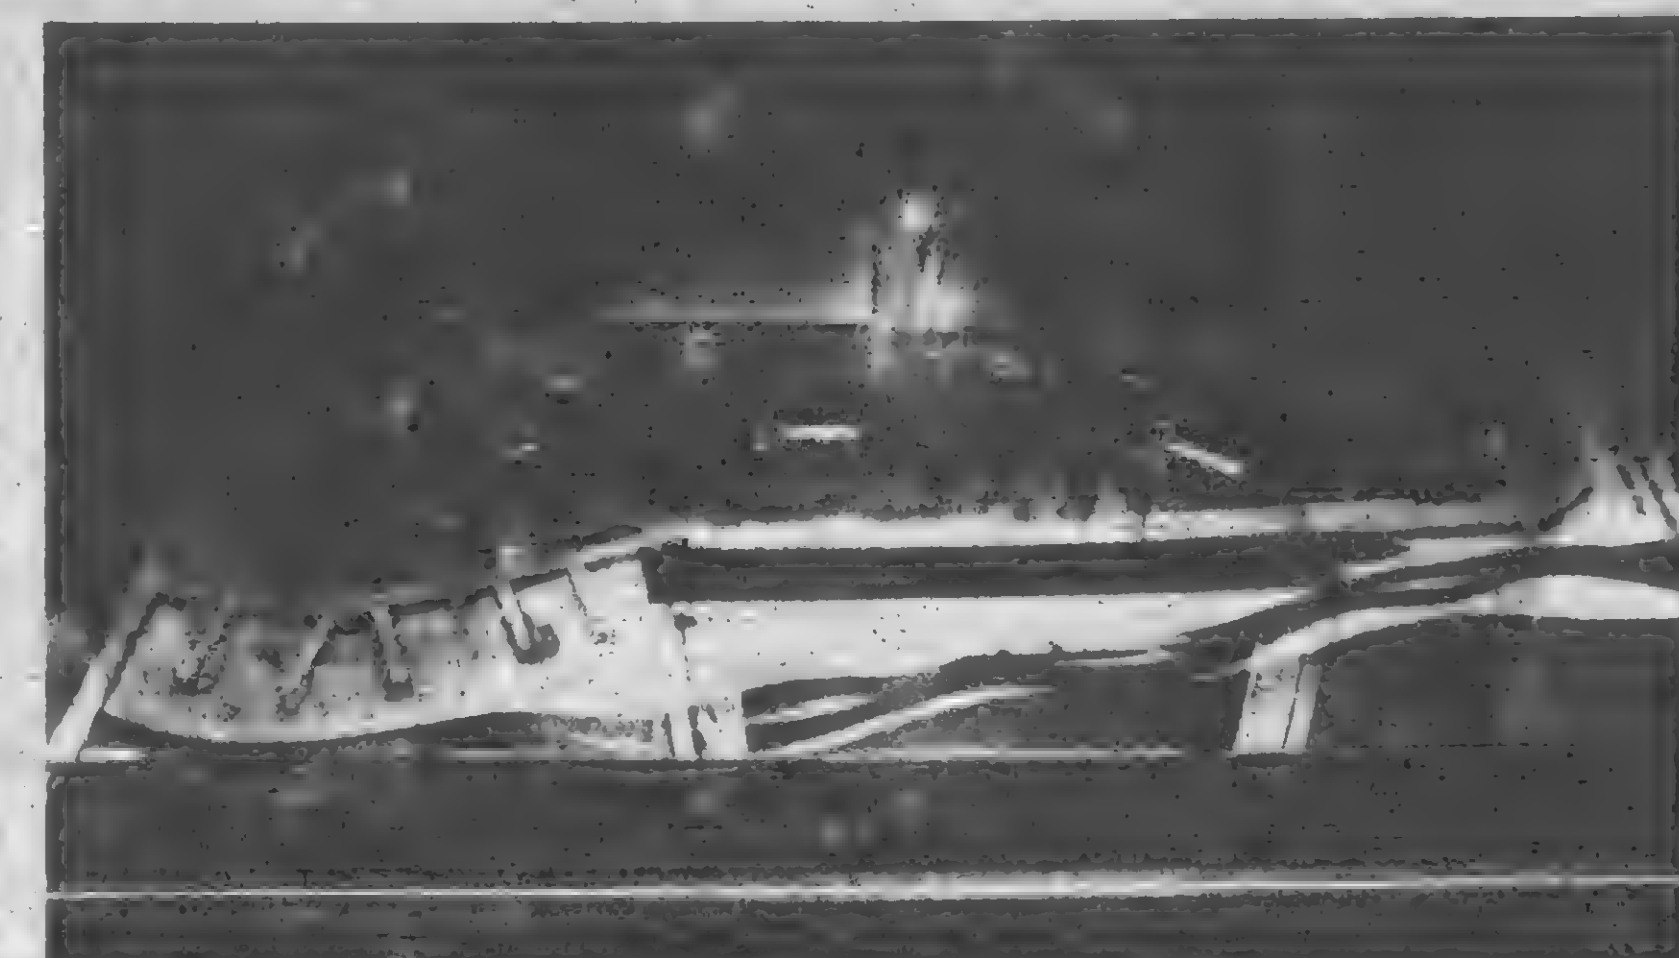

Voters in the City of Charlevoix will cast ballots Thursday, Dec. 8 to decide whether or not the city will be allowed to borrow, via the sale of bonds, up to $3.5 million to help fund improvements to Bridge Park and other Downtown Development Authority (DDA) projects.

Due to a stipulation which was part of the state education finance reform proposal adopted by Michigan voters earlier this year, if the city borrows the money, the state will pay off the majority of the bonds.

Sunday afternoon, proponents and opponents of the measure, gathered in the Charlevoix High School study hall for one last public meeting prior to Thursday's election.

People in favor of the bond issue argued that what voters are being asked boils down to nothing more than whether or not the city of

Some see drop in taxes

by L. Scott Swanson

Area property owners received their property tax bills this past week. For some, (about 30 percent) the amount due was probably a pleasant surprise while for many others (about 70 percent) educational finance reform has yet to make a difference on their tax bills.

This is the first round of bills in which some property owners in the Charlevoix school district will see less taxes on their homes due to educational finance reform.

Property owners in the Charlevoix school district will now be paying only 6 mills (See accompanying box for a definition of a "mill" and other tax terms.) annually on their homes, also known in tax terminology as homestead. Property which is non-homestead, i.e. commercial property, second Charlevoix is willing to take $5 million in state funds for DDA projects, primarily Bridge Park.

People questioning, or opposing, the issue voiced concern about the potential of the state not paying as much as anticipated, leaving city taxpayers to make up the difference.

The meeting was chaired by recently elected mayor Josh Barnes. It was sponsored by "Do it for Charlevoix," his election committee. One of the cornerstones of Barnes' campaign was support for the bond issue.

Recently elected second ward city council member Gabe Campbell said he is worried that the state may, in the future, tell the city they're going to reduce the state portion of the bond payoff. Barnes said he initially had the same concern, but contacted the state's deputy treasurer, Nick Khouri, and was assured that cannot happen. The city has also contacted attorneys who have offered the opinion that it would be a violation of the state constitution for the state to leave cities financially hanging on bonded indebtedness.

DDA member Dr. Jeff Porter contended that the money coming from the state is free and not costing city taxpayers anything. He compared it to winning the lottery.

Campbell, among others, took issue with that, saying, "We've got to stop telling people that this isn't going to cost anything." He said that clearly the DDA has cost city taxpayers money by requiring additional taxes in other areas, such as the school, to make up for school tax revenues captured by the DDA.

Barnes compared the city's opportunity to receive state help with the bond payback to a college student buying into a dormitory lunch program. He said if a student misses a lunch, he doesn't get any money back or have to pay any additional money. He's just missed lunch. His position was that in this case the city of Charlevoix will be paying along with the rest of Michigan. It's just a matter of deciding whether or not to accept the lunch.

Richard Clem, a resident of the third ward, questioned the ability of voters to control DDA spending.

"The problem I have is I do not want to further the existence of an institution I can't control," he said.

Clem said there is an appearance to the general public that a lot of money is going to one segment of the city and not to others. He said the perception of the public is that the DDA is taking care of themselves before taking care of others.

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Amy Phillips, a recent graduate of Charlevoix High School, is attending Warren Wilson College in North Carolina on a scholarship from the Woodbury Ransom Foundation. She auditioned and received a role in "Origins." This is an original play written by alumni, staff and students, especially for the Centennial Celebration of the college. The play was directed by Gram Paul and music was performed by the President, Douglas Orr and his wife, Darcy.

Also, Amy is one of four students chosen to perform with the Asheville Chorale Society. Their recent performance was sung in both English and Latin.

Don Jess of Charlevoix is listed in the Alma College winter sports guide as a member of the Scots' basketball team. Jess, a 1994 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is listed as a 5'10", 160 lb. guard.

David M. Puhl of Charlevoix and Krista A. Sumner of East Jordan are among the fall semester graduates of Michigan State University. At the Dec. 9 ceremony, Puhl will receive a bachelor of science degree in Food Systems Economics and Management while Sumner will receive a bachelor of arts degree in English and Psychology.

Charlevoix Personified... That lady with the big black dog

by Laurie Lounsbury

There are a few things you can count on every day - The sun will rise over Lake Charlevoix, the noon siren will signal lunch time, and Doretta Anderson will stride through town with her big black labrador retriever.

Anderson and her dog, Bear, never miss a day of walking four miles through town. "I get up and go every day. It's part of my sleeping and waking up routine," Anderson said.

Anderson and Bear have been touring the town for nearly two years. "I noticed my dog was getting overweight. Unfortunately, I didn't notice that I was too," Anderson said with a disarming smile. The daily exercise has taken 20 pounds off the dog and 45 pounds off Anderson. Both are now fit and muscular.

The two are easy to spot. Anderson is thirty-something and single, always wearing her canary yellow Walkman strapped over her ears, with Bear close at her heels. Even though she has country music blaring into her head through the headphones, folks still stop her for a quick chat. "People find it easy to come up and approach me, to talk about weight loss or how far I walk," Anderson said.

Observers like to see Anderson succeeding in the battle for fitness with a simple walking program. They think to themselves: "Heck, I can do that." The key to it all is Anderson's discipline. She's out there walking, rain, snow, or shine.

Anderson's job at Northern Michigan Hospitals allows her some free time each afternoon for walking. She works as a charge nurse in the emergency room on the night shift. Anderson also volunteers her time to counsel high school students on the dangers of alcohol related accidents. The counseling program is called EN-CARE (Emergency Nurses Counsel Alcohol Related Emergencies). Anderson and another emergency nurse, Cordell Cambrick, offer their counseling program free to any area high school. They will come in and do a slide presentation and music videos that demonstrate the hazards of drinking and driving.

This isn't the first time Anderson has worked to help teen-agers. She worked on a wagon train out west in a program designed to help troubled youths. Anderson also worked on an ocean schooner with at risk youths.

Anderson's life isn't all work and no play. Playing is something Anderson does well - she's one of the better ball players in the Charlevoix women's softball league. Her opponents and team mates will vouch for her ability to crush the ball, sending it deep into the outfield, or slide into home plate on a close throw. She also plays volleyball in the winter months.

Former athletic director killed in car accident

Former Charlevoix High School teacher and athletic director K. Dale Burge was killed in a traffic accident Dec. 1. The three-car accident occurred on US 31 near Shaw Road at approximately 5:45 p.m.

According to a report from the Emmet County Sheriff's Department, Burge was northbound on US 31 when his vehicle crossed the center line and hit a southbound semi truck, glanced off the truck and hit another southbound car travelling behind the truck.

Burge was pronounced dead at Northern Michigan Hospital at 6:23 p.m. The driver of the truck, Terry A. Decker of Hickory, S.C. was uninjured. The driver of the other car, Anthony A. Reeder, of New Haven suffered minor injuries and was treated and released at Northern Michigan Hospital. The cause of the accident remains under investigation.

WHY did Josh Barnes, our newly elected mayor, even consider taking on this official headache, is what many people are wondering.

Isn't being CEO of LexaLite International Corporation, married, a father of eight, and world traveler enough action? At age 66, shouldn't shedding responsibilities be a consideration rather than assuming challenging burdens?

His answer to me in plain words is that the reason he is motivated to dedicate himself to addressing the compelling issues of the city that he loves, is because he is ashamed of Charlevoix's reputation of acrimony, including the contentious, uncontrolled council meetings that have taken place in recent years, but most of all the imminent threat of the Bridge Park project going down the tube.

"Remember," he says, "I strongly urge a 'yes' vote on the Dec. 8th election for the DDA Bond Referendum!"

What other goals does he hope to achieve in the next two years? He would like to see the council members and the staff exercise control of the public's decorum at the meetings so that dignity returns to the public meetings, 2) he would like to encourage the city, county, DDA, (Downtown Development Authority) and the ISD (Intermediate School District) to work in harmony for a mutually better community, and 3) he would like to help solve the highway and airport traffic problems as well as the harbor congestion problems.

This is an ambitious program and if anyone can do it, bets are on that Barnes "the river rat" as he calls himself can't.

Barnes grew up as an only child near Detroit, in the downriver area as it is called. His father worked for the Detroit Edison Company, which had a critical bearing on Barnes's career. His mother came from a seafaring family from Cornwall, England — from the city of Penzance, to be exact, as in the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, the "Pirates of Penzance." Barnes has visited his relatives there many times.

He studied naval architecture and marine engineering at the University of Michigan, took a break to do lifeguard duty in Florida and a little salvage diving, and graduated from Lawrence Tech as a Civil Engineer. In 1951 he enlisted in the Army where he served in the Airborne, then after OCS, joined the Amphibious Operation of the Corps of Engineers.

"After leaving the army, Barnes could not find a job in his chosen field. Instead he became interested in plastics. I asked him if 'The Graduate' motivated his career move, and Barnes laughed and replied, 'No, it was because I saw the movie 'Cash McCall!'"

First employed as a plastic salesman to the automotive industry, Barnes soon joined his former boss as a partner and they became manufacturers' representatives. They later, with the five owners of St. Clair Plastics, started LexaLite and manufactured vandal proof plastic lighting. This was Josh's idea. Because of his father's career with Detroit Edison, Josh was well aware of the enormous expense vandalism cost the Detroit Edison Company annually.

As business grew rapidly, it was time to build their own factory. Barnes had been coming to Charlevoix since he was a little boy, and he loved the skiing and sailing, so it was only natural that he chose Charlevoix as the site of the new plant.

All of Barnes's children have at one time or another attended school in Charlevoix. Tom Barnes, the oldest son and a plastic engineer, lives here now and is vice-president of LexaLite. Suzanne, the oldest daughter is a computer engineer with Intel in Oregon. Shari is a teacher in Austin, Texas. Greg is on a ship, the Regal Princess and a port Information Officer. Valerie is a senior in law school in Salem, Oregon.

For the last six years, Barnes has been married to Gloria, who has three children. He loves the beauty of the winters in Charlevoix, and is very proud of the fact that he is a charter member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club and a sailor in the first Red Fox Regatta. He has given up scuba diving, but still enjoys free diving.

Most recently, LexaLite has acquired eleven and a half acres in the Industrial Park where a Scientific Center is being built. When completed, there will be 40 to 45 new jobs ranging from press operators and material handlers to scientists and engineers opening up within the company.

"The most fun I've had being mayor so far was when I performed a wedding in front of the fireplace at the Weathervane Terrace last week." The last time the wedding couple visited here was six years ago as tourists. With two witnesses by their side, the mayor did the honors and presented the bride with a rose and the groom with a carnation.

Bouncing this many balls in the air with confidence, we have no fear that Barnes will do no less as a successful and popular Mayor of Charlevoix in the days ahead.

Ratings and rankings aren't everything

Last week the all-conference and all-state teams were named for high school football and girls' basketball. Charlevoix had several players named to the all-conference teams, while Liz Grunch also received honorable mention on the Associated Press Class C All State girls' basketball team.

They have their place, but all-state and all-conference basketball and football teams along with team rankings are things best viewed with a fair amount of cynicism.

Call it cold weather induced paranoia, but living in northern Michigan, it's hard to escape an uneasy suspicion that our kids sometimes get overlooked and under rated because they don't get a lot of exposure with downstate press people picking the teams and doing the rankings. Beyond that, the process is almost completely subjective, a matter of opinion and not much more.

One fall day a few years back, when Charlevoix's boys' cross country team was in the midst of a several-year string of state championships, I bumped into Bill Taylor at the annual Martin Invitational in Charlevoix. At that time, Taylor, one of Charlevoix's best high school runners, had been out of high school for a few years, but was still working with some of the runners on the high school team.

"I said, 'Bill, how's Charlevoix's team looking?' I haven't seen them run yet this year."

"Oh, they're real good this year," he answered.

"Where are they ranked? Do they have a chance at another state championship?" I asked.

"I think they're ranked about fourth, but they'll win state," he replied. "That happens every year. The downstate papers see these downstate teams and rank them real high. Then at state finals, we go down there and beat them."

A couple of weeks ago, following Charlevoix's upset of number two ranked Whittemore-Prentiss, I was talking with Rayder coach Joe Powers. After beating the number two ranked team, the Rayders' next game was to be against number four ranked McBain.

"Is Charlevoix ranked at all?" I asked Powers.

His one word answer, "Nope."

I chuckled as I recalled the conversation a few years earlier with Taylor.

Granted the all-state and all-conference teams along with the state rankings do help bring some recognition to the athletes and are nice conversation pieces. But should they be given too much weight or be considered the last word on just where a particular team or athlete fits into the overall scheme of things? Nope.

How much good will bond issue do?

Editor,

Friends and fellow taxpayers — In regard to the $3.5 million dollars, (and with interest, much, much more) the DDA wants you to allow them to spend on 'their' downtown area only, I want you all to remember this.

The DDA board members are all appointed by Mayors of the past and have no legal responsibilities nor can they be held for any personal accountability.

-1- I have attended a number of DDA meetings and at several of these the DDA officials stated the people would have to be educated to vote for them. On how to spend money?

-2- One more of our beautiful parks, small as it may be, reconstructed to fit the plans of a select few.

-3- To date, the DDA doesn't even have all the necessary property, and no guarantee they ever will, to complete their grandiose plans. What the DDA is telling you taxpayers is, "Just give us the money, we will spend it there any how." Isn't that putting the cart ahead of the horse?

-4- What if something should happen to the bridge and the Department of Transportation needed it? What do we do then? Do we vote more money to tear things up? Stranger things have happened.

-5- How much good will this do for the ordinary taxpayer? Are you taxpayers going to let a few appointed, (not elected), people tell you how to spend your money or keep telling you under any and all circumstances, that it's free, free, free?

Think, don't be hoodwinked, please.

Let's all be sure to vote, thank you.

Polly Ver Wys

Do you accept or reject $5 million?

Editor,

To the Voters of the City of Charlevoix

Good Day,

It is now decision time. When you go to the polls this Thursday, Dec. 8, you will be voting whether to accept or reject a total of about $5,000,000 in Annual State Grants to the City of Charlevoix. You will not be voting on DDA projects, recapture of tax monies or anything but "Do you accept the State Grants that are part of the Bond Issue?"

As was pointed out at the Information Meeting Sunday, for the next twenty years, we will be paying for ALL the State Grants that fund ALL the year end Bonds for Pipeline Projects throughout the State, regardless of our acceptance or rejection of our own bonds!

Special thanks to State Senator Walter North and State Representative Beverly Bodem for attending the Information Meeting and providing their valued input.

Warm Regards,
The City of Charlevoix
Josh Barnes, Mayor

Students write letters in support of environmental awareness

Editor,

I think the wetlands are important because they provide food for animals and humans alike. They also provide sports such as fishing, hunting, etc. Wetlands have many different animals and plants too. Another thing that is great about wetlands is that they make terrific scenery. Wetlands can also stop floods from happening when bodies of water overflow. Wetlands have lots of trees that provide oxygen for the earth. These are the reasons why I think wetlands are important.

Your friend,
David Hamilton

The exact same thing happens if we destroy the wetlands. Another thing happens though. Say we build a highway over a wetland. Then if it rained a lot, it would flood the highway and we wouldn't be able to drive on it. If we preserve wetlands people can share the beauty of them for generations to come.

Sincerely,
Will Wright

Editor,
I think what you are doing about saving wetlands is great. I especially like how you have children help too. I think it's really important that we save these wetlands, not just for us, but for animals, insects, and wildlife. If we don't save them, then there will be no wetlands for our children, our children's children, etc. Someday, when I'm in high school or college I'd like to go back to Six Mile Lake/St. Claire Preserve and see it just as beautiful as I saw it in the 6th grade.

We've got to save them or we won't have much water or just a nice place to enjoy. We won't have much of anything without wetlands and I would love to help save them.

Sincerely,
Katie Yager

Editor,

I think it's important to conserve wetlands because it helps the animals to find a home and so they don't have to move because animals have habitats and if you just cut down their homes they won't have a place to live. It means to me in the future is to come back and visit the wetlands some day and they will be different. I hope they will never cut down the forests. I hope I will get to see the tree that I helped plant and I hope it is healthy and good. I love to see all kinds of things at the Saint Claire/Six Mile Lake Natural Area.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Liotta

Editor,

I think that it is important to save the wetlands because they are a part of nature, and a home to some animals. When Charlevoix Middle School 6th grade went to St. Claire Lake/Six Mile Lake Natural Area Preserve we learned how important wetlands are to so many things. There are wetlands all over the world, and a lot of them are being destroyed to build parking lots, condominiums, and lots of other things. When we destroy wetlands we are destroying habitats, and because wetlands act like a sponge for lakes and rivers it is kind of like we are destroying our lakes and rivers.

Sincerely,
Melissa McDonough

Finishing in the top five in a middle school environmental habitat writing contest were: (front from left) Katie Yager, third place; Jennifer Liotta, fourth place; Melissa McDonough, fifth place; (back row) Will Wright, second place; and David Hamilton, first place. Their letters appear in the Letters to the Editor section of this week's Courier.

Stupak says thanks

Editor,

I would like to extend my thanks to everyone in Northern Michigan for all your support during this past election.

I know the election season is difficult for many of us, and I'd like to thank you for your patience and understanding as we worked toward election day.

The American people have spoken and once again voted for change. The 104th Congress will be an exciting and challenging time for all of us.

I believe one of the reasons you elected me to serve another two-year term is my independence and strong desire to help improve Northern Michigan. Now that the Republican party holds a majority in the U.S. Congress, I am confident that my independence will help us continue moving our region forward.

Once again, thank you for all your support during the past two years. I pledge to continue working hard for Northern Michigan.

Sincerely,
Congressman Bart Stupak
Menominee

Correction

Due to a typographical error by the Courier, a number which appeared in a letter to the editor last week was incorrect. The letter was written by Gabe Campbell and criticized the DDA for spending money to hire former congressman Bob Davis as a lobbyist to retain a Coast Guard ship in Charlevoix. The correct amount of money spent to hire Davis was $24,000.

But I wonder whether
The spells mightn't come
A mite closer together.

homes, unoccupied land and rental property, will be taxed an additional 18 mills.

Within the city of Charlevoix, approximately 71 percent of the parcels of property are nonhomestead and billed at the higher rate, while the remaining 29 percent is homestead and billed at the lower rate.

Since tax bills are sent out twice a year, the six mill homestead tax is split and only three mills is billed on this billing. The three mills appears on the tax bill on the same line as the letters "S.E.T." The letters stand for School Educational Tax.

City treasurer Rick Brandt says the two most asked questions since the billings went out have been, what do the letters S.E.T. stand for and how do you tell if you're only paying the six mill "homestead" tax rate?

Property owners who wanted their homes billed at the 6 mill homestead rate, rather than the 24 mill non-homestead rate, were supposed to have filed forms this past spring. Those who missed the spring deadline, may still file; but they will need to act within the next few days. (See accompanying story.)

People unsure of which rate they're paying, can tell by looking at the line of type just below the box on the left side of their tax bill. That line will likely say either "0% declared as HSD," or "100% declared as HSD." It could also have some other percentage.

What that line indicates is what percentage of the property is paying only the homestead (HSD) rate of 6 mills. For a piece of property which is exclusively a home, (no rental apartment upstairs, or one room office area or any of that type of thing) the figure should be 100 percent.

Proposal A, the state education finance reform legislation adopted in March, reduced property taxes to 24 mills for nonhomestead and six mills for homestead property, while raising sales taxes from four to six percent. It also capped the rate of annual increases in assessed values to three percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less.

In many sections of the state, taxpayers were paying more than 24 mills for education prior to property tax reform. Consequently, the nonhomestead rate of 24 mills reduced their taxes. In Charlevoix, high property values meant the millage rate was relatively low (approximately 24 mills) compared to other areas of the state. In Charlevoix, the new rate of 24 mills is close to the rate prior to educational finance reform.

While nonhomestead property owners in Charlevoix won't see much of a change in their tax bills this year, the assessment cap will keep tax bills from rising faster than the rate of inflation in coming years.

You still may file for homestead tax break

By Laurie Lounsbury

Woops! People receiving their winter tax bills are suddenly remembering that they should have filled out a homestead property owner affidavit last summer. If they didn't do so, their taxes will be higher than they should be.

The new bills are confusing residents who are homestead property owners. Each bill has the letters S.E.T. across the top. S.E.T. stands for State Education Tax. The S.E.T. represents the six mills that all property owners will pay for school funding. The next row on the bill shows 18 mills regardless of whether you are paying homestead or non-homestead taxes. If you are a homestead owner, there will be a zero dollar amount next to the 18 mills. If you are a non-homestead owner, the dollar amount you must pay will show next to the 18 mills.

"The 18 mills shows the total amount of millage that can be levied, not necessarily the amount that is being levied," explained Carla Spencer, Spencer works in the county equalization department.

Homestead property owners who forgot to file an affidavit for the tax exemption have until December 13 to file. The forms are available at the Charlevoix County equalization department. The affidavits should be filled out and returned to your assessor.

Kenneth Dale Burge

Kenneth Dale Burge, 56, of Petoskey, died Dec. 1, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital.

Funeral was held Dec. 5, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Philip Schairbaum of the First Congregational Church officiated.

Mr. Burge was born March 5, 1938, in Northport, the son of Roland and Ruby (Kilchenmann) Burge. He grew up in Northport and Traverse City and graduated from high school in Traverse City. He earned a bachelor's degree in 1961 from Michigan State University, and a master's degree in 1968 from Winona State University in Winona, Minn.

On June 17, 1967, he married Judy King in Sault Ste. Marie, and she survives.

Mr. Burge served in the U.S. Air Force.

He was a teacher at Traverse City St. Francis from 1961-1963. From 1963-1967, he was a teacher and basketball coach at Petoskey High School. He acted as freshman basketball coach at Winona State University, and was head basketball coach at Palo Verde Junior College in Blythe, Calif. Mr. Burge became athletic director of Charlevoix High School in 1971, retiring in 1990.

He was a lifelong athlete and enjoyed fast pitch softball and was a member of several state championship teams. He played minor league baseball with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mr. Burge was a member and officer of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association, and was named Regional Athletic Director of the Year. He was a board member of the Little Traverse Bay Humane Society and a member of the Petoskey-Bay View Country Club.

Survivors include his wife, Judy, of Petoskey; two sons, Christopher and Matthew, both of Petoskey; his mother, Ruby Burge of Mount Pleasant; two brothers, Terry Burge of Bay City, and Carroll Burge of Lompoc, Calif.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the Little Traverse Bay Humane Society.

OF BLESSINGS

"As each has received a gift, employ it for one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace." (1 Peter 4:10)

We have entered the season of gift-giving; or, to be more accurate, the season of gift-buying. With all the pressure to purchase just the right gift for the people on our Christmas list, it's easy to lose track of the truth that the best gifts in life are free. Beyond that, it's important to remember that for Christians gift-giving is never limited to a day or a season, but is a lifestyle reflecting God's abounding grace and never-ending love for us in Jesus Christ.

Several weeks ago, after one of the children's messages on Sunday morning which talked about gift-giving, the youngsters of our church were challenged to make a list of gifts they could give that wouldn't cost anything. Their responses are worth sharing — be nice, smile, sing, pray, be joyful, keep the environment clean, say hello, make get-well cards, help others, be loving, be a friend. That's a great listing even for adults! Might we consider putting some of these things on this year's gift list?

Here's another suggestion: how about offering a prayer every time we do something that is related to the celebration of Christmas? God has given us the gift of prayer, so that we might stay in constant communication with Him and join our lives more meaningfully to others through His Spirit. A member of our congregation submitted this list of possibilities:

- When you light candles, pray that the light of His love may shine in you and through you to the glory of God.

- When you unpack the creche, pray that your faith, as old as your Baptism, may be a new experience of the Holy Spirit's love and power in your life.

- When you address Christmas cards to send, pray for the people who receive your greetings — each of them by name.

- When you wrap presents, pray that your gift giving may be as joyful, sacrificial, and meaningful as God's.

- When you play, or sing, or just listen to Christmas music, pray for all who make music to the Lord.

- When company is coming, pray for all homeless wanderers, and those far away from home.

- When you remember Christmases past, pray giving thanks for your memories and for those who made them so memorable.

As I write this article, my prayer is that you who are reading it will somehow see beyond all the glitter and clamor of the holidays, and discover anew the true meaning of the Christmas season — the giving of yourself in love, as God in Christ has given Himself to us.

Letters to the editor

Editor,

Citing the vital importance to the future economic health and vitality of Charlevoix, the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has unanimously adopted a policy favoring the approval of the DDA Bond Authorization on December 8. The Board urges all Chamber Members to support this very important proposal.

President Richard Joseph, in reporting the Board's action, stated that "it is essential for everyone who lives in the City of Charlevoix to go to the polls and vote 'yes' on this issue to insure economic stability for those who view Charlevoix as their community. Approval of the bond issue will allow the City of Charlevoix to obtain major funding from the State of Michigan to support projects within the downtown area. If the Bonds are not authorized we would lose annual State funding of approximately $240,000.00; which in our view would be a tragic loss of funding for the entire area."

The Chamber has been a leader in support of the implementation of the DDA Plan and views the Bridge Park Project as the key to saving the Coast Guard presence and attracting a new Coast Guard vessel in the near future. Coast Guard officials have been calling for waterfront improvements for several years and have threatened to take their ship elsewhere if modifications to the Bridge Park Project are not forthcoming.

The Park project is also essential to accommodating a new ferry vessel and accommodating the passengers using the Beaver Island Boat Company. The new Beaver Island ferry is expected to substantially increase both passenger and freight traffic to and from Beaver Island. The Boat Company projects an increase of 94 full-time equivalent jobs as a result of the new transportation activity.

Additionally, the entire commu-

Election important to Coast Guard and Island

Editor,

Perhaps the strongest voice across Northern Michigan will speak with the $3.5 million bond election this Thursday in the city of Charlevoix. Watching what will be said is the United States Coast Guard. They have indicated the need of improved facilities if they are to stay. With aids to navigation and safety of life, a resort community fronting on miles of water should find their presence comforting. Their economic impact welcome. It will be a sad day indeed if they are lost. It can happen. It happened to the Beaver Island Coast Guard Station in the early 1970s. Since then, on seven separate occasions, thirteen water-related deaths have befallen us — six within one mile of the former station. Each of those six could have been seen from the windows of that station. You could argue with the Coast Guard over the location, protection, availability, response time, and safety; however, the big brass deciding where to place the consolidated bases, seem to look at cents rather than sense. Therefore you need to say "yes," the Coast Guard and their families are a welcome and integral part of our community.

The Beaver Island Boat Company and Beaver Island will be listening. Tens of thousands of people a year come to Charlevoix because of Beaver Island. Millions upon millions of dollars have been pumped into Charlevoix, benefitting virtually every business, by visitors and residents. From the birthing room at Charlevoix Area Hospital, to restaurants, stores, pharmacies, hotels/motels, to Winchester Funeral Home, we have affected your community positively. Many of our brothers, sisters, cousins, aunts, uncles, grandparents, and friends today call Charlevoix home. In valuing this relationship and to enhance it, we have been working for years on this Bridge Park Project with Charlevoix officials to our mutual benefit. We are committed to assisting in a significant portion of this project. It will be spectacular, and we will all be proud to have a new ferry pulling into new facilities in 1996. Together, we can move into the next century and continue the positive relationship for generations.

While the sewage pump station on the waterfront could probably remain in that location, the equipment is near its life expectancy and needs to be replaced at significant expense.

I attended the public informational meeting facilitated by Mayor Josh Barnes, with Senator Walt North, and Representative Bev Bodem this past Sunday. As Representative Bodem stated: "Due to our smaller populations in Northern Michigan communities, we must fight for our fair share of funding which typically goes to larger southern Michigan communities."

City of Charlevoix voters — a great responsibility, affecting thousands of people forever, rests in your voice this Thursday. The questions: Do you want to receive millions of dollars over the next several years from the State of Michigan to improve your community, create and retain jobs and indicate your wishes to enhance the relationship with the U.S. Coast Guard and Beaver Island? In the interest of both our communities, please say yes!

Sincerely,
Bill McDonough

Chamber board supports bond proposal

nity will benefit from the removal of the sewage digester. This enhancement will occur at some point in the near future. The benefit to Charlevoix is that local taxpayers will not have to pay the entire cost of the removal. This windfall is made even better by the fact that our wonderful waterfront will be removed of the unsightly, odor-emitting digester.

(Chamber) President Joseph stated that it was the Board's position that the Bond issue is important not only to people who own property in the downtown area, but to all area business owners and their employees. He urges everyone to contact persons who reside in the city of Charlevoix and let them know how important the issue is. "We really need to get out the pro-Charlevoix, yes vote on this issue," Joseph said.

DECEMBER 1994

Pool sewer request approved

The city council has agreed to allow the city to extend sewer service for a proposed community swimming pool in Hayes Township.

At Monday evening's city council meeting, Bruce MacArthur of the Friends of the Pool said the group has also received permission from Hayes Township and the County Planning Commission. The township and county planning commissions agreed to allow the extension of the sewer into the township under limited circumstances.

MacArthur also said that pool supporters have been working on a design and fund-raising. He said the pool, which will be located on north U.S. 31 near Waller Road, will be a white building with a green roof in harmony with other buildings on the Charlevoix Country Club.

MacArthur said the group is working on fund-raising and that Vacation Properties Network has agreed to donate the proceeds of their 1995 golf outing to the pool in memory of Bill Adams, a former pool supporter who recently died. Pool supporters plan to unveil a new sign at the pool site at 10 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 10.

Dave Strawbridge, President of Friends of the Pool, said the pool will be privately funded and will be located on private property. He said it will be a public indoor pool managed by Friends of the Pool. He said final fund-raising will be taking place in the next six months and plans are to break ground in April.

City manager Mike Wiesner said that in recent days the city has been asked to consider waiving some of the sewer hook-up fees for the pool. He said the city staff needs time to review that possibility to see if that would be legally possible.

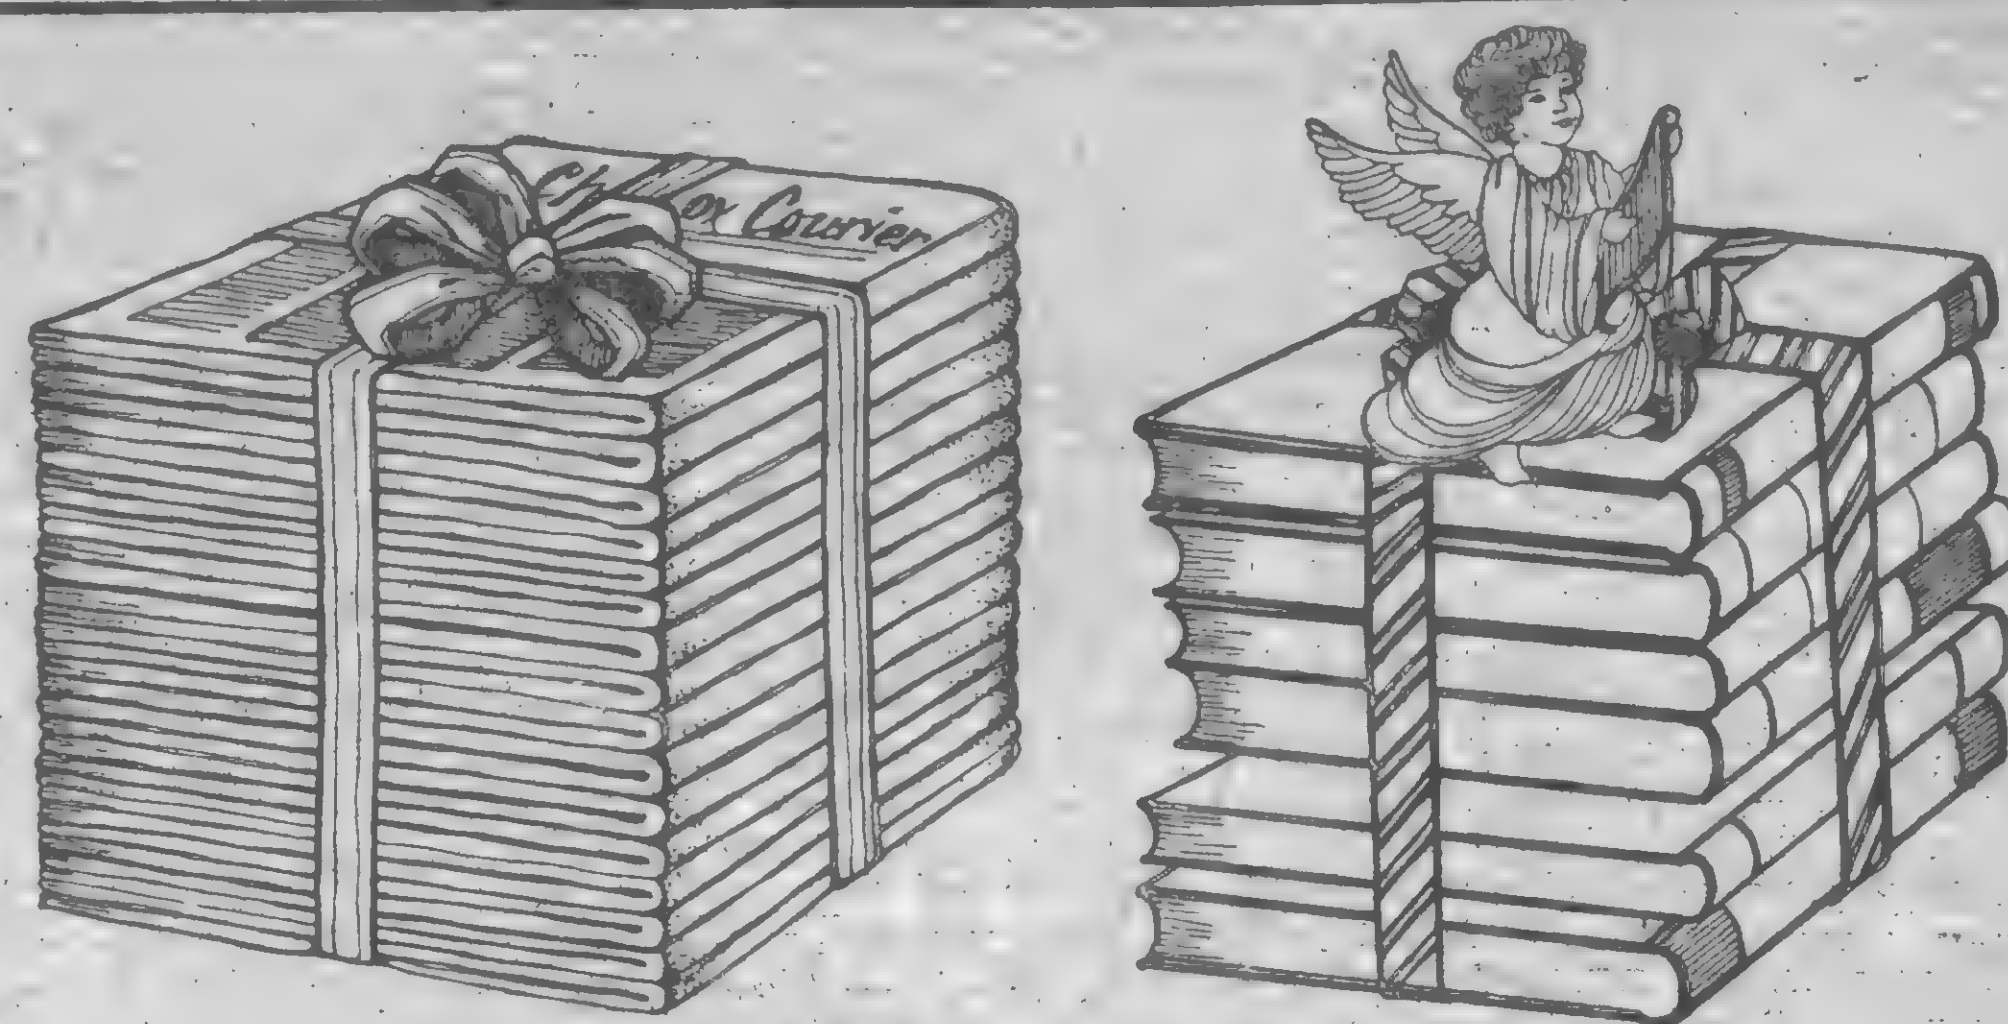

The city council approved the contract without the fee waivers, while indicating they would be willing to revisit the issue following staff review.

Domestic abuse to be discussed

Identifying when someone is a victim of domestic abuse and ways you can help will be the subject of a talk at Charlevoix Area Hospital, Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 1:30 p.m. in the hospital conference rooms.

Kris Krajewski, project director of the domestic abuse program at the Women's Resource Center, will be the speaker. Anyone who works in health care positions whereby identifying abuse is necessary, and anyone who suspects abuse of a friend, relative, or co-worker, would benefit from attending the talk. There is no charge and reservations are not required.

Test scores improve for Charlevoix students

by Laurie Lounsbury

Charlevoix kids are doing better on tests.

On the 1994 MEAP test, (Michigan Education Assessment Program) Charlevoix students performed better in math, reading, and science than they did in 1993.

The reading and math tests are given each year in the fourth, seventh, and tenth grades. Students' scores fall into one of three categories: Satisfactory, moderate, and low. By 1997, students will have to score in the satisfactory or moderate level in order to get a state endorsed high school diploma.

Charlevoix tenth graders showed the most dramatic improvement in reading. About 31 more students scored in the satisfactory level over last year's test. Twenty-six kids moved out of the low range into a higher range.

In the seventh grade, only seven students scored in the low level on the math test. Seventh graders improved in both reading and math.

The test scores can't be interpreted as a perfect measure of school progress or student achievement. Since the test is always given in the fourth, seventh, and tenth grades, a different group of students is taking the test each year. From one year to the next, a group of kids may have a collectively higher or lower general skill level.

For example, this year's fourth grade class had a few more kids move into the satisfactory level, but about one fifth of the kids scored in the low level. This is an increase from last year's students scoring in the low level. Elementary school principal Richard Swenor explained that this particular fourth grade class has consistently had a lower SAI (School Ability Index) than other classes.

High school counselor Charlie Bentley attributed the overall improved test scores to better preparation. "This year there was a more organized effort to prepare the kids. The teachers covered test terminology, test format, and reviewed test material," Bentley said.

Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson added that aligning curriculum with the test helped. Subjects on the test are being taught before the students take the test. In past years, some subjects were being taught during or after the testing period.

State modifies sex bias requirements

by Laurie Lounsbury

School Superintendent Dr. Roberta Jackson was delighted to hear about a recent change in school accreditation requirements. But her joy caused a moment of concern for some parents at the last school board meeting.

For the time being, the state of Michigan has dropped its equity requirement. The equity requirement addresses differences in male and female test scores. If either sex scores more than 15 percent higher than the other sex on the MEAP test, then the state considers it inequitable. If such a difference exists in a school district, then the school must fix the problem or suffer a financial penalty in the future.

Elementary School Principal Richard Swenor reported that the state decided to drop the equity requirement. When the superintendent heard the news, she broke into a grin and let out an elated, "Yes!"

Vel Kammerman has a boy and girl in the school system. She was quick to question Jackson's glee over the decision. "If we have more than a 15 percent difference, that's gender bias, and gender bias should be looked at whether it's a state mandate or not," Kammerman said.

Jackson explained that male and female test scores can vary from one year to the next. If males or females consistently scored higher for several years in a row, then that would be a valid indication of a gender bias problem. As it is, boys' and girls' performances on tests flip-flop back and forth over the years, never showing any pattern. The state was only going to be looking at one year's worth of test scores to make a determination on the equity issue, which wouldn't be a fair sampling. "It's not consistent enough to get a handle on it. That's the bone of contention," said Charlie Bentley, high school counselor.

So what happens if the equity requirement remains in place and Charlevoix boys and girls have more than a 15 percent disparity? Charlevoix would be penalized five percent of their state funding, which adds up to about $400,000. Jackson was obviously pleased to hear that the state changed the policy because losing $400,000 would be a tough problem for Jackson and the school district.

WE JUST DON'T UNDERSTAND.

That's what DDA says. Courier says, "Too hard to explain." Here is what we have to understand.

Jan. 16, 1994. Courier Headline: DDA HURRIES TO BORROW $1.74 Million. Needed to Renovate BRIDGE PARK — EAST PARK — HARBOR MARINA/CHAMBER COMMERCE BUILDING. Beaver Island Boat Grant to add $750,000 Total Cost including Interest:

$2,920,000

Dec. 8, 1994 VOTE FOR $3.5 Million Bond. For BRIDGE PARK. No mention of EAST PARK or HARBOR MARINA/CHAMBER COMMERCE BUILDING. No mention $750,000 from Island Boat Operation Total Cost including Interest:

$5,890,000

There is MORE. ADD $450,000 for Coast Guard Storage Facility. That's what Council was told is COST estimate. ADD $230,000 for STATE LAND in BRIDGE PARK. Since this money not part of BOND City will have to put it up. City doesn't have it, so WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

WHAT DO WE HAVE?

We are told DDA has $159,000 per year CAPTURE.

Boat GRANT adds $750,000

City could add TAX MONEY from UNCAPTURED SEV. of DDA DISTRICT. What we have is around $1 MILLION on hand NO DEBT, NO BOND. And a project designed and built for what we can afford. Our Council can add to the pot by TAXING DDA at the Maximum allowable MILLAGE RATE.

WHAT DO WE NEED?

The OPERATION of our CITY and the SPENDING of its TAX DOLLARS BACK in the HANDS OF ELECTED GOVERNMENT. OUR ELECTED PEOPLE should determine HOW, WHERE, WHEN and WHAT TAX MONEY BUYS.

The SEWAGE DIGESTER has to GO. That alone frees up an enormous amount of Dock Space. Raw Cost for this $600,000 that subtracted from $1 Million WE HAVE leaves $400,000 for DOCKING RENOVATION.

WHAT WE DON'T UNDERSTAND

The DDA has accomplished all its wonders with our Lake Shore in its present condition. That is really hard to UNDERSTAND.

VOTE NO!!!! VOTE NO!!!!

LexaLite signs for $5 million in bonds

On Nov. 16, LexaLite Scientific Center project "$5,000,000 Michigan Strategic Fund Limited Obligation Revenue Bonds, Series 1994" closing was completed. The Michigan Strategic Fund issued the bonds, purchased and to be marketed by Robert W. Baird Company, Incorporated. The bonds are backed by a letter of credit issued by Comerica Bank, and Society Bank of Ann Arbor is the Trustee. Bond proceeds will be used for the LexaLite Scientific Center project, announced just over two months ago.

This project involves site acquisition, construction, equipping and furnishing of 27,500 square feet of manufacturing facilities and related offices. LexaLite expects the project to create 23 new jobs initially. Current employees will be given opportunity to transfer to the highly skilled positions at the new facility.

LexaLite is a major producer of injection molded, precision, optical components for the lighting industry. LexaLite Scientific Center, located on Taylor Road, is already under construction with a May 1995 completion date targeted. According to Josh Barnes, LexaLite's CEO, the project will enable LexaLite to "move swiftly into some very new, very high-tech, very exciting lines." Barnes also expressed his appreciation to the city and to the participants in the bond issue for their "tremendous cooperation and efforts" in making it possible for LexaLite to proceed with the project in Charlevoix.

Seminar explains how to write a business plan

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance is sponsoring a "Learn How to Write a Business Plan" seminar Wednesday, Dec. 14 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at the North Central Michigan College library conference center, Petoskey.

This seminar is structured to assist prospective new business owners and entrepreneurs in writing their own business plans. The goal of preparing a business plan is to assure the success of your business by establishing a system of checks and balances. A business plan is also a prerequisite to obtaining bank financing or securing investors.

Program presenters are Rick Berber, Marketing Director, Burns Clinic, and former director of the Business Development Center, Petoskey, and Chris Fought, Commercial Loan Officer with NBD Bank.

Registration for the program is $20 per person, or $15 if payment received by Dec. 9, 1994. For more information, call the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance at 616-582-6482 or send registration to P.O. Box 8, Boyne City, MI 49712.

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance is a private, non-profit economic development organization.

Allen R. Hoxie, Governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis International, recently spoke at a meeting of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club to congratulate the club on its 60th anniversary. Three Rayders named all conference Charlevoix Rayder football players Jerry Duhart, Chuck Pop and Kurt DeGrow have been named to the Lake Michigan Division All-Conference football first team. Bryan Jarema and Dan Harris received honorable mention. All except Harris are seniors. The Rayders finished the 1994 season with a 3-3 record in league play and a 3-6 record overall.

Duhart, a senior halfback led the Rayders in rushing. Duhart improved immensely between his junior and senior years. In his junior year, Duhart had speed, but ran straight up. Consequently, he took some big hits. In his senior year, Duhart still had the speed, but also began dropping his shoulder and breaking tackles.

Pop, a tight end and defensive lineman, caught several passes including two which resulted in long touchdowns. For someone 6'4" and 230 pounds, Pop demonstrated surprising speed on the touchdown catches.

DeGrow played on both the offensive and defensive lines, two units which improved as the season progressed. DeGrow's strength was his combination of size and mobility.

Jarema, a team co-captain, played fullback. A shoulder injury slowed him at the beginning of the season, but midway through the season he began running well. Built along the lines of a cement block, fairly quick to hit the hole and not the least bit shy about crashing into players who got in his way, defenders found tackling Jarema to be a headache.

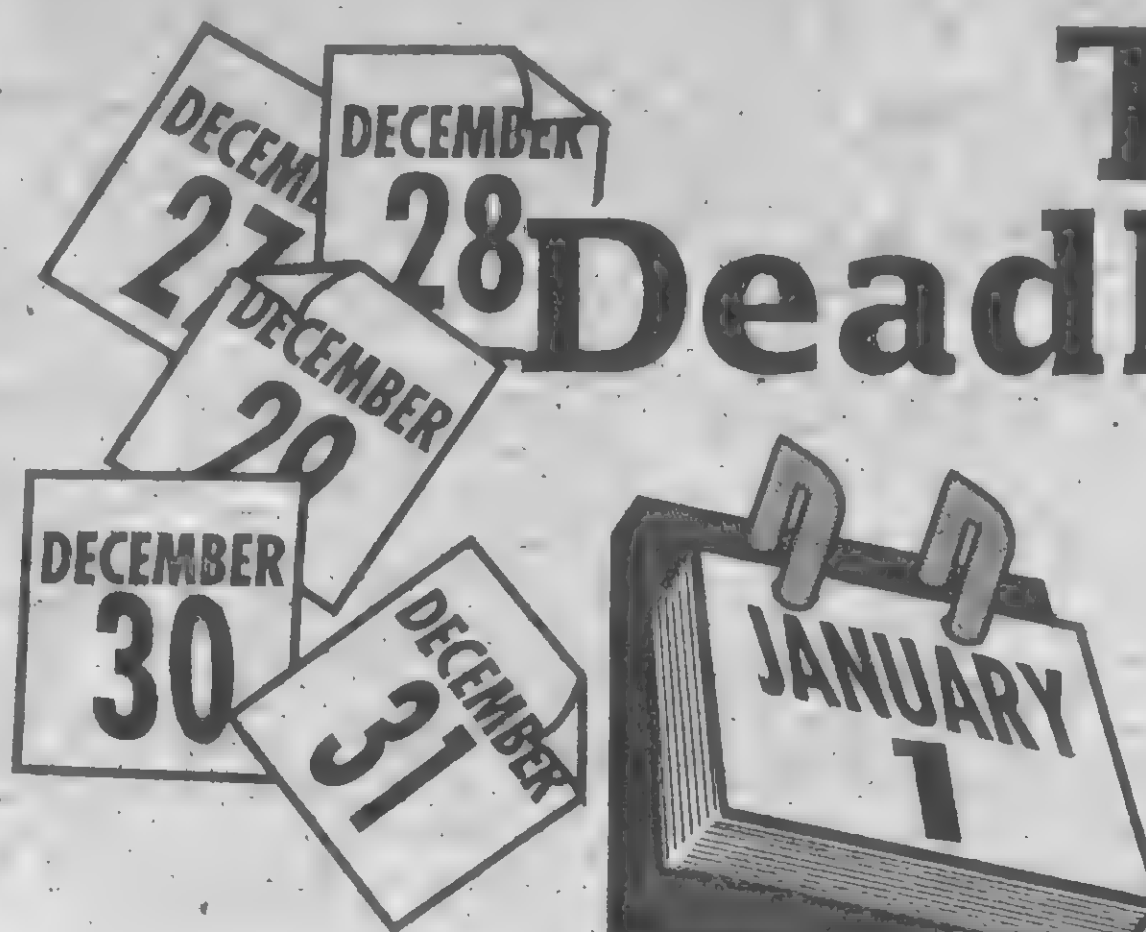

Harris, a junior linebacker, led the Rayders in tackles and plans to do that again next year.

Football contest final results

Rod Stoneham won the Charlevoix Courier's final football contest of 1994 with a record of 8-0. Kyle Borths, his father, Bob Borths, Rich Kelly, Larry Nunemaker, Tonia Zellers and the Courier Guru all finished 7-1. Two games in this past week's contest ended in ties and were thrown out.

Leroy Buchanan finished the season with the best picking percentage among contestants who had at least 60 picks. Buchanan was 55-23 for a picking percentage of .705. Mark Fiegel finished a game back at 54-24 .692.

Rayder girls basketball players receive post-season honors

Charlevoix senior Liz Grunch received honorable mention on the Associated Press Michigan High School Class C All State basketball team. Grunch is joined on the Lake Michigan Division All Conference first team by Jill Dreyer and Liz Kelly. Angela Buday and Kris Blanchard received honorable mention on the All Conference team. Grunch, Dreyer and Buday are seniors. Kelly and Blanchard are seniors.

The 1994 Rayders finished the season with an 11-1 league record and at 15-7 overall. In addition to the league title, the Rayders won the district title. In regional play the Rayders knocked off previously undefeated and number two ranked Whittemore-Prescott, prior to losing to number four ranked McBain in the regional finals. McBain advanced to the semi-finals where they lost to the eventual Class C state champions, Redford Bishop Borgess.

Grunch spent four years on the Rayder varsity team and accumulated 1,346 points. During her senior season she led the league in scoring, averaging nearly 20 points a game, and also averaged nearly six rebounds a game while playing guard. Aside from her shooting ability, strong hands, an ability to go either to her right or left, and exceptional court awareness allowed her to make a big pain of herself to opponents on both offense and defense. Dreyer, Kelly and Buday are all nasty quick and intense defenders. Blanchard is a tall, agile forward who often scored in double figures and like the other three is intensely competitive.

Liz Grunch was named to the All Conference first team and received honorable mention on the Associated Press Class C All State team.

Senior guard Jill Dreyer was named to the All Conference first team.

Bond issue passes, park project is a go

by L. Scott Swanson

With the blessings of city voters, $3.5 million in bonds will be sold and the Downtown Development Authority's (DDA) Bridge Park Project will go forward.

By a vote of 552 to 258 city voters approved the bond proposal in a Dec. 8 election. The proposal received support in all three wards, passing 249 to 83 in the first ward; 149 to 97 in the second ward; and 154 to 75 in the third ward.

Following the election, the city will borrow $3.5 million through the sale of bonds to fund improvements to Bridge Park. Through a provision in the state school finance reform proposal passed in March, the state will pay more than half of the cost of the bonds.

Following the election, recently elected mayor Josh Barnes, an ardent supporter of the Bridge Park Project said, "I am very proud of the people of Charlevoix and send thanks to all who voted in favor of the bond referendum."

City treasurer Rick Brandt said Charlevoix's bonds will be packaged with approximately 20 other bond proposals from Michigan communities and sold by the Michigan Municipal Bond Authority Dec. 21. Packaging the Charlevoix bonds with other bonds makes it easier for the city to sell the bonds.

Brandt said the city will know the interest rate on the bonds Dec. 14 and then be able to determine exactly what the annual payments will be. The bond issue is insured so the city should receive favorable interest rates.

Brandt said that hopefully the fiscal problems of Orange County in California won't adversely affect the municipal bond market. Orange County made some risky investments which went bad and left the county in financial trouble. The City of Charlevoix has an investment policy which limits

Foundation helps students

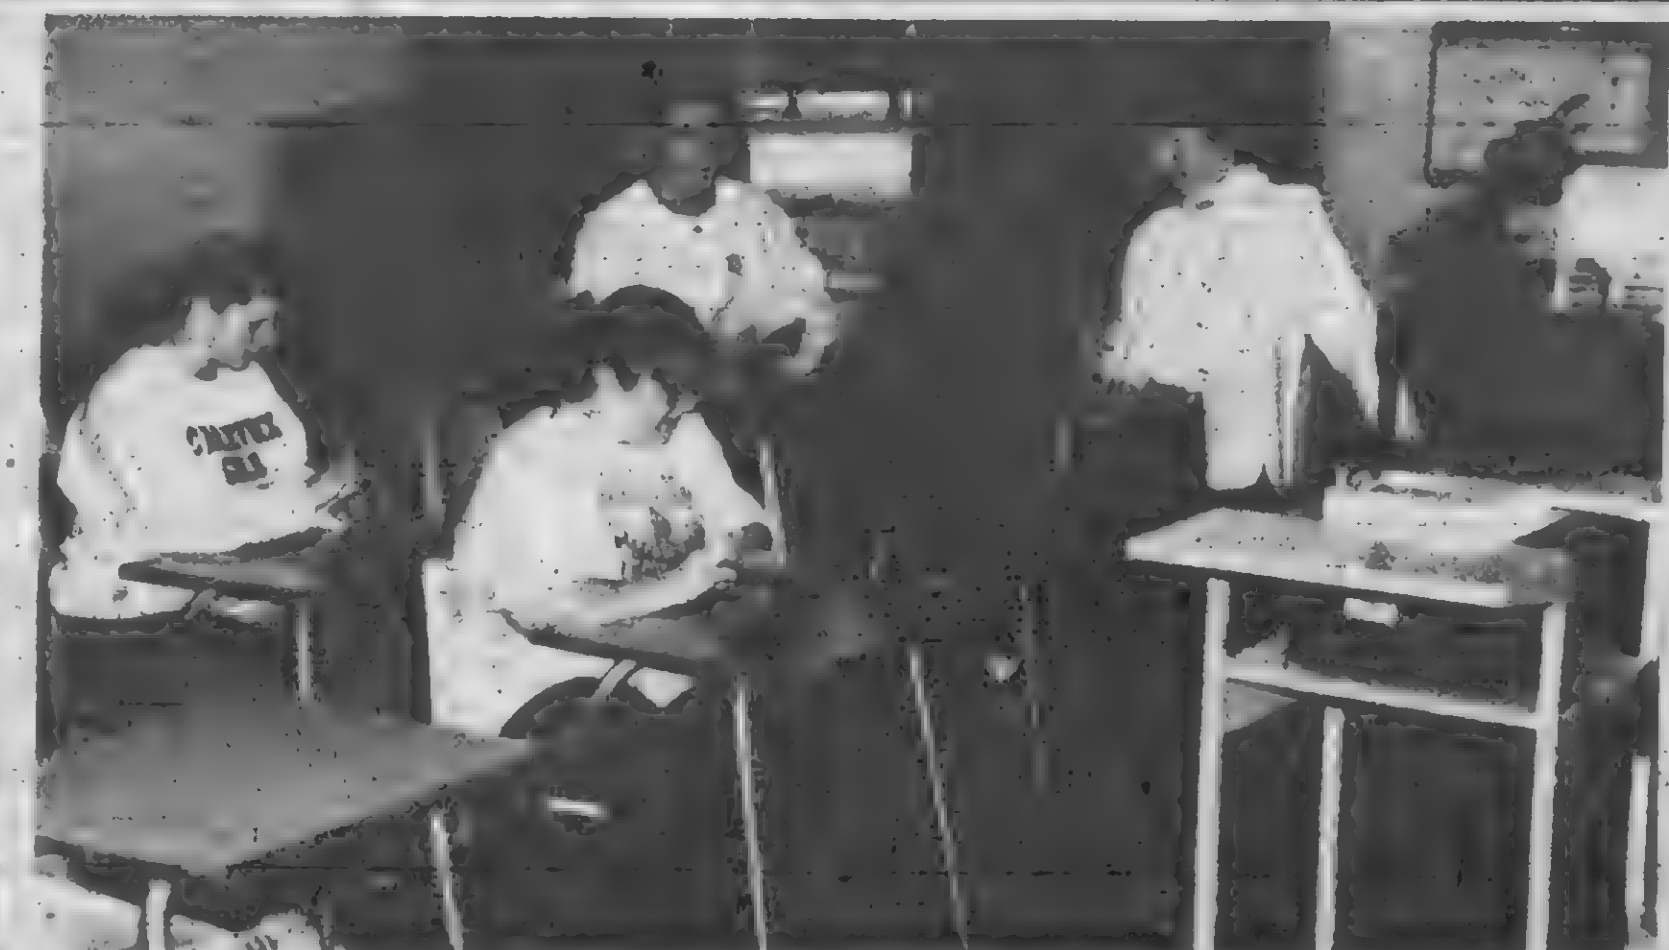

by L. Scott Swanson

When Charlevoix High School graduates begin a college math course, they will now hit the ground running rather than fumbling on an unfamiliar form of calculator.

Until recently, Charlevoix High School students, unlike students in many other schools, were not using graphing calculators in their high school math courses. Consequently, in the first few weeks of college math courses, Charlevoix students found themselves familiarizing themselves with buttons while other students were working on equations. It was like starting the race a half-step behind.

With help from the Charlevoix

...foundation helps students hit the ground running

School Enrichment Foundation and the Frey Foundation that problem has now been corrected. School funds purchased 24 graphing calculators which went into use about a month ago. The Enrichment Foundation, using a portion of a $10,000 grant from the Frey Foundation, recently awarded a $2,100 grant which purchased 24 additional graphing calculators which arrived last week. With two sets of calculators, all of the high school students will be able to get significant time and training on them.

Graphing calculators look quite a bit like normal calculators, but they have a larger display screen. Students can use the graphing calculators to run multi-line formulas and create complex graphs.

Charlevoix students have taken to the Texas Instruments TI82 calculators like ducks to water. Last Thursday, teacher Laurie Keller had four freshmen acquainting themselves with the calculators by working on some simple formulas and graphs. First, she had the students determine the return on a $1,000 investment given varying interest rates and investment times.

Keller can hook a calculator up to an overhead projector which allows her to display her work on a screen at the front of the classroom. Students can then follow along by comparing their work with the on-screen display. Two calculators can also be hooked together to transfer formulas. That allows the teacher to put a formula on one calculator and then transfer it to student calculators.

After playing with the investment formula for a few minutes, the students wanted to do more. Spotting a sample graph which Keller had stuck on the wall at the front of the classroom, one of the students asked, "Are we going to make a picture like that?"

Another remarked, "I want to figure out how to do that. That looked pretty cool."

Keller said there's been a lot of information published in educational literature about ways graphing calculators can be used in the classroom. She and the other high school math teachers felt the calculators would be a step forward so they began looking into ways to get them. After receiving enough funding from the school board for 24 calculators, Keller put together a proposal to the Enrichment Foundation for the other 24.

One of the most compelling arguments for funding the grant came from an unexpected source, Vickie Voisin, chairman of the Enrichment Foundation, had a copy of the graphing calculator proposal at home on the table where it was spotted by her son, Vincent, who was home from college. He told his mother the graphing calculators are very much needed at Charlevoix High School. He said that when he got to college, many students from other high schools had already worked with the calculators and he had to hurry to catch up.

The Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation uses private contributions and interest from those contributions to fund educational initiatives the school system otherwise might not be able to afford. As stated in the foundation's by-laws, the purpose of the organization is to "aid in the fulfillment of teaching and service functions of Charlevoix Public Schools." Members of the foundation board are parents, business people and school staff members.

The foundation was founded approximately eight years ago. This year it has been more active because it had additional money to distribute. In addition to interest revenues from previous contributions, the foundation received the $10,000 grant from the Frey Foundation and raised $3,000 by sponsoring an Alyce Lesser Memorial Golf Scramble. Prior to her death, Lesser was a long-time member of the foundation board.

In recent months, through grants the foundation has provided: approximately $2,100 for the graphing calculators; $4,200 for an additional high school math department computer and software; $3,200 for a hand computer and printer which will allow students to compose music; $1,500 to help fund school in-service work with Dr. John Champlin; $2,000 to fund a high school science lab computer and related instructional equipment; $500 for display boards to help elementary, middle and high school students showcase their work; and $450 to purchase books for a visiting author program at the elementary school.

Voisin said the foundation is happy to be able to provide support for the programs. The foundation money isn't meant to sit around. The goal is to get rid of monetary roadblocks for educational initiatives that lead to brighter students and better citizens. Teachers who wish to submit grant proposals may contact school business manager Rich Kelly. People who wish to make contributions to the foundation may write to: Charlevoix School Enrichment Foundation, P.O. Box 72, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Cribbage tournament ready to go

The annual Masons and Odd Fellows cribbage tournament will begin play at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 5 at the Masonic Hall. The annual tournament began in the early 1930s as a way for local men to pass some time during the winter. More than 60 years later, members of the two organizations continue the tournament tradition. The two groups play one night a week for ten weeks. The stakes are high. The losing team has to serve dinner to the other team at a post-tournament banquet.

Jeannie Kerner concentrates on a math problem as she learns some of the finer points of working with a graphing calculator.

Car becomes kind of like part of the family

by Laurie Lounsbury

It's a car fit for a conquering hero. With an exterior the color of creamy flesh, the two-toned 1954 Fleetwood Cadillac is more than a classic car. For Jon Runquist, it's a family heirloom.

Runquist's grandfather Ralph Hartwell Jernegan bought the car new in 1954. For the next couple of years, the car made regular trips to Big Ten campuses. Wherever the University of Michigan was playing, Ralph was going. Ralph was a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School in 1900. He also helped Louie Ehele write the Michigan fight song, "Hail To The Victors." The Runquist family has a letter from songwriter Louie Ehele, noting Ralph's contribution to the famous fight song. Ralph died in 1956, leaving the car to Runquist's uncle. After tooling around in the magnificent road warrior for a few years, the uncle made the wise decision to take it off the road and store the car. It sat, carefully preserved, in a garage for 27 years. Runquist inherited the car a year ago.

Now it's Runquist's turn to be the victor valiant. He sits up high behind the wheel of the stately vehicle, driving with careful ease. The car bears the Indiana license plate, "BG 10," Runquist explained that his grandfather had always been a fan of Michigan and the Big Ten. When he became a senator for the state of Indiana, he was given the BG 10 plates.

Runquist isn't concerned about the worth of the car. It's never going to leave the family, so its market value has no meaning to him. He knows its mint condition interior makes it a one of a kind collector's car. Runquist's grown children, a son and a daughter, will eventually be left with the care and maintenance of the superb old auto.

Jon Runquist sits behind the wheel of his 1954 Fleetwood Cadillac, a car which has attended almost as many U of M football games as Bo Schembechler.

Local people may have seen this grand old car cruising the streets of Charlevoix in recent weeks. The car is a 1954 Fleetwood Cadillac which has been in the family of Jon Runquist since it was new.

Christmas Project needs funds

Christmas is coming and the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project is short of money. Project coordinators have said, "This year the funds have simply not been coming in, although the need is even greater than it was last year."

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project has been going on for a number of years. It is directed by a board of volunteers and operates out of the Congregational Church on the corner of State Street and Park Avenue. The project provides food baskets and gifts for approximately 160 families and 200 children in the Charlevoix area. It's a wonderful example of widespread kindness and cooperation.

This year's funding problem may well be a case of the project being a victim of its own success. People may not be contributing this year because they feel that, as in the past, several other groups are contributing to the project and that the need is taken care of. But according to project coordinators, that simply isn't the case this year.

Another possibility is that people simply haven't gotten geared toward Christmas yet. Well folks, it's Dec. 14. The star grows bright, the goose is waddling and the fat guy's warming up the sleigh. Now's the time.

If you would like to contribute to the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project, call Kay Smith at 547-2920 or Mary Helen Riggle at 547-9515. If you would like to volunteer your time or see the project in operation, stop by the Congregational Church some morning next week. As the project organizers describe it - "you would find the usual atmosphere at this time of year... hectic, hurried, and smiling volunteers of many churches in town thoroughly enjoying the confusion of putting together food baskets and gifts."

Letters to the editor

Gratitude expressed for bond election

Editor,

Dear City Residents:

Just a note to express my gratitude to all who supported the Bridge Park and other projects through the vote last Thursday. It is gratifying that the voters had an opportunity to review the issues and vote their minds. Although it might have been a lot of work for all parties for and against the matter, the right choice was made in allowing a vote. Some taxpayers have been angry that "unelected officials" have made major decisions with hundreds of thousands of dollars, the concern being that these decisions may not have been popular with the taxpayers/voters. However, when given an opportunity, the taxpayer/voter still came forth and made the choice and yet the opposition had a chance to have their voice heard as well. Democracy in action. On another note, the arguments in the past over whether or not the sale of the Kusina property was a good move by the DDA; it is my understanding that if Mr. Koucky had acquired the property (at his offer price) he would have netted back a "parking fee" windfall of $48,000. If you figure this into the overall picture, the sale might not have been such a bad deal after all. I for one would like to see the theater remain in the downtown area.

Sincerely,
Richard L. Gillespie

Erin Buckner and Santa Claus discussed the outlook for Christmas 1994 this past Saturday at East Park. Santa passed out dozens of boxes of candy to area children.

Students rehearse for Christmas program

The pleasure of putting on a Christmas program doesn't stop at the elementary school. High School students will be doing their own thing with a Christmas assembly, December 22 at 12:30 p.m. in the high school gym. The program's entries range from line dancing to Flamenco dancing, along with an all male ballet review performing the Nutcracker. Faculty, parents, and students are all getting in on the act. Male quartets and female soloists will perform holiday tunes.

A group of parents will have a surprise entry, and of course Santa will make an appearance at the end of the show. The public and parents are encouraged to attend.

Youth board appointed by KCB

A six member Youth Advisory Committee has been established by the Board of Directors of Keep Charlevoix, Inc. which will represent viewpoints from a student perspective and provide support for major functions.

Louis J. Hollow, chairman of the nominating committee, named Dan Kechn, Chuck Meier, Sara Schenck, Sheena Sitzema, Ryan Smith and Erin Wright. Their nominations were unanimously accepted by the KCB board at a recent meeting.

Although KCB has always had a student representative on its board, establishing a separate committee of youth advisors "is an excellent idea whose time is past due," said Hollow. "The youth of Charlevoix have been intimately involved in keeping Charlevoix beautiful since its inception."

All the students named "already have generously donated their time," explained Bruce MacArthur, KCB president. "Not only do they serve as liaison between KCB and Charlevoix schools, they have helped with Operation Petunia community picnic, Petunia Party/Pool Auction, computerized record keeping and weeding flower beds."

YAC members, in addition to holding committee meetings, are invited to attend all KCB board meetings held six times a year.

Oh Boix

A collection of praises, awards and accomplishments involving Charlevoix area people.

Eleonora Frey of Charlevoix is one of more than 695 freshmen studying at Boston University's College of General Studies. Members of the Class of 1998 come from all 50 states and 132 foreign countries.

Frey, a graduate of Emma Willard School, plans to major in international business. She is the daughter of John and Heidi Frey of Charlevoix.

Mike Gallagher of Rogers High School in Wyoming, Michigan was named to the 1994 football All-Conference team for the OK Conference in southwestern Michigan. Gallagher is a junior who plays both offensive and defensive back. He was also named to the Advance all area team for the southwest region of Kent County. Gallagher is the son of Mike and Deb Gallagher. He is the grandson of Florence Eggersdorf of Charlevoix and Jean LaFreniere of Charlevoix.

Two East Jordan High School alumni recently received scholarship awards at Alma College. Enos Bacon III received a Tartan Award while Jennifer Cook received a Trustee Honors Scholarship.

Don Jess, a freshman quarterback at Alma College, received the Coach's Award at the football team's post-season banquet. The award is given to a nonstarter who unselfishly contributes to the team.

North named to chair Agriculture committee

Senate Majority Leader-Dick Posthumus has appointed Senator-Elect Walter North (R-St. Ignace) chair of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee.

"I am very pleased," North said. "As chair of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, I will have a unique opportunity to help shape state agricultural and forestry policy. This will also give the citizens of northern Michigan a loud voice in these issues."

North was also appointed to serve on both the Senate Transportation and Tourism and Senate Education committees, as well as the Joint committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR).

"I am also looking forward to working on the Transportation and Tourism and Education committees," North said. "I feel fortunate that I will be a part of Michigan's two greatest debates in the coming year — infrastructure improvements and education reform."

The senator-elect said he is also anxious to begin work on JCAR. "Because rules have the power of law, it is extremely important for the public to have a voice in the administrative rules process. Without JCAR, the laws we pass to protect or enhance society may not be carried out effectively — eroding the purpose of those laws."

Roberts - Fiegel

Jackie Roberts of St. Louis, Missouri, and Mark Fiegel of Charlevoix were married in an afternoon wedding, September 3. The service was held at the Hanley Road Baptist Church in St. Louis. A sunflower theme was chosen for the double ring ceremony, witnessed by 160 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Nina and Russell Roberts of St. Louis. The groom is the son of Ginny and Richard Fiegel of Traverse City.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Russell Roberts. She wore an off the shoulder, silk wedding gown and carried a bouquet of wildflowers and sunflowers.

An organist and bagpiper accompanied the wedding couple as they exited the church after the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Jane Westervelt. Bridesmaids were Julie Cox and Robyn Roberts, sisters of the bride, Gina Genovese, Jennifer Tiplick, and Lori Lett.

They wore periwinkle cotton, tea length dresses and carried sunflowers.

Shawn Cox and Jacob Roberts were ring bearers. The best man was Michael Marsh. Groomsmen were Pat Scott, Stephen O'Malley, B.J. Wolff, Drew May, and Ron Roberts, brother of the bride.

A reception was given at the Randall Gallery in downtown St. Louis by the bride's parents.

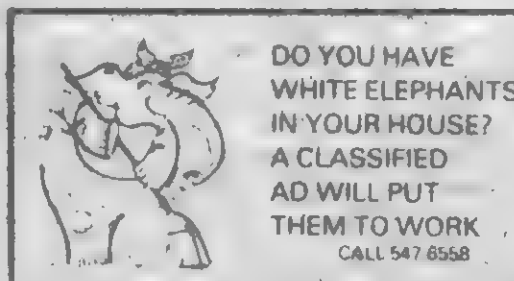

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at Giovanni's in St. Louis on the eve of the wedding.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Maine and Nantucket. They are living in Charlevoix.

The groom is an investment representative with Edward D. Jones. The bride is a travel director for Maritz Travel Company in St. Louis.

Local Legion members to attend district meeting

Members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary, Leslie T. Shapton #226, Charlevoix, held a joint pot-luck dinner Tuesday, Dec. 6. Business meetings of the two groups were held following the dinner. A large Christmas tree was trimmed, and a Christmas gift exchange was held by Auxiliary members.

Reports at the Auxiliary meeting included thank you notes from Grandvue Medical Facility, from the Chapel of Four Chaplains, etc. for donations made. It was reported that cards were sent to members who are ill and/or shut-in and visits made to Grandvue patients.

Members from the Post and Auxiliary attended the District Meeting at East Jordan Sunday, Dec. 11. Dues for 1995 are now due, and should be paid prior to Dec. 31 to prevent being delinquent. The Auxiliary meets at 7:30 p.m. on the first Tuesday of each month, and the Post meets at 8 p.m. on the first and third Tuesdays. All members visiting in the area are urged to attend. The Post also hosts Bingo games on each Monday of the month, with the Auxiliary conducting a refreshment booth. The Legion also serves their famous "All You Can Eat" pancake breakfast on the first Sunday of each month. For more information call Auxiliary President Katie Curtis or Legion Commander Chester Otmanowski.

VFW Auxiliary discusses community service

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #1153, Charlevoix, held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Dec. 1, with President Angelina Borths presiding. Reports were given on the Auxiliary members participating with the Post members in a tribute to all Veterans on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, by marching to East Park, and placing a wreath at the Submarine monument.

Reports were also given on community service, rehabilitation, and other projects by members. Members are reminded to pay 1995 dues to Treasurer Beverly Plum so they will not be delinquent. Plans were also made to continue taking gifts to all hospitalized members, and Christmas plants to all shut-in members. A contribution was sent to the National V.F.W. Children's Home at Eaton Rapids. Newspapers were collected for recycling for Habitat for Humanity project.

Eligibility in the V.F.W. Auxiliary is open to all wives, mothers, sisters, daughters, step-daughters of veterans who served overseas.

Eastern Star hosts instructional meeting

Charlevoix #72, Order of the Eastern Star, hosted a School of Instruction Dec. 1, chaired by Worthy Matron Carla Spencer and Worthy Patron Robert Kelley. The meeting was preceded by a pot-luck dinner, and was attended by 50 members from Beulah Chapter #63, Petoskey, Evangeline Chapter #95, Boyne City, Charlevoix Chapter #72, and other guests.

Margaret Belknap, Bay City, Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter, O.E.S., Michigan, presented the School of Instruction. Other Grand Officers attending were Anna Hufford, Grand Martha, Charlevoix, and Joyce Hegenauer, Grand Chaplin, Bay City. Other past Grand Officers, District Officers, and other presiding officers were introduced. Officers from the three chapters took active parts in the School of Instruction. A poem in honor of the Worthy Grand Matron was composed by Rosalyn Goldstick, Charlevoix. Gifts were presented to the Worthy Grand Matron by Worthy Matrons Carla Spencer, Charlevoix, Suzanne Frisk, Evangeline Chapter, and Ella Gillian, Beulah Chapter.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Chapter will be held Wednesday, Dec. 21. Stated meetings for Evangeline Chapter are held the first Monday of each month, and for Beulah Chapter on the first Tuesday of each month. All members of the Order of Eastern Star visiting in the area are invited to attend any stated meeting.

Leland S. Bisbee Jr.

Leland S. Bisbee Jr., 74, formerly of Jackson and more recently of Charlevoix and Phoenix, Ariz., died Dec. 4.

Mr. Bisbee was a member of the Belvedere Club. During his career, Mr. Bisbee was chairman of the board of Lee Bisbee Travel Service; a former member of the City Bank Board of Directors and a former employee from 1946 to 1958; former CEO of Bisbee Broadcasting Company. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan and had been involved in local government and numerous service organizations including: the Jackson Chamber of Commerce; the Jackson Rotary Club; Crippled Children's Society; National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; and the board of the Jackson Public Schools.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Margaret G. He is survived by: his second wife, Ann; daughter, Patricia B. Nye; son Leland S. Bisbee III and his wife, Valerie, all of Phoenix; son Clark E. Bisbee and his wife Katie of Jackson; daughter, Margaret B. Herman and her husband David W. of St. Louis, Mo.; daughter Constance B. Amend and her husband Mike of Seattle, Wash.; and 10 grandchildren.

Memorial services were held Dec. 7 at the First United Church with Rev. Edward Ross officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Funeral arrangements were made by the Wetherby Funeral Home in Jackson.

Lenora V. Stephens

Lenora V. Stephens, 102, of rural Charlevoix, died Dec. 12, 1994, at Boulder Park Terrace, where she had been a resident for 2 1/2 years.

Her funeral was Tuesday, Dec. 13, at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City with the Rev. Kathy Slaughter of the Horton Bay United Methodist Church officiating. Burial will take place in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City.

Mrs. Stephens was born Dec. 19, 1891, in Leelanau County, the daughter of Walter and Carrie (Nephew) Allen. She graduated from Traverse City High School, and earned her teaching degree from Eastern Michigan College in Ypsilanti.

She first taught school in Traverse City, then later in Horton Bay and Boyne City.

Mrs. Stephens was an active member of the United Methodist Church in Boyne City, and held district offices in USCS.

On Sept. 10, 1918, she married Howard Stephens, and he preceded her in death in 1982. Mrs. Stephens was also preceded in death by her daughter, Muriel Willis, in 1980.

Survivors include one daughter, Carol Anderson, of Palatine, Ill.; one son, Douglas Stephens, of Lansing; seven grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and one sister, Lillian, of Eugene, Ore.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. LOWELL ANDERSON

You've heard much, and perhaps sung much, about the three wise men in the Christmas story. Have you considered the Four Infamous Women?

You are no doubt wondering who they are! While I've never heard them referred to in any Christmas sermon or spoken of in any Christmas carol, they are there in the story just the same. And we are even given their names, while the names of the wise men (and there were likely more than three) are not named!

Where are they mentioned and who are they? you ask. The reason you probably don't know who they are is because their names appear in the genealogy of Jesus in the first 17 verses of the Gospel of Matthew - and you've typically skipped over the genealogies to get to the more exciting part of the story. The four infamous women are not hard to find because they are the only four females mentioned. They are Tamar, Rahab, Ruth and Uriah's wife (Bathsheba).

The mention of their names, as you readily see, is a departure from the pattern (which was the Hebrew tradition) of recording only the names of the males in a genealogy. Clearly, the mention of them must have significance. While I don't presume to know all the reasons for their mention, I can make some observations.

A quick glance back in Bible history reveals that the notable thing about the lives of each of the four is not their nobility and virtue because in three of the four cases it is just the opposite. Tamar was seductively involved in incest with her father-in-law. Rahab was a prostitute. Ruth was part of a despised minority (not a sin on her part) and Bathsheba was an adulteress (or rape victim however you care to interpret King David's sin with her). Whew! Quite a "shady" quartet! But be assured the mention of their names is not intended to slander or dishonor them, but rather to show that even in the genealogy of Christ is the good news of the Gospel - THE GRACE OF GOD! By the grace of God generations of imperfect people, both men and women, were the natural progenitors of the Savior of mankind - including these very infamous four.

Consider these observations as well:

1. In Ruth is demonstrated that by the coming of Christ the division between races is overcome. Ruth was not a Jewish woman, she was a Moabitess, a race disapproved by the Jews in her day. The Gospel of Christ is universal - Christ came for the salvation of all races!

2. In all four women is demonstrated that in Christ the barriers between the sexes is gone. In Christ there is neither male nor female - both are equal before Him!

3. In Tamar, Rahab, and Bathsheba is demonstrated that the barrier between saint and sinner is forever abolished. Because all of us are sinners we stand equally in need of the Savior.

So, even in the genealogical record of Jesus Christ the good news of the Gospel is revealed. The full scope of human weakness and sin was in the genealogy of the Christ, yet in His own sinless life and atoning death, salvation is available to all men - to them - and to you and me!

Clifford G. "Tip" Riley

Clifford G. "Tip" Riley, 73, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 11, 1994, at his home in Charlevoix.

Funeral will be 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 14, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Michael Dennis of the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix will officiate, and burial will take place in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Riley was born March 27, 1921, in Resort Township, Emmet County, the son of Leland G. and Ethel (Hoyt) Riley. He graduated from Petoskey High School in 1938.

Mr. Riley served in the U.S. Navy as yeoman third class from 1943-45, and was a member of the Navy Blue Jacket Choir.

He married the former June Fairbanks and they made their home in Charlevoix.

Mr. Riley worked for American Mold in Charlevoix, now D.M.E., as chief estimator of production, retiring after 27 years. He served as deputy city clerk for the City of Charlevoix for 10 years. He was also a professional musician for 40 years.

Mr. Riley served with the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department for 40 years and had served as its secretary/treasurer. He was timekeeper for all sports events at Charlevoix High School for 35 years and was a Boy Scout leader.

He was past president of Charlevoix Band Boosters and past treasurer of the Charlevoix Men's Bowling Association. He was a life member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F & AM, and a life member of the Federation of International Musicians. He was also a member of the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club, Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153, the Charlevoix City Band and the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Mr. Riley enjoyed fishing, hunting, bowling and golf.

Survivors include his wife, June, of Charlevoix; four daughters, Ruth Ann Chapman and her husband, Robert, of San Antonio, Texas; Carla Spencer and her husband, Gary, of Charlevoix; Joan Wagner and her husband, Henry, of Charlevoix; and Gayle Andersen and her husband, Gerald, of Boyne City; six grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Leora Schneider of Bonita Springs, Fla., and Elsie Shaffer of Lake City, Fla. Mr. Riley was preceded in death by two brothers, Eldon and Carl Riley, and by one sister, Lucille Tesaker.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department or to the Parkinson's Disease Foundation, 3990 John R., Detroit, Mich. 48201. Envelopes for memorial contributions will be available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Deer hunting success improved this year

An estimated 226,000 white-tailed deer were harvested during Michigan's Nov. 15-30 hunting season this year. This is an increase of five percent over the 215,670 deer taken in 1993. In addition, the 1994 firearm deer season was the safest on record.

"This year's centennial of Michigan's first licensed firearm deer season has been the safest in the state's history," said Department of Natural Resources Director Roland

Harmes. "I commend the 2,500 volunteer hunter safety instructors who conduct courses and certify about 32,000 new hunters each year. We have them to thank for the improvement in safety statistics."

"We've also seen an increase in the harvest," Harmes continued. "Deer hunters reported excellent hunting conditions, which allowed them to spend more time afield. Check station data indicated a large number of 1 1/2 year-old deer in the herd this year, which partially accounted for the 9 percent increase in the buck kill. A reduction in the number of antlerless licenses issued by the DNR resulted in a 5 percent decline in the antlerless harvest. Overall, hunters seemed pleased with the firearm season."

This year's firearm season is estimated as the seventh best in the state's history. Each year, the deer harvest is estimated by a survey of southbound hunter traffic throughout the 16-day firearm deer season. This survey has provided an early, accurate estimate for more than three decades. Final harvest figures, which will be available in July, will be based on a mail survey of this year's deer hunters.

Wildlife managers expect the December muzzleloading and archery deer seasons to provide good hunting this month.

Rayders split opening games

Charlevoix's varsity basketball team opened its season last week, splitting two nonconference games at home. Tuesday evening the Rayders beat Cheboygan 60-59, but fell to Rogers City 75-66 Friday evening.

In the opening game against Cheboygan the Rayders took an eight point lead in the third quarter and then held on in the fourth quarter for a one-point win. Senior guard Jerry Duhart sealed the win with two free throws in the final minute of play.

Duhart led the Rayders in scoring with 18 points. Chuck Pop played big in the paint for Charlevoix, scoring 15 points to go with 10 rebounds and three blocked shots. Trevor Williams had eight rebounds.

Friday evening the Rayders started well against Rogers City, but got in the way of a three-point bombardment in the third quarter.

Utilizing their quickness, the Rayders led 18-15 after the first quarter and 38-28 at halftime. But the second half was a different story. Rogers City's tall players were quick to the ball and their guards, particularly Ben Taylor, shot the lights out. Taylor had 26 of his 28 points in the second half.

Rogers City went on a 17-2 run early in the second half and ended up outscoring the Rayders 26-9 in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, Charlevoix got to within four points at 57-54 with two minutes to play, but Taylor struck for another three to put the game out of reach.

Duhart led the Rayders with 17 points. Williams had a double-double with 16 points and 10 rebounds. Pop had 10 points.

Charlevoix won the junior varsity game.

Charlevoix begins conference play Friday night, hosting Boyne City.

Trevor Williams looks up between a bunch of arms, hoping to find enough space to take a shot Friday evening against Rogers City. Williams had 16 points and 10 rebounds in the game.

Grunch named first-team All State

Liz Grunch of Charlevoix has been named to the Class C first-team All State basketball team by the Detroit Free Press. The Free Press team appeared in the Saturday, Dec. 10 edition.

During the past season, Grunch, a senior, averaged 19 points per game, 6.2 rebounds, 4.3 steals and 4.3 assists. She holds the school record for scoring with 1,363 points.

Grunch was the only area player named to the Class C All-State team. Angie Peterson of Ellsworth was named to the Class D first team All State team.

Recreation basketball results

Russells defeated DCL 73-65 and South Point Auto beat Sears 86-66 in mens recreation basketball play Monday.

Dave Norton scored 23 points and Jim Parrish 10 for Russells while Brandon Kanoff led DCL with 23 points while Wayne Joy added 15 and Joe Powers 10.

Ty Whittaker scored 26 for South point while Rob Dittmer had 20 and Chris Azure 15. Dan Dahlquist had 24 for Sears and Jim Connaughton 11.

In conjunction with the unveiling of a new sign at the proposed site of an indoor community swimming pool, Friends of the Pool announced the kick-off of a $500,000 fund-raising campaign. The sign was unveiled in a brief ceremony Saturday morning at the proposed pool site near the intersection of U.S. 31 and Waller Road. Building and landscape drawings of the facility were also on display at the ceremony.

Your interest in the estate may be barred or affected by this hearing.

TAKE NOTICE: On November 30, 1994, in the probate courtroom, Charlevoix, Michigan, before Hon. Frederick R. Mulhauser Judge of Probate, a hearing was held on the petition of Sharlene Wheeler requesting that Sharlene Wheeler be appointed personal representative of the Estate of Lawrence Earl Cain, Jr. who lived at Route 1, Box 646, Roberts Road, East Jordan, MI 49727, Michigan and who died 9-10-94.

Creditors of the deceased are notified that all claims against the estate will be forever barred unless presented to the (proposed) personal representative or to both the probate court and the (proposed) personal representative within 4 months of the date of publication of this notice. Notice is further given that the estate will then be assigned to entitled persons appearing of record.

You'll see headlights Friday

AAA Michigan urges state motorists to join thousands of drivers nationwide who will focus attention on the problem of drunk driving by driving with their vehicle headlights on all day Friday, Dec. 16.

The "Lights of for Life" campaign is part of National Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month (3-D month). The campaign is sponsored by a coalition of public and private sector groups nationwide, including AAA, devoted to reducing the incidence of drinking and driving.

"By driving with headlights on all day on Dec. 16, the coalition hopes to call attention to the need for measures to reduce drunk and drugged driving crashes," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager.

the city to very safe investments such as treasury bills and short-term certificates of deposit.

As long as purchasers of the municipal bonds look at Charlevoix's situation specifically, rather than painting the entire municipal bond market with a broad brush, Charlevoix should come out all right on the bond sale.

Brandt said that with the passage of the bond proposal, the Bridge Park Project is all set and ready to go. Engineering work will begin next month with ground to be broken at Bridge Park in the fall of 1995. Work will be held off until fall in order to avoid disrupting the downtown area during the summer.

Decoration winners announced

Whitneys of Charlevoix is the overall winner of the 1994 Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Christmas Decoration Contest. Businesses were judged on the best display of merchandise and lighting.

Second, third and fourth places went to The Clothing Company, Koucky Gallery and Linda Mason Interior Design.

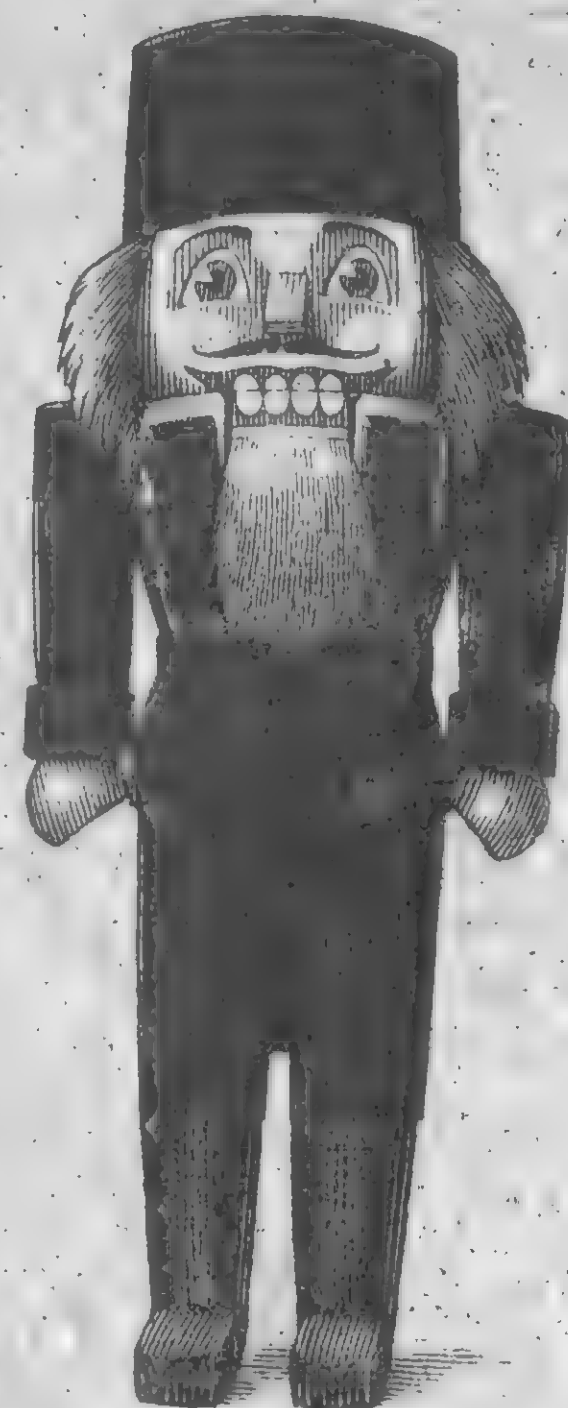

Winners by category were:
Restaurants - Whitneys of Charlevoix; Financial - CB North, M-66 Branch; Clothing Stores - The Clothing Company; Drug Stores - Charlevoix Commons Apothecary; Hard Goods - Sears/The Paint Center; Automotive - Auto Parts Center; Lodging - Weatherlane Terrace Hotel; Professional - Linda Mason Interior Design; Manufacturing - Charlevoix Manufacturing; Gift shops - Koucky Gallery.

Lighting to be judged Dec. 15

Judging for the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) residential Christmas lighting contest will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 15. Judging this year's contest will be Dave Chulick, Meredith Krell and Rita McAvoy.

All homes within four miles of the city of Charlevoix are eligible. However, in order for a home to be judged either the homeowner or a neighbor must phone KCB officials to let them know the home is decorated. To have a home judged, phone 547-5444 or 547-2101 prior to 5 p.m., Dec. 15.

School extends contract

By Laurie Lounsbury
Charlevoix schools are changing, and the school board is changing too. At Monday evening's board meeting the board brought a list of conclusions derived from evaluating Superintendent Dr. Robert Jackson's performance. The list of conclusions put forth a precise plan for Jackson. The board extended Jackson's contract for one more year based on the conclusions.

Board member Susan Hamilton read from the list of conclusions, describing Jackson's abilities in the following areas:

* Jackson has an excellent knowledge base on state legislation as it pertains to school reform.

* Jackson is well organized in the creation of groups and committees as required by law.

* Jackson has utilized her network of legal and educational resources to the advantage of the school district.

The list also dealt with areas of ongoing improvement for Jackson:

* Jackson has pledged to be self-aware in her listening skills. She has worked, and will continue to work, hard to be open and creative when communicating with the board and the community.

* Jackson has been receptive to constructive criticism and will continue to make efforts to improve in this area.

Ardith Wieland was the only board member to take exception to the conclusions. Wieland discussed past problems with Jackson, focusing on her communication skills and receptiveness to constructive criticism. After Wieland addressed

Commissioners consider request for added social services job

ANALYSIS

By Laurie Lounsbury

Terry Salicina wants to see children go off to school with a good breakfast in their bellies. He wants to see them get a good night's sleep and wear clean clothes. He wants their parents to learn how to calm themselves when they're tempted to strike a child.

It may not sound like much to many people living in Charlevoix County. It may sound like the bare minimum for a healthy family. But as Director of the Department of Social Services, Salicina knows about the families who exist below this minimal standard of living. Salicina has no lofty illusions about what can be accomplished. "This is battlefield triage. We could take one family and turn them into the parents of the year, or we can work with a lot of families and try to bring them up to some basic standard of living," Salicina said.

That simple idea is a big change for the people in social services. It used to be that negligent parents were the scourge of society. Swooped away by the courts, the children of such parents were relentlessly placed in foster care. The parents received a stout warning: clean up your act or you won't get your kids back. The parents didn't know how to clean up their act. They tried - they failed. The kids never saw their birth homes again. Floating from one foster care home to another, these kids were foster care drifters. They grew up, had kids of their own, and lost them to the system. Back into the foster care, back through the murky mire of social services. Through it all, the social workers were never trained to ask the parents, "What's the problem here?"

That is changing. "The pendulum has swung all the way from after (the problem occurs) care to preventive care," Salicina said. He's got four people administering preventive care to families at risk of developing more serious problems. They are assisted by workers in the Family First program, who intervene with families where an imminent risk exists.

So is that enough help? Salicina thinks more can be done. What his four social workers do is assess a situation and make counseling recommendations for a troubled family. What they don't do is actually spend time with the family, giving them hands-on training in parenting and life management skills.

...program would teach parental skills

Salicina wants to hire a homemaker/parent educator to work with "at risk" families. This person would go into homes and do what needs to be done to educate families. It might mean scrubbing pots and pans or helping with the grocery shopping. It might mean teaching ways to soothe a colicky baby. Salicina can get state funds to pay for this job. What Salicina can't do is hire another person in the social services department. Charlevoix County is maxed out on the number of social workers it can employ.

The state funding for this job flows like water in an old rubber garden hose. It wants to go somewhere, but the end is capped. The water gushes sideways through a hole in the hose. Maybe the water wasn't intended to go that way, but it still does the job of watering the lawn.

In this case, the hole in the hose is the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension. The homemaker/parent educator will be hired by the cooperative extension, but funded by the Department of Social Services.

It sounds like a bit of a shell game in a state that's supposed to be cutting back on government.

the list of conclusions. For several minutes, board member Mary Lee Campbell interrupted her, saying, "I think we as a board are not sticking to the expectations we set for ourselves, which includes positive talk in public and no grandstanding."

Board member Ben Cunningham said to Wieland, "I think you've chosen to make this an issue just because you have a personal problem with the superintendent and I think this has been discussed enough. I'd like to call for the vote."

The board voted six to one in favor of extending Jackson's contract one year to June of 1997. Wieland cast the only dissenting vote.

Jackson will receive a salary increase commensurate with the teacher and administrative increases. She will be earning $81,077 this year. Her salary can increase up to one percent above that, according to increases in inflation and the cost of living.

In a gesture towards more openness with the community, Jackson said that board packets will be made available to anyone interested before the board meetings. The packets include all of the information that will be discussed or voted on at the board meetings.

The commissioners will decide whether or not to hire a homemaker/parent educator at the next commissioner meeting.

Charlevoix ambulance department official Bob Roloff shows off the city's new ambulance. The 1994 Chevrolet was ready for service Dec. 15 and made its first run Dec. 16. The ambulance has four-wheel drive and is similar to the city's other ambulances except for some cosmetic differences.

City purchases new ambulance

By L. Scott Swanson

The Charlevoix City Fire and Ambulance Department had a new ambulance ready to roll Dec. 15 and out on a call Dec. 16. The new ambulance is a 1994 Chevrolet diesel with four wheel drive. It was custom built by Michigan First Response, a company located in Fenwick, Michigan. It cost $68,623 for the raw unit and approximately $90,000 fully equipped.

Currently, the city has three ambulances. The oldest is a basic transport unit. The one which went into service last week and the next newest are limited advanced life support, which means they're equipped to do things such as I.V.s and emergency airways.

Ambulance department officer Bob Roloff said the layout of the new ambulance is essentially the same as that of the other units.

"They're pretty much identical so no matter what truck you're in, the equipment's all in the same place," he explained.

There are a few cosmetic differences between the new vehicle and the other vehicles. The new ambulance has a light blue interior rather than a maroon interior. That makes it easier to see blood, for either treatment or clean-up. The new ambulance also has a window, high on the side of the passenger compartment. It allows the patient to feel less confined.

Roloff said that in addition to equipment improvements, such as the new ambulance, the training level of the department has also improved in recent years. The ambulance staff now includes 11 EMT specialists, six EMTs and 5 first responders.

Two men injured in industrial accident

Two subcontractors from a Gaylord firm were injured in an industrial accident at the Medusa Cement Plant Friday, Dec. 16.

According to John Dixon, plant manager, the two men were working inside a large metal duct. Some material consisting of limestone, gravel and shale had built up on the inside of the duct above where the men were working.

The material came loose and came sliding down on the men. Dixon said the two men heard it coming and dove out of the way as best they could. Dixon said about four feet of material was involved and buried a portion of the men's legs. The Charlevoix City ambulance department was called and assisted in extricating the men from the duct. Dixon said that in addition to clearing away the material, the extrication was complicated by the fact that the men were working in an intermediate area of the duct with an exit door above them and an exit door below them, but no exit door at the height where the problem occurred.

Dixon said one of the men suffered a dislocated shoulder and the other man was burned by a piece of hot metal. Dixon explained that just before the debris fell, the man had cut the piece of metal with a torch. When the debris came down, it pushed him up against the piece of metal.

Both men were taken to the hospital, where they were treated and released later in the day.

OPINIONS

Editorial

May you create happy holiday memories

It was Christmas of 1990. My daughter had just turned one year old. We had a Christmas tree and presents and were looking forward to her first Christmas. We had plans to go out to my parents house so the baby could celebrate Christmas morning with Grandma and Grandpa and all of the aunts and uncles. All of those plans went awry when my wife and daughter both came down with the flu a day or so before Christmas.

I began Christmas morning feeling somewhat disappointed. I'd wanted my daughter's first Christmas where she was anything more than just a babe in arms to be a lot of fun for her and for the rest of us. But now, her illness seemed likely to spoil that. While my wife and daughter remained bedridden, I got up and around, went out to my parents' house and opened presents with them. After an hour or so, we loaded the baby's unopened presents in the car and I took them home. I brought them inside and stacked them neatly in the living room.

I went to her room, where she was still in bed. "Katrina. It's Christmas! Do you want to come down to the living room and open presents?"

Sick or not, she perked up. I carried her to the living room and sat her in front of the presents. She began tearing open presents, slowly at first, but gradually building to a wrapping paper ripping frenzy. Twenty minutes later, my little girl sat half buried in wrapping paper, smiling from ear to ear she looked out over the bright paper and all of her new clothes and toys - queen of all she surveyed. Flu or no flu, she had conquered Christmas morning and the world was ours.

Back in about 1982 or 1983, one of those years, we didn't have any snow for Christmas. In fact, not only did we not have snow, we didn't even have cold weather. Home from college on Christmas break, my brother and I went rabbit hunting with the Batdorf brothers. A flannel shirt and a light game vest were all it took to keep warm. That was the year of the big steer hunt, when Clayton Smith had three steers get loose and we had to shoot them with deer rifles to retrieve them. It's a story too lengthy to recount here, but suffice it to say, Charlevoix hasn't seen a similar cattle round-up before or since. Clayton Smith, Delbert Batdorf, Cal Gould and Junior Ward are among those who can fill you in on the details.

Now, a few years before that, around Christmas of 1979 or 1980, it was cold. In fact, we had ourselves a terrible blizzard. The roads were all plugged up and it wasn't safe to drive. I had gotten a pair of cross country skis and was bound and determined to strap them on and take a tour. Mom was dead set against this. She didn't see any reason for going out in a blizzard. But I was determined to go. Dad offered luke warm support. He said, "The kid's 20 years old. He can decide for himself whether or not to go outdoors." Unpersuaded, Mom argued, "I don't care how old he is. You're never too old to freeze to death."

To this day, that phrase makes me laugh. Whenever someone starts talking about how old they are and can't do things they used to be able to do, I always think to myself, you can get old enough where you can't do a lot of things, but "you're never too old to freeze to death."

Have you ever thought about driving around town at about 5 a.m. Christmas morning, just to see how many households are already up and going?

My youngest brother always wanted to get up bright and early Christmas morning. My other brother and I were older and preferred to sleep in a bit later. One year we figured out how to keep the youngster in bed longer. After he'd gone to sleep, we snuck into his room and set his clock back an hour. It was the Christmas morning version of 'daylight' savings time. Worked like a charm.

The Christmas season is a time for creating memories. From myself and the staff at the Charlevoix Courier, may all of the memories you and your family create this Christmas season be happy ones.

Christmas traditions remain

by EDITH GILBERT

The French say, "The more things change, the more they remain the same," and that certainly is true of Christmas.

St. Nickolas is now Santa Claus. The Christmas tree once lit with candles, and decorated with dried apples and popcorn strings is now bedecked with imported wire ribbon and lit with tiny Italian lights. Dolls and wagons that were once placed under the tree unwrapped are now tied with fancy bows or covered in sheets of sparkling, see-through, gift wrapping paper. The occasional handpainted Christmas Card, popular in the late 1900s, has become a 2.06 billion dollar industry.

My earliest and most vivid memory of Christmas Eve was when visiting my grandfather in Hamburg, Germany, as a three year old. The sliding doors leading to the living room were thrust open and there stood a huge tree lit with tiny candles and underneath the tree was a white, doll bed for me. Ecstasy! I still have the doll bed and the memory as well. Fortunately today, my neighbors, the Wiemers, invite me to their home on Christmas Eve. They carefully light the traditional candles on the Christmas Tree just as I remember, and everyone gathers 'round to sing familiar holiday songs the same as long ago.

Gifts were not always so beautifully wrapped as they are today. Fancy wrapping paper and bows only became popular after World War II when shopping centers sprung up all over the United States and Hallmark stores were first introduced. Today one can spend as much on fancy gift wrapping paper and wired ribbon as we used to spend during the Depression on the entire gift!

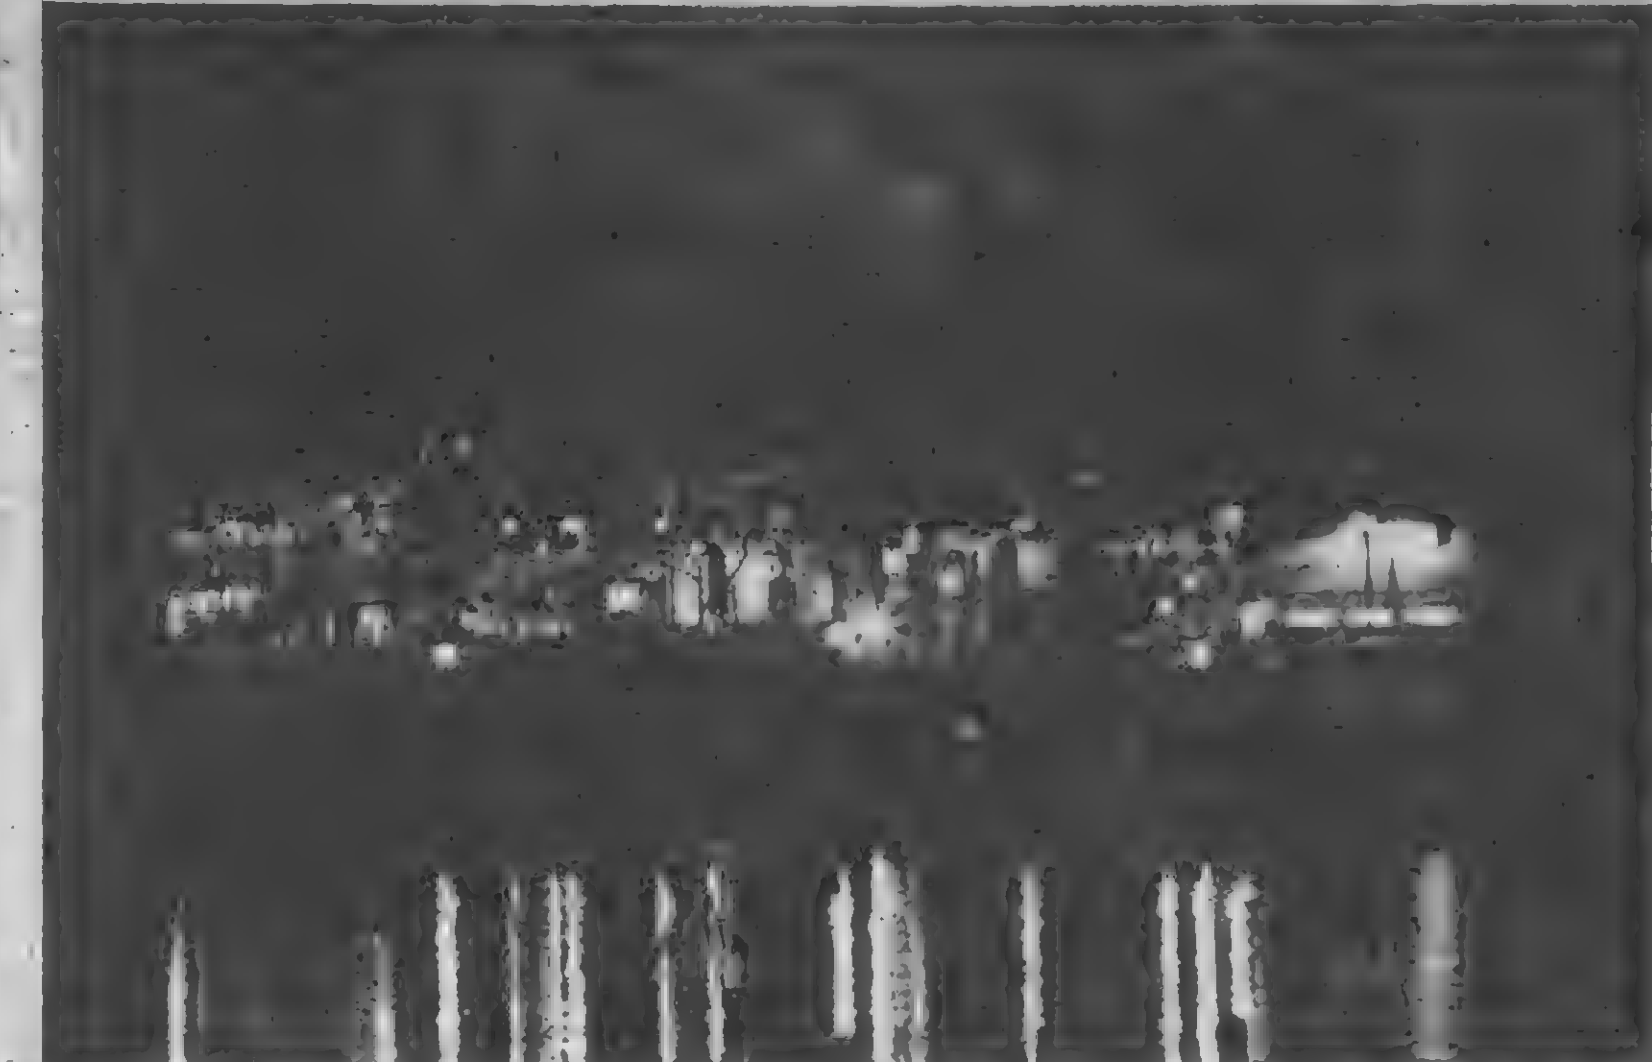

Another memorable Christmas my family spent in San Francisco. When it came time to carefully put all the ornaments away after Christmas in the little cardboard compartments of the boxes that they came in (this was always my job) my father decided to dispose of the tree by burning it up in the fireplace. This started a chimney fire and much to our embarrassment the fire department had to be called. Today there are more choices when purchasing and disposing of Christmas trees than merely cutting down a natural tree in the woods or burning them. There are very lifelike artificial trees on the market as well as living trees that can be planted in the ground after New Year's. There are the perfectly symmetrical, farm grown trees, sold on vacant lots. In Northern Michigan some used trees are placed on the ski hills to divide the ski runs and as wind breakers.

Over the years, my out-of-town Christmas card list has grown longer and longer. Yet I notice this year that people are sending out fewer cards than before, especially those with their name printed on the card. I asked some of my friends about this trend and they agree. They say it takes too much time to write a note on each card, and cards have become quite expensive. Yet others contend that computer labeling has helped them greatly with the chore of addressing envelopes. And finally, there are still those organized souls who write inspired Christmas letters!

It will be interesting to note the new twists and turns the holidays will bring to future generations. Biodegradable plastic trees? Papers and ribbons for the disposal? Christmas messages via E mail? No matter, there will still be Santa.

The French are right when they say, "The more things change, the more they remain the same!"

Downtown Charlevoix takes on a special charm during the Christmas season with lights visible from all around the harbor. (Photo by Laurie Lounsbury)

...ecology is important to economy

tions are monumental.

We know that a healthy, beautiful environment is fundamental to growth potential and quality of life. We must begin to look at our community and environmental assets in new and creative ways.

ECO-nomics - a new definition: Eco-nomics is the science of the relationship of ecology and environment to the economics of community growth.

ECO-nomics 101 in northern Michigan:

1. A healthy, beautiful environment is fundamental to maximizing growth potential and quality of life. Everyone loves fresh air, clean water, a beautiful view and pristine natural areas.

2. Environmental health and beauty is a community asset, measurable in dollars and cents (i.e. ECO-nomics.)

3. Sound ECO-nomics promotes: A. Healthy land and property values.

B. Tourism that promotes, enhances and protects a healthy environment.

C. A community that attracts high business and economic yield opportunities with minimal negative environmental impact, i.e. telecommunications, business management, top notch restaurants, clothing and retail business, outdoor recreation (canoeing, kayaking, birdwatching, fishing, nature watching etc.)

D. Long term planning and land management prioritization. Short term capital gain is often counterproductive to long term profit potential, i.e., if you have a golden egg, don't eat it!

4. Aggressive leadership roles must be assumed at city, township, county and state levels to prioritize and facilitate land management, protection and acquisition to promote sound ECO-nomic community growth. Northern Michigan citizens are rapidly becoming environmentally and ECO-nomically aware. Public servants will increasingly be elected by and accountable to an ECO-nomically astute public. (Note the rapid growth of land trusts and conservancies. Also the recent self imposed tax of Old Mission Peninsula residents to buy development rights to preserve farming and the beauty of the peninsula and to the passage of the D.N.R. proposal to protect public lands.)

4. Land trusts, conservancies, lake associations, conservationists, sportspersons, public servants, and environmentalists must form alliances for the express purpose of prioritizing and planning the sound ECO-nomics of land planning, management and protection and the preservation of natural resources and wildlife.

The pressures for growth and development in our beautiful area will continue to increase. Responsible land use planning now will prevent unwise and potentially destructive use of our environmental resources.

SEE-North hosts an evening in the forest

SEE-North will host its fourth annual Twelfth Night Celebration at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 6. Folk legend says that on this special night, the animals of the forest have the gift of speech.

SEE-North's Mary Whitmore says, "It's a magical evening for everyone involved. After the bustle of the holidays, Twelfth Night is a welcomed chance for people to slow down and enjoy a quiet walk through the woods. We never know which animals will come out to speak, of course. But some show up every year and we always enjoy their stories."

Hot drinks and snacks will be served between 6-6:30 p.m. at

SEE-North's leased headquarters in the Mort Neff Center at Camp Daggett. Small groups will then be led to a forest trail for a short hike and a visit with the animals.

Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children. People bringing youngsters to the event may want to bring sleds to pull them on.

SEE-North is a regional center for science and mathematics. It serves teachers, students and residents in 13 counties of the northern Lower Peninsula. Twelfth Night is one of many events conducted by the non-profit organization. For more information, call SEE-North at 348-9700.

Big Rock helps Salvation Army

One hundred and ten Big Rock Point employees, spouses and retirees donated $1,000 and more than 75 toys to the Salvation Army during the plant's annual holiday party.

For the past seven years plant employees have held their holiday celebration to benefit local needy families through the Salvation Army. As a result of these events more than $7,000 and 650 toys have been donated to the Army. Toys from this year's party will be matched with individual requests received by the Salvation Army. The money will be used to purchase food for Christmas baskets and additional toys to meet requests.

City to sell bonds at 6.661 percent

By L. Scott Swanson

The city will pay an average annual net interest rate of 6.661 percent over 19 years on $3.5 million in municipal bonds. The bonds are being sold to finance the Downtown Development Authority's (DDA) Bridge Park project.

In dollar figures, annual payments on the bonds are estimated to be between $289,000 and $361,000. The state is expected to pick up approximately $242,000, leaving the city to pay the remaining $47,000 to $119,000.

Brandi said the DDA currently captures $187,700 per year. However, in addition to the bond payoff, the DDA also has some other bills to pay off during the next five years. The Kusina building was purchased on a land contract. For the next five years, the DDA will be making annual payments averaging about $61,000. As part of the Bridge Park project, the city will be purchasing a piece of park property from the Michigan Department of Transportation. The property purchase will not be covered by bond proceeds. Consequently that cost will be born by local funding.

The bottom line, according to Brandi, is that between Bridge Park and other present commitments, all DDA funding is pretty much spoken for during the next five years. After that, depending on what happens with DDA revenues and project costs, there may be money available for other projects.

Brandi said the interest rate of 6.661 percent was higher than he had anticipated. "I figured 6.2 or 6.3, but interest rates are going up," he said. Brandi said he wasn't sure if the much publicized financial difficulties of Orange County, California had much of an effect on the Charlevoix bond issue.

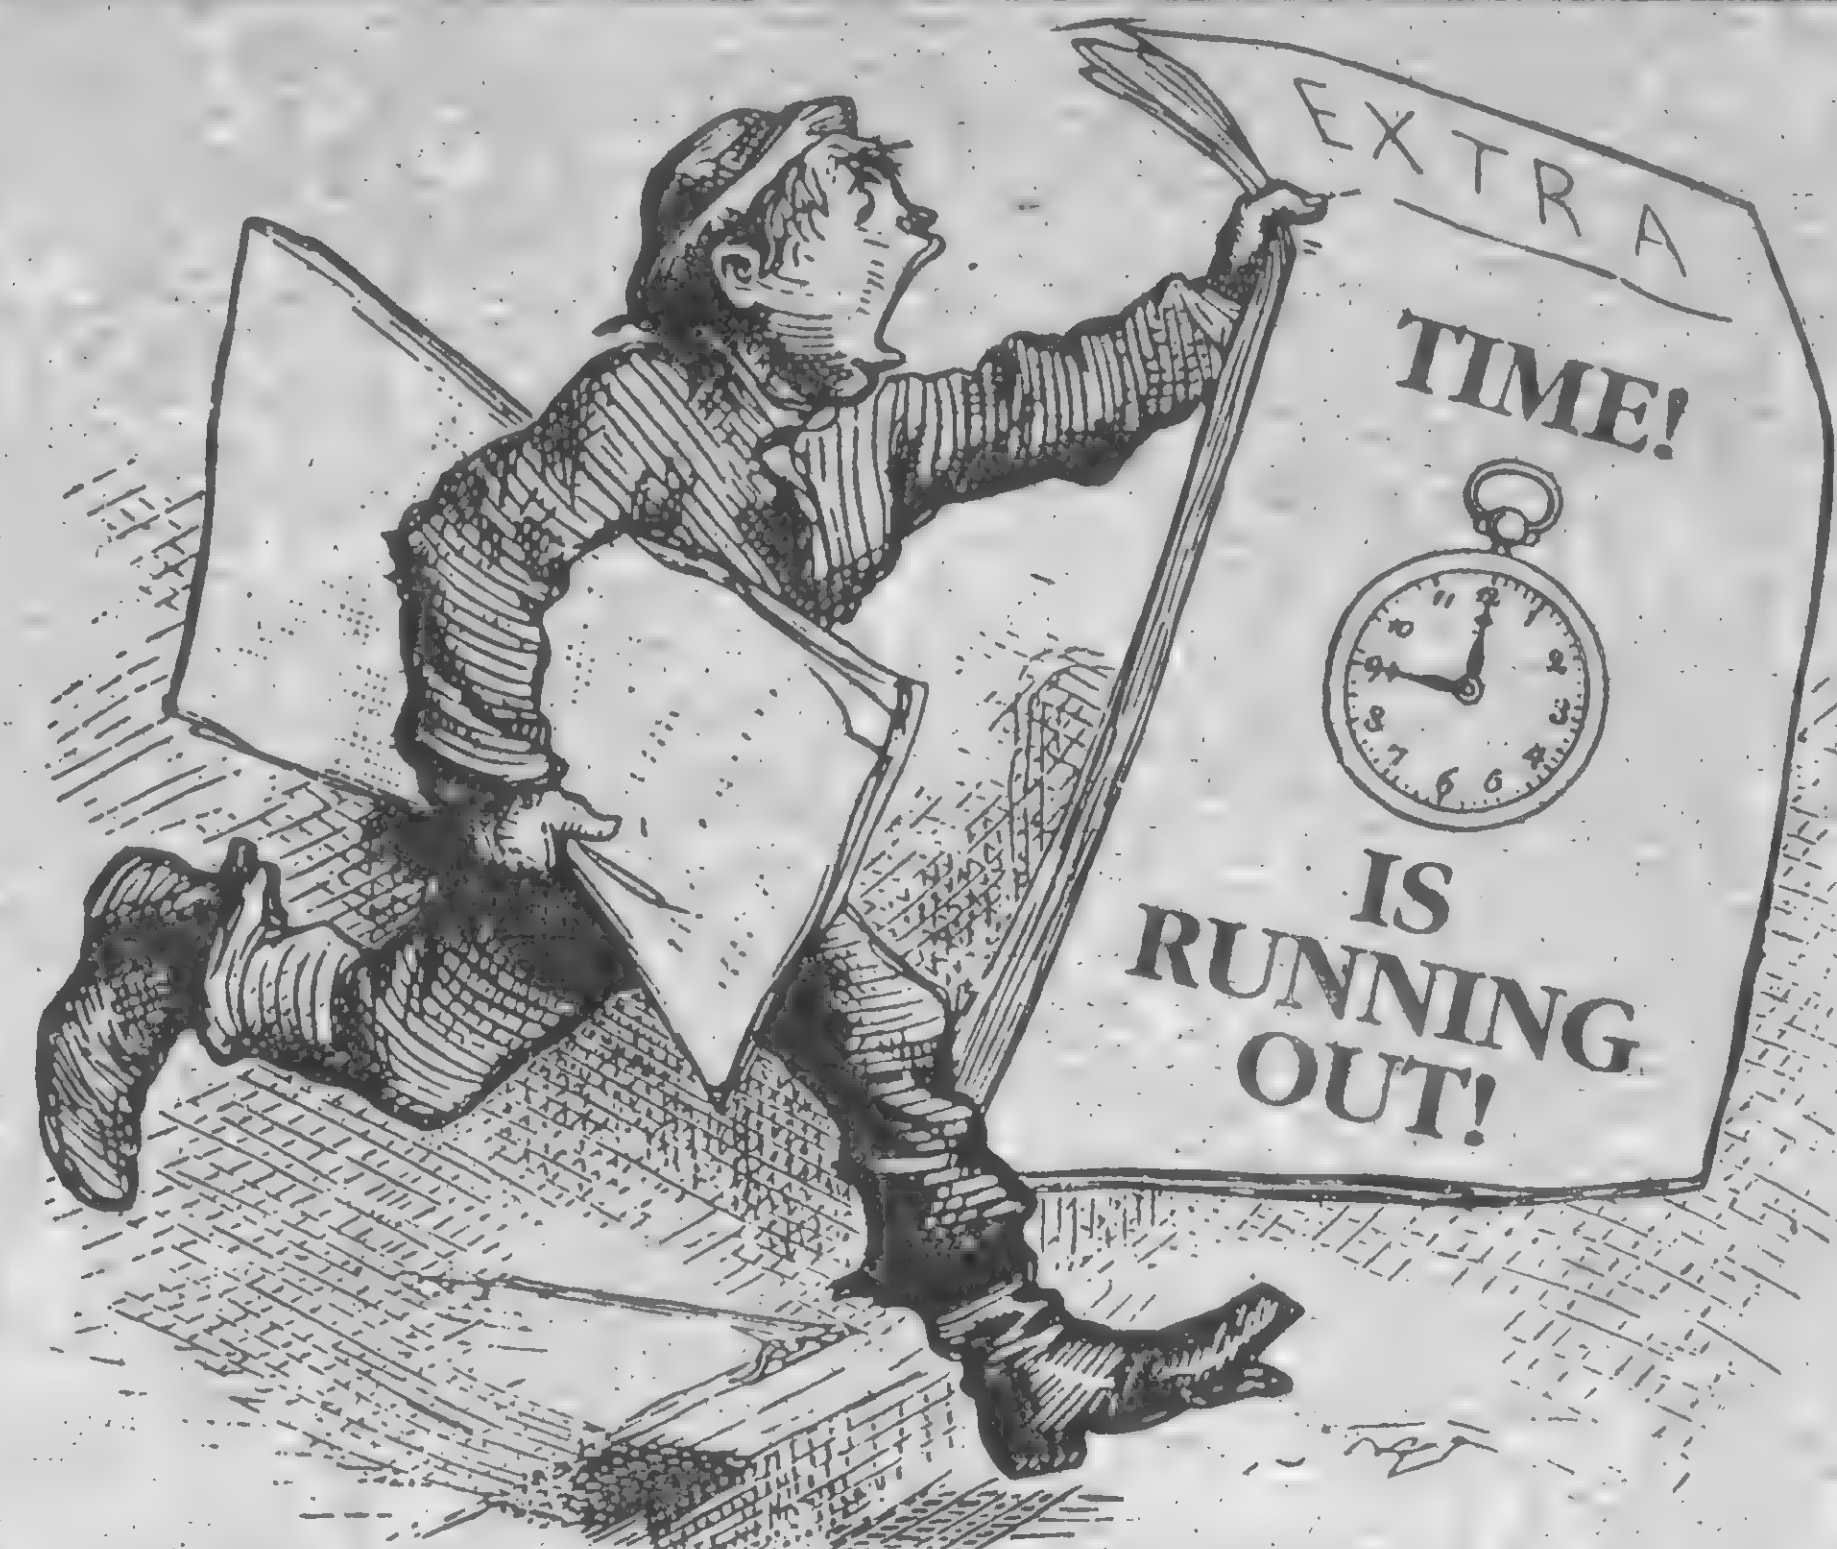

Prior to learning what the actual bond pay-back costs will be, city administrators had made what they felt was a conservative estimate of the cost. As things turned out, the actual pay-back cost on the $3.5 million over 19 years turned out to be just $26,000 less than the estimate.

Willard S. Troutwine

Willard S. Troutwine, 78, of Gaylord, died Dec. 19, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

Funeral will be 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Pastor Larry Poller of the White Stone Chapel in Petoskey will officiate. Interment will be in Monroe Township Cemetery, Preble County, Ohio.

Mr. Troutwine was born Feb. 17, 1916, in Monroe Township, Ohio, the son of Samuel Franklin and Dona Belle (Wilson) Troutwine. He was raised in Ohio and moved to Michigan as a young man.

On June 6, 1959, he married Marcella June Wagner in Petoskey, and she survives.

Mr. Troutwine worked in road construction as a heavy equipment operator in Michigan. He retired in 1971, and then moved from Lake Orion to Gaylord.

Mr. Troutwine was a member of V.F.W. Post No. 1518 in Gaylord, the American Legion Walter Frazier Post No. 108 in Oxford, and was an avid outdoorsman.

Survivors include his wife, Marcella J., of Gaylord; two sons, Sam Troutwine and his wife, Sandy, of Oxford, and Willard Timothy Troutwine and his wife, Carol, of Hesperia, Calif.; four daughters, Joyce (Troutwine) Warhol and her husband, Tony, and Sue (Troutwine) Johnson and her husband, Jim, of Charlevoix; Barbara (Wagner) Duncan of Troy, and Joyce (Wagner) Robertson and her husband, Tom, of Madison Heights; 26 grandchildren; and 27 great-grandchildren. Mr. Troutwine was preceded in death by two grandsons, Steven Weisel and Charles Robertson; a brother, Jesse Troutwine; and a sister, Mary Kelly.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Benjamin Blum Hospitality House, in care of Northern Michigan Hospital Foundation, 501 W. Mitchell St., Suite 300, Petoskey, Mich. 49770; or to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix where friends may call from 1 p.m. until the time of service on Wednesday, Dec. 21.

Kenneth G. Ager

Kenneth G. Ager, 78 of Burton died Dec. 2 at St. Josephs Hospital in Flint. Funeral services were held Dec. 6 at Swartz Funeral Home in Flint. Pastor Phillip Burch officiated with burial in Flint Memorial Park.

Mr. Ager was born in Charlevoix, Aug. 3, 1916. He was the son of Will and Rose Ager. He married the former Luella Alpin, Dec. 27, 1982.

Mr. Ager was a resident of the Flint area most of his adult life. He was a member of Iron Workers' Local #25. He was employed as an iron worker for 47 years, retiring in 1980.

Surviving are: his wife, Luella (Alpin) Ager; a son, Kenneth C. Ager of Colorado; a daughter, Elizabeth (and husband Tony) Godwin, and granddaughter, Haley, of Texas; two sisters, Mildred Patrick of Charlevoix, and Evelyn Bruman (and husband Howard) from Marengo, Illinois; and several nieces and nephews, five stepchildren and a step grandchild.

He was preceded in death by three brothers: Carlton; Herbert; and Keith Ager; and by his parents.

Safe Harbor to host puppet show

A musical Christmas program featuring puppets and chalk art by the group God's Helping Hands will take place Wednesday, Dec. 21 at Safe Harbor Baptist Church. The program's theme is a journey to the center of Christmas - Jesus. It will begin at 7 p.m. and take about an hour. Safe Harbor Baptist Church is located on Old U.S. 31, south of Charlevoix.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

by Pastor Mérie Wellhausen

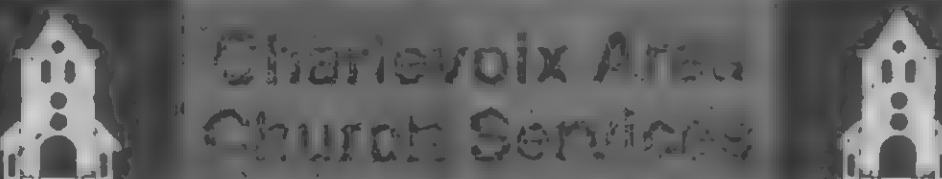

A popular song asks the question "Have you any room for Jesus?" As we ponder the question, let us turn the clock backwards to the first century A.D., and picture in your mind's eye the land of Judea, the City of Bethlehem, pregnant with people, most of them traveling to this town so they could be counted in the census. Places to spend the night are all full. People frantic to find a room push and shove, stepping over those around them who are in the same plight! Most are so caught up in the busy-ness of the season, they fail to realize the "Peace" they so long to receive is in their midst.

Into the scene come two people: Joseph and his fiancée Mary (who was quite large by now, expecting her first child. They would never have traveled on such a long journey with Mary as far along in her pregnancy as she was, except that Joseph was required by law to register in his home town for the census). By now, Mary was exhausted, having ridden on the back of a donkey for so long. The couple went from one inn to the other, seeking a room for the night. All they got was, "Sorry we are full, why not try the inn a little down the way?" Discouragement and fatigue must have set in. Finally, one inn keeper said, "I do not have any rooms but there is a stable in the back. You can bed down there for the night." It was not a comfortable room; but it was better than sleeping out in the fields for the night. The two proceeded to head for the stable. All of a sudden, the time came for Mary's baby to be born! They looked around and saw plenty of straw that was used for bedding the animals. Mary lay down in the stable and gave birth to her first son. She wanted to make sure He would stay warm; so she wrapped Him in strips of cloths. Joseph took some straw and placed it in the trough used to feed the animals and placed his newborn Son there.

I believe it is easy for us, who live nearly 2000 years after the birth of Jesus, to say I would have opened my house for Joseph and Mary so they would not have needed the stable as the place Jesus was born. However, we are not much different from the people of Jesus' day. We become so busy with the preparations of the season - shopping, mailing Christmas cards, wrapping presents or cleaning our house. We might not leave any room in our hearts and lives for the true reason for Christmas. We are celebrating the birthday of Jesus! Does your heart and life "have any room for Jesus?"

(Rev. Merle Wellhausen is pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Wellhausen and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Arthur L. Kaleta

Arthur L. Kaleta, 78, of Safety Harbor, Fla., and formerly of Boyne City, died Dec. 16, 1994, at Mease Hospital in Safety Harbor.

Private family services were held at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Pastor Ilene Mattson of Cross of Christ Lutheran Church in Petoskey officiated.

Mr. Kaleta was born Nov. 21, 1916, in Detroit, the son of Julius and Amelia Kaleta.

On Nov. 26, 1938, he married Genevieve Rogucki in Detroit, and she survives.

Mr. Kaleta was employed by Detroit Broach and Machine Co. for 20 years, retiring in 1974. In 1975, Mr. and Mrs. Kaleta moved to Northern Michigan from Rochester, and then to Boyne City in 1978. In 1982, they moved to Safety Harbor, Fla.

Mr. Kaleta was a gardener and enjoyed fishing and bowling.

He is survived by his wife, Genevieve, of Safety Harbor, Fla.; and two daughters, Joyce Trudell of Royal Oak, and Laura LeVasseur and her husband, Denny, of Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix where friends may call from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21.

William V. McClanaghan

William V. McClanaghan, 56, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 16, 1994, at his home in Eveline Township.

Funeral was held 11 a.m. Dec. 19, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Harold Kruse of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated, and interment will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. McClanaghan was born April 26, 1938, in Charlevoix, the son of Lawrence E. and Alice Marie (Pederson) McClanaghan. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1957 and married Sandy Wood that year.

Mr. McClanaghan served in the U.S. Army Reserve from 1956 to 1963. On March 17, 1990, he married Beverly A. (Kelly) Bennett.

He worked in construction as a heavy equipment operator and was a life resident of Charlevoix. He loved to hunt and fish.

Survivors include his wife, Beverly, of Charlevoix; two sons, Mark and his wife, Julie, and Matt and his wife, Mary, of Charlevoix; three stepsons, Michael Bennett of Big Rapids, Thomas Bennett of Ironton, and Brian Bennett of Charlevoix; one stepdaughter, Teresa Thomas and her husband, Brian, of East Jordan; and 10 grandchildren. Mr. McClanaghan was preceded in death by a son, Michael A. McClanaghan, in 1988.

Jack H. McPherson

Jack H. McPherson, 75, of Ellsworth, died Dec. 16, 1994, at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

His funeral was Dec. 19, at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church with the Rev. William Lyons officiating. Burial will take place in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. McPherson was born July 20, 1919, near Eastport, the son of Leroy and Charlotte (DeForest) McPherson.

On July 4, 1940, he married Anna Mae Donaldson in rural Charlevoix County. They made their home in Banks Township near Ellsworth.

Mr. McPherson drove the fuel truck for the Ellsworth Farmers' Exchange for 38 years. He enjoyed playing softball, fixing things and did service and repair on furnaces throughout the area.

He served on the Ellsworth Community School Board for eight years and drove the school bus.

As a longtime member of the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church, Mr. McPherson served in many capacities, including church board member; Sunday school superintendent, bus driver, and as a Sunday school teacher for 40 years. He sang with the Singing Grandfathers group; and enjoyed raising sweet corn and raspberries, and sharing his time and talents with his family.

Survivors include his wife, Anna Mae; one daughter, Patricia A. Anspaugh and her husband, Robert, of Essexville; three sons, Gordon McPherson and his wife, Phyllis, of Ellsworth, Eldon McPherson and his wife, Kathy, of Bellaire, and Theodore McPherson and his wife, Rose, of Ellsworth; and 11 grandchildren.

Visitation was held Sunday, Dec. 18, at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Memorial contributions are suggested to the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church.

Gertrude J. Heeres

Gertrude J. Heeres, 80, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 16, 1994, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Her funeral was Tuesday, Dec. 20, at the Belltower Reformed Church in Ellsworth. The Rev. Thomas Welscott officiated. Burial will take place in Atwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Heeres was born June 14, 1914, in Banks Township; the daughter of Edward and Sena (Alfrik) Vandenberg.

On April 4, 1930, she married Henry J. Heeres in Banks Township where the couple made their home. They owned and operated the family farm until 1962 when

Mr. Heeres died. Following his death, Mrs. Heeres worked at Charlevoix Area Hospital for 12 years.

Mrs. Heeres enjoyed homemaking and being with her family. She especially enjoyed making cookies and candies for the family Christmas party.

She was a member of the Belltower Reformed Church.

Survivors include two sons, Robert Heeres and his wife, Carol, and Marvin Heeres and his wife, Charlotte, all of Ellsworth; four daughters, Mrs. Archie (Louise) Potter of Charlevoix, Mrs. Donald (Eleanor) Holecheck of Traverse City, Mrs. Richard (Esther) Jolliffe of Jenison, and Mrs. Robert (Janice) Hartman of Richland; 22 grandchildren; 42 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandson; and two brothers-in-law, Henry Bekker and John Wierenga, both of Grand Rapids. Mrs. Heeres was preceded in death by one son, Harold Heeres, in 1989.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Belltower Reformed Church or to the American Heart Association. Envelopes for memorial contributions are available at the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Harold W. Cowles

Harold W. Cowles, 64, of East Jordan, died Dec. 15, 1994, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial service was held Saturday, Dec. 17, at the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church with the Rev. William Lyons officiating.

Mr. Cowles was born June 14, 1930, in Saginaw, the son of Harold and Harriet (Gilbert) Cowles.

On Oct. 8, 1949, he married Lucille Byron in Saginaw where the couple made their home. They later moved to Muskegon, then Williamsburg, and in 1984 to East Jordan.

Mr. Cowles was a veteran of the Korean conflict, serving with the U.S. Army.

He was a salesman employed at Meyer Hardware in Petoskey, and later at Haggard Plumbing and Heating in Charlevoix until his retirement in 1992.

He was a member of the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church and was a volunteer for the Charlevoix County and Antrim County social services departments.

Survivors include his wife, Lucille; two sons, Jeffrey W. Cowles of Muskegon, and Michael J. and Tracy Cowles of Manton; one daughter, Julie Carr and her husband, Harold, of Kalkaska; and 13 grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Ellsworth Wesleyan Church, or to the organization of choice. There will be no visitation.

Arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Jerry Meggison

Jerry Meggison of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Fisheries Station in Charlevoix was one of several DNR employees to receive awards at a recent luncheon. Meggison received an award for 25 years of service with the DNR.

Maura A. Snabes

Maura A. Snabes has joined Northern Michigan Title Company as Associate Legal Counsel. Snabes received her Juris Doctor degree from the University of Detroit-Mercy School of Law in May 1994. She completed her undergraduate studies at Chaminade University of Honolulu in May 1989, receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree in English and Communications. Snabes is formerly from Livonia. She and her husband, Chris, now live near Norwood.

Bodem supports reform

An ethics package passed during the final days of legislative session will maintain and expand accountability in state government, according to an area lawmaker who voted for the plan.

State Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-106th District, said the legislation eliminates officeholder expense funds as of Jan. 1, 1996. Currently, private contributions made to OEFs can be used to cover expenses incidental to holding office. Money left in the funds can be given to charities, returned to contributors or donated to political party committees if it did not come from corporations.

"The bill is one of the main recommendations of the Joint Legislative Ethics Commission," Bodem said. "This bipartisan, bicameral effort to enact ethics reform has made significant progress."

Bodem said the elimination of OEF accounts is part of an ethics package which:

- prohibits lawmakers who resign from office from becoming lobbyists or lobbying agents during their term of office. This ban takes effect Jan. 1, 1995.

- requires lobbyists to report money spent on travel and lodging to state officials which exceeds $500. The current threshold is $750.

- bans fees for speeches, known as cash honoraria, for lawmakers as of Jan. 1, 1995.

Violation of this law would be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or both.

"While this practice isn't widespread among lawmakers, this legislation will prevent any future appearances of impropriety," Bodem said. "Voters are demanding government openness from their elected officials and these reforms bring us closer to accomplishing that goal."

Stupak appointed to Commerce committee

U.S. Rep. Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) announced today that he has been named to the U.S. House Commerce Committee for the upcoming 104th Congress.

The Commerce Committee was formerly known as the Energy and Commerce Committee, and is considered one of the most influential committees in Congress.

Stupak cited economic development, telecommunications and financial services as key issues within the Commerce Committee jurisdiction.

"Creating jobs, improving our infrastructure, and further developing a climate suitable for economic development is vital to our region," Stupak said. "I'll be in a stronger position to ensure that emerging technologies are available to rural regions of the country and I'll have a direct focus on improving commerce in our region."

The Commerce Committee, Ways and Means, Appropriations and Rules are the only other exclusive committees in the House.

During the last two years, Stupak served on the Armed Services Committee, the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and the Government Operations Committee.

Speed limits increased on Petoskey and Bridge Street

By L. Scott Swanson

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has increased the speed limit from 25 miles per hour to 35 miles per hour in two sections of Charlevoix. The speed limit has been raised on Petoskey Avenue between Prospect and Lewis and on Bridge Street between Carpenter and Upright.

Dan Lund, MDOT District Traffic and Utility Permits Engineer, said the purpose of raising the speed limit is to have the limit conform to the speed most prudent drivers drive.

Last year MDOT, at the request of city police, did a traffic study in Charlevoix. One of the things revealed by the study is that despite having 25 mile per hour speed limit signs, the vast majority of drivers drive at a higher speed on the two street sections in question.

According to Lund and other traffic experts, having an artificially low speed limit creates an unsafe traffic situation. The minority of drivers who adhere to the posted limit cause the majority of drivers who are exceeding the limit to change lanes to pass them. Frequent changing of lanes increases the number of traffic accidents.

After meeting with city officials, MDOT drafted a traffic order to increase the speed limits. However, this past spring, prior to higher speed limits being posted, a group of north side residents opposed to the increase circulated a petition and voiced concerns to first ward councilman Don Meggison. Meggison raised the issue at a city council meeting and the city council decided to ask MDOT not to raise the speed limit and to have city police increase patrols in the area.

Petoskey Avenue and Bridge Street are both sections of US 31 which is a state highway. Thus the decision as to what the speed limit will be is the state's call, not the city's.

Lund said that by the time the city complained, the traffic order for the change had been written and signed. He said he wrote a letter to city officials explaining the situation and saying MDOT would be willing to take another look at the situation after a year has passed with the higher limit.

Lund argues that raising the speed limit won't raise the speed of traffic. He said it will allow law enforcement officers to weed out the true speeders who are going 40 to 50 miles per hour.

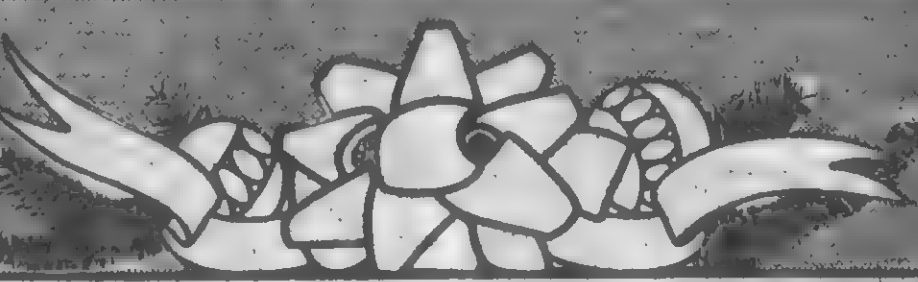

City police chief Dennis Halverson said he doesn't see the new speed limit affecting ticket writing. He said that tickets written for Petoskey Avenue speeding were generally for people driving in the 35 to 45 mile per hour range, not in the 25 to 35 mile per hour range.

Meggison said he still objects to the increase in the speed limit. He added that if the speed limit is going to be raised to 35 between Prospect and Lewis, he would like to see it lowered from 55 to 45 and 45 to 35 farther out on the southern end of town. Currently it doesn't drop down to 45 until near Mercer Street.

Meggison lives on Petoskey Avenue, near Prospect Street. "There are still people coming through there at 50 to 60 miles per hour," he said. "If somebody gets killed up there, I'm going to blame them (MDOT) for it."

Two other concerns which have been discussed are pedestrians crossing at the golf course and near Prospect. Lund and Halverson said there are no easy solutions to those problems. Perhaps an overhead walkway or traffic light could be installed, but both of those options are expensive and have other drawbacks. Halverson noted that one thing which has been done in addition to changing the speed limit was to put up a better curve sign near Prospect to give drivers a better appreciation of the need to slow down.

Progress continues on Sleep Inn

By Laurie Lounsbury

If you're visiting Charlevoix, odds are you're not going to be spending much time in your hotel room. In fact, you'll probably just go there to sleep. That's the concept behind the Sleep Inn, a new hotel that's being built on the north side of Charlevoix. The Sleep Inn is part of the Choice Hotel Group, which also includes Comfort Inns and Quality Inns. The Sleep Inn will put plenty of quality and amenities into the hotel, but make the rooms smaller than rooms found in the other related hotels. The thinking behind it is that customers want a nice place to stay, but they don't need a big place to stay. Making smaller rooms means lower room prices.

The Sleep Inn is going up on the site of Oscar Stroud's former hotel, the Wayside Inn. The hotel will have a spectacular view of Lake Charlevoix and an indoor pool with jacuzzi. Construction has started, and should be completed by May.

Developer Jon Runquist knows the room prices will be very competitive with some of the other motels in Charlevoix, but he doesn't think they'll be taking business away from them. "We'll be taking business away from some of the hotels in Petoskey, not from other hotels in Charlevoix," Runquist said. Market studies done by the group indicated that some travelers prefer name recognition of a big hotel group. Rather than stay in an individually owned motel, they will drive the extra 25 miles to stay in a name brand hotel.

The Charlevoix Sleep Inn broke with tradition when the owners went with a Victorian theme instead of a southwest look. Sleep Inns originated in the southwest, and have consistently followed with that motif. Runquist thought a Victorian look was more in keeping with Charlevoix.

(Left) Kay Smith received another bag of groceries from CB North Bank President Francis Flanders. In a longstanding Charlevoix tradition, the bank matches any food donations brought into the bank with food or the cash equivalent. The food goes to the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project. Smith and her band of volunteers make up gifts of food baskets for the needy families in Charlevoix. This year CB North donated more than $700 to the project.

Rayders lose in final seconds

Team falls 48-47 to Boyne City

A Boyne City basket with 10 seconds remaining in the game left Charlevoix with a 48-47 loss Friday evening in the conference opener for both teams.

Three nights earlier Charlevoix lost to Petoskey 84-32. Against Boyne City, the defense improved, but the offense still performed woefully by streaks. In the third quarter, the Rayder offense mustered but four points.

The third quarter drought was not the first of the night for the Rayders. Charlevoix scored in bursts and suffered dry spells throughout

Volleyball team takes second at Alma

Charlevoix's varsity volleyball team opened its season Saturday with a strong showing at the Alma Invitational. The Rayders placed second among ten teams in the tournament, losing in the finals to Class A White Lake-Lakeland, 15-11, 15-8.

In pool play, Charlevoix beat Vestaburg and Fulton and split with Freeland and Standish-Sterling to finish 6-2. In the semi-finals, the Rayders beat Ovid-Elsie in two out of three games.

Liz Grunch led Charlevoix with 32 kills while Liz Kelly had eight, Gretchen Scott six, Jennie Swenor five and Kristin Czerkes four. The Rayders were successful on 88 percent of their serves with 17 percent of their serves being aces.

Jill Dreyer set the Rayder hitters while juniors Aprilie Pischner, Liz Coen and Czerkes made their varsity debuts and played like they belong.

Charlevoix opens regular season play Jan. 5 at Harbor Light Christian.

the game. The Rayders failed to score during the first three minutes of the game and fell behind 6-0. A basket by Gary Leitner with 4:58 left in the first quarter started an 11 point Rayder run.

The scoring spree propelled Charlevoix to a 15-10 lead at the end of the first quarter. Leitner and Jerry Duhart had 13 of Charlevoix's 15 points in the quarter. Kregg Smith and Jeff Brown had eight of Boyne City's ten points in the quarter.

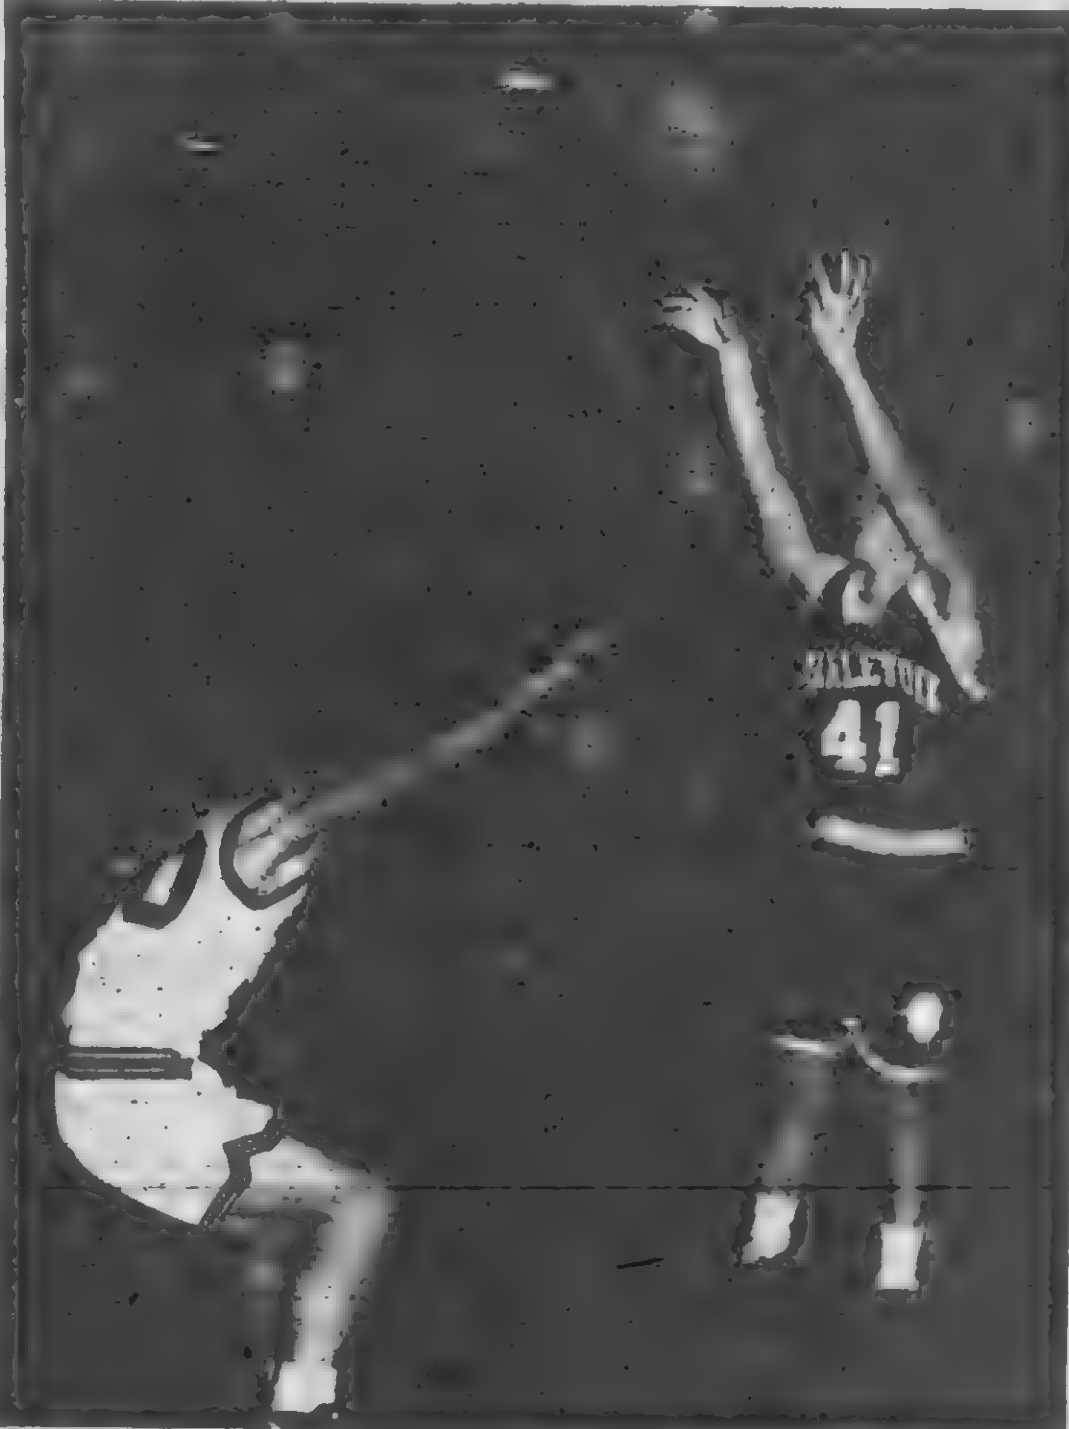

Charlevoix began the second quarter with another basket by Leitner and then failed to score for nearly three and a-half minutes. Meanwhile, Boyne City ran off eight points and took an 18-17 lead.

Sound defense by the Rayders kept Boyne City from stretching that lead. The most the Ramblers led by in the second quarter was 23-21 with 2:49 remaining. The Rayders then held Boyne City scoreless for the rest of the quarter and retook the lead 28-28 at half-time.

To call the Rayders' third quarter offense ugly would be painting the picture too pretty. A bulldog suffering a bad case of the flu would hold

CARD OF THANKS

THANK YOU

With sincere appreciation to my family at home, my family at Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering and Puff's of Petoskey, to my wonderful friends here and away for their prayers and calls, words of caring, the beautiful cards, flowers, plants and balloons, during my surgery and recovery.

A special thanks to my excellent husband, Puff, for being my right-hand man. I couldn't have managed without him.

I will always be grateful to each and everyone of you.

Best wishes of the season and happiness in the coming year.

Very Sincerely,
Ann Puffpuff

Health Department issues Rubella warning

Dr. Brian Youngs, Medical Director for District Health Department No. 3 and No. 4, is alerting the public about a probable case of rubella or German measles in the area. The case was reported from Cheboygan County.

Rubella is passed directly from person to person by direct contact or by contact with nose and throat secretions from coughing, sneezing, and talking. The disease is most contagious as the rash is appearing, but can be spread from 1 week before to 5-7 days after rash onset. Rubella may be transmitted by infected persons who exhibit no signs or symptoms. The period from exposure to actual onset of rubella symptoms, called the incubation period, varies from 14-23 days, with an average of 16-18 days. Children are apt to have a milder case of rubella than adults. For rubella illness developed after birth, symptoms are often mild with 25 percent - 50 percent of cases having no signs or symptoms. In older children and adults, there is often 1-5 days of low-grade fever, tiredness, headache, conjunctivitis, runny nose, and upper respiratory tract symptoms preceding the rash.

Many individuals with rubella are not recognized as rubella disease. Rubella can be confused with many other rash illnesses; lymph nodes may begin swelling 5-10 days before the rash and remain swollen for several weeks; joint pain and temporary arthritis, which are uncommon in children, occur frequently in adults, especially in women; complications of rubella infection tend to occur more often in adults than in children and include arthritis and joint pain; swelling of the brain; problems with blood clotting; and congenital rubella syndrome. The syndrome occurs when a woman is infected during her pregnancy. Some common manifestations of congenital rubella syndrome include: deafness; eye problems, including cataracts and glaucoma; congenital heart disease; mental retardation; and many others.

Rubella in a pregnant woman is a very serious problem. All women who want to become pregnant or are pregnant should know their rubella antibody status (a blood test which indicates prior exposure or a response to the vaccine). There is a vaccine (measles-mumps-rubella) that may prevent the illness. It is given to non-pregnant women. When a pregnant woman is exposed to rubella, or a similar illness, she must immediately contact her doctor. A blood specimen should be obtained as soon as possible and tested for rubella antibody. The pregnant woman is then tested on several different occasions to see if an infection has occurred. Women who become infected during pregnancy must review this issue with their physician.

School board wants to collect all property taxes in the summer

Monday evening the Charlevoix school board voted to collect all of school property taxes during the summer tax collection. For a homeowner of a $100,000 home, this would mean paying about $322 for the schools in the summer time and paying no school taxes on the winter tax bill. The summer tax collection of all school funds means that the district won't have to borrow money in the fall. That will be a savings to the school district. This year the schools paid about $17,000 in interest on borrowed money.

The school district will need the approval of all of the townships in the school district in order to have the summer tax collection.

Not your normal banking transaction

Wedding brings new meaning to the term
full service bank

By L. Scott Swanson

Banks often play a key role in mergers. Normally those mergers are business deals, not weddings.
But what with deregulation, the range of services offered by banks is constantly expanding.

At 5 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 20 CB
North of Charlevoix hosted the wedding of Dawn VanWagoner and Mike Crain. The bride and groom marched down the aisle between the desks of the bank officers. As the couple marched, bank employees sang Joy to the World.
Rev. Bruce Hamilton officiated the ceremony in the bank's lobby, right in front of the Christmas tree.

Following the ceremony, CB
North President Francis Flanders, who gave away the bride, noted that if anyone had any doubts this should prove that CB North is "truly a full service bank."

Dawn VanWagoner (now Crain), who works at the bank, and Mike Crain had been seeing each other for several months. Originally, they were going to get married in June, but then had postponed the wedding until January.

Monday evening, Dec. 19, Mike had a basketball game. He plays for the legendary Sears of Charlevoix team in the Charlevoix Recreation Department men's basketball league. The Sears team didn't win a game last year and so far this year has succeeded in keeping their perfect record intact. On Monday evening, Dawn was, as usual, about the team's only spectator and was sitting up in the balcony at the middle school gym. At halftime, while his teammates were clanging warm-up shots off the backboard and rim, Mike ascended the steps to the balcony to do a bit of flirting with the fans.

According to Dawn, at halftime of the game, they were talking and Mike said he didn't see any need to wait until January and made a pitch for eloping - the sooner the better.
Fortunately, they didn't leave to get married right then. The game still had another half to play and Sears only had seven guys that night.
And a couple of them were in foul trouble. Looking back at it, given that the Sears team ended up losing by more than 40 points while Mike ended up getting a nice wife out of the deal, it's probably fair to say he was the only member of the whole team who had a productive night at the gym. And even with him, his only real success occurred during halftime.

Mike Crain (center) and his new wife Dawn were married by Rev. Bruce Hamilton in the lobby of CB North bank last week.

Although Mike and Dawn Crain had planned to have an informal wedding at the Community Church of God, at the last minute Dawn's coworkers suggested they have the wedding in the lobby of the bank. Rev. Bruce Hamilton officiated while Ed and Mary Jo Holm served as witnesses.

City to review progress on projects this year

In January, the city council will be reviewing progress on previous city goals and defining new goals for the coming year. City residents with something in mind for the city to do in the coming year should contact either Mayor Josh Barnes, their city council representative or the city manager's office.

Council representatives for the various areas of town are as follows: First ward (the north side as well as Park Avenue, Clinton and a portion of Mason Street on the south side) Don Meggison and Cheri Hoffman; Second ward (the south side west of Bridge Street with the exception of an area near Carpenter Street, east of State) Butch Russell and Gabe Campbell; Third ward (the south side of town east of Bridge Street and a small portion of town between Bridge and State Street) Bruce Reid and Jackie Cross.

Recently, city manager Mike Wiesner sent councilmembers a written update on goals established by the council early this year. A summary of that update follows:

High priority projects:

City Hall renovation - An overall plan for City Hall renovation is to be developed. The plan will include mechanical improvements, electrical improvements, a new elevator, windows, carpet, drapes and ceiling work where necessary to accommodate lighting improvements etc. Consultants are in the process of finalizing specific plans for electric, phone system and computer networking. Those plans are scheduled to be provided to city officials in January so that the phasing of the plans can be incorporated into the city's 1995 budget projections.

Downtown Development Authority (DDA) improvements - With the passage of the bond issue, the DDA is now working on the Bridge Park project. Last week the DDA authorized engineers to proceed with design work. Work at the sewer plant on Lakeshore Drive (which is necessary to move the screening process out of the old plant on Round Lake) will begin in the spring of 1995. Work on Bridge Park will begin in the late summer or early fall of 1995 with completion in June of 1996.

After final costs of Bridge Park have been determined, the DDA will have a better idea of how much money will be available for other projects.

Depot Beach Improvements - The city and the Historical Society are splitting a $29,000 Michigan Equity Grant from the state. The Historical Society is renovating the old Depot building. The city is using its half of the grant, plus additional city money to construct a picnic shelter. As funds allow, the city also will be building a new and separate rest room facility. Proposals from architects have been requested. The current schedule calls for authorizing an architect to proceed by mid January, with bids for work to be received in mid March. The results of the bids would then be forwarded to the city council.

Golf Course construction - All of the sand traps on the Municipal Golf Course were upgraded this past year and a new bunker was added near the practice green. There's a master plan in place for continuing improvements at the course. All items on the current plan are projected to be completed by 2003.

Electrical System improvements - The system converted to the new substation and also replaced some primary circuits this year. Work was also done on circuits near Grant and Garfield Streets and the hospital, as well as on M-66 to Wickersham Road. Work was also done on a circuit serving the industrial park which (Above) Frozen water lines last winter were both a curse and a blessing. The freezing caused headaches for homeowners and water department workers, but also brought a federal emergency grant which allowed five more lines than originally planned to be repaired this year.

(Right) After years of debate and research the DDA finally was able to install new street lights on Bridge Street. The DDA's major goal for the coming year will be making improvements in the Bridge Park area.

dramatically improved service to the businesses in the park. There are still several things which need to be done and system improvements are ongoing.

Infrastructure improvements - All of the items on the 1994 schedule were completed. Among those projects were street work on the south end of State Street and on Carpenter between Bridge and State Streets. In addition to the planned improvements, state and federal funds received due to freezing problems last year allowed some other water mains to be repaired. If all goes as planned, projects currently on the infrastructure repair list will be completed by 2001.

Plan for use of present street department site - The planning commission hosted two meetings to determine what should ultimately be done with the present street department property on Stover Road. Eventually, the street department is going to share space with the electric department on Carpenter Street. The majority of people commenting at the hearings favored turning the Stover Road property into a park after the street department moves.

Plan for improvements at the Carpenter Street public works site - Eventually, the electric, water and street departments will all operate out of the Carpenter Street public works site. Currently an architectural and site planning firm are working on a site plan and cost estimates for the project. The plan from the consultants should be ready for consideration early in 1995, so that it can be included in the 1995-96 city budget.

Sidewalks - During the past year, sidewalks were constructed along Bridge Street from Robinson to the airport and along Petoskey Avenue from Meech to Meeker.

Softball field - The city will be receiving a state grant to help with renovations at the softball field. In conjunction with that project, there will be storm sewer and street work on Carpenter Street. Plans are for construction to begin in September 1995.

Miscellaneous projects:

Beaver Island Boat Company - This project refers to the Bridge Park project. (See DDA improvements above).

Cable TV (monitor) - City attorney Jim Young periodically reports to the council regarding legislation and governmental action regarding cable TV rates.

Cemetery financing and cost study - A cemetery financing and cost study was completed in 1993. That study will be updated and utilized in preparing next year's city budget. The financing and cost study estimates when the interest in the cemetery Perpetual Care Fund will be sufficient to pay for all cemetery operations. The current city budget calls for the General Fund to contribute $29,800 to cemetery operations.

Cemetery rules - What city administrators hope will be the final draft of cemetery rules has been

One of the major city improvements downtown during the past year was the construction of a parking lot between Mason and Antrim Streets.

OPINIONS

Editorial

Should we enjoy the weather or worry that we'll pay later?

It has been said that in Charlevoix people will take up opposite sides on darn near anything. Anyone who questions that need only consider the unseasonably mild weather we've had recently and the talk it has inspired in the community.

On one side of the issue have been the weather optimists. They feel we should accept this warm weather gladly and enjoy it while it lasts. They claim we deserve it as we have gotten more than our share of cold weather in the past and will receive more cold weather in the future.

On the other side of the issue are the weather pessimists. They greet the current warm weather with a sense of apprehension. They maintain that nature has a way of evening the score over time. They fear that come February and March, we will pay for the warm weather of December.

The funny thing is that come February, sure enough we'll get a storm. And when that happens, people on both sides will feel that time has proven their position to have been the correct one. Weather optimists will say, "Back in December, I told people to appreciate the warm weather while it lasted." Meanwhile, the weather pessimists will say with equal sincerity, "Yep, I had a bad feeling about that warm weather in December and I was right. Now, the time has come to pay the fiddler."

Surrounding communities look at Charlevoix and wonder how it continues to advance despite arguing over so many issues. The answer is easy. The arguments aren't a problem, because everyone is always proven correct.

by L. Scott Swanson

(Above and below) We've been fortunate to have mild weather so far in December, but rest assured before winter is over we'll get our fair share of cold weather. Last winter, we had mild weather until two days before Christmas but these photos show what we ended up with later.

Acacia commander expresses gratitude for support

Editor,

Now that our last boy has been harvested and ACACIA can finally settle in for a long winter's nap, I would like to publicly thank all of the people in northern Michigan who supported us during our recent deployment to Haiti for Operation Uphold Democracy. The genuine care and concern displayed for the crew and their families by everyone, especially the folks in Charlevoix, was very uplifting and made it much easier for us to concentrate on our mission. I am proud and honored to have ACACIA homeported in such a beautiful and caring community.

Sincerely,

...bank hosts wedding ceremony

Monday evening, Dawn didn't give Mike a definite answer one way or another about eloping, but Tuesday while they were having lunch together, he brought up the idea again. This time, after having giving the idea some thought, she said yes. She said she would call Hamilton and see when he was available. Dawn plays the organ at the Charlevoix Community Church of God where Hamilton is the pastor. He was the one who was going to marry the couple in January, but now received a call asking if he could move up the ceremony.

Hamilton said he could marry them sooner, but that he had some Christmas things to get done later in the week. He said he was free at 5 p.m. that day, but they would need to have witnesses. Dawn agreed on a 5 p.m. wedding time and Mike was assigned to find two witnesses. He called Ed and Mary Jo Holm and asked them what they were doing around 5 p.m. They agreed to serve as witnesses.

After a busy lunch hour arranging a wedding, Dawn returned to work. That afternoon Hamilton stopped in at the bank to do some banking. Upon seeing Dawn, he asked if she was ready for her wedding in a couple of hours. One of her coworkers overheard and began asking questions.

Then things began happening quickly. Dawn and Mike initially were going to be married at the church, but her coworkers suggested having the wedding at the bank. Dawn went into Flanders' office to see if that would be all right.

Flanders said she came in and asked if he would escort her in her wedding.

He said, yeah, I could do that. But when?

She said, about five o'clock. And there's one more thing, can we have the wedding in the lobby of the bank?

He said, I don't see why not. Dawn was sent home at 3:30 p.m. to get all spiffed up. Flowers were procured for her to wear as well as a boutonniere for Mike. At five o'clock all of the people assembled and the bank grew quiet. The wedding party marched down the aisle and the vows were spoken.

"I was very dazed," Dawn said a few days later.

"It was kind of strange," Flanders said, and then added, "It was very moving."

Hamilton said he was glad to be a part of the marriage because it's obvious how much the couple cares for each other. As for the location of the service, he said, "Oh, it was fun, it was fun. I've married people in some strange places before, but never in a bank."

submitted to the city attorney for review. If all goes well, the rules will come before the city council early in 1995.

Continued computerization - The city has sought bids for a new network on a new computer system. City officials are also working with the county in considering the possibility of using their system. Bids will be reviewed in the near future.

Continued tree program - The council has authorized a $20,000 contract for the removal of dead trees and dangerous limbs. The city is in the process of inventorying all trees on city property, but has yet to decide upon the computer package to use in cataloging the trees. There is also a $20,000 annual expenditure planned in future budgets for tree trimming. A fall planting program is ongoing and the Shade Tree Commission has developed a plan for tree planting near the south end of State Street in the fall of 1995.

end of State Street in the fall of 1995.

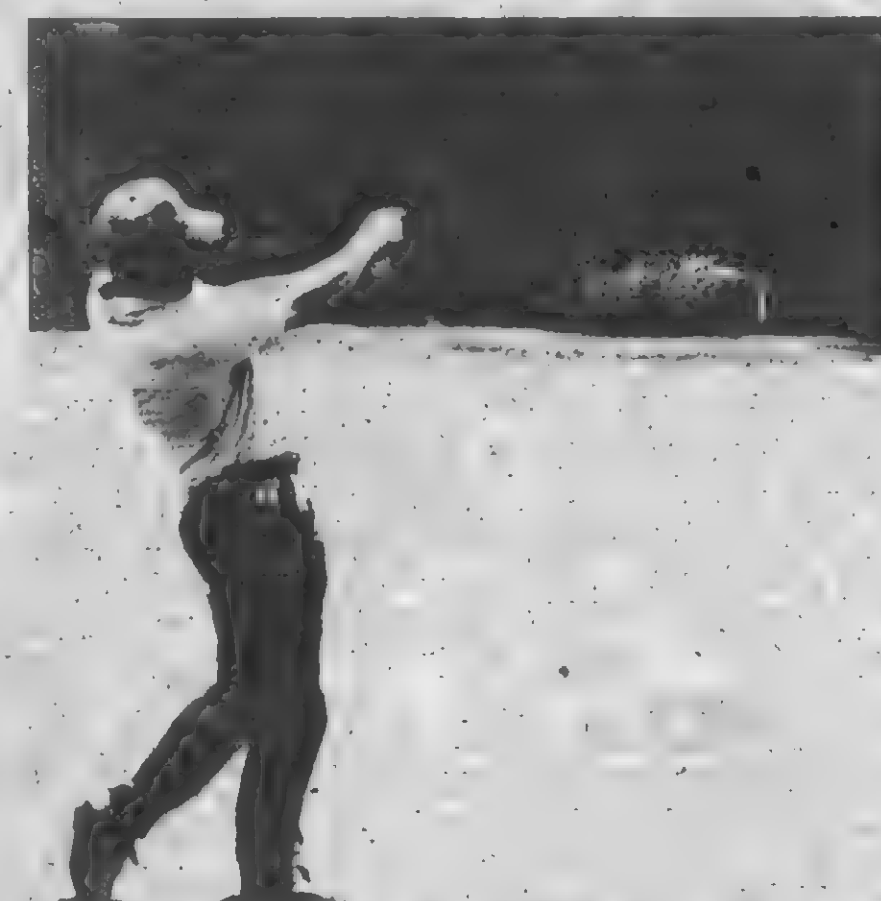

Housing - This item was placed on the city goals list last year, but no definite direction has been taken.

Lake Charlevoix Management Plan - Several years ago a council member talked about having the city review the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan. To date, this has not been done.

Industrial promotion - During the 1993-94 fiscal year, five of seven available lots in the industrial park were sold. Four of the lots were purchased by LexaLite for a new plant. CPI purchased one lot and is considering the purchase of another.

Purchase of lakefront property - This has been a city goal for several years.

Revise various city master plans - This is ongoing.

The city deviated from the master plan for the Municipal Golf Course in 1994 in order to repair sand traps sooner than called for in the plan.

She was preceded in death by her parents; a son, Robert Stark, on April 26, 1987; and a sister, Phyllis Nyitray in January, 1988.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association of the American Lung Association. Envelopes will be available at the Paulin Funeral Home in East Jordan where friends may call from 2 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 28. A V.F.W. Auxiliary service will be held at 7 p.m. on Wednesday at the funeral home under auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary Post No. 7580, East Jordan. A rosary will also be recited at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday at the funeral home.

Girl to attend conference in Jerusalem

Amy Kujawski was nominated by Fr. Lander Cater of Christ Episcopal Church to attend the second annual Christian Youth Leadership Conference to be held March 12-21, 1995 in Ma'aleh Adumim, a fairly new suburb of Jerusalem in Israel.

Kujawski lives with her parents Paul and Debbie Gelderblom in Charlevoix. She went on her first evangelistic mission trip when she was 14. She wrote and directed the Christmas youth pageant at Christ Church last year. This past summer she recruited another youth to go with her to Paraguay on a mission trip. Kujawski apprenticed in her mother's small business to pay her own way while organizing fundraisers to help the other youth.

The conference is sponsored by Summit Fellowship, a nationwide youth ministry and the city of Ma'aleh Adumim in Israel. The conference will include leadership workshops, a tour of the Holy lands, a reception with a member of the Israeli Parliament and mayor of Ma'aleh Adumim and interaction with Israeli youth.

Kujawski is currently seeking funds to be able to participate in this conference. Tax deductible contributions may be made out to "Summit Fellowship" designated "Israel Conference" and mailed to Christ Episcopal Church, P.O. Box 385, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Harold Holm: Dealing cars for four decades

By Laurie Lounsbury

The rich, heavy aroma of cigar smoke hangs in the air at Holm Auto Sales. Harold Holm sprawls comfortably in an extra chair in his office. He disregards the straight back chair behind his desk. After 40 years in the used car business, Holm is relaxed at his workplace. "I haven't got the least desire to retire. It's still fun," Holm said.

Perhaps selling used cars is fun for Holm because he never deals with unhappy customers. Holm keeps them happy by standing behind every deal he makes. He is fair. "I always believed in charging what I would like to pay for a car," Holm said.

Maybe Holm is having fun because trading is in his blood. Before Holm got into the used car business, he was in the livestock business, trading cattle and horses. "Things are about the same as when he was in the horse business," said his son Ed. "He's the last horse trader in town." Holm grinned broadly at that remark.

Holm is selling cars today to the grandchildren of his earlier customers. "I get a charge when people come in and tell me their grandpa sent me to me. It's the best feeling you can get."

Holm recounted one story of a Boyne City man who bought a car from him in the winter. When spring came and the snow melted, the man could hardly steer the car. The car had a steering problem that wasn't noticeable when driving on snow. Holm gave the man a car that was two years newer, and only charged him the sales tax. "It's a case where fair is fair," Holm said. Since then, Holm has sold the same man five cars. He's also sold cars to the man's son and daughter.

Holm's business is tucked off Barnard Road, south of town. It's not exactly a high visibility location, yet the customers keep on beating a path to Holm's door. "Repeat business is fantastic," Holm said.

There are some differences in the used car business from Holm's dealings 40 years ago. People are bringing in cars with much higher mileage on them. "It's because people can't afford to get a new car 'til the old one's completely wore out," Holm said. "I don't see how the average person can afford a new car today," he added.

The high mileage on a car doesn't bother Holm. He knows engines. When a car comes to him, he listens to the engine and inspects it. "Miles haven't got one thing to do with the condition of the car. It's how they're taken care of, how they're maintained and serviced," Holm said.

Holm has seen about 6,000 cars pass through his car yard. Of them all, his favorite is the Ford Mustang from the 1960s. "Back then everyone could do work on their own car. There were a lot of back yard mechanics," Holm said.

"Our whole society was more oriented to cars," Ed added.

Holm is still oriented to cars and the car business. "Once it's in your blood, it's there forever," he said, shrugging contentedly.

Harold Holm has been in the used car business for four decades and says he still is having fun and has no desire to retire. On the wall next to him are the dealership licenses he has collected through the years. Before he got into the used car business, he was in the livestock business, trading cattle and horses. BEACONS

by REV. DALE OSTEMA

Recently I was speaking with a friend who made the comment, "I need a vacation now just to get over Christmas." I imagine many of us feel that way this time of the year. Both Christmas and New Years can be exhausting, given all the things we try to cram into this season. Some folks are glad to be done with the whole extravaganza, sighting "holiday burn-out" as the cause for their scroogitis.

As a pastor, I know the busyness of this season well. Next to Holy Week and Easter, this can be the busiest as well as the happiest time of the year. I also know, as do all Christians, that in truth Christmas is just begun. Now granted, over the course of a couple weeks here most of the signs of this blessed holiday will disappear. Used Christmas trees will line the street curbs, along with bags of holiday trash. Christmas 1994 will fade into a memory. There is one thing, however, which will not fade, and that is the message behind Christmas, the "reason for the season" as we like to say. The birth of Christ the Lord and Savior lives on in the hearts and minds of all who believe, empowering ordinary people like you and me to do extraordinary things.

The poet, Howard Thurman, said this about the end of Christmas as its beginning:

When the song of the angels is stilled when the star in the sky is gone when the kings and the princes are home when the shepherds are back with their flocks the work of Christmas begins to find the lost; to heal the broken; to feed the hungry; to release the prisoner; to rebuild the nations; to bring peace among the people; to make music in the heart.

Truly, the love come down at Christmas in Jesus Christ is love to be shared all year long. May Christmas continue for you as God's love grows within you and you share that love with others!

(Rev. Dale Ostema is pastor of the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Beacons of Blessings is provided to the Courier by Ostema and other members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.)

Republicans elect new officers

Charlevoix County Republicans had their 1994 county convention Nov. 17 and the following people were elected to the Executive Committee. John Haggard was re-elected Chairperson, Joan Blanchard was elected Vice-Chairperson, Jane Brannon was elected Secretary and Joan Balch was elected Treasurer.

All will serve a two-year term. Charlene Gaskin was appointed Financial Secretary by John Haggard. The Committee is in the process of getting organized for their Lincoln Day Dinner which will be held in the spring of 1995. Invitations will be sent to possible guest speakers. Dick Chaney, Sen. Phil

Gramm, Lamar Alexander and Colin Powell.

The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 19, 1995. Anyone interested in helping with the party organization, please call John Haggard at 547-4046 (days) or 547-6600 (evenings).

Screening offered for three-year-olds

There will be a three year old Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1995. This clinic is sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three year old children, and to have your child informally screened to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years. This is a free service with appointments made on a first come, first served basis. The clinics will be Jan. 11 at the Community Reformed Church.

Eastern Star meets

Worthy Matron Carla Spencer presided at the December 21st meeting of the Order of Eastern Star, Charlevoix Chapter #72. Honored guests were presented, including Grand Officers and Past Grand Officers. Visiting Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons. Officials from other fraternal affiliates of the Masonic Order and Order of Eastern Star. The Sunshine report showed that members had remembered their shut-in and ill members, by sending 126 cards, 73 telephone calls or visits, and two visits to other Chapters the past month. A Christmas gift was taken to George Dobra, at the Masonic Home, Alma, MI., and cards were sent to other local and out-of-town shut-ins. A Christmas contribution was made to Bolder Park Terrace in honor of shut-ins, in lieu of individual gifts. Contributions were also made to the Children's Fund at the Villa, Happiness Fund, Masonic Home, and for Flowers for Easter at the Masonic Home.

Lake Michigan levels are about nine inches above historic average

During the month of November precipitation on the Lake Superior basin was below average while the remaining basins were above average. For the year to date, precipitation on the entire Great Lakes basin is at the average. The net supply of water to Lakes Superior and Erie was below average, while the net supply to Lakes Michigan-Huron and Ontario were above average.

In comparison to their long-term (1918-1993) averages, the November monthly mean water level of Lakes Superior and Ontario were at their average, while Lakes Michigan-Huron, St. Clair and Erie were 9, 11 and 10 inches above average, respectively. Shoreline residents are cautioned to be alert whenever adverse weather conditions exist, as these could cause rapid short-term rises in water levels. Should the lakes approach critically high levels, further information and advice will be provided by the Corps of Engineers.

A more detailed summary of Lakes Michigan-Huron water levels follows. All elevations are referenced to International Great Lakes Datum 1985.

Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of November were at elevation 579.46 feet (176.62 meters) above the mean water level at Rimouski, Quebec, or about 24 inches (62 cm.) above Chart Datum. The November monthly mean level of 579.56 feet (176.64 meters) was about 9 inches (22 cm.) above the long-term average for November. The lakes were about 29 inches (73 cm.) below the all-time high November monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1986. The forecast shows that the December monthly mean level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 2 inches (5 cm.) below what it was at Mid-November. The lakes are expected to begin their seasonal rise in March. The water level Mid-May 1995 is expected to be about 8 inches (21 cm.) above the long-term average for that month, or about 2 inches (4 cm.) above what it was at the same time in 1994.

Book angels mean children have something to read

A book angel program undertaken by Charlevoix's two bookstores resulted in hundreds of books being given to some area children who otherwise might not have had a book to read. Mary Jane Barnwell of the Charlevoix Bookshop (left) and Kit Foster of the Bridge Street Book Shop (right) are shown with their Book Angel Christmas trees.

Customers of the stores bought books at discounted prices to be donated to children. During the weeks leading up to Christmas, $5 of each Charlevoix Courier subscription renewal was also donated to the program.

DDA authorizes Bridge Park engineering to proceed

Bonds to fund the Bridge Park project have been sold and the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has authorized an engineering firm to proceed with additional design work.

The DDA board met Wednesday, Dec. 21 and was told by city treasurer Rick Brandt that interest rates were going to be slightly more favorable than originally indicated. The bonds sold at an average interest rate of 6.656 percent, as opposed to 6.661 percent as was originally indicated. That small change in rates equates to a savings of about $50,000. Brandt said the total debt service cost of the bonds is now estimated at $6,179,561.

A portion of that will be offset by interest generated by investing the bond money between the time it is received and the time it is used to pay project bills. At the Dec. 21 meeting, Brandt told the DDA board that of six banks which bid on the bond interest, First of America had offered the highest return rate of up to 6.4 percent.

Brandt said the return will almost cover the city's interest cost in the first year of the bond payback. He said the city will be investing the money in short term investment instruments since there is a feeling that interest rates will go up in the near future.

In a memo to city manager Mike Wiesner, Brandt wrote, "The bonds were sold after a vigorous information exchange with the rating agencies (S&P and Moody's). They were concerned about the Orange County, California investments and whether any of the bond issuers had like investments. To my knowledge none of the twenty issuers had investments in derivative instruments, although the Michigan Municipal Bond Authority was still checking into the pension investments of various communities. The bonds were insured by AMBAC, received a AAA rating and were part of a $73.897 million issue."

Wiesner updated the board on the timetable for the project. Advertising for bids on project related work at the septic plant on Lakeshore Drive will take place in March with bids awarded in April and work to begin in June. Advertising for work near Bridge Park will take place in May with bids awarded in June and work to begin in the fall of 1995 and be completed by June of 1996.

Names in business

A collection of awards, accomplishments and milestones in the careers of Charlevoix area business people.

Sears Merchandise Group announced that Joe Trojanek, who owns and operates the Sears authorized retail dealer store in Charlevoix, has been selected to serve on the Sears Retail Dealer Advisory Council. Trojanek is one of eighteen dealers who will recommend improvements to Sears management regarding dealer store operations, local store marketing and customer service. Sears has opened over 250 dealer stores in mid-size cities since this new retail format was introduced nationally in January, 1993.

"I'm looking forward to contributing to the further growth of Sears dealer stores," said Trojanek.

"It's an honor for me to represent other dealers from our area on the Sears Advisory Council." Members will meet three times per year with Sears headquarters and field staff. The mission of the Advisory Council is to suggest ongoing improvements in product selection and service for Sears dealer store customers.

Mount McSaubia: Where thousands of skiers get started

By Laurie Lounsbury

The ski school program at Mt. McSaubia has been taking kids to new heights for many years. Take Caroline and Katherine Campbell. They were sliding down Mt. McSaubia's slopes when they were barely out of their diapers. Their younger brother Jonathon just mastered toddling when he took to the bunny hill. Today the two girls are state ski champions, and Jonathon's following in their ski tracks, now on the middle school ski team.

Heidi, Lisa, and Lindsay Miller were all tow headed toddlers when they made their first trip down Mt. McSaubia. Today Heidi is captain of the high school ski team, always a top finisher in state championship events. The younger Miller girls are active in downhill racing academics.

Erik Halverson is a freshman on the high school ski team. He probably never would have learned how to ski if Mt. McSaubia hadn't been in his own back yard. Brian Liotta never strapped on a pair of skis until the fifth grade, when he tried the sport for the first time at Mt. McSaubia. Today he's a senior on the high school ski team.

These are just a few of the Charlevoix area kids who have gotten started on the downhill path to skiing success at Mt. McSaubia. With each passing year, the program grows along with its students. This year Mt. McSaubia is offering free ski and boot rentals for the whole season with every new skier season pass. "We just got 50 new pairs of new rental skis, so we'd really like to see new skiers take advantage of that," said Ike Boss, Director of the city recreation department. Boss also said if there are any extra rental sets available after the new skiers have signed up, the offer will be extended to any other season pass holders.

School program kicks off Christmas vacation

Amy Van Guilder sang her rendition of "My Grown Up Christmas List" during the High School Christmas program Thursday.

The French Club seniors were told it couldn't be done, but they worked hard and did it anyway, singing "Oh Holy Night" in french.

The French Club put on a skit-along which included singing Christmas carols in french.

...Mount McSauba is a great place for skiing

Charlevoix's skiing families all speak glowingly of the Mt. McSauba ski program. "We put many, many hours in at Mt. McSauba before our kids graduated to the bigger hills," said Mary Lee Campbell, mother of five skiers. "It's one of the best buys in northern Michigan. People don't take as much advantage of that as they should," she added.

Pat Miller loved Mt. McSauba for its intimate, family feeling. "I don't think it's just the lessons, it's the whole atmosphere that's great," Miller said, explaining that there was always a parent or friend on hand to help kids with ski bindings and boot buckles.

McSauba's handy location makes convenience a big selling point. Erik's father Dennis Halverson said, "We're very lucky. We didn't have to drive to Boyne. If that had been the only option, Erik wouldn't be skiing today."

Mt. McSauba will start a four week session of classes on January 4. The cost for four lessons is $20, and includes the lift ticket. For $25, ski and boot rental is included.

Deadline for sign-up is January 3. For more information, call Bob Boss at 547-5390 after six in the evening.

SCRAPBOOK

We have no date of this picture of Round Lake and the old trout pond by the Chamber building, but the style of the docks and Brow Marina make it at least 30 years old.

The Courier received quite a few calls about last week's picture showing four boys fishing. The general consensus seems to be that the names of the kids are, from left, David Holborn, Art Holmes, Tom Bergmann, and Phillip Olmer.
